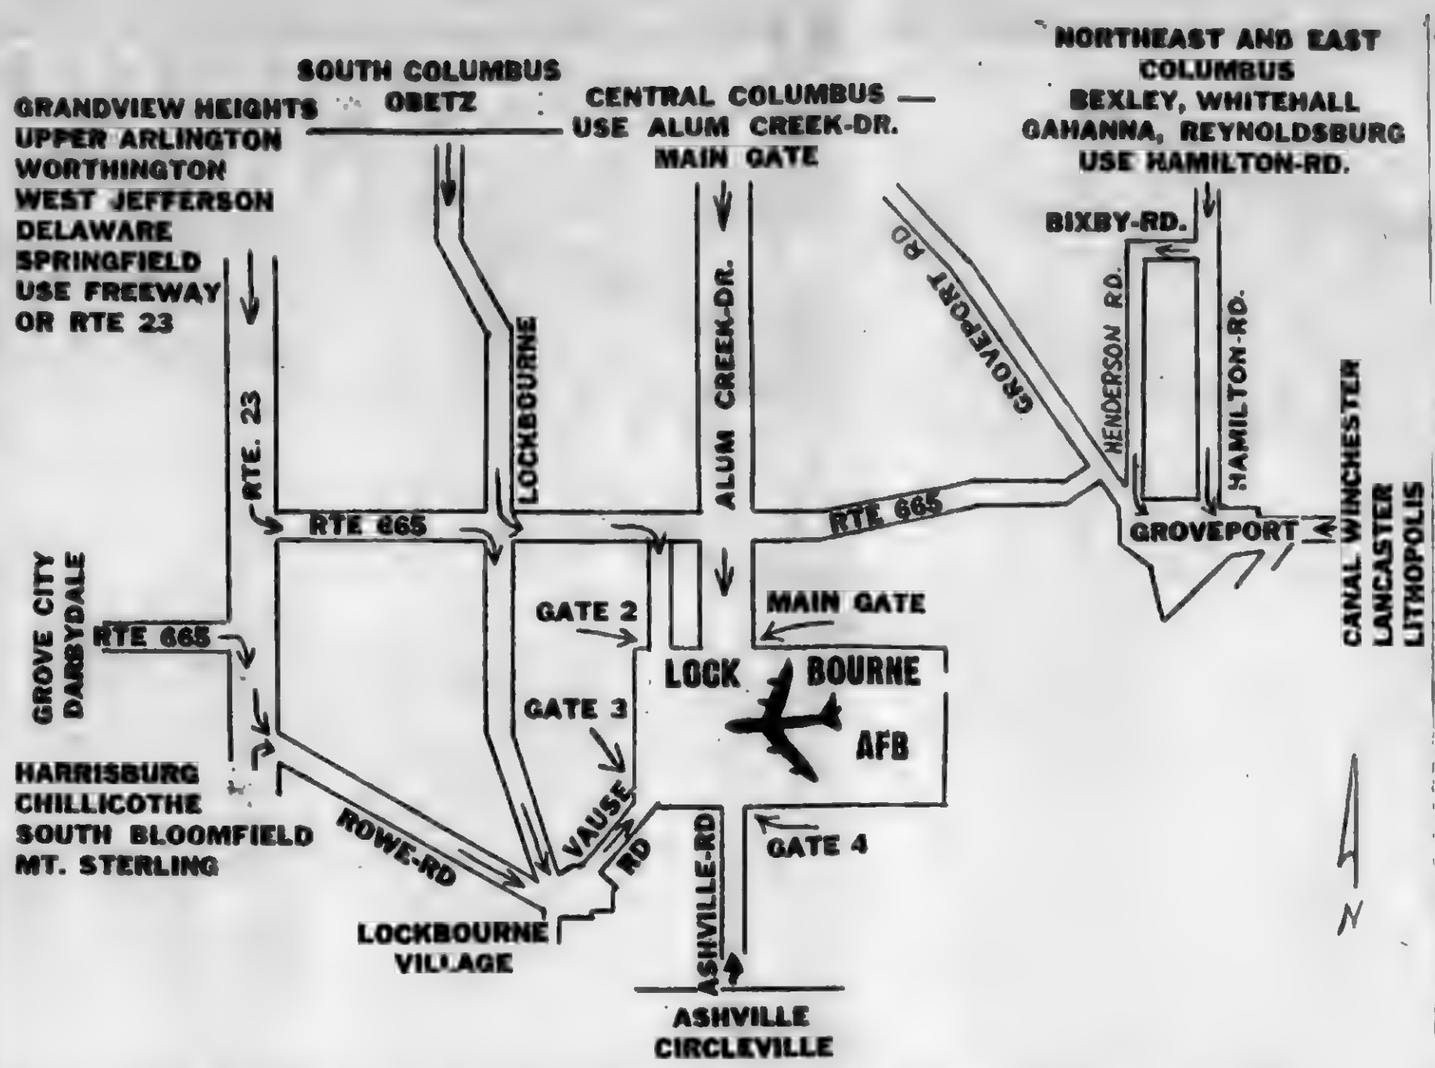
Ox Roast Planned In Groveport

Summer's end will simmer spicy as the eighth annual ox roast sponsored by the Groveport Lutheran Church will be boiled over between 4 and 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 19, just west of Groveport.

Pungent pickin's will be prepared for the price of $1.25.

Ladies of the church are readying savory side dishes such as baked beans, cole slaw and applesauce.



Free parking is available and the public is invited.

Grid Battle Set For Kids' Day

An added attraction to the annual Kids' Day program scheduled Sunday at Lockbourne AFB has been announced.

At 12:30 p.m. the Little League Blue Chips will meet the Columbus East Side Indians for a battle on the base parade grounds gridiron.

At half-time of the game the Hamilton High School Marchettes will be featured in the "March of the Siamese Children."

ALL ROADS LEAD TO LOCKBOURNE AIR FORCE BASE SUNDAY

LITERALLY THOUSANDS OF KIDS will hit the road this Sunday morning to see the Golden Knights float to earth in the thrilling free-fall parachutist demonstration which will be the banner attraction of the annual USAF-Kiwanis Kids Day. But the entire day will be packed with excitement, as they see the sentry dogs sit up and beg one moment and attack to kill the next, hear the stirring music of the Wright-Patterson AF band and watch the precision footwork of the SAC drill team. The world-famous aviatrix Jerrie Mock will land to greet the crowds and one lucky youngster will be base commander for a day, backed up by a staff of six of his contemporaries. There's entertainment for every age with pony rides and clowns for the youngest, weapon and aircraft and hot rod displays for the teenager, square dancing for the light-footed and a "Club 70" for those who can best enjoy the excitement from a comfortable rocking chair. The gates swing open at 11:30 a.m., and all the young-at-heart, regardless of age, are invited to the annual "Kids' Day" Sunday, Sept. 20.

Dedicate Lobby To Capital U. Secretary

Alfarata Saloma Iota Peters, secretary to two Capital University presidents for 29 years until her death in 1960, will be singularly honored at the university's "Dedication Festival" Oct. 3-5, when the Alfie Peters Lobby in Yochum Hall is dedicated.

Born in Shade Gap, Pa., Alfie Peters, as she was affectionately known to students and faculty, attended South High School and was a 1925 graduate of Central High School.

Miss Peters served as secretary to Otto Mees, president of Capital, from 1931 to 1946, and continued with Harold L. Yochum from 1946 until her death. She resided at 806 College-av.

During this busy 29 years she somehow found time to serve as secretary to the Home Mission Board, the Foreign Mission Board, the board of trustees of the Joint Synod of Ohio, the American Lutheran Church, chairman of the Florence Nightingale Cottage Wing 25, and a worker for the USO.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce awarded her the TV Award for Service.

At a memorial srevice for her in 1960 President Yochum stated, "God gave Alfie some wonderful gifts — a high regard for others — diligence in her duties — warm interest in everyone around her — and genuine enthusiasm for any worthy endeavor."

It was these attributes, displayed throughout her dedicated career, which prompted Capital alumni in 1962 to designate a gift of $20,000 for the Alfie Peters Lobby of Yochum Hall in Capital's new Administration building.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm stuck with George and I want your advice. He is a Peruvian long-haired guinea pig, and he's a mess. My sister gave him to me and I thought for once she was just being good to me. But she wasn't. He has to be combed every day I just found out. Could I get out of this job if I gave him a haircut? If I was careful, I mean.—C.D.

DEAR C.D. Even if you gave George a good haircut, it wouldn't be a good idea. It might be permissible to trim up some of the shaggy edges, but it's probably safer just to concentrate on catching up on the combing. When cooler weather arrives, George will need his shaggy exterior for protection from drafts and sudden temperature changes.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have a terrible time every summer because of a pollen allergy. I find that antihistamines help me quite a bit. Lately my dog, Lydia P., has started to wheeze and snuffle and has watery eyes. She chews on her front paws and digs at her neck. Do dogs ever get hay fever? Would it hurt if I gave her one of these antihistamines?—G.F.

DEAR G.F.—Lydia could be suffering from hay fever, too. A trial antihistamine would probably do no harm (unless Lydia is a small dog — then such a pill could easily be a dangerous overdose.) In any case, it would be unlikely that medication that helps you would be exactly the right kind, and dosage for L.P. — even if your ailments were identical. (Better leave this decision to an expert.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: How can you tell whether a litter of young kittens died from poisoning or from cat distemper when they both cause vomiting?—F.F.

DEAR F.F.: YOU can't. Diagnosis is a job for your veterinarian. Not all types of poisoning cause vomiting. Cat distemper may sometimes kill kittens so rapidly that they never vomit either.

If many cats and kittens in a neighborhood die of a mysterious "poisoning" that has never been diagnosed as such by a veterinarian, then cat distemper could be suspected. When kittens, and cats, are vaccinated against distemper, that problem is automatically eliminated. Otherwise, this disease is usually a far greater hazard than poisoning.

KEEPING THEM ALIVE

Occasionally a dog owner may want to transport his untrained dog without hazard to car upholstery. Without much thought, he may simply jam the dog into the car trunk and take off.

One major objection to this system is that the panic-stricken dog may rip up wires and trunk lining in an attempt to escape. From the dog's standpoint, aside from fright, there are other considerations. This small space can quickly become overheated.

If the trunk is well-sealed, the poor dog may suffocate. If there are cracks that allow air, these same openings may allow carbon monoxide from the exhaust. Air containing only three parts of carbon monoxide per thousand can kill, and quickly. The car trunk is made to carry baggage, and those who consider a dog baggage shouldn't own one.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Does my snake, Mr. Slithers, need a rabies shot? I hope not. I don't see any good spot for a shot.—R.S.

DEAR R.S.: Fortunately this dilemma doesn't have to be resolved. Rabies is confined to warm-blooded animals and Mr. Slithers doesn't qualify. (No injection is needed.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: Frosty, my canary, is four years old. A happy, vigorous bird and full of life. He will burst out any time of the day with his beautiful songs, and he is a real delight to hear. The trouble is that I have a grumpy neighbor living in the next door apartment and he complains about the "noise."

Frosty does have a wonderfully powerful voice, but imagine anyone dense enough to call it "noise." He should be grateful to get such beautiful music free! What can I do about this problem, please?—W.W.

DEAR W.W.: It is amazing how powerful a canary's voice is for its size. (A human with comparative ability could sing from the top of the Empire State Building and be clearly heard in the street below.)

Perhaps the easiest way out of this dilemma would be to move your bird to the other side of the apartment. Hopefully, the neighbor behind that wall will be more appreciative of Frosty's efforts.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Help a Child To Love You

While the giant, international game of political chess is played across the conference tables of the world, hundreds of thousands of sick and hungry children sit and wait.

They are just like your children or grandchildren or your little friend next door. They would welcome a glass of milk and a cookie when they come home from school—if they had the opportunity of going to school. This simple fare would be their biggest meal in a week.

Several people of our acquaintance have learned how to do something about this. They have become Foster Parents.

The whole thing works very simply and for only $15 a month you can "add" a member to your family. It might be a child in Korea, Philippines, Greece or Italy who is your "far away family."

Their letters to you become keepsakes of love and tell the story of life in another kind of world from the one we know.

One foster parent we know was just as excited to receive the first letter written in English from her Filipino child as she was when her own child, now grown, brought his first paper home from school.

Certainly we have learned by now that our future is wrapped up with the future of every other person in our world. These children who are starving, living on the streets, going unschooled, need your love.

Through your adoption the child is given clothing, household equipment, medical care and welfare service and is enabled to go to school. Also, each child receives a cash grant of $8 per month.

We have seen this plan in operation and know the joy it brings to the child and his "parent." You can learn more by writing to: Foster Parents Plan, 352 Park Av. South, New York.

Won't you let some child love you?

Ban Parking At Cassingham-Fair Corner

A request by E. D. Jarvis, superintendent of Bexley Schools, for action on the potentially dangerous intersection of Cassingham-av and Fair-av, received prompt attention from the city council Tuesday night.

Council, asked to ban parking at the school crossing to improve visibility of motorists, instructed Mayor William Schneider, in his capacity as safety director, to install temporary no-parking signs.

The crossing, along with two other intersections, will be studied by the safety committee, and legislation introduced to make the ban permanent.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Taylor, of 2573 Fair-av, added their observations on traffic at the Cassingham and Fair corner. Mrs. Campbell said most mothers in the area take turns of duty at the corner to help children cross safely.

The safety committee will also consider recommendations concerning two other intersections termed potentially dangerous to children, the school bus stops at Dale and Cassingham and at Elm and Cassingham.

Council also heard a request for the construction of a coin-operated car wash on Livingston-av at Mayfair, next to the coin-operated shirt laundry.

The proposal, first of its kind in Bexley, was referred to the service committee for study.

Two other requests, to build an office building and for rezoning to permit the construction of four-family apartments, made at the last council session, were repeated Tuesday night.

Since only four of the seven council members were present, the developers were advised to return at the next council session, Oct. 13.

The office building proposal is for a two-story, five-office structure on E. Livingston-av, east of College-av, between the Woodyard property on the east and the service station on the west.

Points questioned by council were the amount of setback required for the building, and the number of off-street parking spaces, since parking is prohibited on Livingston-av.

The request for construction of two four-family apartments, or one six-family building on two lots on Ferndale, was also repeated by developer Jack Weiner.

Councilman Doyt Bell indicated that he had inspected the area, zoned for two-family units, and was not inclined to agree to the change. Councilman Schoedinger concurred with Bell.

Weiner explained that since the lots were over the old city landfill, the buildings must have basements, and that laying the foundation over the fill would be much more costly. This expensive factor, he explained, made it necessary for the buildings to be more than two-family in order to pay the cost.

Minimum square-foot requirements for four and six-family units, included in the city building code, were pointed out as being in excess of the lot sizes.

Weiner was also advised to return when all members were present.

Bexley 'Swap' Student Home From Ecuador

By BETTY DAFT

Carl Japikse scouting news reporter for Reynoldsburg and Eastern Spectators, is back in school in the senior class of Bexley High, much wiser in the ways of our South American neighbors after studying in Ecuador for the past year.

Carl, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Japikse, 2363 Bexley Park-rd, traded homes, friends and classrooms with Galo Vasquez of Quito, Ecuador, in a dramatic, direct student exchange program sponsored by First Community Church.

The two boys literally stepped into each other's lives, taking each other's place during their junior high school year.

Galo attended Bexley High, studying the usual junior year curriculum, while living in Carl's home and joining his circle of friends in the American pattern of high school social life.

And in Ecuador, Carl's life was fitted into the form Galo would have followed. There were three other boys in the Vasquez home, one 15 and two older ones in college, and Galo's father was a university professor of architecture.

Carl found the life there different in many ways, the same in others — but always fascinating and interesting.

And along with serapes and memories of happy life, quieter and more leisurely than the one at home, he brought back a masterful knowledge of the language, and an insight into the Ecuadorian people.

"American music and the twist were very popular," Carl explained, "as well as the sad Ecuadorian music and dance. Dating customs are much stricter, and young people go to parties and dances alone,

'Congress' Topic Of Public Meet

Former Congressman John M. Vorys will be the featured speaker at a "Know Your Congress" meeting at Brookwood Presbyterian Church, 2685 E. Livingston-av, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 30.

Sponsored by the League of Women Voters, the meeting is open to the public and ample parking is available.

Since voters will be choosing two members of the House of Representatives and a member of the Senate, the program will include a panel of league experts who will explain the organization and operation of the legislative branch of the federal government.

Vorys, who served in Congress from 1939 to 1959, will then trace the history of how a bill becomes a law from the time of its introduction, its progress through committees, to authorization, and finally appropriations.

He is expected to discuss pressures to which our representatives are subjected by both proponents and opponents of foreign policy measures.

League panelists are Mrs. Robert J. Duffy, Mrs. Chester Jones and Mrs. Wayman C. Lawrence.

FIRST LADY (BIRD) OF THE LAND DAZZLES CITY WITH TEXAS CHARM

MRS. LYNDON B. JOHNSON arrived in Columbus Friday for a brief few hours' visit, and neither gloomy skies nor cold rain could stifle her vivacious enthusiasm or the spirits of thousands who flocked to City Hall, the Deshler-Cole and the airport for a glimpse of the first lady of the land. At City Hall, when the cold drizzle turned to a colder downpour, officials hastily moved potted plants and palms, and the band from the west entrance to City Council Chambers for the official city reception. Later, at the Deshler-Cole, crowds thronged the hotel, lobby and entrances, sometimes blocking elevators and making it necessary for dignitaries to use the steps to reach the ballroom, scene of the luncheon. Here 1400 ticket holders, 300 more than seating capacity, heard Lady Bird, radiant in kelly green silk shantung with a youthful hat of kelly and brilliant blue perched far back on her dark hair, campaign in behalf of her husband. A map of Columbus' travels, an appropriate gift for the mayor of the largest city in the world named for the explorer, accompanied Mrs. Johnson's birthday greeting to Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner at the City Hall reception, upper left. The Johnson Girls, posing with Robert Van Heyde, candidate for Congress, lower left, were a colorful addition to the luncheon atmosphere. "L. B. Johnson is the man for me," crooned Carol Jean Driapsa, 3095 Parsons-av, at right, during the luncheon program. A junior at St. Mary's High School, Carol composed the music and the lyrics. And no school Friday, because of the city-wide teachers' meeting made it possible for children to join the crowds at the airport and along the motor route. One youngster, in this group waiting at E. Broad-st and James-rd, displays a Johnson-For-President sign.

CHAMPIONS BENCHED: NO FUN(DS)

"Children are getting soft from too much television and padded couches and chairs," according to a member of the Holy Spirit Athletic Association.

The same Holy Spirit football team that won the championship last year may be benched all season unless the association can make a "touchdown" or two at its spaghetti dinner.

"We are really deep down in the hole," said a spokesman.

The association hopes to score Sunday, Oct. 11, with a homemade spaghetti dinner, to be served from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the church, 4383 E. Broad-st at Yearling-rd.

A HAPPY PERSON

New Citizen Nominated In Homemaker Contest

The Spectator's search for that very special someone who will be selected as the local Suburban Homemaker for the Year in six weeks is now underway.

The public response to honor the community's most outstanding homemaker has been gratifying. Nine entries already have been submitted.

We would like to introduce you to one of the early candidates in our Homemaker search. She's Mrs. William Roecker, 3417 Michael-el. Mrs. Roecker was nominated by a neighbor, Mrs. Robert Roese, 3431 Michael-el.

Here are the contents of Mrs. Roese's letter of nomination:

"My nominee, Joan (Mrs. Roecker), is in my opinion, the perfect Suburban Homemaker. In the eight years I have known her, I've always felt she deserved an award.

"She creates good will and friendly relationships everywhere she goes. Her husband discovered this 'jewel' in far-away England. Just last week she became a citizen of the United States.

"She teaches her two children to respect adults and to be fair. She enjoys her children. She is a friend of every child she meets. Cookies, kind words, swimming lessons and band-aids to all the children are routine with her.

"Hot cross buns . . . homemade bread (I could go on and on) are a few things she does for neighbors.

"Sunday school help, community drives, PTA, baby sitting are done with cheerfulness. Joan expects nothing in return. Her return is the joy of doing for others.

"Her appearance is excellent. Her home is always neat and clean. Her cooking is just marvelous and she sews like a "whiz!"

"A good manager, she keeps herself physically fit and trim. She is a happy person. My opinions of Joan, I'm sure, are shared by many.

"In November, she will have the proud privilege of voting for the first time. But I have the privilege of casting a vote now for a real winner."

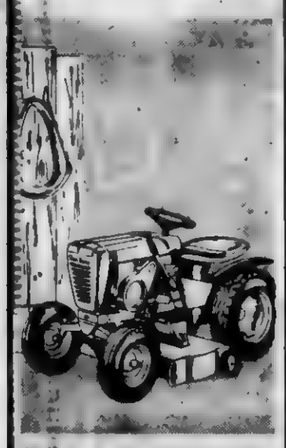
Is there a Joan Roecker in your home, your neighborhood, your church group or PTA? Today, inside this paper, you'll find an entry blank and a list of judging standards.

Fill out the blank and send us a letter (not more than 500 words please) describing the qualities that make your special acquaintance an outstanding homemaker, both to family and community.

When we locate this community's outstanding homemaker, we'll send her to Chicago to a national conference where she will compete with other top homemakers from all over the country for the title of "Suburban Homemaker of the Year."

The national winner will receive $5000. Her nominator will receive $500.

Your nomination should be sent to: Suburban Homemaker Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad Street, Columbus 4. Please don't let our Oct. 24 deadline come and go without your nomination!



You didn't have to be an analyst to catch the thrill in the voice of Mrs. Roecker when she was informed that Mrs. Roese had nominated her.

Is there someone you know who deserves this special kind of "thank you?" We'd like to know about her!

Avoid fertilizing your roses now. When fertilizers are applied this late in the season, the fresh, new growth will not harden-up before winter sets in and the plants may winterkill.

FARM FORECAST

As we near our traditional Thanksgiving holiday it's interesting to note that the 1964 turkey crop is expected to be about five percent larger than the 93.4 million birds raised last year. Demand is expected to be significantly stronger this year.

The 1964 calf crop is expected to total 42.6 million head or two percent over 1963, according to the Crop Reporting Board. This continues the increase shown each year since 1958.

Corn is now second only to soybeans in dollars earned for the export market, as the USA continues to be the foremost supplier of corn to the international market. The American livestock producer readily consumes 80 percent of the corn production in our great cattle and hog production.

Five young Ohioans have received nominations as International Farm Youth Exchange delegates for 1965. Final approval of their selection will come from the National 4-H Club Foundation, Washington, D.C., later this year. Nominated were: William K. Brandt, Anna; Geoffrey Lee Hockman of Canal Winchester; Eileen C. Karg, Nevada; Arnold Kissell of Newark, and Sharon Ann Sharrett of Kingston. Congratulations to these fine young people!

Remember, Sept. 30 through Oct. 2 are the three big days of the Farm Science Review at Don Scott Field.

Sept. 24, 25, 26 are the big days for the annual Farm-O-Rama at New Knoxville, O., featuring a new tri-state tractor pulling contest to open the first day at 9 a.m. with the running of four different weight classes, and a free-for all at 7:30 p.m.

LAZARUS GOES CONTINENTAL WITH EUROPEAN MERCHANDISE

A CHARM HOUSE OF EUROPEAN ROOMS is a major feature of the downtown Lazarus store's annual "Import Fair." Lazarus buyers traveled throughout Europe last spring looking for apparel and home furnishings of the type not found in this country. The results of their findings is exemplified in the above photos. At left is a French country sitting room, complete with built-in fireplace, authentic furniture and decorative accents. At right is an English sitting room featuring a built-in staircase and fabric covered walls that match the upholstered furniture. The built-in fireplace and beamed ceiling add to the decor. Not shown are a Venetian dining room, French country dining room, Spanish family quarters and a boudoir in the period of Louis XVI. Other features are a European art show that may be seen through Saturday. An exhibit of antique music boxes, many a century old, will be on display through Oct. 3. Sculptured beeswax candles from Australia may be seen through Saturday. Imported delicacies, a curiosity shop with European and Scandinavian merchandise and madeira shop of linens round out the "Import Fair" items.

Mom—How Come You Don't Look Like Her?

By ADELINE DALEY

It was inevitable that sooner or later my kids would compare me with the smiling mothers they see on television commercials. And only natural that I would end up a poor second.

How can I compete with a TV mother who invites moppets from the neighborhood to come in and scuff her newly-waxed kitchen floor? And others who get their laugh for the day when members of the family arrive home with their clothes looking as if they'd spent the past eight hours drilling for oil?

But I am mending my ways, so that I may become the perfect TV wife and mother, so help me Donna Reed. In future I will:

(1) Continually rave about the merits of Added Bleach Power, Low Suds Level and Dazzling White Washday Miracles.

(2) Snuggle up to my laundry when I'm folding it away as if a newly-washed towel were Cary Grant.

(3) Hire only repairmen with Brooklyn accents who come equipped with packages of detergent instead of tools.

(4) Call in home-spun Senior Citizen-types from the street to ask their advice on how to remove stains from my sink which ordinary cleaners can't seem to take off.

(5) Wave my hands in the air like Leopold Stokowski, and tell the world that I use a dishwashing detergent which can dissolve cement but still leaves my hands beautiful.

(6) Wear three-inch heels while doing housework.

I will not, however, subscribe to the TV commercial in which my husband informs me that a former classmate of mine "looks ten years younger." All because she uses the "right" facial soap.

I will clout him over the head and advise him that it is NOT the soap, but rather that she has full-time help, visits Elizabeth Arden's "Maine Chance Farm" twice a year, and lied about her age to begin with.

The Fabric Doctor

"What About Plastic That Melted Into My Dress?"

—Mrs. T. M. D.

Dear Mrs. T. M. D.:

In the hot weather season this can be a common complaint. However, it has been known to occur in cold weather if garments in plastic bags are stored in too hot a place. We have known of garments stored in plastic bags in closed automobiles which were left in a sunny place. The plastic melted in the high temperature and fused into the garments. The same situation seems to have occurred in your case.

It is quite probable if your garment is drycleanable that your drycleaner can remove the hard patches of plastic bag material that melted into your dress. At one time it was thought that it was impossible to remove this stain. However, research has revealed that immersing the stained areas in hot perchlorethelyne has been successful in removing melted plastic film from garments including expensive silks.

We suggest that you contact your professional drycleaner who is familiar with the method and all fabrics and fibers. He probably can restore your dress to its former spotless appearance.

Two Eastmoor Students Achieve High Test Rank

Principal Gordon K. Harris of Eastmoor Senior High School announced this week that two of the school's students have been named semi-finalists in the 1964-65 Merit Scholarship competition.

He said they became semi-finalists through outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The test of educational development was given in more than 17,000 high schools last March.

The students cited for their high achievement are Neal E. Milnor and Ira B. Sully.

The semifinalist group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in United States territories. Each semifinalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice.

Semifinalists must substantiate their qualifying test performance on a second examination, be endorsed by their schools, and fulfill certain routine requirements to become finalists.

All Merit Scholars are selected from the finalist group.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

By Terrence O'Flaherty

Recently I had cocktails and dinner with a rich redhead who works harder for her money than any other woman I know, including Lady Bird Johnson.

Her name is Lucille Ball.

We ate at her place, which turned out to be the east penthouse of the Hilton Hotel, a spectacular, two-floor apartment which is suspended over New York City like a bright jewel in the sky.

Although Miss Ball is a lavishly assembled person I'm afraid she was upstaged by the penthouse which has 11 rooms and as far as I am able to determine is the only hotel suite in town that has a guest bedroom and bath.

It is difficult to compete with an architect, an interior decorator, a ten-foot sofa upholstered in "Mandarin orange," a collection of new masters, wall-to-wall rugs, an Adams writing table with Wedgwood medallions, a circular staircase, a Louis XVI sideboard, a three-pedestal Georgian table, four cockfight chairs, a painted Italian cabinet (which contained a color television set) and an English drum table, circa 1776, which was a very bad year for the British.

Inasmuch as Miss Ball has Wedgwood blue eyes and Mandarin orange hair, she tended to blend into the scenery with alarming frequency, so that I had a difficult time focusing my eyes on the lady. Sometimes she was there, sometimes she wasn't. But that's the way it is with her.

You can sit down and talk with Miss Ball and she seems to be giving you her full attention when actually she has left the room long ago.

She gave this party for several hundred of her friends from the press, some of whom turned out to be people I've been avoiding for years. I was talking to the hostess and was ready to ask about several large scratches on her arm when suddenly she wasn't there and a press agent was asking me if I'd like to see Gary's suite. He's Miss Ball's husband.

The bedroom had tobacco brown walls with a ceiling that was described as "light melon" and carpeting of "cornflower blue." The bed was an 18th Century, four-poster that Henry VIII would have appreciated if he hadn't died long before then. A tall Georgian linen press contained a television set. There was a room for everything but his golf clubs. They leaned against an antique chest.

Miss Ball's bedroom had Chinese wall paper in blue, white and apricot. The furniture was described as French, and I was afraid to open any antiques lest a television set fall out.

Back in the drawing room, Miss Ball was receiving some advice from Hedda Hopper, the famous political columnist. The horizon was turning an orange color—Mandarin, I think—and Central Park was a deep green — Mitzi, of course. The sky was a Ben blue and the buildings were Pearl white and Skelton red.

Suddenly Miss Ball was back again. Miss Hopper had disappeared into the hors d'oeuvres. "I got the scratches from wrestling a live bear last week in Hollywood," she said brightly, and anyone who watches the Lucy show knows she was telling the truth.

I recalled that the last time I had talked to her was backstage at the Paramount Theater in San Francisco 14 years ago when she was appearing in a stage show with Desi Arnaz.

At that time she had some scratches from being carried in an elephant's mouth during a scene for Cecil B. DeMille's "The Greatest Show on Earth." That was the day she said: "I know you'll think I'm craze, but I'd like to do a weekly television show. I think it could be filmed before a live audience."

It turned out to be the least crazy statement in the history of television. Sitting there among the Mandarins and the Georgians on the 46th floor, it all seemed to have happened so long, long ago . . .

While attending Indiana University in 1952 she was granted the Minna Kaufman Rudd Foundation award, and also won the famed Marian Anderson Awards for two successive years.

In 1958, she was a winner of the New England Metropolitan Opera Regional Auditions and the John S. Newberry Award. In 1963, she was presented in recital in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria, after winning the award of the Harlem Philharmonic Society of New York.

and return home separately."

Also much the same and yet quite different was the Vasquez home, "furnished in our style," Carl continued, "but designed like a modern adobe house. And they cooked over wood and had very few appliances because these are all imported and quite expensive."

Speaking of the social life of Ecuadorian young people, Carl said, "There was soccer, basketball and volleyball, but no baseball, hamburgers or hot dogs, which I missed. And there were American movies with titles in Spanish."

And of the holidays, "Christmas was celebrated much the same, with creches and, instead of evergreens, tree branches whitewashed and decorated. There were no Halloween or Thanksgiving holidays, but Carnival, the three days before Lent, was very gay."

Similar experiences, of a country much the same and yet quite different, are among Galo's memories of his stay in Columbus. His corresponding mastery of the English language, fast friendships made here, and a new understanding of America and its ways, double the effectiveness of the direct exchange plan.

Carl returned home the first of July, and then left for Washington D.C., where he visited an aunt for more than a month while his parents were in Europe.

East Columbus Recreation Center, 734 Rarig-av, started its fall season Sept. 14.

The center is now open from 4 to 6 p.m. daily for elementary school children, and older children may attend from 7 to 10 every evening. The recreation center is open from 9 to noon Saturdays for all age groups.

East Columbus offers programs designed to meet a variety of interests, including arts and crafts, dramatics, dance, movies, clubs, storytime, puppets, sewing and a newspaper.

Sports activities include football, baseball, softball, weightlifting, group games, table games, basketball, track and physical fitness. There are also many special events and tournaments held during the year.

Anyone wishing further information may telephone the center, 231-6428.

Weightlifting and physical fitness classes will be conducted by Chick Huntsberry. Classes will begin Monday, Sept. 21, 7 p.m.

East Columbus Indians have played three games in the Capital City Boys League. In the first game, the Indians battled Grove City to a 0 to 0 tie. With two minutes remaining, Grove City was on the two-yard line of East Columbus, but the Indians dug in and prevented them from scoring.

The second game with Reynoldsburg was another tight one, with a pass from Mike Priestas to fullback Brian King being the margin of victory, 6 to 0.

The East Mound Rams put the Indians in the losing column with a 28 to 6 win. The Indians' only score came on a triple reverse play from quarterback Mike Priestas to right halfback Butch Price, to left halfback Bill Pitt, and back to Priestas who carried the ball 55 yards around left end for the touchdown.

Last Sunday, the Indians played Lockbourne and next Sunday they battle Linden. All home games are played at Krumm Park. There will also be a refreshment stand to serve the spectators.

Dusty Recalls C. Weygandt

By DUSTY MILLER

For 30 years Judge Carl Weygandt and I played the "banquest" circuit together. At my insistence, usually, he told the most popular story of the tangled spelling and pronunciation of his name.

When he was a freshman in Ohio Wesleyan University, one of his teachers was an i-dotting, t-crossing exactist. Calling the roll for the first time, he stumbled over "Carl Weygandt," extending the syllables.

"'We pronounce the name 'Wiant,' professor," Carl explained.

The elongated pronunciation and the correction occurring for the third time, the professor laid aside the register and recited:

A retired sea captain was put in charge of a lighthouse. One of his duties was to record passing craft. One morning, in a dense fog, he crouched at the end of the pier, logging the names of boats he could see. A sleek yacht nosed up and crept by. Laboriously, he copied the letters "P-S-Y-C-H-E," and muttered: "That's a h— of a way to spell 'Fish.'"

When I "put out to sea," I plan to call long-distance (quite long, I fear) to tell Judge Weygandt that "Psyche" has docked. It will be heaven to hear his laugh.

BANK AND TRUST COMPANY OF COLUMBUS

Safeguard Blood Bank

It is generally agreed that nine-tenths of the six million pints of blood collected a year in the U. S. is given freely by voluntary donors to non-profit community or hospital blood banks and collection centers. There is a clearinghouse system by which blood collected locally can be credited to a patient in a distant hospital.

The system is estimated to save Americans some $80,000,000 a year in medical costs and, more important, to save between 250,000 to 500,000 lives a year. These figures were reported at the recent meeting of the American Association of Blood Banks in Washington, D.C.

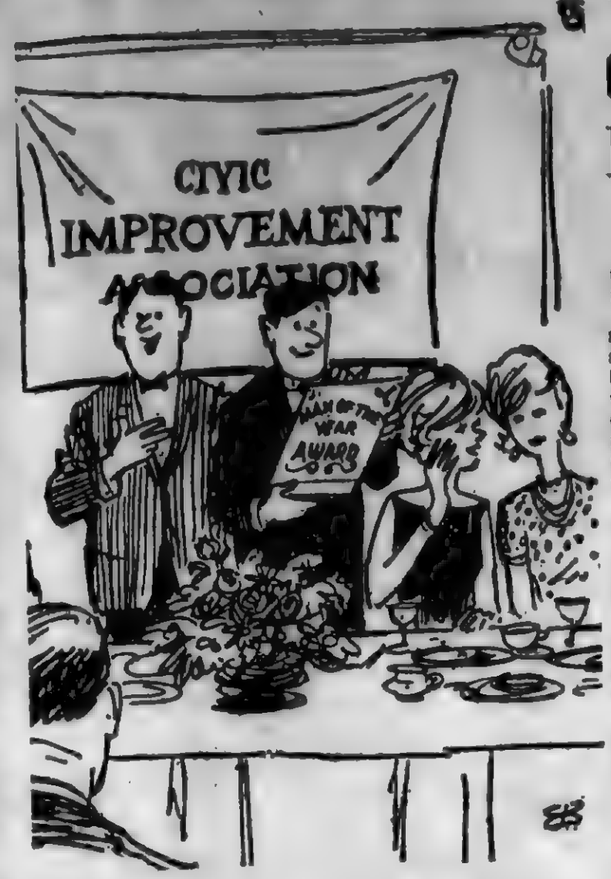
Strangely enough, this non-profit, voluntary, humanitarian operation is now threatened by the decision of a Federal Trade Commission examiner in Kansas City, Mo. Acting on the complaint of two commercial blood banks there, he has ruled that the local non-profit community blood banks, organized by doctors and hospitals, is in "restraint of trade" in encouraging the use of its service and discouraging the sale of blood.

The full Federal Trade Commission has not, as yet, approved the ruling, and perhaps never will. But, to protect our vitally-needed non-profit community blood banks across the nation, Senator Edward V. Long of Missouri has introduced a bill to grant them exemptions from the Federal anti-trust laws — such as is presently enjoyed by labor unions.

And since American blood is distinctly non-partisan when it is being shed for our country, we think it should be regarded in the same light when it is being given and conserved to save the lives of any and all who may need it. Thus, we applaud the support given the bill by Republican leaders such as Senators Dirksen and Tower who have joined hands with Senator Long's fellow Democrats.

We hope that this humanitarian bill, advocated by the American Medical Association and the American Hospital Association as well as the American Association of Blood Banks, will not be overlooked in the press of last-minute legislation and the scramble for adjournment.

Sportsmen Promote Conservation Well



The League of Ohio Sportsmen has published a brochure that asks "What are you prepared to do for the kids of Ohio?" It is a concise and worthy appeal for more widespread support of the league's efforts to conserve our natural resources.

"Remember," the league admonishes, "our resources —our soils and minerals, our forests, waters and wildlife—weren't made great by America. America was made great by them."

The group's program to restore and maintain natural resources is directed to the young, for it is today's youth who stand to benefit most from sound conservation practices. Besides promoting legislation requiring the teaching of conservation in the schools, the league sponsors scholarships and fellowships for both teacher and student, stocks libraries with reference material, and organizes junior conservation groups.

There is always room for more active participation in League of Ohio Sportsmen activities by both students and adults. And they're easy to reach — headquarters are in the Neil House.

An Editor's Outlook . . .

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Changing A World Is 'Me First' Idea

By JENKIN LLOYD JONES

Jones

A few weeks ago I found myself in the middle of 500 squareniks at Mackinac Island, Mich., drawn together in a youth conference for Moral Rearmament.

In any assembly of avowed do-gooders I always feel more nervous than a pickpocket trying to escape through a prayer meeting. Besides, there are usually some members in any professional uplift crowd who have unlovely souls. The steely eye of intolerance, the set jaw of self-righteousness, and the tight lips of unbending virtue do not produce the most attractive human face.

So when I arrived at the island to deliver my little speech I was prepared to bow out gracefully and early. But I stayed an extra day. Those kids intrigued me.

The crowd, of course, was cosmopolitan and pan-religious. There were Norwegians, Dutch and Congolese; Israelis, Pakistanis and Mexicans; Shintoists, Buddhists, Hindus, Moslems, Jews and Christians.

They are all bent, naturally, on re-making the world. But this was the best: they weren't self-righteous and they weren't sorry for themselves. They didn't bend your ear about the great sacrifices they were prepared to make on behalf of sinful man. They acted as though they expected to have a lot of fun getting things squared away.

Well, they were certainly having fun on Mackinac. A Navajo had just won the nine-mile foot race around the island. In the evening from a showboat anchored off the steamship pier they put on a rousing, professional-quality hootenanny, featuring jivy moral lyrics, most of them written by themselves. When the guitars and banjos swung into "What color is God's skin?" the whole audience nearly rocked into the bay.

Now, one of the failings of the adolescent mind is oversimplification, and these kids were not immune. They were sure, for example, that war was purely a product of human cussedness.

This isn't true. Since the dawn of time a lot of pretty good people have been killing each other. If war has now been rendered impractical because of atomic weapons we're going to have to try to find some other means of adjusting the map of the world and the real estate occupied by its various peoples in order to meet changing conditions. We're a long way from a workable substitute for war.

But if the MRA youngsters err in underestimating the complexities of human conflict they have absorbed deep wisdom in another direction.

They have been indoctrinated in the late Dr. Frank Buchman's sound theory that you'll have slow going trying to reform other people until you have made a diligent effort to reform yourself.

It's not exactly an original thought. It was Jesus who said, "Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye."

But under the tenet of "absolute honesty" these young people have made an effort to put their own lives in order before going forth to straighten the path of the devious and enlighten the infidel.

The brown and black-skinned youths from newborn nations that have well-nigh hanged themselves already understand the urgency for some sort of moral re-birth. For what a lot of countries need more than bulldozers and concrete privies is some ethics in their power structure. With the present level of graft and grab these infant states may slip right back into tribal chaos.

And my friend, Stu Lancaster of the MRA staff, says that many of the American kids come from broken or unhappy homes. They have seen the sad fruits of unworkable philosophies, the unhappiness born of selfishness, jealousy, cruelty and misbehavior. That's why they are gung ho for a new formula for living.

The permanent Moral Rearmament staff is notorious for able salesmanship and you have to realize that they'll sic the varsity on visitors. They put me at a table with a Rhodes scholar, an Olympic athlete, and a gorgeous co-ed from the College of Puget Sound who gave up a fat professional contract to come and whang the guitar in the moral combo. These young people apparently meant what they said about changing themselves first and mankind immediately thereafter.

But fervor can burn out and there will be backsliders. Perhaps I shook hands with a future Castro or a Nkrumah or a Sukarno. Someone has acidly remarked that the only trouble with children is that they grow up to be people.

Yet, for two days I lived with youths who needed no destructive kicks, who were in love with life, and who were determined to set an example for a better, happier world.

It was an inspiring experience, and my mood of optimism stayed with me about as far as the airport.

Frosting On The Cake

by

—with poor taste — U.S.A.

Of course, dogs can THINK. So can highly bred and properly trained horses and other animals that are natively endowed with superior intelligence, same as exceptional human beings.

I had my first .22 rifle when I was ten and was taught how to use it. I got me a half-breed mutt that was sharp as double greased lightning. His father was a marvelous Collie and his mother was a large Beagle bitch, famous as a rabbit hunter all over the area. I named him Doodle and got him right after he was weaned.

Then when I was 12, I got a single barrelled 20 gauge shotgun and a ferret. Doodle was then two and a wonder on either rabbits or coon. One late November we were out after a not-too-heavy snow and tracks were clear as could be. Doodle picked up the scent at once and headed directly toward a brush pile in a big lot of new ground that was being cleared.

All of a sudden we raised a big rabbit under a tuft of weed. That rabbit took off like a shot and headed directly for that brush pile. Doodle almost caught him as the rabbit dove under cover. Doodle then barked and fussed for about five minutes.

Finally he backed away about a rod or so and raced for that brush pile like a streak. Just before he got to it, he sailed up like a bird and landed ker-plunk right on top. Instantly, out popped Mr. Rabbit on the far side and Doodle after him just one jump behind.

In about five minutes, back came Doodle and waited for Mr. Rabbit to circle and show again at the brush pile. That dog was crouched right in front of the hole where the rabbit had found safety the first time.

Sure enough, here comes Mr. Rabbit again and Doodle never moved a hair. By that time I was ready to take a shot and when I told Doodle to "go get him" he made one leap and I got the rabbit on one shot when he was about four feet in the air. Instantly my dog brought him to me and was the essence of pride and joy.

So, don't tell me that smart dogs and other animals can't think. Elephants and seals, ditto.

If a whole lot of humans I know had as much good "furniture in their attic" as so many fine dogs and horses, we would have a saner society.

American Legion Good Veterans' Voice

American Legion Posts throughout the area are in the midst of a membership drive — a more important undertaking than many veterans may realize. The Legion is without doubt the strongest unified voice to Congress on legislative matters important to all former servicemen.

It is a sad but true fact that the public's memory of the heroic deeds of our military defenders is all too short-lived. The longer the time between open conflict, the less apparent is the public gratitude. At present, our veterans are, for the most part, getting fair treatment for the great services they have rendered to their country.

No other nation on earth has anything to compare with "GI Bill of Rights." This legislation is a monument to the effectiveness of the Legion, which drafted it, proposed it and fought it through Congress. The American Legion stands ready to maintain and protect those rights and privileges which a grateful nation owes its servicemen.

But the effectiveness of the Legion can be no greater than the sum of its membership. Those who were mainly responsible for the "GI Bill of Rights" were the ones who stood to gain the least, personally — the veterans of World War I. Some of them are justifiably disappointed. They wonder why more World War II veterans are not in Legion posts to help protect that which has been gained for them.

It's a good question for the non-member veteran to ponder.

Facing Stacked Deck

TO THE EDITOR:

In last week's issue of the Spectator was a most timely article by the editor dealing with slanted news and dirty politics.

Goldwater is playing against a stacked deck . . . the nationally syndicated newspapers and the radio and TV chains, owned by Eastern capital and by Johnson interests which are being used to flood the nation with slanted and one sided news. . .

Even though I can not claim fame for extreme qualifications . . . I can proudly and loudly state that (I have) extreme belief and faith in God, extreme loyalty to the United States of America, extreme love of family and extreme support of the American Conservative, Constitutional Libertarian principals the great American Barry Goldwater so ably advocates and will return again to our great land.

'Frontlash' Will Help

"THE GRIST"

(Ground Out by Dusty Miller)

A NOV-EL—In Defiance one evening I sat by Harold Schlosser at his annual dinner of his famous world-market industry, for my manyth time, "Mr. Defiance," said to me: "Dusty, I am on the school board. We have 100 applications for superintendent, but don't want any of them; we are looking . . .

"Well, stop looking," I interrupted. "Hurry down to Gambier and get Novice Fawcett before somebody else does!"

He did.

You know the Bexley, Columbus and Ohio State chapter of the story.

Now you know why my keepsake-top-drawer has so many letters that begin with "Dear Dusty," and end with "Affectionately, Nov."

QUOTES — "Richard Burton is in this year's kindergarten class. His nearest seatmate is a girl named 'Liz'."—Wilmington News-Journal . . The teacher will try to keep them out of mischief.

"Our most sincere wishes for a rapid recovery from all of us."—service club bulletin . . . Kind words are uttered thus, sincerely from the heart; "Recovery from all of us" is really the hardest part.

"Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."—JFK. . . . "Ask not what your country can do for you; up to election time it will do it without your asking."—LBJ.

UNDERPRIVILEGED—Paul Van Natta, downtown public relations man, speaking before a churchmen's breakfast club, said: "My father grew up on a farm in the West. He liked to tell that, when he was a boy, he got up early every morning, walked two miles to the country school, and back in the evening." The trouble was that Van, Sr., didn't know he was underprivileged in not having a doting mama to drive him two blocks to and from school, in a block-long sedan to make sure Precious didn't get his itsy-bitsy footsies wet.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

SELF-GOVERNMENT

"The only absolute safeguards of a constitutional system . . . lie in the character, the independence, the resolution, the right purpose of the men who vote and who choose the public servants of whom the government is to consist.

"Any government can be corrupted, any government may fall into disrepair. It consists of men, and the men of whom it consists will be no better than the men who choose them."

These quotes are from Woodrow Wilson's lectures as a law professor at Princeton before he became President.

Mr. Wilson speaks in the rather ponderous style of his time. Our terse, modern styles in language may not be any better, but, translated into ours, here's what we think the President is saying.

The basic idea in American government is that the people are sovereign, that they rule themselves. Kings and dictators are obsolete, even though some of them are still around in various places. Here at home, surely we know what we ought to do. Enough good blood has been shed to make it clear to all of us.

Rights and duties must go together. The most elementary duty of every American is to vote. That is the minimum participation in the collective process of self-government. No one should be denied the right of suffrage and no one should be excused from its exercise as a duty. Let us remember, lest freedom perish from our land.

It says here . . .

Rights and duties are Siamese twins. Neither can live without the other.

Church Offers Roots To Life's Meaning

"He shall be like a tree planted by the streams of water."
(Psalm 1:3)

Along stretches of some of the more formal and beautiful streets of this city there are lines of most beautiful trees. They extend their leafy limbs almost across the street, affording a canopy of green shade.

Rev. Young

At intervals among the trees are telephone poles, splintered, gashed and weather-beaten. They sprout no branches, shoot forth no leaves and contribute no beauty for the enjoyment of the traveler.

Why the difference? The answer, of course, is simple. The trees have roots; the telephone poles have none. The telephone poles are lifeless pieces of wood sunk into the ground by man. But the trees have tapped an unseen source in the earth and from it they draw their nourishment.

How many of our people today are lifeless and have no strength in their conviction for the facing of their days? The person who has put his faith in Christ is like the tree. He has sunk his life into the promises of His Lord, and in those promises he has found the power to transform life into a fresh and vital thing.

The telephone poles may carry the many messages of the people of our city but they have no life in and of themselves. Those who profess to be followers of Christ must not only carry the message of His aid for an ailing world but also must, themselves, be rooted and grounded in that strength and love that will hold them fast even during the buffeting of the worst of the storms of the world.

Your church offers this sustaining strength. Why not find "roots" in the church of your choice this very week?

Rev. William L. Young

Trowbridge Co. Buys Vans; Expands Service Potential

Trowbridge Storage Co., 422 E. Rich-st has served as local and long-distance moved throughout the Co-lumbus area for over 70 years.

In keeping with the rapid expansion of the city, Trowbridge has decided to enlarge.

Recently the company has purchased four large trailer-type vans, three new GMC tractors and two additional International tractors.

Included in the new fleet is one air-ride suspension tractor and van. The unit is available by request for hauling electronics or household goods within Ohio or to any of 48 states. Air ride reduces shock by 86 percent, it has been reported.

Through exclusive local franchise and by means of long-standing association with the Aero-Mayflower Transit Company, the Trowbridge Corporation can move companies, agencies, corporations, families and individuals throughout the city, state or nation.

ONE OF THE new moving vans recently acquired by Trowbridge Storage Co., 422 E. Rich-st, is pictured above. The firm is in the process of expansion.

Franklin County Is Not Permitted To Divert Acres

Chairman Owen Van Schoyck of the Franklin Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee today warned Franklin County farmers that grazing or other use of acreage diverted under the feed grain, wheat diversion or conservation reserve programs is not permitted.

Any use of these diverted acres in Franklin County could result in a loss or substantial reduction of payments due for taking part in any of the crop reduction programs.

While provisions restricting use of acreages put into conserving uses have been relaxed in some areas of the state because of short feed supplies, Franklin County is not one of the counties that has been designated as a part of the emergency area.

Shot and slug patterns will be available at the range where a National Rifle Association member will supervise the practice shooting. Hunters are asked to bring their own shells and range rules will apply under the conduction of Jim Fippin.

CEC Panel Series To Begin Tuesday

The "Inside Greater Columbus" community education series begins its fourth consecutive year of programming with a panel discussion entitled "Planning For People," to be held in council chambers, City Hall, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 29. Featured panelists will be Dr. Israel Stollman of the OSU faculty, and Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner.

Registration cost for the eight-program series is $5, which may be sent to Columbus Community Education Council, 137 E. State-st. Further information may be had by calling CA. 8-5696.

ASC Committee Election Changes Are Announced

Several changes will be made next year in the method of electing county ASC committees and in the length of their terms of office, according to Owen Van Schoyck, chairman Franklin Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The changes are authorized in legislation recently approved by Congress and signed by President Johnson on Aug. 31.

The new law does not affect the 1964 committee elections which have already been held in Ohio. Changes become effective for elections held after Jan. 1, 1965.

Under the new law, the chairman explained, the following three major changes are authorized:

- A three-year staggered term of office will be established for county committeemen instead of the existing one-year term.
- Service as a county committeeman will be limited to three consecutive terms.
- All community committeemen will elect county committeemen at the county convention.

Finishes Course

Capt. Herbert S. Gross, 29, whose wife, Marjory, lives at 2751 Fair-av, completed a six-week Army medical officer basic course at the Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.

Carbon Copy Cassady Hilliard Grid Hopeful

By LARRY O'HARRA

If the old saying "like father, like son" holds true in the case of 10-year-old Craig Cassady, then gridiron opponents of the Lions in the Hilliard Optimist PeeWee Football League are in for a peck of trouble this fall.

Craig Cassady is the son of former OSU All-American and Heisman Trophy winner Howard "Hopalong" Cassady and is competing as a 65-pound quarterback in the Hilliard Optimist football league this season.

CRAIG, a fifth grader at Ridgewood Elementary, will do the passing and punting for the Lions, a team that also made his father famous in his playing days.

Howard, after graduating from Columbus Central as an All-City halfback in 1951, moved on to OSU to gain national fame as a swivel-hipped scatback and later to the professional Detroit Lions where he spent six years as a flanker back.

"Football is Craig's favorite sport although he also plays basketball and baseball," beams Hop. "We play a lot in the backyard and he throws well and will handle the kicking for his team this fall."

HILLIARD Optimist Club president and football league director Jim Daniel remembers when "Hop" started out in the City Recreation Bantamweight League in 1947.

"Howard weighed about 103 pounds, but he was tough and very elusive for his size. He had a tremendous amount of desire on my team that year and I've watched him climb the football ladder since that time," comments Jim.

Craig's father, currently employed as a salesman-promoter with the Twin Rivers Concrete Products Co. in Delaware, adds "Craig was classified in the PeeWee League according to his age, weight and ability and is really looking forward to this season."

HOP'S PLAYING days ended after an eight-year career with the Lions, Browns and Eagles. Hop spent a half-year each with the Browns and Eagles where he broke his leg and was picked up again by the Lions.

Howard couldn't get back in top physical condition after the broken leg so he retired and entered private business concerns.

However, young Craig Cassady is just embarking on his gridiron career . . . and who knows, maybe someday "like father, like son."

Ceramics Show Dated

A special showing of ceramics by Rose and Erni Cabat opens Sunday, Sept. 26, at Helen Winnemore's, 721 E. Broad-st, from 1 to 5 p.m.

The exhibit will be open during regular shop hours for the following two weeks.

LEAGUE PLAY OPENS AS . . .

E-M, East, Rams Set Sights On Loop Wins

Eastmoor's City League foes are standing up and taking notice after the rebuilding Warriors tied tough Newark in their opener and topped CBL powerhouse Whitehall, 12-0, last week behind the two-TD running of speedy left half Wayne Mixon.

Mixon took an 18-yard flat pass down the sidelines for one score and accounted for the other E-M tally with a three-yard plunge while roughnecks Mike Gornall and guard Dan Goldberg helped limit the Rams to 47 rushing yards.

THE WARRIORS, who defeated the Rams for the first time in three seasons last week, meet big and fast Marion-Franklin tomorrow night at home.

The Red Devils (1-1) have a speedy backfield (all 10.7 dashmen) spearheaded by passing whiz Dale Darnell (6'2-196) and ends Steve and John Jackson along with an offensive line that will go over 200 pounds per man. The game should be a toss up, but the 'Devils can mean trouble for any team in the city this year after previous "doormat" campaigns in the circuit.

Whitehall's defensive charge was led by mammoth Rick Callicoat, Dave Mowrer and Rick Foltz who made tackle after tackle for Jim Blines' Rams who entertain rival Bexley tomorrow night.

THE RAMS (1-1) are favorites in this neighborhood battle but Bexley can't be counted out of the picture after holding bulky Gahanna scoreless in the first half last week. The Rams have had trouble getting an effective offense generated thus far (21 points in two games) but their defense has been extremely

MARION C. DAY 6

The Dick Price-coached Vikings looked sluggish in their 12-6 win over Maumee Country Day but a 40-yard pass play from Tim McElroy to Dan Fouche and a Terry Larrimer plunge was enough for Academy's opening win last Saturday.

Larrimer's score was set up when a Viking lineman fell on a Maumee fumble on the visitors' two-yard line in the second stanza.

THE VIKINGS meet powerful, but small West Jefferson in a FCL grid headliner tomorrow night in the Madison County town.

West Jefferson, sparked by ace passer Mike Healy and backs Jim Scurlock and Ed Wade, savored a 46-22 win over the Vikings last season and would like to add Academy to their perfect two-game mark with wins over Mt. Sterling (22-0) and Northwestern (46-6).

EAST 32,
PORTSMOUTH 0

Slender speedster Kent Schoolfield's 10-yard run and 50-yard pass reception from ace Paul Stith helped Aurelius Thomas' East Tigers to an impressive 32-0 win over host Portsmouth last week.

The Trojans earned only 24 measly rushing yards against the proud and tough East wall and got only three first downs against the likes of Howard Burks, Pete McKinnon and Chuck Roberts.

THE TIGERS set out on the City League trail hosting North tomorrow night. The punchless Polar Bears have only scored eight points in two games (0-2) but gave powerful Watterson a hard way to go before bowing 12-0 last week.

East's potent offense (44 points) is a sure bet to crack North's vulnerable defense to-

WBFL Loop Action 'Hot'

The PeeWee Division of the Whitehall Bantam Football League opened its season last Saturday morning. In one of two games played at Robinwood Field, the Oilers crushed the Chargers, in what coach Mark Wilson termed an "all out team effort." The Chargers had a difficult time containing the Oilers on their wide end-around plays.

The other game played at Robinwood saw coach Bill Darnell's Broncos mark up an impressive 26-6 victory over the Chiefs although the Chiefs scored first.

BRIAN HUGHES of the Broncos scored three times all on long-yardage plays. Defensive standout for the Broncos was Butch Sark who swiped two passes, blocked a pair of kicks and was credited with 14 tackles.

City Park enjoyed a 14-0 tilt between the Patriots and the Bills with the Patriots chalking up the win. Coach Frank Wellmentz of the Patriots noted his team still has a lot of work ahead of them. Randy Trexler, Patriots' fullback, scored all 14 points behind excellent line blocking and Mike Millay led the defense with some very fine stops.

SATURDAY, the Chiefs will take on the Chargers at City Park; Robinwood will host two games . . . the Broncs meet the Patriots and the Bills will take on the Oilers.

The Middleweight Division of the WBFL opens their season Saturday with the Cowboys testing the 49ers at City Park in an exciting opening game. The Colts travel to Bremen, O., to play a non-league game with kick-offs at 9 a.m. for all games.

CMS Final Sunday Nite

Like "Ol' Man River," Don Gregory just keeps "rolling along," in his fabulous win-streak at the Columbus Motor Speedway, where he now has 12-straight feature wins and a total of 13 for the season.

Sunday night, Gregory started the evening with a nip-and-tuck battle with Dean Stookey, in the sportsman division's first 10-lap heat race. For the final five-laps, Gregory and Stookey ran side-by-side and everyone of the fans were standing as they crossed the finish line with Stookey winning the heated battle by less than three-feet.

IN THE FEATURE, Gregory was in the 19th position and Stookey was sitting in the 18th hole, when the event got under way. By the third-lap, Stookey had moved into the lead, but Gregory caught him and went out front on the sixth.

From there on in, it was all Gregory, who is one of the finest "traffic" drivers on any track. Stookey was second, followed by Jack Woods, Neal Neds, Whitey Dodson and Clarence Wynes.

Veteran driver Ralph O'Day took his seventh late-model headliner, as he beat-out the top drivers in his category in the 25-lap main event. He was trailed by L. T. Cornette, Don Townsend, Shad Wheeler and Curt Craft.

THE FINAL NIGHT race of the season will be run this coming Sunday, Sept. 27, when the late-models and sportsman run a combined program, with two features.

On Sunday afternoon, Oct. 4, the Season Championship races, for both late-models and sportsmen will be contested. They will wind up the year's activity with a 35-lap late-model and a 25-lap sportman championship feature.

Last Sunday, three fans collected a total of $200 in cash, in the speedway's free game of "Total," when they picked the first five finishers, in order, in the late-model feature. This coming Sunday, the jackpot will contain $100 in cash and it will go to the fan or fans able to do the same, in the sportsman 20-lap headliner.

Wolman's Wins Center Playoff

The three-hit shutout pitching by Ben Weis kept Ontario out of the scoring column for five innings while Wolmans piled on 10 runs to take an 11 to 2 playoff win.

Weis was backed up by a 12-hit attack led by Irv Goodman's home run. Goodman picked up three hits as did Irv Flox to lead the Insurancemen, while Sandy Goldston pitched the last three innings allowing seven hits and two runs.

Norman Krause had two hits for Ontario. Bernie Shapiro blasted a triple and Dave Madison on a double in the extra base department.

Wolman plays Hackman Realty on Thursday, Sept. 24 at 8:30 p.m.

Local Girl U.S. Cinder Standout

Estelle Jane Baskerville, a slender 17-year-old East High graduate, is currently competing in a practice program in Tokyo as she tries to win a Gold Medal in the upcoming Olympics for the United States.

Estelle started her sparkling cinder career when she was 14 years old and competed in a Junior Olympic meet at Harley Field. Jim Lorimer, president of the Ohio Track Club, saw her leap 4'7" and recommended her to Walnut Ridge track coach Harry McKnight who coached Estelle for four years.

HARRY TRAINED Estelle five nights a week at Walnut Ridge and jumped two of these evenings to keep sharp. McKnight's training program included hurdling, weight exercises and running.

Miss Baskerville still found time to maintain a "B" average in her school work and jumo 5'7¾" in the Olympic trials. She has competed in every National AAU event since 1961 and has never finished lower than third.

Estelle, who has accepted a full track scholarship to Tennessee A&I College in Nashville, Tenn., has improved her height one inch a year and coach McKnight expects her to finish in the top 10 at the Olympics with a best-ever leap of 5'8."

MISS BASKERVILLE'S Olymoic coach, Ed Temple, is the Tennessee A&I track mentor and is really "sold" on East High's big contribution to the track world.

Estelle's future appears very bright and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baskerville, 430 Eldridge-st, has earned her lines in the sports world.

Consumers will spend 18.5 per cent of their income after taxes for food in 1964, down slightly from 18.8 per cent spent in 1963, say OSU Extension economists.

Under Buckeye Skies

by Ken Mack McCreary

Coonskin Cap Brigade Worthwhile Youth Group

"We who love the game coverts of America—extending from the frigid home of grizzly bear to the temperate marshes of the pintail duck, jointly move to a common end—the conservation, restoration and reasonable harvest of our game."

So begins the creed of Ohio's and the nation's newest conservation organization—the Coonskin Cap Brigade. The brigade was recently organized here in central Ohio under the guiding hand of Ken Crawford, a member of the Ohio Wildlife Council.

It is patterned after the Order of the Jungle Cock, a conservation movement founded 25 years ago. The Coonskip Cap Brigade is concerned with teaching our youth a profound respect for our great outdoors heritage, with emphasis on wildlife and hunting safely.

THE FIRST PUBLIC initiation of the Brigade was held this past Sunday afternoon at the Clear Fork Valley Resort near Mansfield with more than 100 Buckeye youngsters taking part and receiving the colorful shoulder patch which identifies them as members.

Principal speakers at the impressive ceremonies were Louis Lucas, the Executive Secretary of the National Rifle Association and Fred E. Morr, Director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Mr. Morr chose as his topic: "The Natural Resouces Outlook For Youth" and told the new Coonskin Cappers: "The preservation of our natural resources we pledge to the youth of Ohio—and we pledge further to improve our fish and wildlife management, forestry and park programs."

DIRECTOR MORR went on to say: "The interest of Governor Rhodes in Ohio's youth has been a guiding light for the new look in our department. With the example and concern shown by the governor, we feel sure all Ohioans will meet the challenge."

It's a well-recognized fact, backed by statistics, that youngsters who are really interested and who take part in such outdoor activities as fishing, hunting, camping and hiking, seldom, if ever, develop into problem youths, or get into trouble. We firmly believe that such organizations as the Coonskin Cap Brigade can do much to combat the serious problems often arising with our children.

In addition, since each youngster must be sponsored by a responsible adult who promises to guide his charge, it gives us a fine opportunity to get to know our boys and girls — a responsibility which we too often sadly neglect.

WE PREDICT that the Coonskin Cap Brigade will quickly spread from its birthplace in the heart of Ohio to encompass the other 49 states and many other areas of the free world, and will become recognized as a truly outstanding youth and conservation movement.

Let's face it, any boy or girl can't help but be a better person if he or she lives up to these words from the Creed: "Realizing, we are only custodians of the creatures, forests, mountains, deserts and prairies passed along to us by our Coonskin Cap generations, we must be ever watchful to keep their trust . . . Ever will I of the Coonskin Cap Brigade help perpetuate existence of all wildlife for generations to come. Those who love the outdoors, its creatures and our God—are one of us."

CAPITAL'S "FEARSOME TWOSOME"

CAPITAL'S '64 defensive charge will be spearheaded by these two Central Ohio gridders who are entering their senior season for Gene Slaughter's Crusader eleven. Ron Glass (left) a 5'9 208-pound middle guard, has the regular middle guard job locked up with his quickness and hard-nosed play while 6' 202-pound All-Ohio Conference selection Gary Mauller (right) a former Hamilton Twp. gridder, is ticketed for heavy duty at linebacker and offensive center this fall. Veteran Cap line coach Jack Landrum (center) gives his two ace defenders a workout on the blocking sled during a recent Crusader leather-cracking session.

El Rancho Set For Playoffs

The race is coming right down to the wire—and blame it all on a one-goal handicap which El Rancho polo club had to give away to Cincinnati last Sunday at Cincinnati.

El Rancho lost the game 4-3, and now it'll be next Sunday's game at El Rancho, at 3 o'clock, against the same Cincinnati team that decides which team gets into the league playoffs in October.

EL RANCHO has won 10, lost 3, tied 2 — and two of the losses have been at the hands of the Cincinnatians.

It was a thriller Sunday with El Rancho making up the handicap goal early and the score stayed tied or see-sawed with 10 seconds left when Bill Seibert rammed in the winning goal.

For El Rancho, Bud Strouse, Ed Kennedy and Jimmy Anderson each scored one.

Sunday's game at El Rancho will again benefit the American Cancer Society; and members of the Big Brothers Association will bring their little brothers to cheer for the Worthington-based team.

Rome 'Shoe Event Ready

Qualifying rounds for an Open Horseshoe Tournament at New Rome will be held this weekend with the finals being pitched on Oct. 3 and 4.

The six clay-filled courts, one of Central Ohio's finest horseshoe layouts, is located at Moore's Dairy Store, 1½ miles south of New Rome on Norton-rd.

QUALIFYING times, are Friday, Sept. 25 from 5-10 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 26 from 1-10 p.m.; Sunday, Sept 27, 1-10 p.m. and Monday, Sept. 28 from 5-10 p.m.

All entrants will compete in the various classes and the match games will be 50-point cancellation events. Many beautiful trophies will be awarded and a nominal entry fee will be charged. For additional information on the tournament, contact Tom Pearce in West Jefferson at TR. 9-8580.

OSU Mum Sales Continue In '64

The mum flower sales at all Ohio State home football games has become a traditional event each season along with Woody Hayes' winning Buckeye elevens.

The Floriculture Forum Club of OSU will sell mums with their bright scarlet and gray ribbons in the vicinity of the horseshoe at each home game this fall.

This departmental club for students majoring in floriculture uses the profits from these sales to provide scholarships, send the OSU flower-judging team to the national championships and sponsor field trips for deserving students to places of horticultural interest.

Mystery Man Circles CBS

Last Sunday afternoon at the CBS Park Speedway, located four miles north of Lancaster on Rt. 33, 15 go-kart classes competed in a hot program that was highlighted with 30 trophy presentations.

A large number of fans at the park saw a "Mystery Man" circle the high-banked one-quarter mile oval in 15 seconds flat for an all-time track record. He has challenged all karts and the manager of CBS hasn't seen that kind of speed by any kart, mighty midget or modified racer before.

THE CBS Speedway will be open Friday, Saturday and Sunday for practice sessions for Sunday's 2 p.m. race program.

Last week's winners at CBS were Columbuites Charles Sparks, Ed Williams and Russ Thomas; Circleville's Herb Miller, George Miller and Rick Gibson; Lucasville's Wade Farley and Rick Farley; Williamsport's Jack Hanson and Jack Kennedy; Don and Dean Penrod of Washington C. H.; Amanda's Paul Rhymer and three boys from Portsmouth.

BS SPECIALIST

Pvt. Gary A. Holstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Holstein, 275 N. Ardmore-rd, completed an eight-week personnel administration specialist course under the Reserve Enlistment Program at the Army Armor Center, Ft. Knox, Ky.

The 23-year-old soldier attended Bexley High School.

Area Grid Coach Will Earn Trophy

Beginning this year, the high school football coaches from the Central Ohio area plan to select the outstanding high school football coach at the completion of the current season.

A trophy, presented by Stan Harvey, co-owner of Howard Johnson's 161 Motor Lodge and Restaurant, will be given to the area coach who "does the most with the talent available."

EACH AREA coach will cast a secret ballot which lists the names of all Central Ohio coaches, their schools, and their present and last year's records.

Five points will be given to the coach who has done the best with his talent; four points for the next best and so on down to one point. The coach with the most points in the balloting will receive the rotating 25" silver-plated trophy at the season's conclusion.

City Basketball Loops Forming

The City Recreation Department plans to begin its organizational meetings for the upcoming basketball season the week of Sept. 27 at Schiller Recreation Center.

The Recreation Dept. conducts leagues in open, A and B classifications for Independent circuits and the Industrial leagues cannot use A or AA players and are rated as B leagues.

Church leagues can play A or AA players under certain conditions. Managers of teams that would like to play in City Recreation League must contact the Department at CA. 1-2211, extension 291 or 292.

Strike Sanctioned

Members of Local 2020, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers voted Sept. 16 to strike the Western Electric Co. if an agreeable wage increase is not offered by midnight, Sept. 30.

A FAMILY FEATURE

Veep Job Is Growing In Prestige, Importance

By ROYCE BRIER

Quite aside from the vice-presidential nomination at Atlantic City, interesting new departures in government seem to be shaping up, should the Johnson-Humphrey ticket be elected in November.

Growth of the importance of the vice-presidency since the war seems destined for another spurt, which may truly make the vice-president the No. 2 man of the nation. Apparently the Founding Fathers intended this, but it did not work out that way in the 19th century.

In a special report in the New York Times, a group of correspondents revealed the manner in which President Johnson chose Senator Humphrey as his running mate, and recounted a Johnson-Humphrey meeting.

In this it was agreed that the vice-president, if taking office, should supervise large areas of the Administration's policies on space, disarmament, the antipoverty program, and health, education and welfare.

In addition, the Vice-President should be active in foreign affairs, often representing the President abroad and relieving him of many ceremonial duties.

As vice-president, Mr. Johnson took on some of these tasks for the late President Kennedy, and Mr. Johnson seems determined to follow through. It is assumed Senator Humphrey was zealous for the program.

Curiously, foreigners have always looked on the Vice President as the No. 2 man, while at home we often did not. It is only in recent years, however, that our vice-presidents have been dispatched on important missions abroad.

Mr. Lincoln had little employment for Andrew Johnson, and this set the vice-presidential tone of the century. Presidents and vice presidents were not necessarily compatible, and some Presidents even resented their seconds, and gave them no duties. As a result, most Americans cannot identify more than a few of the 19th century vice-presidents.

This coolness between No. One and No. Two lasted well into this century, and the vice-presidential office became shelf-space for undistinguished but available men. The biggest surprise on the shelf was Theodore Roosevelt.

The emergence of the Vice-Presidency from a joke to an office engaging the serious attention of the people is due in large part to the complex burdens which now rest on a President.

These burdens include exhaustive briefings in technical maters which didn't touch earlier Presidents. In atomic matters alone, a President must have some acquaintance in scores of phases. In such cases a competent Vice-President, if there is mutual trust, can provide immense aid to a President.

On foreign assignment a Vice President, if he is sharp, articulate and prudent, can almost speak as the President's voice.

The days of drafting an indifferent but possibly troublesome politician, because he comes from the right state or region, for the vice presidential office, seem to be passing. If they do pass, it will be a needed step forward in sound and intelligent government.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We adopted this mongrel dog, from the dog pound. He is a pretty good-looking dog except for one fault. He has this long, skinny tail. It looks like he had a big rat tail grafted on back there. My husband wants to get it cut off and wants to know how long it should be left?—B.A.

DEAR B.A.: It should be left as long as possible . . . like clear out to the living end. I think it would be a mistake to remove Rover's wagger. After all, he's happy with it. You COULD get used to it in time.

Besides, this operation should be confined to young puppies. Tail amputation is major surgery in a mature dog. And the stump may remain sensitive for a long time.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm building a flight cage for canaries on a closed-in podch. What is the largest mesh wire that I can use?—D.V.

DEAR D.V.: Anything larger than half an inch would increase the risk of the birds becoming strangled or, at least, entangled.

DEAR DR. MILLER: A friend of my daughter has convinced her that Nellie, her horse, should have several apples a day for their Vitamin C content. These apples are expensive when you don't grow them yourself and I wonder if they are really that necessary. Nellie loves the apples and eats them like popcorn. But wouldn't it be cheaper and just as good to use Vitamin C tablets?—E.W.

DEAR E.W.: Vitamin C tablets would be considerably cheaper, though certainly not as good from Nellie's point of view. Fortunately for your finances, Nellie doesn't need an extra supply of this vitamin anyway. She manufactures all the C she needs in her own digestive tract.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our long-haired tomcat, Black Beauty, is sleek and handsome from October till May or so. Come spring and pursuits and things, he becomes lean and battle-scarred. But what really has us puzzled is tthat this time of year his cocoa-tinged black coat turns a horrible henna-red, except for his head, neck and paws. Why does Beauty become a two-tone "convertible" cat?—V.K.

DEAR V.K.: Heat, plus additional light, plus some subtle changes in metabolism combine to produce this color change. It is more noticeable in the warmer body areas as the consistently higher temperature of this part of Blackie's anatomy accelerates the change in hair pigment.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I would like to get a dog or cat as a pet but am unable to make up my mind which. I have room for either one. I just want to stay clear of neurotic animals and so many of my friends have pets that seem terribly mixed up. I guess what I really want to know which is more neurotic, a dog or a cat?—L.L.

DEAR L.L.: The best way to avoid a neurotic animal of either species, is to start with a healthy young animal whose parents (try to observe the mother) appear to be calm and well-adjusted.

The next important step is to provide a type of environment that allows the growing animal to develop normally. Daily, unresolved conflict can make a neurotic out of almost any animal. (The spoiled animal is a prime candidate for confusion and eventual neurosis.)

Cats, especially, may develop into flighty, fidgety animals as a result of nutritional imbalances. Because the pet tends to soak up hostilities that may be present among other members of the family, it helps if everyone is happy a reasonable percentage of the time.

It would be difficult to decide which is more neurotic, a dog or a cat. And why bother? Any healthy young puppy or kitten tends to develop into a healthy, normal adult if given a chance.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

East Street Improvements Termed Bond Issue 'Bargains' By Mayor

DON'T SCOTCH HIGHLANDER FUN(D)!

HIGHLANDERS' BANDSMEN, of Walnut Ridge High School will launch their Christmas card sale Friday, Oct. 2, continuing through Oct. 15, with proceeds earmarked for new uniforms and instruments for the school music department. The drive is sponsored by the Walnut Ridge Band Boosters Association. Bansmen will canvass the area, door to door, offering Christmas cards, first aid kits and stainless steel sponges for sale. Persons wihing to place an order may call Mrs. Karl F. Lau, 1199 Norman-dr, 866-7980. Shirley Hickman of the Senior High Band and Bill Lau, of the Junior High Band, will be among the salesmen.

The 17th-av Thruway and East Freeway sections are among major traffic artery improvements that will directly help the East side of Columbus in future residential and business development, Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner reported Tuesday.

The total of 11 traffic artery improvements will represent an investment of $43 million in city, state and federal funds, of which only $14.7 million will be provided by residents of Columbus if they approve a $33-million-dollar capital improvement bond issue Nov. 3.

Major developments in the East area during the next five years include:

• Portions of the Outerbelt lying within the corporate limits of Columbus will be completed, costing in all $19 million and including section from East Freeway to State Route 16 (length 3 miles); section from Refugee-rd to I-70 (East Freeway) (length 2.10 miles); section from E. Broad-st to north corporate line (length 1.4 miles).

• The 17th-av Thruway and four-lane pavement from Brentnell to Cassady-avs and service roads from Brentnell to Joyce-avs (length of .9 mile and one mile), nearly $3.2 million. Of this total $85,000 was earmarked for plans in 1964. These plans are ten percent complete at present.

• The 17th-av Thruway, four-lanes from the N. Freeway to Brentnell (length 1.9 miles), $6,298,200.

• The 17th-av Thruway, four lanes from Cassady-av to Stelzer-rd (length .9 mile), $2,600,000.

In addition to the $14.7 million for expressway and traffic artery improvement sought, $6 million will be earmarked for slum clearance and other urban redevelopment programs; $4.8 million for storm sewers; $4.5 million for parks and recreation; $1.9 million for street lights, and $1.1 million for fire houses.

The north leg of the proposed West Freeway involving $15 million, the south leg of the West Freeway costing $11.3 million and the Frank-Refugee Arterial road running in excess of $10 million will take the major share of the funds.

Other projects include:

• Widening of the West and South Innerbelts from Goodale to Short-sts, $4.4 million.

• Widening Southwest Freeway to six lanes from Mound-st to the south corporation line (a length of one mile), $320,000.

• Extension of Wilson-rd from Sullivant-av to W. Broad-st (length of 4 mile in the city, and another .4 mile in the county), $606,000. Of this total, $64,000 has been spent on plans and other preliminary engineering work through 1963 and 1964, with this initial phase of the project now 90 percent complete.

• Widening to a 40-foot pavement of Highland-dr from the west corporation line to Marburn-av, including installation of sidewalks and storm sewers (length of .33 mile), costing $125,000.

• Widening Sullivant-av to four lanes from Demorest-rd to Georgesville (length of 1.1 miles), $350,000.

• Widening of Grubb-st from W. Broad-st to Sullivant-av and one block of adjoining Skidmore and Shepherd-sts, $100,000.

• Extension of Valleyview-dr from Hague-av to a point 275 feet west of Brinker-av (length .5 mile) $269,630.

• Relocation of Eakin-rd near Whitethorne-av (length .3 mile), $100,000.

"With approval of the $14.7 million for new expressways and improvement of thoroughfares out of the $33 million capital improvement package, we will be able to complete the city's modern traffic system, which was first conceived in 1952. The program will provide Columbus East Street Olmprovements bus with one of the nation's most modern municipal highway systems," Mayor Sensenbrenner added.

To bring the over-all city road picture into focus, Mayor Sensenbrenner noted that other major highway developments, in addition to the eastern projects, throughout Columbus during the next five years will include:

• The Olentangy River-rd Expressway and service road (the latter four lanes) from the Innerbelt to a point 1700 feet north of King-av (length one mile), $5 million. The city is now beginning work on the plans for the Olentangy Expressway, with an additional $150,000 alloted for this phase of the work.

• Improvements (four-lane highway) of Morse-rd from Foster-st to the Olentangy River (length 1.3 miles), $2.5 million.

In addition, Sensenbrenner points out that 15 other major improvements will be made on important traffic distributing arteries throughout Columbus. These are in all sections of the city.

"One of best expenditures the city of Columbus can make is on our road system, since national studies have shown that for each dollar spent on roads there is a savings of $3.50 for individuals and business firms, is lessening of traffic accidents and savings of both individual and buiness travel time.

"Recent studies by Dr. Henry L. Hunker, of the Ohio State University School of Commerce and Finance, which were published in book form by the OSU Bureau of Business Research, disclosed that highway development within a city creates not only new construction jobs, but also opportunities to expand private employment through the location of new industries when construction is completed.

"Dr. Hunker said the location near major markets is the main reason for new and expanded industrial plant sites, and good roads in these areas were an essential ingredient.

"With the completion of our municipal road program by the end of 1969, we will have the roads within our city, connecting with the major arteries throughout the state, that can put Columbus-manufactured products within reach of the state's 10 million population in a matter of hours. That is why my administration is calling our city road program the key to making Columbus the hub of Ohio," Mayor Sensenbrenner concluded.

Area Men Honored

Three area men received veterans awards during the 47th annual recognition dinner held Sunday at Capital University by the Central Ohio Council of Boy Scouts.

Grant Drennen of 141 Dawson-av was honored. William F. Kaiser of 4934 McAllister received the 35-year award and Roman V. Everman of 1088 Kenwick-rd received a 45-year award.

DEDICATION DAYS ON CAPITAL CAMPUS

$1.6 Million Program Debuts This Weekend

Capital University will proudly unveil more than $1.-635,000 of new buildings and renovations on the campus during dedication weekend, Friday through Monday, Oct. 2-5.

Social activities and renovation projects, dedication of new buildings, and scholarships and honors will be emphasized during the four-day event.

Capital's permanent art collection will also be exhibited during the entire weekend at Schumacher Gallery, located in Huber Speelman Hall, next to the administration building on Mound-st, from 1 to 5 p.m. each day.

A football game Saturday at 2 p.m. at Bernloh Field, with Capital playing Baldwin-Wallace, will officially launch the four-day observance.

Immediately following the game, an informal, open house reception will be held in the renovated buildings. Trout-man, Lehmann and Leonard halls, Rudolph Memorial Library, Schumacher Gallery and the Refectory.

The Alumni Gym will be the scene of the Air Force ROTC Military Ball Saturday evening, 9 until midnight.

Sunday's emphasis will be on the dedication of the new buildings, and John D. Millett, chancellor and director, Ohio Board of Regents, will make an address at 3:30 p.m. as part of the dedication of Yocum Hall, the new administration headquarters on Mound-st, and a new women's residence hall.

All Adults May Join In Center's Cultural, Educational Programs

In an effort to meet the continuing needs of adults in our ever changing modern world, the Jewish Center has devised an expanded program to enrich leisure hours.

All adults in the Eastern area wishing to participate are invited to call the Jewish Center, BE 1-2731, for details and fees on planned fall and winter programs.

Three stimulating lecture series include the Jewish Center series, designed to be a Jewish cultural experience through lectures and discussions by nationally known speakers. Monthly programs have been planned from November through April.

The Public Affairs Forum focuses attention on contemporary issues, with Columbus authorities analyzing timely topics through panel discussions. First of the monthly sessions will be held Oct. 13.

HOUSEWIVES WARNED:

Postpone Laundry On Hydrant Cleaning Day

Annual autumn project of the Whitehall Fire Department — cleaning, flushing and draining all fire hydrants in the city before cold weather, will start today, Oct. 1.

The process does stir up rust in the lines, Fire Chief Walter Reddy explained, and so, to forestall the deluge of complaints from angry housewives who protest that their laundry is ruined if they wash on the day their hydrants are cleaned, the fire department has released its daily schedule.

As a public service, each week's schedule will be printed in the Eastern Spectator until the project is completed.

Streets slated for the first week, Oct. 1-8, are:

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC

Jim Fluke Wins $25 In Football Contest

Jim Fluke

Jim Fluke may make beautiful music but the number one tune on his "hit parade" this week was The Spectator Football Contest.

Fluke, who lives at 909 Mayfield-pl, out-selected 136 other contestants last weekend in round one of Hartley Newspapers grid pickins', hitting on 22 of 28 football forecasts.

The winner picked up $25 for his careful prognostications. Had Jim correctly picked all 28 games, his prize would have been $50. And had he been a paid subscriber, he could have doubled that figure.

Peggy Fleischer, 264 S. Westgate-av, filled the runner-up spot in round one of

They Only Express A Curious Optimism

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

Today I sat and talked with a future jurist of the Supreme Court, a brilliant engineer, a scientist and perhaps a great artist or writer.

I sat in kindergarten classes of metropolitan Columbus and watched a new generation, fearlessly and with great aplomb, approach, pause and then plunge eagerly across a new frontier.

Once, there was a time when I doubted whether this country or any country would survive the onslaught of man's greed.

I doubted whether summit meetings or new weapons would awaken, in time, the inherent camaraderie of mankind.

But in the eyes of these children I saw rekindled the universal things of all humanity: humor, patience, intelligence, trust and love for others.

Tomorrow, when critics challenge the motives of our Supreme Court, I will remember Bennie Woods.

Tomorrow, when they haggle over which country is the capital of science, I'll remember Mike Helser.

And I'll remember the others I talked to today, and I'll know that there will be art, good books and cultured people tomorrow because of the children with whom I crossed a new frontier today.

"I TELL DEBBIE about green lights," says Andrew Beeler of 133 Eldon-av. "When it's colored like this crayon (green) it makes you safe to cross the street." And Debbie replies, "But you watch the cars, too, so you won't get hurt." Sound advice to children everywhere from Deborah Loschiavo of 203 N. Wheatland-av in her third day in kindergarten at West Broad Street Elementary.

NOW, WHAT is that word! ponders Laurel Gourno, of 10 E. Gates-st, as she pursues her favorite kindergarten subject at Stewart Elementary. "I love books and the pictures help you to read," she said, "and our teacher helps us to read best of all." Some day she will write a book for other children to read, or perhaps paint the pictures, she hasn't decided which. "That's why we come to school—to find out," she explained. "When I ask questions the teacher tells me (answers)," says Jimmy Godwin, of 33 N. Harding-rd, ready to raise his hand in kindergarten class at Broadleigh Elementary. He comes to school to "play new games, and listen to the teacher. You learn to build things." In his articulate manner, Jimmy seems to be explaining the social and academic future of a budding architect or engineer.

"IT'S A PUZZLE," explains Michael Helser of 147 Victor-av, a five-year-old kindergartener at Obetz Elementary. "You find a piece and you find where it goes and you put a picture together." With uncomplicated logic Michael explains the complicated world of science to other children in his class. "I like school because we have new puzzles here." Someday NASA may find this young scientist-in-training ready to fit the key piece into the greatest puzzle of all.

Gallery Players To Present Chayefsky's 'Tenth Man'

When the curtain rises on Paddy Chayefsky's "The Tenth Man," to open the Gallery Players Subscription series, it will mark the 45th production of the drama group, now in its 16th season of dramatic activity.

"The Tenth Man," a hit of the Broadway theatre a few season's back, will be directed by Harold M. Eisenstein, cultural arts director of The Jewish Center, and will be the 17th play that Eisenstein has directed for the group in the past five years.

Before that he had been engaged as a producer and director in the fields of theatre, radio, television and nightclub entertainment throughout the country. In this capacity he worked with such top-flight entertainers as Phil Silvers, Janet Blair, Milton Berle, Hedy Lamar, Tony Perkins, Ilona Massey, Jack Klugman and Robert Preston.

The entire action of the Chayefsky script takes place in a small, musty, old synagogue and the frequent employment of ceremonial rights gives the play an especially picturesque atmosphere.

John Crawford, television and radio director for the Columbus Board of Education and remembered by Gallery Players audience for his comedy performances in "Dealers Choice," "The Threepenny Opera," and "Guys and Dolls," lends his talents in another direction for this production by designing the humble synagogue located in a Long Island subrub.

The daily number of subscriptions now flowing into the Gallery Players office indicates that the group will enjoy its largest subscription audience to date. Priced at $5 for center members and $7.50 for non-members, the subscription covers over a dozen theatrical events.

For further information concerning the 1964-65 subscription series, people may phone the Gallery Players office, BE. 1-2731.

By SARAH WINGO

Principal's Passes have been awarded to students who received all A's the last six weeks of the 1963-64 school year.

Those who received passes are Willa Hsueh, Dave Replogle, Stan Finkelstein, Wendy Brummel, Kendall Lewis, Rita Krysztofik, Sharon Nicholson, Sally Shadwick, Phyllis Curtis, John Andrews and Mellissa Hawkins.

The pass gives the holder free admittance to all school-sponsored activities and serves as a hall pass. Principal's Passes are valid for one six-week period after they have been issued.

Whitehall-Yearling Chapter, Distributive Education Clubs of America, is planning its annual program of work.

The team is practicing for its first meet with Gahanna. Practice and home meets are held at North American Park.

Jenny Lind Study Grant To Be Given

Capital University begins payment on a 113 - year - old debt to Jenny Lind Monday, Oct. 5, with the bestowing of a $500 per year music scholarship to a female vocal student.

Jenny Lind, the "Swedish Nightingale," sang two concerts in Columbus on Nov. 4-5, 1851.

William Reynolds, the first president of Capital, persuaded her to contribute $1,500 for the endowment of a Scandinavian theological professorship in the seminary. Interest from the money was to be used for the benefit of needy Scandinavian students.

The money was never devoted to its intended use.

Board minutes from Feb. 7, 1855, indicate that $1,300 from the fund was loaned to the seminary. But the university owed the seminary $1,600 from an advance the seminary had made to the university to pay the president's salary, so the seminary decided to appropriate the loan toward payment of the claim.

At this late date, Capital officials feel that, more in keeping with the life and fame of Miss Lind than offering a theological scholarship, a once-every-four-year scholarship shall be granted to an entering woman vocal student.

She will be selected on the basis of audition and must have ranked in the upper third of her graduating class. In addition, she shall be required to maintain a cumulative average of 3.0 or better.

ELECTED

Paul J. Haytcher of 645 Ross-rd, Whitehall city solicitor has been elected for a two-year term as member at large to the Board of Trustees, Ohio Municipal League.

That Mrs. Daley Is Sure A 'Good Scout'

By ADELINE DALEY

Much as I hate to face it, my brief rest from the rigors of having a child active in the scout program has ended. For Diane came home from school excitedly waving an application to become a Brownie Girl Scout. Just last year I headed Brian's Cub troop and before that was involved with Patrice's scouting.

"How would you like to join a fun group in which you learn pottery, basket-weaving and other crafts" the form asked. What puzzles me is, do they mean me or my kids?

There was a time when I might have showed a little more enthusiasm, but I am not looking forward to the next order of business: A meeting of the mothers to decide who has the longest list of reasons for NOT becoming a leader. I'm preparing mine now — I'm in the Government space program, we're moving. I have an allergy to cookies, etc.

My biggest mistake was in consenting in the beginning to take the two-week training course and thus emerging as a full-fledged Qualified Leader. After completion I think they now give you your choice of heading a troop or joining the Peace Corps.

I spent so much time in the woods learning how to build fires, lean-tos, and construct primitive utensils from branches that I'm qualified to engage in a national TV debate with Davy Crockett.

The highlight of my induction, however, consisted of learning how to cook on a "Tin Can" stove. And, even more fascinating, how to make one. First, you wait at the backdoor of a restaurant, hoping to find a discarded No. 10 can, the only type large enough to cook on.

Next, with a pair of shears you cut two openings—one for fuel and one for a chimney. Voila, you have a stove. If course, I don't know when the occasion will arise when I will need to use a Tin Can Stove — unless I decide to become a hobo.

What I thought was even more impractical was learning how to fry pancakes on the "griddle" of this aforementioned stove. I had expected we would be making soups out of acorns and leaves. Why even a hobo can afford an occasional visit to a Pancake House if he has a hankering for flapjacks!

It was about this time I began to seek the best method of gracefully ducking out of the entire program. "Get pregnant," a sympathetic veteran in scout work informed me. That was seven years ago.

How does that parable go about "casting bread upon the waters"? Diane is now seven and eager to become a Girl Scout with Sharon and Jan due to follow. I think, however, that I have learned my lesson.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

October Changes Markets; Outlook Bright

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits—apples, grapes, Bartlett pears.
Vegetables—cauliflower, potatoes, eggplant, lettuce, celery, winter squash.
Meat and poultry—beef "specials," ground beef, pork roasts, fryers, eggs.
Other—cheese, canned food "specials."

October brings amber leaves and golden days — and a bright outlook for the foodshopper.

The fall harvest brings in a bumper crop of apples, cider, grapes of all shades, hearty vegetables to take over the summer items that are slipping away. There is plenty of red meat too—beef and pork especially—with broiler-fryers and turkeys to add variety.

Beef supplies, particularly of the lower grades, are expected to continue above a year ago. Although fed cattle prices have gone up and down in recent weeks, cow prices continue to trend downward and marketings are high. In October cow slaughter will be at seasonally high level, and the largest in several years.

So, what about the price of beef? On the average, prices are expected to be about as they were in September, with the variation that prices of steaks may decline a bit, and those of longer cooking cuts may increase slightly. This may not seem true to you, since there will be lower prices on such cuts as chuck, from the heavy marketings of cow beef. For the same reason you may find lower prices on ground beef and hamburger.

Actually, there's nothing wrong with the meat from these lower grades of animals. It's good and wholesome and, since you often add flavor by cooking vegetables with pot roasts or all sorts of seasoning to hamburgers, these cuts are just what they appear to be—economy. Just be alert for the Grade mark on the meat as you shop.

Pork marketings are on the seasonal upturn but are expected to run below last year's level. Retail pork prices will decline seasonally too, but perhaps will not go as low as last fall.

October sees the end of our home-grown tender vegetables and melons. However, some folks will argue that "the best is yet to be" — all the winter squash — and the pumpkins — without neglecting turnips, yams and mealy white potatoes.

Whether you are a summer or winter vegetable fan doesn't matter. Sources of tender vegetables change, but fresh vegetable counters look like summer all year long these days. However, the ones in plentiful supply from nearby farms usually carry the low price tags.

In the fruit department it's apple all over the place! Harvest of the fall varieties in Ohio is about complete and harvest of winter varieties is under way. In best eating condition now are: Cortland, McIntosh, Jonathan, Grimes, Golden and Red Delicious. Stayman and Red Rome varieties will eat better later in the season.

LINGERING FINGERS
Remember that phrase, "Wind him around your finger?" Many happily-married's will say it all started when he wound a curl around his fondling forefinger. That's why we're all excited about the latest Paris beauty-scoop. Top stylists say the news of the day is curl . . . the coiffure-touch that'll make you feel "all-girl." Curls have come back, and let us give you a cue. Even if He says he loves to see your hair "natural," he'll curl up over your new Curly Look.

GIRLS AND CURLS
Can't fight history! For centuries, men have flipped over curly locks. (King Arthur's men carried cut-off curls into battle.) Fashion's tired of "relaxed" tresses . . . the kind that make one try to guess, if the girl really cares how she looks. Come let us show you how it feels to be really feminine . . . with fashionable new ringlets and flips to your hair. You'll find these new coifs twice as flattering, to wear.

SUPPORTING ROLE
Basis of the great new "all-girl" way to look . . . a professional permanent wave, to save you from nightly pin-ups! Gee whiz, will this mean frizz? — Not any more! You'll adore the satiny curls you get with our newest personalized permanents. (Like your favorite girdle, they give you the secret lift that counts!) Even if you've had your hair bleached to a fare-thee-well, we've a special Conditioning Wave just for you. Do yourself a happy favor: phone BE. 1-4100 for your Hairdo-Over. Find out just how pretty you really are! You'll be thrilled.

FROM UNDER THE DRYER
What he bellows about hair color isn't necessarily true! Let us make you a blonde—and you'll see; he may even act like a "new He."

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

Years ago American tourists commented most loudly about the European plumbing because it wasn't the same as it was back home. Thousands of Americans who went abroad this summer probably had the opportunity to compare television as well.

In European cities you are no longer very far from either. What we once considered to be their sophisticated disdain for such conveniences has now been revealed as merely a lack of money. Europeans are just as eager for the conveniences. They just didn't have the means to get them.

Money Plentiful

Now they have the money. They're buying the television set first and the bathroom second, and their pride and delight in their operation are a joy to behold. For Americans it's not always so delightful. The problem lies in the mystery of how such objects could look so familiar and work so differently.

One thing is certain: television is everywhere abroad and it's growing fast. Quite often the programs bear the stamp "Made in the U.S.A." Along with the American Embassies, they're our little plots of American soil abroad.

One cannot find sanctuary on the premises — and judging from the programs one would not always seek it — but more often than not the U.S. product is superior and it is mighty good to come home to it.

Not Confused

"Don't deceive yourself about Europeans being confused, confounded or bewildered by the doings at the telecasts of our two conventions," confides a friend who has returned from a summer in Europe. "They couldn't care less. They are busily watching other things for different reasons.

"For example, the British are watching Dick Van Dyke —not for the plot but mostly to listen to the pronunciation of the language which they still consider to be theirs. Then they file out—in an orderly English manner, of course—to the nearest dictionary and have a big discussion over where the accent is placed on the words.

Then they all write letters to the London Times about how their children are learning nasty language habits from the Ameddicans.

"In France they're avidly watching Steve McQueen who, incidentally, speaks French fluently — also Dutch, German, Swedish and Italian."

"Je ne comprends pas," says McQueen to a bunch of Mexican bandits as they tie him up and leave him in the California desert to die. The Mexicans also speak beautiful French.

"This is all hysterically funny to the French, who think the Westerns are very infantile and at the same time stylish, which is a combination they cannot resist."

Local Girl Writes

A local girl who was studying this past summer in Copenhagen sends a clipping plus a letter: "I enjoy the television columns because of the way they translate the American titles into Danish. 'Brodrenes Cartwright en Wild West Film,' I assume is Bonanza!

"You will note that the entire week's programs for Denmark, Sweden, East and West Germany, are listed on less than half a page. The cultural offerings are outstanding and you can see from the composers and selections how unusually wide is the range."

Tonight in Denmark at 8:50 the following show is logged: "Lokomotivdoktoren" en TV TV film med Bea Benederet og Edgar Buchanan — which must be "Petticoat Junction."

At 10 p.m. on Sweden's Kanal 2 is the Amerikansk filserie med Lucille Ball, followed by "'Onkel Tom's Sonner'—det forst program i en series om Amerikas Negre." Sandwiched between an Anouilh play and a production of "Cosi fan Tutte" is the Amerikansk kriminal film, "Naked City."

Hasta la televista!

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

Years ago American tourists commented most loudly about the European plumbing because it wasn't the same as it was back home. Thousands of Americans who went abroad this summer probably had the opportunity to compare television as well.

In European cities you are no longer very far from either. What we once considered to be their sophisticated disdain for such conveniences has now been revealed as merely a lack of money. Europeans are just as eager for the conveniences. They just didn't have the means to get them.

Money Plentiful

Now they have the money. They're buying the television set first and the bathroom second, and their pride and delight in their operation are a joy to behold. For Americans it's not always so delightful. The problem lies in the mystery of how such objects could look so familiar and work so differently.

One thing is certain: television is everywhere abroad and it's growing fast. Quite often the programs bear the stamp "Made in the U.S.A." Along with the American Embassies, they're our little plots of American soil abroad.

One cannot find sanctuary on the premises — and judging from the programs one would not always seek it — but more often than not the U.S. product is superior and it is mighty good to come home to it.

Not Confused

"Don't deceive yourself about Europeans being confused, confounded or bewildered by the doings at the telecasts of our two conventions," confides a friend who has returned from a summer in Europe. "They couldn't care less. They are busily watching other things for different reasons.

"For example, the British are watching Dick Van Dyke —not for the plot but mostly to listen to the pronunciation of the language which they still consider to be theirs. Then they file out—in an orderly English manner, of course— to the nearest dictionary and have a big discussion over where the accent is placed on the words.

Then they all write letters to the London Times about how their children are learning nasty language habits from the Ameddicans.

"In France they're avidly watching Steve McQueen who, incidentally, speaks French fluently — also Dutch, German, Swedish and Italian."

"Je ne comprends pas," says McQueen to a bunch of Mexican bandits as they tie him up and leave him in the California desert to die. The Mexicans also speak beautiful French.

"This is all hysterically funny to the French, who think the Westerns are very infantile and at the same time stylish, which is a combination they cannot resist."

Local Girl Writes

A local girl who was studying this past summer in Copenhagen sends a clipping plus a letter: "I enjoy the television columns because of the way they translate the American titles into Danish. 'Brodrenes Cartwright en Wild West Film,' I assume is Bonanza!

"You will note that the entire week's programs for Denmark, Sweden, East and West Germany, are listed on less than half a page. The cultural offerings are outstanding and you can see from the composers and selections how unusually wide is the range."

Tonight in Denmark at 8:50 the following show is logged: "Lokomotivdoktoren" en TV TV film med Bea Benederet og Edgar Buchanan — which must be "Petticoat Junction."

At 10 p.m. on Sweden's Kanal 2 is the Amerikansk filserie med Lucille Ball, followed by "'Onkel Tom's Sonner'—det forst program i en series om Amerikas Negre." Sandwiched between an Anouilh play and a production of "Cosi fan Tutte" is the Amerikansk kriminal film, "Naked City."

Hasta la televista!

Our Company takes pride in Advertising—in Selling The Best in Leisure Living

The old saying: "Rome wasn't built in a day," is necessarily true. We know. It took our construction crews 10 weeks to complete the 850 foot dam with concrete and steel spillway. But then, they were hard put to stay ahead of our sales team in building roads around the lake, constructing picnic areas and boat docks, as well as the exacting job of surveying our minimum 15,000 square foot lake lots.

Over 400 Columbus area folks know this—and appreciate the future for this truly first class lake development.

(They have already purchased cottage sites)

This is the reason why the East side of Lake Choctaw is nearly sold out.

Back - To - College Is Quite A 'Production'

"Suzie's going to be a nurse!" exclaims a proud mother.

"My boy Jim is a born engineer," say a cigar-puffing father.

Every parent seeing a son or daughter off to college has a very special feeling. For parents know that today's students are tomorrow's leaders. Of course they're proud!

And the Spectator is proud to call these students the "start the campus scene."

A cast of 176 area youth planning a college curriculum have parts in our production. Students are listed according to the high school they attended and in most cases they have included their class and major.

THE SPOTLIGHT IS ON YOU! All of you in the Spectator area who returned Back-To-College coupons are featured in our special production. Of course we must have a star and she is Jane Morgan. Jane, unlike her namesake, has chosen to study Junior Accounting and will prepare for her career at Bliss College. A graduate of Marion-Franklin, she resides at 91 Landers-av. A second Jane Morgan of 114 N. Powell-av was unable to make the "scene" because of a prior commitment at Kent State University. And Lana Turner of Canal Winchester was unable to join us at the set for the "shooting." We understand that Capital U. "signed" her for a course in nursing.

We Need A Suburban Homemaker; Know Someone Extra 'Special'?

"I'd like to nominate someone for your Suburban Homemaker contest but I just can't write a letter."

Is this your problem? Many times you might be able to speak well of someone you know but when it comes to putting your thoughts into words — you draw a blank.

It's really very simple to write about someone. Just "tell us" about your nominee. The words will come easy.

Here are a few excerpts from some of the letters already received by nominators in the Suburban Homemaker contest:

Betty Ehman, 321 S. Southampton-av, writes of her nominee, Mrs. Roy E. Vonlns, 51 S. Brinker-av: "Nothing is too difficult for her to tackle where children are concerned . . . she is strong whenever a crisis arises and many have felt and been helped by her quiet strength . . . everything she says and does echoes her devotion to God and her church . . . she recognizes each (of her children) for his own personality and tries to nurture each toward his own best trait."

Mrs. Faye Tipton, 1111 Geneva-av, nominating Mrs. Clarence Rogers, 3380 Orders-rd, Grove City, writes: "She is never too busy for anything that anyone would ask of her . . . an inspiration to all who know her."

Of Mrs. Robert G. Arnold, 72 W. Main-st, Hilliard, Mrs. Milton C. Mann writes: "She makes life as a mother of six appear to be effortless fun . . . she has helped on voting days by transporting people in her precinct to the voting place . . . looks nice whether she is on her way to a meeting, raking leaves or just sitting watching the children play."

Nominating his wife, James E. Clark, 459 Larcomb, wrote: "A Sunday School teacher, she's trampled through thick and thin to get to church some Sundays . . . has a Boy Scout troop she's held together . . . been to the mayor's office a couple of times to get flashing lights in our school zone . . . good at preparing meals as my 214 pounds will show."

Speaking of their nominee, Mrs. H. D. Ryan, 316 S. Chase-av, Ruth Thatcher and Lucille Powell write: "She is truly a good Samaritan . . . constantly using her car for the transportation of the elderly, crippled and blind."

There are a few typical comments of readers who have nominated a friend, neighbor or wife for Suburban Homemaker.

None of the letters is particularly a literary masterpiece. But they all have one dominant quality. They are sincere. Sincere because each is "telling" us about someone who is special.

Today, inside this paper you will find an official entry blank and judging standards which will help you write your nominating letter of 500 words or less.

After all local Suburban Homemaker entries are received here at The Spectator (deadline is Saturday, Oct. 24) a panel of judges will decide who is most deserving of the Homemaker title.

The winner(s) will then join Suburban Homemakers from all over the country in November for national competition. The Spectator will send local winners, all expenses-paid, to Chicago hopeful that the national title will be brought home to Columbus.

If our local Suburban Homemaker should win the national competition she would receive $5000 and you, as her nominator, would be $500 richer!

Your nomination should be sent to: Suburban Homemaker Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad Street, Columbus 43204.

Please don't delay. Time is running out on the Oct. 24 deadline. Don't you be sorry that you didn't write that letter of nomination.

Special people are meant to be shared. Won't you let us tell others about someone special you know?

FARM FORECAST

with CLAY EAGER

This is the big week for the Farm Science Review of 1964, running through Oct. 2, which promises to be a great colorful array of fine exhibits and demonstrations. This three-day event is one of the finer developments in Ohio agriculture and science to become an annual affair.

The ladies will especially be pleased with the gaily-colored Christmas Tree exhibit designed to show methods which growers use to produce premium quality trees. These are located along Case road near the entrance to Don Scott Field.

No matter which day you attend the Farm Science Review, you'll see plenty of action in the farm equipment demonstrations. The operating schedule has been so arranged that the program for each of the three days will be similar, according to Dale Friday, manager.

Applications for reforestation stock for planting during the fall of 1964 and the spring of 1965 are being accepted by the Ohio Division of Forestry. Price lists and tree applications are available from all division offices, county agents and soil conservation offices. Prices vary from $8 to $12 per thousand, depending upon species and age.

The reapportionment bill for state legislatures now before congress in Washington, strictly on a population basis, is a very important farm issue.

It could directly affect taxation of all kinds—conservation, water rights, allocation of funds for roads and schools, land condemnation and zoning—and could have other indirect effects.

The apple crop for 1964 is expected to be the largest since 1937. Increased supplies point to generally lower prices than last year. Prices received by growers in July, national average basis, averaged six percent lower than in July of 1963.

One of our many metropolitan readers writes to ask for a printed tip on some finery for early spring blooming to beautify his acreage.

For a beautiful display of color early in the spring, try an early-fall planting of tulips and daffodils. This will give the bulbs an opportunity to root and become well established before the ground freezes and winter sets in.

On Oct. 6, a feeder calf sale will be held at the Gallipolis Valley Livestock Sales, Gallipolis. For added information, contact Paul H. Baer, Minersville, Ohio.

EVEN THOUGH our central Ohio area has suffered severe drought, the Lake Choctaw lake development, midway between Columbus and Springfield, has been booming. Manager Tom Boone stated it has been an especially good selling season, with an immediate response of over $250,000 in sales during the first month of operation. Lake Choctaw is a 920-acre family resort with 1,079 cottage sites around a 275-acre lake. Construction started June 13, 1964, and at this time more than 450 lots have been sold. The unique project offers purchasers a permanent self-contained community which will not subdivide its land in the future. As a result, land values are expected to increase.

Lake Choctaw Project 'Success' Despite Recent Lack Of Rainfall

The drought which plagued the Central Ohio area caused problems for everyone except the sales crew at Choctaw Lake on Rt. 40, 23 miles west of Columbus.

While the lake hasn't filled to expectations, due to the lack of rainfall, area residents have been flocking to the site. Tom Boone, sales manager, reports that of the 1,079 cottage sites located on 920 acres of land, and surrounding a 275-acre lake, over 450 families have purchased property.

Boone expressed understandable pleasure at the situation, when he stated that, "considering all, we have sold almost half the properties in the short period of 14 weeks. The confidence of these Central Ohio residents is frankly, overwhelming! They must know a good thing when they see it."

Actually, there is an ample water supply in north section of the lake. The present exception is a lack of water in the Deer Creek region, which will fill to the banks after next winter's run-off period.

Ed Belote, advertising and public relations director of American Realty Service Corporation and developer of the project, said, "It's nothing new to us to promote and sell lake property without the aid of a lake filled with water. Lake Choctaw was begun on June 13 of this year, and during the first month $250,000 were recorded in sales.

Continuing, Belote expanded on the potential of the "silver strip" between Columbus and Springfield, and his company's selling procedure.

He stated, "we've built and developed 39 other lakes just like Choctaw and each one is a success. As in this lake, we begin selling sites as soon as construction begins. Otherwise, American Realty would tie up hundreds of thousands of dollars without a return during the first year of operation. This would be impractical."

In Ohio, the company has developed two other lakes. They are Lake Mohawk at Canton, and Shawnee Hills at Xenia.

American Realty operates out of Springfield, Mass., and Memphis, Tenn., and was founded in 1946.

Their lakes, including Choctaw, offer a wide range of activities including water skiing, swimming, and fishing. At Choctaw a 750-foot beach filled with sparkling sand offers ample relaxation. There is also a fully equipped children's playground, and 10 picnic areas.

There will be 10 boat docks and two launching ramps, a marina, a restaurant and outdoor dance floor and stage. The lake will be fully stocked with mature fish, ready to spawn. Bass fishing will thrive.

The dam at Lake Choctaw is 1,000 feet long and 32 feet high. Water depth at the dam will be approximately 20 feet with an average depth down the lake of 12 feet. The lake is two miles long, 1,200 feet wide and has five and one-half miles of shoreline.

Featured on Lake Choctaw is a central water supply with two deep wells. These were drilled by Layne of Ohio. Both provide over 150 gallons per minute. One well will be used as a standby to be certain that an ample supply of water will always be available.

A system of two spillways will maintain the lake at a constant level. The primary spillway is of steel-reinforced concrete, while the secondary or emergency spillway is 200 feet wide.

Manager Tom Boone expects Lake Choctaw to sell two-thirds of its lots this year with the remainder to be sold during the early spring months of 1965. Since Lake Choctaw is a private and restricted family resort, only property owners and their guests will be allowed to use the facilities. Lot prices begin at $2,195 for off-shore lots and $5,995 for waterfront property.

First Things First, Please

Columbus city council's 11th hour decision to cancel the proposed Valleyview-dr road-widening project is a fresh example of wasteful "putting the cart before the horse." It is a practice that can be corrected if local government will adopt a "first things first" attitude.

The Valleyview-dr project was to have extended between Hague-av and a point just west of Brinker-av. The half-mile, $300,000 road job was to have included the closing of an open ditch and installation of a sidewalk on the south side of the road. But council backed down on the whole project when a delegation of residents and an attorney representing an affected church appeared to voice protest. The bone of contention was assessment against owners of abutting property.

It is true, as the protesters said, that the four-lane highway tapering down to two lanes was not desirable. Ideally, the project should have called for widening Wilson-rd. But current policy of Franklin County officials ruled out such arrangement at this time. The roadway is in the city, but serves as a divider between the city and county between Brinker-av and Wilson-rd.

In this case it would appear that half a loaf would have been better than none. One half the road would have been built, a bad drainage problem would have been solved and sidewalks would have been available for protection of youngsters.

It seems apparent that council could save money, time, and unnecessary wrangling if it would adopt a policy of assessing the attitude of affected property owners before attempting to assess their wallets. And when a given project is vital to the effective, orderly growth of a much wider area than that directly affected, council should have the courage to say so to those who are inconvenienced.

The city has more than $10,000 invested in the Valleyview-dr proposal, including $9,400 in construction plans. Fortunately, we are told, the construction plans will still be "as good X number of years from now as they are today." The city was not so fortunate in its handling of planning for the proposed extension of Wilson-rd between Broad-st and Sullivant-av.

With concurrences from council, city officials in the previous administration insisted on expending city funds for engineering plans and other items, while at the same time trying to obtain federal aid. About $60,000 was spent, despite knowledge that any local expeditures prior to approval of Federal aid would not be subject to reimbursement. The city now has the necessary federal approval of the project, but will not get its 50 percent federal share for the funds already spent.

Wilson-rd and Valleyview-dr are but two examples of putting the cart before the horse. And the problem of proper planning of such projects is not confined to Columbus.

The proposed Valleyview-dr project should not now be relegated to the files to gather dust. It should be reconsidered with the same energy that was put into the defeat of the project. Effort should be put forth to have the county and city make the highway four lanes between Hague-av and Wilson-rd.

It is hoped civic pride will be stirred up to the extent that the wheels of the city government can be kept rolling rather than bringing them to a halt.

Blue Plan Has Had A Good First Year

The Blue Plan for the Central Ohio Community celebrated its first birthday last week. And, although still in its infancy, the Blue Plan "baby" has progressed from a cautious crawl to a confident walk.

The comprehensive regional plan evisioned through Blue Plan activities is taking shape in a steady, orderly manner. Complete aerial photo coverage of the entire planning area has been accomplished; mapping, on several scales, has been completed, and a land use classification system has been completed and published.

One of the finest achievements, perhaps, is the cooperative effort getwen Blue Plan personnel and the Ohio Department of Highways in the recent "Origin and Destination" study in Franklin County. It was hoped that the traffic and transportation survey would garner an 85 percent return of the 60,000 trip sheets distributed. With the project more than 99 percent complete, participation has been an astounding 95.88 percent.

Blue Plan still has a long way to go to maturity. But records on the first year indicate that the Blue Plan "baby" is getting a good "fetching up" by its mother — necessity; and its father — the Central Ohio Community leadership.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

The pattern is now pretty well jelled in both major parties, insofar as the national tickets are concerned. It is a knockout and drag race between the two top personalities.

It is now time for the Ohio Republican operation to pay especial attention to the local and statewide picture. Franklin County appears to be well represented in the lower house of our State Legislature, but that is no excuse for any real Republican to neglect the local party health. The State Legislature is still much closer to the people than any national program.

It seems to be increasingly important for every effort to be made in behalf of Robert Taft, Jr., for the Senate seat which his late and illustrious father filled so capably for so many years. The statewide campaign for congressman-at-large is likewise not to be neglected. In other words the Republicans have no "joy ride" in any contest this year, no matter how far down the political scale.

Those of us who have supported Jimmy Rhodes for many years and who believe he is doing a top grade job as governor, had better look forward to what can happen in the next two years, regardless of the national outcome. Any governor needs control of his own legislature, the same as any president fares better if he also controls his current congress.

Faith Releases The Power Of Christ

There are some things about which we can be absolutely certain.

We can know our sins have been forgiven. We can know we are the children of God. We can know we are prepared to meet God.

Rev. Brown

This knowledge brings to our lives the only true peace and the only real security possible in this weary troubled world today. God never intended for His people to look at Heaven through the crook of a question mark but rather over the fixed sight of an exclamation point.

The Bible speaks of the sinner as dead in trespasses and sins. It speaks of the Christian as alive unto Christ. Surely a dead man resurrected will be aware of a change. The Bible also speaks of the sinner as blind. A blind man receiving his sight will be hard to convince he is still blind. The man who was born blind was questioned by the Pharisees after Jesus had opened his eyes. His answer was like this: "Whether this man was a sinner of not I don't know, but this I do know, I was blind and now I see."

Take that man or woman whose shoulders are stooped with the cares and burdens of life, the guilt of a life of sin weighing heavily upon mind and soul. Watch as Jesus steps into that life and lifts the heavy load from those shoulders. In a moment of time a great transaformation is wrought. What you see now is a life without a past as far as God is concerned.

The countenance changes, that look of anxiety, worry and guilt gives way to one of assurance and confidence and peace. Why? A sinner asked and trusted Jesus Christ to take over a life too long lived for sin and self. Faith released the power of Jesus Christ and this sinner became aware of transformation from death to life, from blindness to sight, awareness of being born again, of being a new creature in Christ Jesus. Aware that old things had passed away and behold all things became new. Aware that the burden of guilt and sin was gone. Aware that the Spirit of God now bore witness to his spirit that he had become a child of God.

I have heard many Christians tell how everything seemed so different when Jesus came into their life. Words like these I have heard often. "The sun seemed to shine so beautifully, the little birds never sang so sweetly, the grass, the trees were never so fresh and green—I just began to live when Jesus came into my life."

Yes, THIS WE CAN KNOW.

Air Reynoldsburg Charter Pros, Cons

To the Editor:

Last November when Reynoldsburg voted on whether or not a charter should be framed, there were bitter attacks on the idea of any change in the current form of city government. These attacks were by anonymous "citizens" whose identity and purpose could not be determined. At that time I stated that only those who had a special or private interest at stake would fear a serious study of the city's organization and procedures by a group of fellow citizens and neighbors elected at-large on a non-partisan ballot.

Opposition to the proposed City Charter of Reynoldsburg has now coagulated in the form of a Charter Information Committee (CIC) whose sole purpose is to prevent the adoption of a home rule charter for the City of Reynoldsburg. The chairman of this front organization is the former editor of a small weekly newspaper distributed in Reynoldsburg which stands to lose the guarantee of a lucrative monopoly on the city's legal advertising. The charter would make it possible for the city to utilize newspapers having the most effective distribution in the community.

The secretary-treasurer of the CIC is a partisan appointee.

The legal advisor to the Charter Information Committee is an aspirant to an important public office which under the charter would be filled on the basis of professional competence instead of personal popularity.

I predict that the charter will be adopted because it will make good sense to most of the voters; however, there are bound to be some to whom personal interests are more important than the desire of the ordinary citizen to get the most value return on his tax dollar.

To The Editor

After reading the proposed charter for Reynoldsburg, that was signed and approved by all but one commission member before it was even proofread or finalized, I can understand now why it is subject to not only ridicule, but also to considerable controversy.

I imagine Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, James Madison and other authors who labored long hours drafting the Constitution are spinning in their graves, if some ill wind has blown our proposed charter content their way. The framers of the Constitution were profoundly influenced by the French philosopher Baron Montesqueu, who held that political freedom could only be secured by a system of checks and balances between the executive, legislative and judicial departments. Our Charter Commission was influenced too, but by what, is difficult to determine. To think, our local Charter Commission in an attempt to improve on the Ohio Revised Code and the Constitution has abolished the executive branch of our government in less than a year, without qualms or reason, and without bothering to proofread the charter before affixing their signatures.

The proposed charter and the proposed form of government offered by the Charter Commission can only be compared to that of the one time All Russian Congress of Soviets, who appoint a chairman to lead the sheep, rather than a city manager.

Three charter members have already left our midst. Mr. R. J. Baldwin is now employed in the City of Cincinnati, commuting weekends. Mr. Baldwin the most verbal in the group most certainly realized his errors, or he would not now be in all probability moving out of town. Mr. Baldwin also stated he was qualified to be a city manager, but according to the impression left from a news article, nobody else was. Of course now, the people could not decide by vote how qualified Mr. Baldwin would be to hold this $12,000-a-year job of city manager, because they would not have anything to say about it. If Mr. Baldwin could run for mayor, perhaps the people could decide for themselves, but then, our present mayor only makes $2400 per year, so, city manager would be more appealing salary wise, to some.

I consider the charter . . . was drawn up by amateurs who could not possibly understand the science of politics or good government. But the thought of $2000.00 being spent on it leaves me cold, especially when I think the only section that could have saved the taxpayers money was deleted, or is non-existent. I refer to the legal advertising, whereby we could have saved three to four thousand dollars a year. Before, the Ohio Revised Code established legal qualifications for a newspaper to become the legal newspaper, and usually in cases where there are two newspapers, it is divided. The charter would give Council the sole power to appoint a legal newspaper. In other words, if a newspaper steps out of line and irritates the council, I imagine they wouldn't carry the name "legal newspaper for Reynoldsburg" very long.

"Disgusted Taxpayer"

Sweepstakes Not Needed

To the Editor:

I am sure all of us are proud of the progress our city has made in the last few years. Truly, Whitehall is a good place to live, work, play and worship. We have a beautiful city building, fine police, a fine fire department, good school system and many other services that add to the opportunity of living in the great East End.

However, from time to time our city fathers bring reproach upon our fair city by releasing to the press thoughtless, irresponsible statements. I was disgusted to read in the Sunday paper several weeks ago that Councilman Gilbert O'Shaughnessy wants to start "a sweepstake . . . that may be the answer to the financial woes of the Scioto Conservancy District. Somebody's got to be first to start a lottery and this might be just the right time."

Why, Mr. O'Shaughnessy, does someone have to be first?

Gambling is illegal and immoral whether done by a city, county, church, or in a pool hall.

If we are to teach our children respect for law and order and obedience to the moral laws of God, we must elect to office men of character and dedication to the American Way of Life and not men wishing to "be first" in introducing legalized gambling.

We have a responsibility to examine the issues and the candidates. We must exercise our right to vote and our right of free speech by opposing those who would impose upon us ideas contrary to the principles upon which this country was founded.

An Editor's Outlook . . .

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Flags Are Special

MONTREAL — A national flag is a special kind of rag. It may be plain or complicated, balanced or asymmetrical, beautiful or just gaudy. But if the hearts of men, women and children do not lift when the flag passes, that nation is in trouble.

Jones

Canada is in flag trouble. What started out as a low-keyed, honest argument among intelligent citizens has degenerated into a shirttearing, bonfire-burning, hell-raising political issue that has thrown Parliament into paralysis and has deepened the bitterness between the English-speaking 12,000,000 and the French-speaking 6,500,000.

Yet most Canadians agree that Canada needs a new flag. The present one is a relic of imperial days, a red ensign bearing the Union Jack of Great Britain in the upper corner, and on the field a complicated crest containing the passant lions of England, the rampant lion of Scotland, the harp of Ireland, three French fleur-de-lis, and three dinky little maple leaves.

Surely, thought most Canadians, the time has come to produce a more distinctive Canadian banner. After all, the empire is gone. Practically all the commonwealth countries have come up with new ensigns and Canada, the largest, needs no borrowed glory.

So the doodling got under way and overnight Canada produced hundreds of thousands of would-be flag designers. Then politics began roiling the waters like the Loch Ness monster.

For Prime Minister Lester Pearson has sought to strengthen his Liberal Party's precarious control by appealing to the French Canadians. And a vocal segment of French Canada wants to reverse the defeat of Montcalm and to eliminate, as far as possible, all reminders of British control.

So the French have generally applauded a proposed white flag bearing three red maple leaves and bordered by two vertical blue bands to represent the two oceans.

This flag became the Liberals' flag. But John Diefenbaker, peppery leader of the Conservative opposition, sensed a popular issue. After all, Canadians by two-to-one speak English. The United Empire Loyalists and the Canadian Legion are strong with affection for British traditions. The white flag seemed suspiciously like the white flag of old France, the three maple leaves even a little like the three-petalled fleur-de-lis. So the battle was joined and very quickly got out of hand.

For six weeks this summer Parliament was paralyzed with the flag debate. Rowdies in Montreal burned Union Jacks in Lafontaine Park. An underground French terrorist organization has threatened to kill the Queen during her visit next month. Newspaper letters columns have been filled with furious vows to keep on flying and saluting the red ensign no matter what.

As Diefenbaker chuckled, Pearson found himself with three bad choices. He could go to the country for a referendum and thus deepen the Canadian split. He could choke off the Conservative debate by seeking cloture—and cloture is highly unpopular in Canada. Or he could drop the new flag proposal and watch Quebec boil over.

So that the visit of the Queen will not be marred by the roar of battle, the two major parties reached a temporary truce on Sept. 10 calling for a six-week study by a parliamentary committee. But Diefenbaker is not promising to drop the fight unless the committee's report is practically unanimous, an unlikely possibility.

Some timid Canadians have suggested that both the old and the proposed new flags be made official and that citizens be permitted to fly whichever they preferred. It would be difficult to imagine a better way of starting coast-to-coast barroom brawls. Suggestions have ranged all the way from a waggish proposal for a Union Jack bearing the legend, "A Bas Les Anglais" (Down with the English), to more serious compromises like a red flag, reminiscent of the English tradition, with the bordering blue bars and one big gold maple leaf.

The prize optimist in Canada must be Dr. Marshall McLuhan of Toronto's Centre for Culture and Technology who told a recent Conservative conference that Canada may be stronger without any national flag.

"Are these visual symbols an effective means of depth involvement in the electric age?" asked Doctor McLuhan. "It could well be that an attempt to achieve merely visual unity is not relevant to this new time. It might even be argued that one of Canada's principal assets in this electric age is precisely its not being committed to intense national forms for rallying thought and feeling."

But somehow the vision of Canadians standing with their heads bared and their eyes wet when someone holds up a cathode ray tube doesn't come through very clearly.

Canada will have a flag. And apparently it will go through Purgatory to get it.

QUESTIONS — Upping my WDC hired hands' wages $150 a week, for more and longer coffee break and stuff, I asked them a couple of questions?

Arithmetic—In computing my share of this year's $9 billion de-FIC-it, should I use common fractions or decimals?

Geography—Self-determination of nations allowing each country to choose its own form of government, is a keynote of USA's foreign policy (?). Why, then, are we so hot and bothered about a tiny strip of country, with maximum far-away-ness, that we spend billions of dollars and sacrifice hundreds of precious American lives there? Right smackdab up against us is a ruffian who openly opposes everything we stand for, and we are so unconcerned that we don't even ask him how he's fixed for blades?

My servants had their hired girls write me, begging leave to inform me that arithmetic and geography are no longer on the congressional curri-CU-lum. Well, anyhow, I've got 'em beggin'!

PEEACHER — Accumulated years have their compensations. An example is my thrill in Dr. Floyd Faust's 35th anniversary as pastor of Broad Street Christian Church. Among my cherished memories is this like-father-like-son's preacher father, whose sermons were as excellent as his duets with the son's talented mother.

Now and then, here and there, someone asks: "Do you know Dr. Floyd Faust?" My smiled "ugh-huh" satisfies the inquirer, and gives me more time for reflection on how long, how well and how happily I have known him.

Fall Features Include Flaming Foliage, Trips

Under Buckeye Skies

by Ken Mack McCreary

If you took a poll (and who doesn't during election year?) the odds are that a great majority of Spectator-land residents would vote autumn as their favorite season of the year — and with plenty of reason.

The flaming foliage of fall, along with the crisp temperatures and the smell of burning leaves makes this time of year a mighty enjoyable time to get outside and enjoy life under buckeye skies.

RIGHT NOW the colors of autumn are fast aproaching their height of glory — the wide variety of trees are painted brilliant scarlet and pure, shining gold — bright orange and deep purple, brown and golden brown, crimson, bronze and all of the varied shades of the yellow spectrum.

Approaching the forests more closely you can pick out the reds of sassafras, sumac and dogwood; the yellows of the beech, maple; and the tulip poplar, and the pastel shades of the ash family.

This weekend will see thousands of Ohio families taking that autumn venture which has become almost a tradition with my family; heading for the wooded hill country of the state to spend a leisurely afternoon admiring the colorful spectacle of Ohio in October.

AND IF you're a photography fan this will be one of the most brilliant weekends of the fall to record the panorama of color. It's hard to say exactly when the color will reach its peak, due to drought conditions in some areas, but it's expected to be during the next two weeks in much of the state.

A typical drive which will cover some of the best autumn scenery in the state will take you into the Hocking hills of south-central Ohio. From Columbus you can take Route 23 to Circleville, then head east via Route 56. Or, you can take Route 33 southeast through Lancaster, or head east and south on Route 256 from Reynoldsburg.

In addition to the exciting beauty of the season, you'll find the family will also greatly enjoy side trips to such attractions as Old Man's Cave, Ash Cave, the Rock House and Cantwell Cliff. You'll find the directions well marked in the Hocking hills area.

MANY OHIOANS enjoy the season with a squirrel hunting trip. To hunter of the bushytail we'd like to again stress caution and safety. A tragedy which emphatically points up the dangers involved occured right here in our area last week. Last Friday a 25-year old suburban Minerva Park man died in a Columbus hospital of a shotgun wound sustained six days earlier.

While squirrel hunting in Licking County, the victim was hit with a shotgun charge fired by a companion. Although several pellets struck him, this man died, according to coroner Dr. Bob Evans, from a single pellet which entered his face between his eye and his nose — and penetrated the brain.

Speaking of hunting, two brand new seasons begin today (Oct. 1). Now legal game are two of the most elusive and least hunted flying targets — woodcock and Wilson's snipe. The woodcock, alias the timberdoodle, is usually found in wet, lowland thickets where he probes the wet earth for earthworms.

THE WILSON'S or jack snipe is a dweller of the marshes and around the edges of ponds. The season for both runs from sunrise to sunset ending on Nov. 19.

The woodcock bag limit is five per day with a possession limit of 10; the limit on snipe is eight per day with limit of 16. You'll find that these two small birds will provide some rugged and potentially exciting hunting.

Center Title To Wolman's

Displaying a balanced attack and tight defense, Wolman's Insurance defeated Hackman Realty, 12-9, to win the Jewish Center AK softball championship. It was a well earned victory as pitchers Ben Weis and Sandy Goldston held Hackman to eight hits.

Mort Rising led the Wolman 14-hit attack with three hits while Laddie Finke cracked a bases-loaded triple for three RBI's.

Captain Howard Byer led the Hackman team with three singles as Hackman picked up two runs in the bottom of the first on singles by Byer and Harold Fenner and both scored in subsequent plays.

WOLMAN, held scoreless for the first two innings, blasted back with seven runs in the top of the third as consecutive singles by Marv Grossman, Mort Rising and Hal Paris were followed up after two were out with hits by Aaron Dachner, Irv Barkan, Irv Goodman and Laddie Finke's big triple.

Hackman came back with two runs in the bottom of the third on singles by Fenner and Herb Urell while Wolman's scored two more in the fourth on hits by Rising and Irv Flox.

A single run by Hackman put the score at 9 to 5 at the end of the sixth inning.

Wolman iced the game in the seventh on singles by Aaron Dachner, Irv Barkan and Irv Goodman for three more runs.

AK chairman Dave Madison presented trophies to both teams after the game.

The Wolman team consisted of Marv Grossman, Mort Rising, Hal Paris, Irv Flox, Aaron Dachner, Irv Barkan, Irv Goodman, Laddie Finke, Sol Zeldin, Gerry Blank, Sandy Goldston and Ben Weis, captain.

Hackman Realty consisted of Jules Vogel, Howard Byer, captain; Harold Fenner, Herb Urell, Howard Barchefsky, Don Erkis, Nate Fechheimer, Lenny Siegel, Milt Glas, Marty Greenberg, Gilbert Salle and Marty Adler.

Year Of Big Change Looms For Darby Valley

AS NEW DARBY CREEK DAM BECOMES A REALITY, THE ENTIRE VILLAGE OF GEORGESVILLE, POPULATION 200, WI LL BE RELOCATED WITHIN THREE YEARS.

By GEORGE COBB

One of the largest real estate transformations in Central Ohio is about to unfold as part of an overall water control and recreation project that will cost over $100,000,000.

Big Darby Creek Reservoir and Dam in southwest Franklin County, is one of six proposed Scioto River Basin projects of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. They all will dovetail with the present Delaware reservoir in providing 25 counties with flood control, water supply, recreation, water quality control and fish and wildlife.

In the construction process an entire community will be relocated, 50 acres of a millionaire's estate will be affected, train and road bridges will be moved or modified, highways will be changed, a metropolitan park enhanced, and private homes will be removed.

From Route 665 at Darbydale on the south to a point 16 and a half miles to the north, the Big Darby Reservoir will comprise a mammoth project that will serve 448 square miles.

The anticipated cost of Darby Creek project alone will be $29,000,000 When compared to an annual flood damage estimate of $3,660,000, plus millions more during serious flood periods in the Scioto Basin, the investment obviously is wise, the Army points out. So obvious that over the years, area residents asked U.S. Congress for help. The Congress responded by sending the U.S. Army Engineers to perform feasibility studies. Foundation exploration is being conducted at the site now.

When completed there will be other benefits which will make the initial investment more than attractive, according to the Engineers. There will be a total of 6,170 acres acquired of which 740 acres will be mapped out for recreation.

The minimum pool (behind the dam), will contain 7,339 acre feet of water and flood control pool, (or secondary pool), will hold 121,620 acre feet. One acre foot is equal to 326,000 gallons of water.

According to Colonel Harrington W. Cochran, Huntington District Engineer of the Corps office, the recreation pool behind the dam will extend 4.2 miles to the north. Under extreme flood control conditions it would extend to 16.5 miles, as far north as Route 29 in Norwich Township. It would also extend up the Little Darby, partially surrounding but not including West Jefferson on the north.

The dam itself will be 100 feet high and the total crest length will be 5,630 feet. Under extreme flooding, the water level will rise 37 feet.

Recreation Potential Great

The project will offer year-round outdoor recreation, with boat launching sites provided, as well as change houses, sanitary facilities, tent camping areas, picnicking facilities, access roads, parking areas, fishing and wildlife areas. The accommodations will be large enough for an annual count of 400,000 visitors.

Up to this point, we have presented some of the more optimistic highlights of this important project. However, as with everything, there are two sides of the coin.

The minimum pool will extend from the west side of Darbydale to a point 4.2 miles to the north, just above Georgesville. This community will, according to latest word, be relocated. Fifty-five families will be moved, as well as their school and other important buildings. According to the Army, it is government practice to pay all moving and construction expenses. If there are additions to any relocated building, such as the school, the community must pay for them.

Military officials realize that there are sentimental values attached in situations of this nature and attempt to make individual adjustments when at all possible. In some cases this cannot be done, such as Georgesville. The Engineers at this point, state that they are carrying out the orders of the Congress, which in turn, is the reflection of opinion of the majority of the people who live in the region. Thus the price of progress.

A good example of this is Darby Dan Farm, located for the most part, south of U.S. Highway 40, between Alton and West Jefferson, west of Columbus. It is the home of John W. Galbreath, internationally known and respected real estate magnate, sportsman, financier and farmer.

This is literally a financial empire, surrounded by 55 miles of white fence, comprising 4,000 acres of rich soil farmland. Primarily, its function is the training of thoroughbred race horses, many of which have won national and international honors. The farm also houses cattle, an airport, resident farms, and training tracks for the horses.

It also has 500 acres of scenic rolling, wooded land, where the Big Darby creek threads its way to Georgesville, and the junction of the Little Darby.

Within roughly a square mile, in the center of the 500-acre site, sheltered by tall trees and a large ravine, lies the heart of the farm. On an eastern slope, and almost hidden from the casual viewer is John Galbreath's home. several hundred yards to the southwest in the base of a magnificently landscaped valley lies Darby House, a rectangular structure, handsomely rugged, in which the Galbreath family entertains friends and local groups as well as visitors of national and international renown.

When the dam is built, the government can either buy or lease the affected land. If the government decides to buy this property, it could throttle the very heart of the farm. If the Army decides to lease the land from the family, the main house, Darby House and a swimming pool, all valued at approximately $500,000 would still have to be torn down. The homes would have to be relocated.

The story here, however, is not of the dollar value as much as it is the time and affection that has been placed in the property. This is as true for Galbreath as it is for everyone who will be affected along the 16 miles of Darby creek bottom land.

Within 30 years, practically all the 4000 acres of Darby Dan Farm has been tiled for drainage purposes. Much of the property, in 1935, was either swampland or very dry land. To make a more uniform situation, he developed a reclamation program on his original 110-acre purchase. This involved digging up the earth and placing drainage tile from two to 11 and a half feet beneath the surface. He then had placed on top of the tile, soil rich in minerals and other properties, needed in the rearing of his horses. To this day, the work of 30 years ago continues.

For others along the creek bed, the story is much the same. The Hilltop Sportsman club has invested over 20 years of effort in restoring an old army range, located approximately two miles south of Georgesville. Today, members have developed this into a rod and gun club which offers outdoor pleasure to 71 members.

Town Remembers Floods

Several families not living on the surrounding high ground recall the fateful flood of 1959, in which their properties were completely inundated. They felt so strongly about their land that they spent years in reclaiming. To this day they still discover seepage from behind walls and they attest to the hazards of living on the lowlands.

In interviews with these people, they admit their reluctance to leave but most are understanding of the overall need for a dam, and concede to its merits.

New York Central railroad officials are in discussions now regarding their tracks that cross Darby at Georgesville. They're debating whether to elevate the present track bridge, or move it to the north on higher ground. The latter idea is gaining favor. According to the Army Engineers at Huntington, the government will pay the bill, as in other necessary changes.

Officials of the Pennsylvania railroad, whose tracks cross the Big Darby north of U.S. Route 40, believe their track bed is on high enough land at present and will not be affected.

Will Benefit Park

For others the reservoir will enhance property. Walter A. Tucker, in charge of Columbus Metropolitan Parks, stated that Darby Creek Park is on high ground, and only a small section of bottom lands will be touched. The feeling is that the higher plane of water will add to the park's attractions.

Dr. Raymond Baby of the Ohio Historical Society stated that excavation sites near the proposed dam will be completely researched by next spring, well in advance of proposed construction. These include two ancient mound locations and a village. In July of 1963, the first significant artifacts were uncovered.

The biggest problem currently bothering those affected is the fact that they have not officially heard as to when they will have to leave. As a result, rumors of varying degrees are circulating.

The reason nothing firm has been announced is that the Corps of Engineers is still making geological tests at the dam site and accumulating necessary information. Officials so far have reached no conclusions as to when construction will begin. Sometime in November information will be submitted to the corps headquarters in Washington for final review. Hopefully, by the end of the year, or by January of 1965, the Army will hold public hearings for the purpose of disclosing important information and the discussion of land acquisition.

Test Borings In Progress

Geologists of the Seattle Corps office are now taking samples from the ground which will serve as a base for the dam.

The geologists soon will have made about 90 core-borings in the area approximately 1,000 feet north of the bridge where Route 665 crosses Darby Creek. Some of the samples indicate certain weaknesses in some areas of the site. These will be supported by adding cement beneath the surface, a common practice in dam construction.

All this takes time, When it is determined that the construction schedule should start, the government will begin land acquisition.

Two years ago, the Corps sent information to each property owner involved. As mentioned, more up-to-date information will not be available until the first of the year. In the meantime, persons who have specific inquiries may write to the Corps and get an immediate response. Inquiries should be sent to: U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 2127, Huntington, W. Va., 25702.

Admittedly, the real estate acquisition is a touchy situation, mainly because human feelings are involved. It's a question of personal values versus progress and the majority. The Corps of Engineers stresses, however, that nothing will be done overnight. Everyone involved will be given ample notice of the government's action.

A general and unofficial consensus is that the project will take approximately three years to complete from this point. Only time will tell.

DARBY DAN FARM MANAGER Walter Phillips, with the farm since its inception in 1935, surveys the heartland of the area which will be affected by the proposed Big Darby Creek Dam and Reservoir. Phillips is in charge of the 4,000-acre Galbreath farm and estate and is responsible for the year in — year out operation. Columbus landscape architect Marion Packard designed the area over a 20-year period.

THE HOME OF COLUMBUS ATTORNEY Robert Richards on Route 40 at Darbycrest represents the type of fine homes that will be affected by the proposed Big Darby Creek Dam and Reservoir. Army Engineers say that the pool behind the dam will rise to this location only during flood time.

ARMY ENGINEERS AND GEOLOGISTS are conducting tests in the area of the proposed Big Darby Creek dam, just north of Rt. 665 in southwest Franklin County. They are making 90 core borings along the base line to determine the strength of under-surface rock formations. The Corps of Engineers will study the findings and present the results to a review board in November. Officials plan to make a public announcement on the proposed dam following the review.

GEORGESVILLE SCHOOL will be among buildings moved by the Corps of Engineers as the community is relocated to make way for construction of the Darby Creek Dam. The government will pay all costs in moving and rebuilding, however, enlargement of any building must be paid for by the community. The actual move is not expected in the next year or so. This is a view of a recent addition to the elementary school.

Stories Don't Always Have Happy Endings

Each year, the sports pages are filled with charming, almost fairy-tale type stories about athletic feats which merit special attention because they are unusual, strangely coincidental or just plain delightful.

They are stories which cause each athlete to silently question: "Why couldn't that happen to me?"

JUST AS often, however there are stories which never see print because they do not provide a story-book climax.

Here are several of this kind of stories, our personal favorites for 1964:

TERRA HAUTE, IND. — Twelve-year-old Terry Limbeck had never played golf before. Saturday on the first hole—a 190-yard, par three—at High-Ridge Municipal, Terry hit a long, straight tee shot which he and his father lost in the sun.

After a long, fruitless search for the ball around the green, Mr. Limbeck told Terry to look in the hole. The ball wasn't there. Terry had to take a penalty stroke and finished the day with a 153.

CLEVELAND, O. — Joe Brockman, a 65-year-old concession operator at Municipal Stadium, retired last week without ever seeing a major league baseball game, despite the fact he had worked at the stadium for 48 years.

To honor Joe's faithful service to the organization, the front office presented him with a lifetime season pass to all Indian home games. Ten minutes later, GM Gabe Paul announced that the Indians would transfer their franchise to Seattle next season.

MONTGOMERY, ALA. — The name of Lawson is a sporting byword in this city at Robert E. Lee High School. Thomas Lawson Sr. set every basketball record here as a member of the first graduating class. His son, Thomas Lawson II, broke all his father's records 20 years later.

Young Tommy Lawson III, a 17-year-old senior at Robert Lee, needs only 22 points to eclipse the record a second time. However, young Lawson dropped off the squad yesterday to devote more time to his studies.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. — Coach Arnold Racine didn't have much choice Saturday afternoon. With his Central College team losing 24-22 with 13 seconds to play, only a 33-yard field goal could save the day.

With his regular kicker sidelined with the flu, Racine called on a third-string sophomore who had never kicked a field goal before. With his left leg heavily taped from a scrimmage injury, Ted Felzer said "he'd give it a try."

Felzer missed the ball completely, broke his right leg and Central lost, 24-22. Racine's only comment: "I didn't have much choice."

SILVER CITY, FLA. — Old Jesse Farley's boast that he'd catch a record-breaking marlin to mount over his fireplace has grown to be a standing chuckle around this lazy seaport.

However, Jess landed his marlin after a 15-hour battle Friday, proudly bringing it into port. Unfortunately, Jess had never renewed his deep sea fishing license and officials here fined him $150. Authorities confiscated the marlin.

DEFINITION — Naive, a descriptive adjective applied to anyone who made the remark last week: "Wouldn't wonder if the Indians could sweep these late-season series with the Yankees and knock them out of the pennant race."

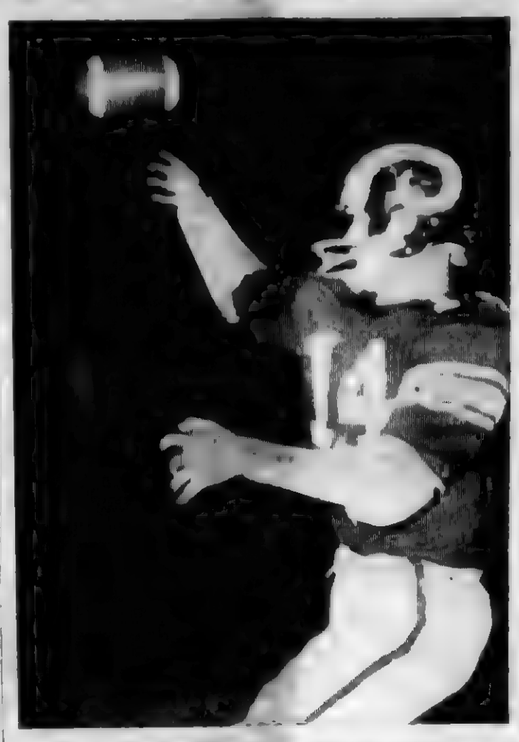
Seeing the Davis Cup Challenge matches in Cleveland last weekend was a dream come true for Drew Bracken, 1430 Zollinger-rd.

Drew is a 14-year-old Arlington tennis player with some junior tennis achievements to his credit and a great deal of ambition in his future.



Last summer Drew received a letter encouraging him in his tennis endeavors from John Newcombe, a member of the Australian Davis Cup team.

In the letter, Newcombe mentioned he would be in Cleveland and hoped to meet Drew. Several meetings were arranged when the young Australian phoned Drew at his hotel in Cleveland last Friday.

In junior tournaments held in Columbus, Worthington and Upper Arlington last summer, Drew placed first in 14-year-old and under single competition and won first place in Worthington's 16-year-old and under singles classifications.

WEBER WOES — Bexley's fine halfback, Rick Weber (with ball), picked up eight big yards on this left end sweep last week against Whitehall before Ram John McQuaid (13) put the skids to the Lion effort. Coming up in the background to lend a hand on the play is Ram guard Don Gale (64). Whitehall won the game in fading minutes of last period, 7-0. (Staff Photos by Larry O'Hara)

WHITEHALL SCORED on this bit of fourth period action last week against Bexley but Ram quarterback Harvey Eader's 15-yard TD toss to Mark Blackstone down the left sideline went for nought as Eader was beyond the line of scrimmage when he passed and Whitehall was penalized on the play.

EAST 'PERFECT' AS . . .

Area Elevens Enter Crucial Sets Friday

Tom Barton's thrilling 95-yard touchdown run down the right sidelines with just 2:50 left in the game provided Whitehall with a hard-earned 7-0 win over neighborhood rival Bexley last week.

With fourth down and five to go on the Whitehall five-yard line, Barton dropped back in his own end zone to punt. When no Bexley player rushed, Barton set sail down the sidelines for the score with a big blocking assist from halfback John McQuaid.

WHITEHALL scored earlier in the period on a 15-yard Harvey Eader to Mark Blackstone pass, but the score was ruled out when officials ruled Eader was over the line of scrimmage when he tossed.

Bexley's defensive charge was led by the Herwalds, Jim Nowacki, Woody Jones and Rick Weber while young Joel Kaufher, Jones, Dave Frasch and Rick Weber led the Lion offense.

Mark Blackstone and John McQuaid directed the Ram offense while Eader turned in a creditable job at quarter.

JIM BLINE'S Rams meet the CBL's best tomorrow night at Mt. Vernon where the undefeated Yellow Jackets (3-0) are ready and waiting with a fabulous backfield headed by quarterback Craig Kundrat and halfback Jim Byrd.

Kundrat completed 15 of 17 passes (186 yards, two TD's) last week against Grandview while also scoring twice on runs. Byrd gained 110 yards and scored twice and is a constant threat to opponents.

If the Rams hope to remain in the CBL title picture, then the Yellow Jackets' nest will have to be "burned" tomorrow night.

Don DeJong's Bexley crew will host Worthington tomorrow night. The Cards dropped a 41-6 nod to Arlington last week, but are much better than their record indicates.

EAST 26, NORTH 0

East's explosive outfit presented coach Aurelius Thomas with his third straight shutout of the '64 season last week as the Tigers tripped the Polar Bears, 26-0, behind the awesome running feats of slender Kent Schoolfield who scored four big TD's on passes of 35, 30, 15 and 10 yards from quarterback Paul Stith.

Schoolfield's three TD's in the second period and Mel Wright's conversion kick staked the Tigers to a big 19-0 lead in the second stanza and the ball game.

THE TIGERS have outscored their opposition 70-0 thus far this season and travel to undefeated Linden tomorrow night for a big game with the Panthers who have speedy Lou Mello (three TD's last week) and Jim Dawson in the backfield.

The game is a "must" for the Tigers who will have to keep pace with Central and West this fall in the tough CL race.

HARTLEY 28, ST. CHARLES 7

Jack Ryan's fast-improving Hawk squad chopped up previously-undefeated St. Charles, 28-7, last week as Scotty French, Tom Schlager, Larry Irwin and Jim Gatto all scored once.

Dick Geyer's Cards didn't get on the board until under nine minutes remained in the game when John Finn scored his fourth TD of the season on a plunge and Press Southworth kicked the point after.

THE HAWKS (1-2) host undefeated DeSales (3-0) Saturday night and the game should be a real dog fight.

The Cards (2-1) travel to Hamilton Township (1-2) tomorrow night. The Ranger attack is featured by the running of soph John Gorczyca, Paul Keller and John Juliano (170) and the tough defensive play of big (6'3-228) Frank Peters at tackle.

WHETSTONE 14, WALNUT RIDGE 8

The Scotties almost hit the win column last week but the Braves tallied six decisive points in the last period to offset the eight-point effort of W-R signal-caller Dave Feyh.

A key Scottie fumble on the goal line spelled the difference in the final score as Ross Carlson of Whetstone plunged over late in the last chukker.

THE HIGHLANDERS travel to South tomorrow night for a big contest with the winless Rebs (0-3). The big punch in the South offense is the passing of Charley Barton and the catching of speedy flanker Mike Fair who has caught three long TD tosses this fall.

MARION-FRANKLIN 22, EASTMOOR 6

Dale Darnell's pinpoint passing spelled doom for the Warriors last week as the Red Devils scored two times via the aerial route for the nod.

Jerry Groves' long 40-yard pass to teammate Jones was the only Warrior thriller of the night. Bob Stuart's boys try to get back on the win track tomorrow evening at Whetstone where the rebuilding Braves are planning an ambush for the Warriors.

DAN GOLDBERG, before being injured against the Devils, played an outstanding defensive game while Steve Howell played it tough at tackle on offense last week for E-M.

WEST JEFFERSON 46, ACADEMY 8

West Jefferson rolled over the hapless Vikings with a 20-point second-period barrage and handed the Nelsonrd crew their first loss of '64, 46-8, as Jim Scurlock hit pay dirt four times for the winners.

Herb Lape scored Academy's touchdown and John Larrimer gathered in a Lape lob for the conversion points against the FCL powerhouse.

DICK PRICE' Vikings host Rosary (1-2) tomorrow night at 8. The Crusaders, featuring Ken Pearrell and the passing of Randy Butler, are currently on a two-game losing tear and should be rough customers for the Vikings.

Pennington Clan Paces SE Effort

Four of the five Pennington family archers placed first in a recent shoot at Marysville, home of the Flintstone Archery Club.

Frank Pennington placed first in the Men's 425 Bare Bow competition while his son Bryce won the Intermediate Boys BB class. Frank's daughters, Rita and Donna, placed first in the Junior Girls' Free Style and Cub Girls' Bare Bow competition respectively at the shoot last Sunday.

PERMIT ISSUED

Inn Towne Motel, 595 W. Broad-st, has been issued a D-5 (night club) permit by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control, permitting beer, wine and liquor-by-the-glass consumption until 2:30 a.m.

Curtain Call For CMS

The Columbus Motor Speedway will wind up the 1964 racing season on the Williamsrd oval, this coming Sunday afternoon, Oct. 4, with the Season Championship races for both late-model and sportsman cars and drivers. Time trials start at 1 p.m. and the first race begins at 2 o'clock.

The program will be highlighted with a 35-lap late-model and a 25-lap sportsman championship feature.

"Dynamic Don" Gregory, the sportsman speedster who has practically monopolized his division's victories this year, will be going for his 13th straight headliner.

YOUNG DEAN Stookey, who has been Gregory's chief challenger for the past several race nights, has high hopes of stopping that exceptional win-streak and fans can expect plenty of action before the sportsman events come to a conclusion.

In the late-model division, all eyes will be upon two real veterans of the raceways, Ralph O'Day of Columbus and Bob James of Maple Heights.

'Fearless' Predictions

The "Fearless One," waxed soundly in his second-week attempt at football gazing, hopped back on the comeback trail last week, hitting on 15 of 20 picks to raise his seasonal mark to 44-21.

This week promises to cause "Fearless" additional headaches, however, with many 'toughies' to select. Undaunted, he plows into week four with:

DESALES-HARTLEY — Can Hawks corral Stallions? DeSales.

AMANDA-CARROLL — Bulldogs by the skin of their teeth. Carroll.

What Does It Take To Build A Church?

Perhaps you glance at the church on the corner once in a while and wonder what it would be like to visit during a service. What is it that draws those people to that particular building every week? What built that church?

The only possible answer is — the love of God. Their love of God prompted them to sacrifice and give so that the sanctuary might be built. The love of God compels them to meet there with others who serve Him. Their love of God compels them to "go, and tell others".

We pray that you will be drawn to such a church this week and that you will align yourself with it. You can help build it into something even better.

Groundbreaking Starts Barnett Center Project

CONSTRUCTION EQUIPMENT WAS ON THE SCENE, and excavation already under way during the actual groundbreaking ceremony for the new Barnett Recreation Center, Wednesday morning. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy next August. Taking part in yesterday's groundbreaking were, from left, N. J. Barack, superintendent, Columbus Recreation Department; James Nichols, president, Southeast Community Council; William Fornof, president Columbus City Council; Mrs. Joe Ziegler, president Suburban Women's Club, the group that spurred action to OK plans for the center; Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, and Harry Richter, president Columbus Recreation Commission.

After a long series of frustrating delays, construction of Barnett Recreation Center moved from the planning stage to actuality at a dizzying pace yesterday morning, Oct. 7. While officials were formally breaking ground for the facility, heavy equipment was at work starting excavation.

Representatives from the community's civic, church and school groups, instrumental in spurring action on the center, joined city and recreation officials for the groundbreaking service.

Barnett Center, when completed next August, will equal the best the city has to offer in recreational facilities, and will share services with the adjoining Barnett Elementary, to be opened the first of November.

The policy of sharing certain facilities has been adopted by the Recreation Department and Columbus School System as being of mutual benefit. Outdoor playground, auditorium and gym are among facilities which will be available to both the school and the center.

The adjoining school and center will both face on Barnett-rd through a trade agreement of 3.04 acres of land—the school tract originally fronted entirely on Barnett, and the recreation land was along the east boundary of the school site.

The two one-story buildings were designed to be architecturally compatible.

Present at Wednesday morning's program were, in addition to officials pictured, Jerry Feddersen, recreation supervisor; Emerson Betz, superintendent of Parks and Forestry, and Harvey Alston and William Hoermle, Columbus City Council.

Recreation Commission members present were Robert McCoy and Francis Rudy, and McDonald of the architectural firm, and Jack Isabel of Mason and Isabel, Inc., general contractor, were also present.

Representatives of civic and community groups, and schools and churches on hand for the occasion were Mrs. Richard Meeks, Mrs. John Revel and Mrs. James Asmuth of Suburban Women's Club.

James Mayo, vice-president, and Mrs. Emil Bratka, Southeast Community Council; Rev. Olen Peters, Reformation Lutheran Church; Don E. Thatcher, principal, Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High, and John Young, principal, Johnson Park Junior High.

Mrs. F. W. Brown, president, Scottwood PTA; Leslie Hunt, president, Berwick Park Civic Association; and, from Liv-Moor Civic Association, Russ Shepard, president; Mike Kasson and Harry Hennick.

Fr. White of Bishop Hartley High gave the invocation, and Rev. James McCormack, Christ Methodist Church, the benediction. Patrolman Steve McDonald, safety officer, Columbus Police Department, sang the National Anthem.

ALONG ABOUT NEXT AUGUST, area residents' dream of a recreation center of their own will look like this architect's prospective of the Barnett Center, on Barnett-rd just north of Livingston-av. The much needed facility will serve 15 schools and, when completed, will provide a pfogram of youth and adult recreation and serve as a focal point for community activities. The center, to cost approximately $448,650, was designed by McDonald, Cassell and Bassett, and is being built in connection with the nearly completed Barnett Elementary School. The school and center, sharing the same site, will also share many facilities.

Council Rezones For Health Center, Sets Nov. 7 Public Hearing On Theater

Whitehall Council Tuesday night cleared the way for a new $175,000 health study at 27 Robinwood-av by rezoning the site, and set a Nov. 7 public hearing on a request to change the city's zoning code to permit construction of a $.5-million indoor theater on the north side of Broad-st, west of Yearling-rd.

The Saturday, Nov. 7, 3:30 p.m. date will be a regular council session, replacing the Nov. 2 meeting, to be postponed because of election day.

Construction will start immediately on the new Silhouette Health Studio to be patterned, according to the company president, after a studio the firm operates in northern Columbus. The house has already been moved from the lot, located north of the city's post office, and the ground has been cleared.

Steam baths, heat room and a year-round pool will be included in the facility, expected to cost about $175,000.

Since theaters are not included in the city's general commercial district zoning, an ordinance to amend the code was introduced Tuesday night to permit construction of the theater. The matter will be aired at the Nov. 7 hearing.

A special permit, requested by Wilmer L. Swad, to store new autos on a lot he owns on the west side of Hamilton-rd, directly north of Putt-Putt Golf, was denied by council.

City Solicitor Paul Haytcher, stepping down from his official post, spoke against the request as a resident of Whitehall. He expressed concern about the spread of auto

SUGGESTED IN WHITEHALL:

Divert Portion Of Income Tax To Pay For Capital Improvement

By BETTY DAFT

A proposal to finance a long-range capital improvements program in Whitehall by allocating 20 percent of the city's income tax revenue for a continuing trust fund has been submitted to council members for study by Finance Committee Chairman Marvin Levine.

An amendment to the tax ordinance, to provide such a systematic savings fund, will be introduced at the next regular council meeting on Oct. 20.

Levine pointed out in a three-page letter that the proposal was in keeping with other cities' policies of the allocation of income tax revenue.

Whitehall's original income tax ordinance provided that 45 percent of income tax funds would be directed towards capital improvements. When it was found that the percentage was too high, council removed the capital improvements allocation, and the formula was abandoned.

Levine further emphasized that, "It is true that the recent reappraisal of property values in the city was favorable in that it did increase the over-all evaluation of real estate; however . . . the reappraisal increased our ability to borrow, but it did not improve our ability to pay."

The committee also recommended that any balance remaining in the current capital improvements fund should be transferred to the new trust fund, as well as the $50,000 that is budgeted for the next fiscal year.

The city's need of providing proper financial planning is graphically illustrated, Levine continued, by such pressing projects as:

"The paving of Collingwood and Robinwood-avs, establishing new streets in the eastern portion of the city, opening the areas that still have not been developed, providing sewer programs for E. Broad-st and the Shady Lane areas and the extension of Yearling-rd to the north corporate line."

All of these, Levine said, "are projects which should be undertaken, but the city is unable to do so because of financial limitations."

The committee also pointed out that a distinct advantage of the trust fund is that it would be continuing. Under the present arrangement if the capital improvement fund is not used up during the current fiscal year it reverts back to the general fund.

Finally, the report concluded, "It is important that the public receive some long-range benefits from the income tax money the city is receiving . . . We cannot, in a growing community such as ours, permit stagnation of public improvements."

Other Finance Committee members are Councilmen Roger Stanley and Gilbert O'Shaughnessy, and Francis Shaeffer, treasurer.

Library Has New Titles In Football Books

Heightened interest in football, with the number of fans now estimated at more than 36 million, has brought many requests to the Reynoldsburg Library for books on the sport, according to Librarian Ann Teach.

One of the newest volumes is "Complete Book of Winning Football Drills," by George Herbert Allen.

Another book, Jim Moore's "Football Techniques Illustrated," shows what each player in each position is called upon to do.

"The Pro-T Offense in High School," edited by Harry Gamble, contains all the plays, assignments and drills used in developing the Pro-T offense.

The story of one of professional football's best known teams is covered in Barry Gottehrer's "The Giants of New York."

Reminiscences of famous pro quarterbacks and other players are also available. They include "Pro Quarterback," by Y. A. Tittle and Howard Liss; "Always on Sunday," by Bobby Layne and "Backseat Quarterback," by Perian Conerly, and "Fundamental Offensive Play," Robert Dodd.

Still another book about famous players is Authur Daley's "Pro Football's Hall of Fame." "Pro Football" by Robert Smith gives the history of the game and the great players.

Other recent titles include "Book of Football," Championship Quarterback," "Bowl Game Thrills," "Winning High School Football," "Swing End Offense" and "The Forward Pass."

Anyone Care To See My New Water Heater?

By Adeline Daley

I'm becoming a little tired of being paraded through the homes of friends to admire their elegant new drapes, rugs, hi-fi and color TV sets and recent acquisitions of beautiful Early American furniture. In addition, I seem always to be called upon to comment on a shiny, new automobile parked in the driveway.

Right now I'd settle for being able to display even a new lamp-shade or a ceramic ash-tray. The trouble in this household is that while we make as many purchases as everyone else, few of them are exciting to the naked eye.

Whoever raves over a glass-lined water heater? Even if it has a 10-year guarantee. Am I expected to usher guests down a cobweb-laced stairway to the basement in order for them to marvel at the heater's exterior which is finished in durable baked-on enamel? Who is going to care that the main burner is unclogable and it cost us a cool $125.

While I was down there, maybe I could also show off the new furnace motor we couldn't resist buying. After all, it has automatic solenoid controls, a shut-off valve and an absolutely divine pressure regulator, not to mention the fact that we couldn't stand the old motor which would not function in cold spells.

Perhaps I should dig up the front yard so that everybody could see the dramatically new style we created in sewer pipes. We had them done in decorator black and specially impregnated with coal-tar pitch, which is the latest thing for resisting corrosion.

What sort of comments, moreover, could I expect anyone to make over such a pedestrian item as a mattress? Should I invite friends to bounce on it a few times in order to take heed of the 837 muslin-covered coils, ideal for an aching back?

Our family automobile doesn't dazzle anybody with its chic, either. Of course, I could lift up the hood and show everybody the new spark plugs we have just purchased. I'm especially fond of the new battery — it's in basis black with yellow trim.

Then I could invite guests to crawl underneath it to view the new muffler and oil filter. Our new tires are the latest traction-tested, deep-gut nylon and were imported from Akron. My 99-cent nylon hose should fare as well.

Old Fashioned Sticky Buns

Remember those wonderful homemade breakfast rolls grandma used to make as an extra special treat? Fresh from the oven — dripping with a delicious mixture of crunchy pecans and caramel — gooey enough to satisfy the most avid craving for finger licking.

PECAN STICKY BUNS

For the dough, use a rich yeast roll recipe calling for about 5 cups of flour. After the first rising proceed as follows:

Punch down. Divide dough in half.

Melt 1 cup butter or margarine and mix with 1½ cups brown sugar and 1 cup chopped pecans. Spread evenly on bottom of 14" x 10" x 2" greased pan.

Mix 1 cup brown sugar with ½ cup chopped pecans.

Put one-half dough on floured board and roll into a 12-inch square. Sprinkle with half the sugar-pecan mixture and roll as for jelly roll. Cut into 1-inch slices and place in prepared pan. Repeat with remainder of dough. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk (about 1 hour).

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 2 dozen.

Smokers' Clinic Starts Saturday

A Smokers' Clinic, known as "The Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking," for persons who want to break the smoking habit, will be held on five successive nights, Saturday, Oct. 10, through Wednesday, Oct. 14, 7:30 p.m., in the auditorium of the City Health Building, 181 S. Washington-blvd., one block south of Central High School.

Leading the clinic will be trained physicians, clergymen and psychiatrists.

Enrollment fee is $3 for all five nights. Interested persons are invited to call and request enrollment blanks. During the daytime, calls may be made to the Columbus Area Council of Churches office, CA. 8-5515, and the County Tuberculosis Society, CA. 8-6707. During the evenings and weekends, calls may be made to Mrs. Marguerite Sloane, 221-1574, and Miss Franke Cobban, 885-1486.

Primitives, glass, jewelry, furniture, china, dolls, lamps and other items will be on display. Proceeds will be used for the restoration of the Orange Johnson House in Worthington as a permanent museum and headquarters for the Historical Society.

"TIM TIM" was a show cat with a coat soft as silk. He never drank water, he always drank milk. Peter, Paul and Mary's version of "Stewball" the race horse who drank wine has been slightly altered to introduce "Scioto's Tim Tim" a prize Red Persian, belonging to Mrs. Ronald B. Columbus Day USA To Play Oct. 9-12

A parade followed by a fireworks display, and an informal banquet-dance will be major highlights of the 1964 Columbus Day U.S.A. celebration.

A "get-acquainted" dinner and the traditional wreath-laying ceremony will round out the four-day (Oct. 9 through 12) community-wide celebration in honor of the Italian explorer, Christopher Columbus, who discovered America 472 years ago.

Ten cities named Columbus will send representatives to the Ohio capital to participate in the festive occasion. The cities to be represented are Columbus, Arkansas, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin.

Columbus, Ohio, the largest city in the world named after the great explorer, will serve as official host.

The banquet-dance will be held Saturday night, Oct. 10, at the Columbus Plaza. More than 900 persons are expected to attend. The banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. Dancing to the music of Sammy Kaye band will follow.

Will Hellerman, general chairman of the non-profit Columbus Day U.S.A. celebration, said tickets to the banquet-dance are available to the general public. They sell for $7.50 a person. Reservations may be obtained by writing to the: Columbus Day U.S.A. Association, 1221 E. Fifth-av, or by calling 258-9515.

Cheryl Williams, 3010 Sunset-dr, is representing Columbus, Ohio. As Miss Columbus, Ohio she will compete with nine other girls representing cities named Columbus across the nation for the title "Miss Columbus U.S.A."

Winner of the national title will be awarded a two-week all-expense-paid trip for two to Italy, late next summer when a delegation of the Columbus Day U.S.A. Association presents its second annual $1000 scholarship to Genoa, Italy.

Winner of the national "Miss Columbus Day U.S.A." title will be announced and crowned at the banquet. The annual Christopher Columbus award will be presented to a nationally prominent figure the same night.

"Discover the Freedom of the Future" will be the theme of the Columbus Day U.S.A. parade. The parade will be staged in downtown Columbus on Sunday night, Oct. 11.

Six floats, specially designed and constructed by Gordon Keith Originals, will portray the 1964 theme. The floats are being sponsored by various business organizations. Several other floats will be displayed in the 90-minute spectacle. One float will carry Miss Columbus U.S.A. and her court.

Nineteen musical units, including high school and military bands, and drum and bugle corps will add a festive note to the parade.

Many drill teams, color guards, honor guards, military units, and antique cars will be in the parade. The mayors of 10 cities named Columbus, "Miss Columbus Day U.S.A." and her court, Boy Scouts, Legionnaires, and many favorite radio and television personalities will be seen.

Several clown units will provide their unique form of merrymaking for the thousands of spectators.

The parade will begin at 6 p.m., a half hour earlier than last year's parade which attracted an estimated 250,000 people to downtown Columbus.

"The 1964 parade will be far better than last year's," declared Gene DeAngelo, chairman of Columbus Day events for Oct. 11. "It will be livelier, faster-moving, more colorful, educational, inspirational, and highly exciting. Both young and old will enjoy it."

Richard W. Ostrander, parade chairman, said Broad-st again will serve as the parade route. The parade will start at Washington-av and move westward to Marconi-blvd where it will disband.

A fireworks display — one of the largest ever in Central Ohio — will provide a thrilling climax to the evening's activities. The fireworks will be exploded on the west bank of the Scioto River at Broad-st.

Ostrander said the fireworks display will be visible along the entire route covered by the parade.

A "get-acquainted" dinner for about 200 people at Presutti's Villa will launch the four-day celebration on Friday, Oct. 9. Out-of-town dignitaries, "Miss Columbus U.S.A." candidates, Columbus Day committee members, and many others will attend the 7 p.m. affair.

The wreath-laying ceremony at the Christopher Columbus statue on the City Hall grounds will climax the celebration on Oct. 12 which is Columbus Day. The 11 a.m. ceremony will be preceded by about two hours of band music.

A luncheon at Tommy Henrich's will follow the City Hall program.

It was announced Sunday that this year's Christopher Columbus Award will go to Admiral H. G. Rickover, father of the atomic submarine. Last year it was awarded to Col. John Glenn. The admiral will be unable to accept his award in person at Saturday night's banquet but will be represented by Commander Donald Perry Hall, who made the history-making voyage under the North Pole aboard the Nautilus in 1958.

"Why Can't I Clean A Necktie Decently?"

—Mrs. P. H. J.

Dear Mrs. P. H. J.:

Perhaps you can. However, some stained neckties present problems to the most expert drycleaner. It isn't only the stain that bothers. The tie, itself, is a problem to you and to him.

Most ties are bias cut. As you know, they stretch out of shape easily. In some neckties the lining is of a different material and the inner and outer ties shrink differently. Stains are of two different types. One is soluable in water. The other, oily, can be removed only with dry solvent. Many silk ties are colored with dyes that run when a water-based solution is applied.

Often a spot returns to a tie after it is worn or hung on the tie rack. That is because some residual soil in the tie picks up moisture from the air and turns the spot dark. Soil and grease in the tie's knot will often cause yellowing or discoloration. This can be permanent because the grease and soil act upon the dyes.

The best answer is to get stained neckties to a drycleaner as fast as possible. The trouble is, men-folks get attched to a tie and wear it until even an expert drycleaner cannot clean it. Without the drycleaner's knowledge of stains, soil, fabrics and colors and without the proper equipment to remove spots, anyone will have trouble cleaning neckties decently. Why take chances? Why bother? If the drycleaner knows what the soil is and he gets it early enough, he can usually remove it successfully.

WE ALL HAVE BUTTERFLIES in our stomachs," said one GRI leader. "The trick is to make them fly in formation." Recently 13 graduates of the GRI Leadership Course represented their classes in the first Columbus Olympics at St. Charles Borromeo College Seminary. And the butterflies must have been calm for at least three of the 13. From left are Steve King, lay director; Edgar Lucas, 445 Eastmoor-blvd, first place winner; Shirlee Monty, 2896 Welsford-rd, third place; Ed Jones, Jr., of Chillicothe, second place and Msgr. Hugh Murphy, spiritual director.

Leadership Graduates Learn They Can Change The World

By Shirlee Monty

"It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness . . ."

Many candles have been lit in Columbus in the past eight years by graduates of a course, whose purpose it is to "train, guide, and motivate people to help shape a better world."

The course, fully titled the Gabriel Richard Institute's Christopher Leadership Course, was first offered in Columbus in 1958. A steady increase in classes has followed the original two, and last year, 14 classes were offered in Columbus and near-by communities.

Msgr. Hugh Murphy, spiritual director of GRI, was instrumental in promoting the course in Columbus. He described his feelings and hopes for the course this way: "One of the truly great joys of the GRI course has been to witness the awakening in the hearts of individuals to their shares in making the world a reflection of God's goodness. Our only regret is that we have not been able to bring the course to every corner of every community. In time, we hope to realize this goal."

What have graduate "Christophers" done to help shape a better world . . . or a better Columbus?

Probably the most notable action was taken by Bill Pfaffenberger, 686 Butler, a graduate of one of last year's Bishop Ready courses, who decided to start his own personal war on poverty.

He formed a committee, received the assistance of seven church denominations and organized a caravan of 32 cars and trucks to take food and clothing to the poverty-stricken in the Hazard, Ky., area.

This project is still being carried on by the eighth grade class of St. Agnes School.

Other examples of Christian action, stimulated and developed throughout the courses may be less newsworthy but certainly no less commendable.

In one course, a mother of four convinced the school authorities of the need for a better physical education program.

A father, distressed at the growing immorality in movies and movie advertising, incited many friends and classmates to join him in writing letters and making phone calls in protest.

Another mother of three pre-schoolers, long concerned about homeless and neglected children, discovered that she could bring much joy to them by entertaining one of them each Sunday in her own home.

Other "Christophers" tried to get prayers back to schools, sought religious instructors for mentally retarded children and encouraged classmates to call on their new or lonely neighbors. Each tried to light his own personal candle in an area where he saw despair and darkness.

Nine action-packed sessions help develop the habits and skills necessary for effective leadership and action.

These habits and skills consist of warm-ups or "relaxers," memory training, brain storming, bits of philosophy, personality rules, creative thinking, debates and most of all, many talks, both prepared and impromptu.

Courses are conducted by a team made up of an instructor, a class assistant and a hostess. All are volunteers.

Steve King, lay-director of GRI and head of the instructors, explained why he and his fellow instructors are willing to give five hours each week preparing and teaching these courses.

"Of all the activities with which I have had the opportunity of being associated, the GRI leadership organization has been the most rewarding and satisfying. To help people discover their own talents, to help develop them and finally to see them accomplish such worthy goals, this is truly rewarding."

GRI Leadership Courses have begun or will begin at the following places:

Bishop Ready, Sept. 24; Immaculate Conception, Oct. 5; St. Joseph, Circleville, Oct. 6; St. Francis, Newark, Oct. 12; St. Gabriel, to be announced.

MAKING WAY . . .

The drawbridge makes way for the boat to come into the city and down the canal. Dredges make canals in open waters such as the gulf to make way for ships to travel an inter-coastal waterway. Police officers and secret service men clear a path in the crowds to make way for an important foreign potentate so that he might arrive at his destination.

Church members are the ones who can clear the way, and show the right path to those who have not found the way to our Lord.

Isaah 40:3B reads, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God."

Support your church in every way you can. Ask someone to attend church with you this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I used to have six turtles but two ran away and four died. I bought two more. Female turtles lay eggs in the spring. Since I started to get turtles in 1962 they haven't laid eggs. Yet I have bought three female turtles. I can tell they are female turtles because they have thin tails. Do you know why they haven't laid eggs?—S.S.

DEAR S.S.: I can't really be sure at this point just how many live female turtles you may have. Of course, that is one very important consideration in regard to their egg-laying ability. Another factor is age. Most pet turtles don't seem to live long enough (do they?) to get around to laying eggs.

These infants in shops have to live at least three or four years before they would even consider such a project. Even then, the female could use a male around the house if little turtles are the object of the egg-laying.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Betsy Budgiebird has a problem and I know she feels very badly about it. It's her legs. They look simply awful. They are all scaly, and her feet, too. She gets very embarrassed about it when strangers come and hides in the corner of her cage. How can we help her out of this predicament? — A.P.

DEAR A.P.: The veterinarian might find this to be a case of "scaly legs," an infestation by a Cnemidocoptes mite. If so, he probably would prescribe medication to swab on her legs and feet which should eliminate the case and perhaps, diminish her inferiority complex in a reasonably short time. (Doctors often utilize vitamin A, too, as it may speed recovery if used early in the course of treatment.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: My pet rabbit has buck teeth. This is all right with me, but a friend says that is bad. He says that I shouldn't breed Benny because all of his children might have buck teeth too. I think maybe this friend is pulling my leg. Don't all rabbits have buck teeth? If they don't, what's the difference?—M.C.

DEAR M.C.: It's true that Benny's buck teeth make him a bad bet for breeding. This defect is hereditary. The trouble with such a set of choppers is that they tend to keep growing instead of wearing down against each other. Unless these extra long incisors are kept trimmed back with a pair of cutters, they may grow so long that Benny would eventually starve to death because he couldn't shut his mouth.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our Angel is a 14-year-old poodle. He has this bad habit that has been worrying us since he was a puppy. That was when he started chewing cement. He still does. We were afraid it would wear down his teeth.

Sure enough, he still has his teeth but they are really getting worn down quite a bit, I don't think the habit is very good for him but we can't make him stop. What do you suggest we do?—K.B.

DEAR K.B.: You don't mention where his supply was coming from. Cement is usually a little hard to get at to start chewing, and Angel should certainly have all available corners ground down by this time.

The fact that he has any teeth at all indicates that he either had a magnificent set to start with or you have a lousy grade of cement. At this point in life the problem does not seem too urgent. If his teeth wear out completely you can always provide him with some old poodle pablum from the cement mixer . . .

DEAR DR. MILLER: We have a Persian cat named Goldie. Ever since he was a kitten (almost six years ago), he has always been jealous of other cats whether they were in his yard or not. We had him neutered and cannot figure out why he should dislike having other cats around. Maybe you could give us an idea why.—K.B.

DEAR K.B.: Maybe. It's normal for the male, intact or otherwise, to want to be top cat anywhere—, and especially on his home grounds. Territorial rights are quite important to Goldie, naturally.

He may resent other cats who he even thought were headed into his domain. The fact that he has been neutered renders him relatively immune to the wiles of the feminine feline. Thus Goldie has one more reason for being less than captivated by catty companions.

Battelle Provides Good Stage For Bad Imitation

Almost all absurdity of conduct arises from the imitation of those whom we cannot resemble. — Samuel Johnson

By TED BEARDSHEAR

Battelle's Guest Series opened Sept. 30, with Bramwell Fletcher playing George Bernard Shaw.

Shaw lost.

A masterful playwright was marooned on an island of mediocre acting.

Fletcher, whose past record might indicate something better (he played 221 performances as Henry Higgins in "My Fair Lady"), could close in a single showing with this one.

Hal Holbrook's "Mark Twain Tonight" emerges as a masterpiece. Fletcher emerges as Fletcher . . . hardly a work of art.

Oh, the diction was excellent; the lighting was passable; the props were effective; the costuming was clever; the delivery was audible; but the effect was one of a truck driver attempting to play a Puccini score with a platen rod.

Fletcher projected an egoist wrapped in an egotist. The essence of Shaw is sensitivity in an inverse relationship to pride, and any of this wonderful quality was lost in slick professionalism sliding over a slush of humor, while none of the intent or raison d'etre of laughter was even touched.

Amusing? Perhaps.

Entertaining? No.

Theater? Never.

In his advance publicity, Fletcher professed a lifelong admiration of Shaw. If such is admiration, let us then fear contempt.

The performance purported to interpret a life and it projected a tinsel image. Fortunately, Shaw is dead.

Bramwell damwell ruined him.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

"Yeah, I take my tape recorder with me everywhere I go now," said Lucille Ball. "I even took it to Catalina—and that's a pretty dull little island as you know. I thought I might run into a fish that talks."

It's all part of the redhead's new job — a radio show, Monday through Friday, for the CBS network. Miss Ball was a radio star back with "My Favorite Husband." That was before she switched to television and the emphasis was taken off the husband.

"I find people wherever I can and we talk. I'm not profound in any way, but I hope to talk to fans and show a side of me they don't write about in the movie magazines. And I have some friends that I talk with like Benny and Danny Kaye and Hope."

Questions

The first question that comes to mind is—why would a star as rich and as busy as Lucille Ball want to undertake a daily radio show in addition to her weekly television show and her duties as the head of a major Hollywood studio?

I suspect that part of the answer lies in the restlessness and need for activity that is part of the nature of a performer. But Miss Ball told me something else that is meaningful:

"Sometimes I think that an actress knows more about the average public than the poll people do. After listening to them talk and reading their letters for many years I find an astonishing similarity. They ask the same things; they almost seem to be the same people.

Boredom Prevalent

"One of the things I find 'out there' is boredom. I hear from a lot of bored people who don't know what to do with their spare time. This makes me mad and I've got a heck of a list for them.

"The public can be very kind, but they can also be awful. I remember one time I was walking with my two children. Now, everyone had heard about my son because he was practically born on the television show, but a woman came up to me and nodded toward my daughter and said in a loud voice 'Is she adopted?' Can you imagine that?"

The memory of the incident brought Miss Ball to her feet. She walked over to me and shook her finger in my face. "Well, I went up to her and I said, 'No, she's NOT adopted, but if she WERE, and I hadn't TOLD her, YOU would be in very great trouble at this very moment, MADAM!'"

"Part of the show some time I'd like to devote to the problems of being a child of a celebrity. With all of the obvious advantages there are a lot of terrible disadvantages. My youngsters go to a school with other celebrity children and it's not easy."

Husband Talks

At that point her husband, comedian Gary Morton, popped into the room and immediately started to talk. "I first met Miss Ball three years ago. I remember it well. It was in a pizza parlor . . ."

"Quiet, you idiot!" said Miss Ball good-naturedly.

"May I have the afternoon off?" he asked.

"So long," she said and he was gone.

I asked if her husband would be on the show with her.

Not Included

"No thanks! I've had THAT bit! Right now I'm involved in a movie based on the Beardsley family. When we first made the deal with them they had 19 children. Now they've got 21. I figure we'd better hurry up and make the movie or the public won't believe it. Fred MacMurray has the script with him in the High Sierra and I hope he reads it before the animals eat it up . . ."

Suddenly I realized what is perhaps the best reason why Lucille Ball is doing a daily radio show: she likes to talk. And she does it very well.

Owens, professor of English and chairman of the English Department at Capital University. Professor Norris Heilwig from the English Department of the University of Dayton, will preside.

The second meeting will be a banquet at 6:30 with Dr. Merrill R. Patterson, dean of Marietta College, as speaker. There will be distribution of 32 cash award poems, and naming of 53 honorable mentions in contests conducted by the Association.

Image Makers Muddy It Up

Has the American public come to accept politics as a totally dirty business? We hope not. But it is disturbing to note the matter-of-fact way in which we have been told that the present national campaign will be one of the dirtiest in the history of our politics.

Smear tactics just don't belong in our political system, whether the race is for precinct committeeman or the presidency. The personal qualifications of a candidate for the presidency are indeed important items. But they can and should be assessed before the nomination.

We are in desperate shape as a nation if our two major political parties cannot nominate candidates whose ability, loyalty and sanity have been positively determined. The campaign for office should be limited to issues, political philosophy and possible courses of action.

But, unfortunately, the image makers of both sides have chosen to take a leaf from the book of professional wrestling. The wrestlers, you know, will quaff beer together before and after the match, but dare not show anything but utter contempt for each other during the contest.

This type of hoax is pure rubbish. And as a means of helping to determine leadership for our nation it represents the ultimate of insult to the intelligence of the voter. But we will have continued servings of this ptomaine menu until a new public image is apparent.

The voter must add to the hearing sense a filter that will separate the gospel from the gossip. He must demand proof of any charge, and must accord to the politician the same degree of reasonable doubt that is permitted the accused criminal.

The simple truth is that the dirt of politics will be washed away only to the extent that the individual voter accepts the responsibilities that go hand-in-hand with the right to vote.

Talk About Withholding Taxes . . .

Uncle Sugar's tax-takers, d.b.a. Internal Revenue Service, are all shook over the payroll procedure of a West Virginia employer who does all his tax withholding only once every four pay periods.

Seems that the employer wanted to impress his workers with the idea that they work three months of every year for the Federal Government. He did this by paying the full amount of earnings for three weeks and deducting all accumulated taxes on the fourth weekly pay period.

One $70-a-week employe drew the full amount for three weeks. On the fourth pay period, instead of a check, she found she owed her employer $4.85, which was to come out of her next check. A $125-a-week employe drew only $22.68 on the "fatal fourth" week, and a $2-an-hour employe received a check for 83 cents.

Tax cut, anyone?

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Face It! Pursuit Of Profit Is Essential

CORNER BOOOK, Newfoundland—In the Saga of Erik the Red of Brattahlid it was sung that in the year 1002 Leif, his son, gathered 35 men into his long ship and sailed westward from Greenland until they came to a place which they named Helluland, where there was a plain of flat stones running from the beach to the mountains, and many icebergs along the shore. They decided it was a land "of no good qualities."
We call it Labrador.

Jones

The long ship turned south, perhaps through the Straits of Belle Isle, skirted the coast of Newfoundland and came at last to a low land with white sand beaches which they called Markland. This sounds like Nova Scotia.

And from the south tip of that land they sailed before a strong northeast wind for two days until they met a shore bordered by tall trees, wonderful for making masts and planking. A German with the crew, one Tyriker, went ashore with the landing party and was found hours later, drunk from having eaten old grapes, naturally fermented.

So Leif called the new country Vineland. The coast of Maine? Massachusetts? Even Long Island? The saga was not written for 200 years and times and distances may have changed much in the endless tellings. But Leif's men felled as many tall trees as the long ship could carry and returned triumphantly to Greenland.

Five years later Leif's brother, Thorvald, sailed to Vineland. But hostile savages, "Skraelings," were encountered and Thorvald was killed.

Still, in 1023, Thorfinn Karlsefni loaded a tubby merchant vessel with Greenland warriors, farmers, seven women and some cattle, touched at Vineland, and continued "many days south from there." Where they really landed, Heaven knows, but for nearly two years they traded butter and cheese with the Skraelings for rich furs. Karlsefni's wife gave birth to a son, Snorri. Virginia Dare was born 563 years later.

But at the end of the second spring the natives grew ugly. There was a climactic battle and the saga says: "Though the land had many good qualities, the people would always be exposed to the fear of war. They decided to return to their own country."

And the Norse sailed away from the American bonanza.

Years passed, centuries, while Christendom mounted its Crusades, sickened with plagues, and squabbled over fiefs and dukedoms. Then at the end of the 15th century south Europe was seized by a fever of exploration.

Marco Polo had recounted his gaudy tale of the court of the Grand Khan. The navigator to the King of Portugal had told Columbus of fishing up a curiously carved piece of wood 450 leagues out in the Alantic. A dugout canoe containing the sun-dried bodies of two re-skinned men was said to have been washed ashore in the Azores.

But most popular of all was the yarn about the ship that had been storm-driven to a fabulous island 600 miles west of Flores, and there the crew had found seven cities ruled by seven bishops. And when the sailors asked for sand on which they could build their cooking fires during the long voyage home they found the sand consisted of grains of gold.

When Columbus relayed this information to Queen Isabella she hocked her jewels with enthusiasm. So Columbus went forth to find the Seven Cities. What he found was Watling Island and Hispaniola and a few Carib Indians who died quickly in slavery. But the dream persisted. And 50 years later Coronado was galloping around Kansas still looking for the Seven Cities of Gold.

Now the difference between the Norse and the Spanish was one of greed. The Norse liked to pillage the shabby coastal towns of Britain and Normandy, but they didn't get much and they didn't expect much. Fabulous cities and gold sands were beyond their philosophies.

When they found Vineland it looked a lot like any good section of Scandinavia. It was a long way off. The Vikings already had more land than they needed. So when the Skraelings got tough they said to hell with it, and sailed away from America.

But the Spaniards, driven by outlandish legend, did find gold and a new world. And even today their culture rules from the Rio Grande to the Antarctic Ocean.

The sad moral to the story is this: There are dedicated men who labor for a principle. There are daring men who risk much for mere adventure. But most of the accomplishments in this world have been wrought by people who were powered by the hope of profit.

I am looking out past the green hills of Newfoundland to the Bay of the Islands which once, so long ago, saw the square sail of Leif's long ship. And I hold in my hand a Halifax newspaper containing a story to the effect that the Hungarian government, after 18 years of Marxism and want, has decided to permit a few small private businesses in an effort to relieve its chronic economic paralysis.

It's hard to keep a fact of life buried beneath an ideology.

(COPYRIGHT 1964, GENERAL FEATURES CORP)

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

When our founding fathers got together to build a new government they began with a common belief that "We the People" must be sovereign, even though they never agreed entirely on the methods and degree of the people's direct participation in the conduct of public affairs. The supporters of strong federal power opposed the advocates of states' rights.

A few of the framers may have doubted the wisdom of the people, but the great majority believed the people capable of governing themselves by direct or indirect delegation of power. As it emerged before amendments, the Constitution seemed to protect the wealthy more than the more numerous poor and middle class. But soon the Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments, were adopted, guaranteeing the most basic human rights. Then indeed was our Constitution our charter of freedom.

Since wresting our independence from the British, we the people have ruled ourselves. We are sovereign. Our public officials are our servants, not our masters. So long as they do things for us, not to us, they remain. For misfeasance we turn them out. For malfeasance we jail them. Our obligation is to keep our rights and freedom. Our greatest peril is to lose them by default or indifference.

We are threatened more than ever by evil power beyond our shores. We must always be prepared and willing to defend ourselves. But we are threatened within, too.

We can handle domestic traitors with our left hand. But we are in danger of letting half the strength of our right arm go dead. We're talking about people who are good people, and by no stretch of the imagination can be dubbed disloyal. But they are the five or six out of 10 who don't care enough to vote. The result is minority government. How long can we afford it?

It says here . . .

We the people should mean ALL the people.

Frosting On The Cake

By

[illegible] — U.S.A.

For 19 years, beginning way back in 1946, a truly great and heart warming sporting event has been growing up at Delaware. The Grand Circuit Races are just as important for all of us who are harness racing buffs, as the Kentucky Derby is for running race lovers.

Up until Adios Butler came along in 1959, the annual meeting there was just one more Grand Circuit stop on the big time route for every summer. Then it HAPPENED. Adios Butler broke the long standing two-minute-or-a-little-better mark. When he won in 1:59 2/5 it became an event [illegible] nationwide news coverage.

Then for four [illegible] eight years, one great pacer after another came along and broke the two-minute mark.

And then came the one and only Overtrick. What a marvelous piece of horseflesh! When that first heat time was posted, 1:57 1/5, nearly 40,000 people from all over this country went absolutely berserk. Ever since I was 12 years old and owned my first trotting mare, Molly Direct, I have had harness racing in my blood and seeing Overtrick go those two winning miles will live in my mind forever.

The 1964 meeting is now history and while it was a fine race, it did not have that magical "spark" that Overtrick generated that September day in 1963. After that race, I stayed long enough to see him close up and have a few minutes visit with Mr. and Mrs. Buck from Far Hills, N.J.

Special mention needs to be made of the able and most courteous way this sporting event is managed from start to finish. The Delaware County Sheriff's Department, police—even the ushers. It was a genuine pleasure to have a few minutes visit in the Log Cabin office with Mr. Thomson, who is sharp as any bank president. Also my compliments to "Uncle Wil" Kilburger, director of the Press Box and Police Capt. Wayne Tompkins, who was also the very essence of courtesy and tact.

Mixed Emotions Will Greet Darby Creek Dam

To the Editor:

George Cobb's article, "Year of Big Change Looms for Darby Valley," is a thoughtful study of the contrast between sentiment and the hard facts of life.

Sentiment runs deep in a person thinking of home. The good times of yesteryear blend with thoughts of youth now gone. How terrible it must be to know that the hearth and the fondly-remembered scenes of childhood in Darby Valley will disappear beneath the waters of the new dam.

The careful engineer in Washington, with his graphs, charts, maps and geologic tables, reckons with hard facts. Twin knobs of Devonian limestone on a Silurian dolomite base at the end of a gorge carved out of debris from a glacier of a few thousand years ago point Mi secure anchors for a dam site. As the geologist reckons time, it was only a few days ago that the white settlers were divesting Indian tribesmen from Darby Creek valley land from which they, in turn, had routed other tribesmen.

And if one studies the lessons taught by the archaeologists, the Red Men were likewise new settlers in the land of the more ancient Mound Builders.

In those olden days it was the warrior with his weapons who took land and made it his own—for a while. Nowadays, it is a team of money men, armed with legal fangs and economic claws, who accomplish the same result as that achieved by the warrior.

Then comes the mighty Great White Father, with nature and the power of eminent domain as his tools, and takes from the takers who have taken from still other takers.

Results will be that many hundreds of people will be dispossessed of lands that now contain their homes. And many thousands will be able to say, "Our fears of floods are gone."

People whose memories extend as far back as the ravages of the 1913 inundation, or to the equally devastating 1959 flood, know the true meaning of fear when a quiet little stream that one could wade across turns with rains into a monster that floats huge trees as easily as a brook carries a straw.

Sentiment for a home has a way of rebuilding itself after a few years in new surroundings, and the hard facts of life can pertain to a beautiful lake behind a dam as well as to a long low mound of flood-borne gravel where deep and fertile topsoil once was.

Says 'Sin Money' Pays For Many Things

To the Editor:

In your edition of Oct. 1, Phillip H. Ling took me to task for suggesting a sweepstakes as a cure for the financial woes of the Scioto Conservancy District, but now that is not necessary as they have followed the lines of least resistance as generally happens, and asked Uncle Sam to pay the bill.

The national debt is around 100 billion. Although people criticize and condemn the government for building such an enormous debt, they never hesitate to ask it to add a little more.

Rev. Ling evidently considers money from a sweepstakes "sin money." Maybe it is, but where would the State of Ohio be if we discontinue all "sin money," such as:

Last year's much-needed 500 million for education—tax from cigarettes — sin money.

Money that comes from the sale of whisky goes into the general fund and then is used to pay old age pensions—sin money.

Millions paid to the state from pari-mutuels at race tracks—sin money.

Tax received from sales made on Sunday—sin money.

I have owned my home in Whitehall since 1958 and have been very active in behalf of my community.

As a member of the council finance committee, I am acquainted with the unfavorable financial condition of our city, especially as related to much-needed capital improvements — replacing sewers and building new ones, extending water lines, new buildings, improving streets, overhauling our present traffic control, parks, playgrounds, etc.

Rev. Ling, if everybody lived, believed and stood for the things that I do, "I mean seven days a week and not just on Sunday" this world of ours would be a wonderful place to live in.

THE ROMANCE OF ART—To avoid civil rights strife between Highland and Fayette counties, Nina Rhoem (pronounced "Reem," as in paper) lives on US 62, on their border lines. When the agricultural societies and the 4-H Clubs of both counties ran out of blue ribbons and trophies to award her for the excellence of her entries, and when Fairfield High School, at Leesburg, found it had no more straight A's and graduated her, she entered OSU and enrolled in an arts class.

City-bred Tom Hampton of Mansfield thought Holstein meant a mugful, and Poland China was an international treaty, and didn't know that Plymouth Rock doubles as a Pilgrims' landing and a farmer's 4 a.m. Big Ben alarm clock, until after he enrolled in an arts class at OSU.

Society columnists are announcing a November event in the Methodist church at Leesburg, at which divinely tall and altogether lovely art student Miss Nina Rhoem will have conferred upon her the MRS degree by the head-taller, handsome Mr. Thomas Hampton of Mansfield, who also studied art in college.

OVERHEARD — Lady Bird: "We wives have the duty of preparing good dinners for our tired husbands when they come home from a hard day's work." . . . Railbird: "Well, why ain't she home cookin' for him?"

WHOM GIVES A HOOT—A Midwest hoot owl says "Who." In case a Down-east owl gives a hoot he says "Whom." This explains the radio sportscaster's asking the visiting coach: "Whom is going to win the game?"

But Whom can't play on Saturday,
For Whom has flunked the course in grammar
With Whom that way it's hard to say
Whom's going to win — I think Them are.

ALL'S SWELL —

"L.J. to build a great society"
While doubling as poverty annihilator,
To give it character and sobriety
It will be handled by Bobby Baker.

Demerits For Adeline . . .

To the Editor:

No "that Mrs. Daley is sure NOT a 'good Scout'."

Adeline Daley, in her "Coffee Break" Spectator, Sept. 30-Oct. 1, belittles the adult volunteer who gives generously and unselfishly of her time to help girls from seven through 17 enjoy Girl Scouting. Making a tin can stove is not an end in itself, but a means to an end that is basic: to help all girls who want to participate in the Girl Scout program grow to be happy, healthy, well-informed and responsible adults.

Girl Scouting is an educational program for girls and adults. It is the largest organization for girls of its kind in the world. Because leaders help girls learn to make tin can stoves, build fires, and construct primitive utensils, they have been prepared to attend Heritage Provincial camps in Canada, the Senior Girl Scout Roundup, the Experiment in International Living in Argentina, represent the United States at a conference in Mexico and prepare themselves generally for the future.

As with any other activity people involve themselves in, they receive in direct proportion to what they give.

With the seeming trend toward maladjusted teenagers who think pushing over grave stones is "great sport", I believe I would rather have my daughter making a tin can stove!

With all due respect to Mrs. Daley, whose articles I usually enjoy, there are several thousand adult volunteers who disagree with her. God bless them all. They are wonderful. The public image of Girl Scouting should be taken from the willing, helpful, enthusiastic women who serve so well as leaders.

Meredeth Henry
Lincoln Villager

To the Editor and Mrs. Daley:

After having read Mrs. Daley's article "That Mrs. Daley Is Sure a Good Scout" I feel quite sorry for her.

If this is what she remembers of her time in Scouting, then she has missed the boat. If asked what I remember of the past four years it would be the time a little Brownie came up to me after a cookout and said, "Mrs. T. this is the greatest!"—you see, she had not had the opportunity to have been on a cookout before. I would remember the Scout at the Lazarus Birthday Party who had not been in Veterans Memorial before and was so impressed, the rededication ceremony of last October when 30 Junior Scouts went through their paces in a candlelight ceremony for their parents and friends. I would think of the wonderful troop camping we had in May, that our "cookie" money made possible.

Some of the people whose friendship I enjoy most are the ones I've met through Scouting, they work hard and enjoy every minute of it. Is it all fun and light? No, but there is so much opportunity to help these girls enter into life with an open mind, open hands and most of all with an open heart for their fellowman.

I would like to publicly say "Thank You" to the parents of the Scouts in Troop 600 for "lending" me their daughters for the past four years and the years ahead for having confidence in me as a leader and most of all [illegible] friend.

Mrs. O. I. Tallman, Leader Troop 600;
Chairman Ashgrove Neighborhood

Guest Pulpit . .
Know The Greatest Source Of Light, Power?

Two or three wires strung from a nearby pole to your house surely do not look like much, but without them you would feel lost! They bring power to operate your lights and a multitude of other items which you consider necessities today. When you flip a switch you expect an immediate response; and some items you depend upon to operate automatically to do your bidding. Without that source of power you would certainly feel lost!

Rev. Smith

There is another source of power available in this world that also produces light and great service to mankind. It is not dependent upon visible conductors, yet it has brought light to the darkest corners of the world and accomplished what no man could do without it. This is the spiritual power from Him who said, "All power is given unto me in Heaven and earth." After he had suffered Rome's cruel form of capital punishment, He had the power to come forth from the grave and to send home the four soldiers who guarded His tomb.

Those whose lives made connection with His resurrection power were accused, "These are the men who have turned the world upside down." (Acts 17:6). In fact they were just turning it right side up! One Saul of Tarsus, having been blinded by the heavenly light for three days, later confessed, "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief." (I Tim. 1:15)

He found light, life and power that not only transformed his own life, but enabled him to overcome handicaps, personal weaknesses, and exceedingly difficult circumstances with this testimony, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me!"

The Christ Who strengthened Saul whose name was changed to Paul, not only said "All power is given unto me in Heaven and in earth," but also "Let your light so shine among men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father, which is in Heaven."

But just as you must make application for the electric, so you must make personal application for the spiritual power, and be willing to submit to God's conditions. Without this power you are lost.

Festival Drew 50,000

To the Editor:

A sincere thanks for the support you have given to make the 1964 Millersport Lions Sweet Corn Festival another success.

More than 60,000 ears of sweet corn were consumed (70,000, if it had been available) by an estimated 50,000 visitors during the three-evening event, with a 15 to 20 percent increase above 1963.

Western Electric Pay Hike Saves Strike Threats

The Internal Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 2020 president, Clete Ferguson, announced that a wage increase offer by officials of Western Electric Company, 6200 E. Broad-st, was approved by members in a 810-500 vote Thursday night.

The settlement effecting about 3600 maintenance and production employes ended a threatened strike at the plant Friday.

The raises will range from eight to 12 cents per hour and become effective Oct. 1. A company spokesman said the increase will add about $125 million to the plant's annual payrolls.

The plant manufactures electronic and electro-mechanical equipment for the Bell Telephone System and employes nearly 6900 people.

OCT 1964

HAWKS VS. P-V AS . . .

East-West, W-R-EM Top Area Features

East's rock-hard defense finally surrendered its first touchdown last week but the terrible Tigers still romped to their fourth straight win at the expense of previously-undefeated Linden, 25-8, on the Panthers' field.

After an 8-7 first period, the Tigers added six more in each of the remaining periods as Gary Rispress, Chuck Wright (7 pass from Paul Stith), Sherm Lundy (44 run) and Willie Jackson (54 pass-interception return) all added one score each.

MIDDLE GUARD Willie Jackson, tackles Howard Burks and Pete McKinnon and guards Roland Martin and Grady Bobo stood out on the defense while Kent Schoolfield, Rispress and Stith (seven TD passes for the season) sparkled on the East attack.

A big test is forthcoming tomorrow night at West where the Cowboys (3-1) hope to get back on the winning track after a 30-14 setback last week at the hands of Central.

The Cowboys, titleless since '48, are led by All-District quarterback John Morlan (46 points, five TD aerials) and receivers Scott Watkins, Mike Hughes and Pete Krull. The game should be a humdinger with West's explosive defense pitted against one of the best grid defenses in the Central District.

EASTMOOR 16, WHETSTONE 12

Bob Stuart's burly Warriors bounced back on the winning track last week as E-M nicked the Braves, 16-12, on the strength of four conversion points by Jim Sweet. After an 8-6 first period, Eastmoor's speedy Ron Eiland iced the verdict with a brilliant TD run. E-M's opening score came on a well-executed pass play from quarterback Jerry Groves to halfback Ron Bollie.

A neighborhood rivalry will be renewed tomorrow evening at Walnut Ridge (7:30) where the host Highlanders (1-3) are still savoring a 36-14 win over the Warriors last fall.

RALPH WEBSTER'S Scots looked impressive last week against luckless South and look like they're ready for tomorrow's "big one" with the Warriors with the likes of hard-running quarterback Dave Feyh, and backs Gary Carter, Larry Baer and the receiving of Rick Houchen.

Eastmoor will be without the services of big tackle Steve Howell while the Scots will be minus mammoth tackle (240) Dennis Ecklon (injured in fourth period of South game) and Rudy Life.

WALNUT RIDGE 30, SOUTH 14

South jumped off to a quick 6-0 lead on a 40-yard pass play down the right sidelines but W-R drove right back with eight points on a left side plunge by Gary Carter and right end extra point sweep by Larry Baer who added all three Scot conversions.

The Rebs took the ensuing kickoff back to their own 36 where on the next play Lloyd Pate cut off the left side for a 64-yard score. Carter's second score followed and W-R took a 16-14 lead and the ball game as Dave Feyh and Bill Masch each scored.

FEYH'S rollouts around the end and Baer's hard-nosed rushes sparked Walnut Ridge offensively while big Dennis Ecklon was tough defensively before being injured late in the game.

ACADEMY 20, ROSARY 14

Dick Price's Vikings relied on the Larrimer brothers for their 20-14 win over the visiting Crusaders who had poor punting prowess all evening. A bad Rosary center snap over the punter's head led to a big Viking score while two other Crusader punts were downed by the zealous Academy defense.

Terry Larrimer caught one TD aerial from Herb Lape and scooted one and 10 yards for 18 game points while brother Neal caught a two-point conversion toss from Lape to end the Academy scoring.

THE VIKINGS (2-1) travel to Dublin (4-0) tomorrow night where aerial artist Craig Duffey (five TD passes) and receivers Bob Morrison, Dean Duffey and Don Burton preside. The proud Irish haven't had a win streak like this in a long time and would like nothing better than to add a Viking coup to their string.

ST. CHARLES 20, HAMILTON TOWNSHIP 8

Quarterback Joe DiCesare's excellent field generalship led the Cards to their third win in four starts last week as he raced six yards for one score, passed 12 yards to Leo Deitlin for another and handed off to co-captain John Finn for the clincher.

Tim Rooney ran over the final conversion points as the Cards tallied 14 in the second period and added six more in the final chukker.

DICK GEYER'S Cards travel to West High Sautrday night for a CCL game with winless, but defensively-tough Ready (0-4). The Silver Knights are sparked on offense by quarterback Dale Corbett and backs Steve Guglielmi and Tom Jackson.

The Knights have dropped respectable games of 12-0 and 16-8 to Franklin Heights and Springfield CC and could be troublesome to the Cards Saturday.

DeSALES 28, HARTLEY 6

DeSales opened the Central Catholic League with an impressive 28-6 win over the Hawks as powerboy Tom Rock tallied twice and Mike Metzger followed suit.

The Hawks (1-3) kept close in the first period as defensive end Jerry McNenemy got a hand on a Stallion punt and fell on the pigskin in the DeSales end zone for six.

JACK RYAN'S Hawks host unpredictable Pleasant View (3-1) tomorrow night and Hartley would like to avenge a 25-0 loss last year to the Panthers.

Don Eby's P-V crew is led on the attack by versatile quarterback Mike Flanagan who ran for 100 yards and added 61 passing against Xenia Woodrow Wilson last week. Power runner Ed Bowers (185) piled up 116 yards (23 totes) for the second week in a row while soph Bob Betosky caught four Flanagan aerials for 40 yards last week.

The Panthers are powerpotent and will be a real test for the Hawks who will outsize the Panthers in the line but won't match the P-V club in over-all team speed.

WORTHINGTON 34, BEXLEY 0

Worthington snapped out of a losing doldrum and shut out the Lions, 34-0, as quarterback Jerry Fields tossed two TD aerials and ran for another in the big CBL contest.

The Bexley offense, led by slippery Rick Weber, Joel Kaufher and Woody Jones, couldn't get a sustained drive on the road and were outclassed for the second straight week.

THE LIONS won't have a "breather" tomorrow night either as they travel to Knox County to take on the state-ranked and undefeated Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets (4-0) who are led by the passing of Craig Kundrat and the running of Jim Byrd and Tom Baldwin (three TDs last week against Whitehall).

Don JeJong's crew bowed to the Jackets, 36-0, last year will have to be at their football best for Friday's big game.

MT. VERNON 16, WHITEHALL 7

Jim Bline's Rams fired out with a quick 7-0 lead in the first period against the Jackets as Earl Hunter carried a 50-yard 14-play drive with a slick six-yard maneuver and guard Jim Rodenmayer kicked the conversion.

Mt. Vernon, with ace halfback Jim Byrd bottled up by the keying Ram defense, came right back with drives of 68 and 70 yards to TD land to salt away the nod.

WHITEHALL'S CBL title hopes took a deep dip with the Jacket loss but Mt. Vernon still has to play fifth-ranked AA powerhouse Arlington and a co-championship could be conceived if the Bears or the Jackets take a one-game spill on their schedule.

The Rams host punchless Delaware Hayes tomorrow night and the home club should get by the defensive-minded Pacers with little trouble if a steady offensive is generated.

SCOTTIE SCAMPER—With his eye on the goal line, Walnut Ridge back Gary Carter drives over for his second score of the evening Friday night against South. Bulldog defender Bill Jeffrey dives for the tackle but was too late to stop Carter.

HOME SWEET TOUCHDOWN—Walnut Ridge halfback Gary Carter (left) twists into the end zone from the two yard line for a Scottie TD as South defender Larry Barnett futilely attempts to halt his progress. Walnut Ridge won, 30-14.

'Fearless' Predictions

There are some weeks when the "fearless one" clips off correct predictions with such uncanny accuracy that he scares us. Such a week was last when "Fearless" hit the button 18 times in 22 attempts.

He had hoped his accuracy wouldn't go to his head but we caught him reading Cassius Clay's new book, "I'm the Greatest" yesterday.

Standing 62-25 through four weeks, "Fearless" humbly submits these forecasts on week five:

WEST JEFFERSON-NEW ALBANY — Rider stampede. West Jeff.

DUBLIN - ACADEMY — Irish keep pace. Dublin.

FRANKLIN HGTS-HAMILTON TWP—Falcons take suburban lead. F-H.

PLEASANT VIEW-HARTLEY — Panthers in tossup. P-V.

MT. VERNON-BEXLEY—There's pennant buzzin' in the beehive. Mt. Vernon.

ST. CHARLES-READY — No runaway. St. Charles.

CENTRAL - SOUTH — Pirates have too much speed. Central.

GROVE CITY - WESTERVILLE — Edge to the Greyhounds. G-C.

LONDON - HILLIARD — Raiders have the momentum. London.

WEST - EAST — Cowboys on rebound but Tigers too quick. East.

BROOKHAVEN - AQUINAS — Some real cool Cats. Brookhaven.

ROSARY - CANAL WINCHESTER — Not like last week. Rosary.

GROVEPORT - GAHANNA — Winner's in the driver's seat. Edge to the champs. Groveport.

REYNOLDSBURG - ST. MARYS — Rebounding Raiders snap Ram streak at four. Reynoldsburg.

LIBERTY UNION - CARROLL—Bull-headed. Carroll.

MARION - FRANKLIN - LINDEN — Not too popular but . . . Linden.

WHITEHALL - DELAWARE — Won't be easy. Whitehall.

EASTMOOR - WALNUT RIDGE — Could be surprised but . . . Eastmoor.

WATKINS MEMORIAL - JOHNSTOWN — We'd rather fight than switch. W-M.

CBS Speedway Open Sunday

The CBS Speedway, located four miles north of Lancaster on Rt. 33, has had karters visit the track from California and Florida but last Sunday a go-kart buff from Viet Nam tested the blacktopped oval after the main events were over.

The Viet Nam racer will be back for a few trials this Sunday (2 p.m.) in his foreign-made kart. The "old pro" of CBS, Charles Sparks of Columbus, won another feature last week while five karts raced in the feature C class at the Lancaster oval.

OTHER winners last week were brothers Don, Ron and John Penrod of Washington C.H., Steve Schear and Paul Rhymer of Amanda and Columbusites John Long, Russ Thomas and Joe Carney.

Racing will take place every Sunday afternoon at the CBS track, a place growing in go-kart popularity.

Whitehall Grid Loop Now In Full Swing

In the 70-90 Pound Whitehall Bantam Football League the Broncos and Oilers remain the only undefeated teams in the battle for the championship.

The Broncos led by Hughes and Shoaf ripped through the Chargers line for long TD runs as they romped to a 32-0 victory. Shark and Johnston were outstanding defensively for the Broncos, as were Cobb and Gilmore for the Chargers.

IN A very evenly matched game, the Oilers squeeked by a determined hard playing Patriots team 14-13, to remain in contention for the title. Ludader and Resh scored TD's for the Oilers, with QB Wood scoring the vital PAT's. Trexler of the Patriots again tallied all of his team's points.

The Chiefs proved to be too much for the Bills as the Chiefs scored their second win, 25-6. Michael, and Brobst each scored a pair of TD's for the Chiefs, while Mike Miller ended the scoring drouth for the Bills.

In the 90-110 Class, the Colts led by Hill, who completed 4 of six passes and tallied a TD, battled to a 19-0 win over the 49'ers. The Colts played a very strong game defensively. Ron Stead and Larry Thomas were outstanding defensively for the 49'ers.

PPK Sign-Up Deadline Nears

Time waits for no man nor will it wait for tardy boys hoping to enter the annual Punt, Pass and Kick competition if they don't register at Beasley Ford, 759 W. Broadst, before Saturday.

The competition is open to all boys who are between the ages of eight and 13. There's no cost to enter but each boy must be accompanied by a parent or guardian at time of registration.

There will be five zones of competition with the national winners competing at the NFL Runner-Up Championship game at Miami, Fla., Jan. 3 and traveling with their parents to Washington, D.C.

The top three local winners will receive a NFL warm-up jacket (first), place-kicker device (second) and an autographed football (third).

Everyone who enters the contest will receive a prize. Winners will be determined by distance and accuracy of passing, punting and kicking.

Tentative date for local competition is Saturday, Oct. 10. All entrants will be notified by mail as to time and place.

Don't forget that Oct. 9 deadline

Skyhawks, Bucks Log Grid Wins

The Little Buckeyes won its second conference game in the Ohio Valley Conference this weekend by defeating North McDonald football team 38-0. The Bucks opened up early in the game with an 80-yard run by fullback John Ferrante.

Halfback Kenny Levin went across for the extra point and also scored two TD's in the second frame, one on a 30-yd. jaunt and another on a pass from Buckeye QB Tim Pettorini good for 30 yards.

THIRD QUARTER action saw the Buckeyes' Levin and Pettorini combine again for a 65-yd. pass scoring play. In the last frame HB Levin added two more, one a 15-yd. off tackle play and a 65-yd. sweep. FB Ferrante went over for the conversion.

In other OVC action, the Lockbourne Sky Hawks downed the Bremen Black Knights Saturday night, 32-7. First quarter action saw Lockbourne HB Bruce Spradlin tally from 25 yards out. Second quarter play saw HB Van Smith hit pay dirt by way of a double reverse good for 30 yds. and the PAT was made by Pat Gentille.

Opening the second half, a pass from QB Monty Sunderland to Max Blansett was good for a 60-yd. TD play. Shortly afterwards HB Smith scored on a 40-yarder while FB Gentille made the extra point good. In the last frame the Bremen Black Knights came back to score and make the conversion while the last score of the game was made by QB Sunderland hitting backfielder Blansett for a 40 yd. pass once again for six.

GETS LAST LAUGH

Shirlene Caldwell Wins Football Contest Round

Shirlene Caldwell, 36 Maryst, West Jefferson was $25 richer this week but Shirlene won something sometimes worth more than money — the last laugh.

The second-week winner in The Spectator's Football Contest missed on only five of 28 selections to top 152 other contestants.

The last laugh was on Shirlene's brother-in-law who suggested she enter the contest but didn't express much confidence in her predicting abilities.

"He did help me pick some of the games," Shirlene admitted, adding that this was her first effort at picking football games, although she enjoys the sport.

Miss Caldwell's closest competition came from L. F. Henson, 783 Mithoff-st, and Jack Ladyga, 82 N. Orel-av, who both were just one guess off the pace with six incorrect selections.

Deadlocked at seven wrong were: George Bown, 2481 Brentwood-rd; Jimmy Sylvestor, 3605 Cushing-dr; William Robson, 141 Dakota-av; Lester Baker, 2375 Broadmoor and Sheri and Karen Pidock, 3585 Cushing-dr.

Although Shirlene collected $25 for out-picking all other contestants, she would have doubled her money if she was a paid subscriber. Had she correctly picked all 28 games, her prize money as a subscriber would be $100.

Shirlene Caldwell

If you entered the contest last week and didn't win, try again with this week's 28 games. It doesn't cost you a cent to enter. Simply fill out the entry blank and send it before midnight, Tuesday, Oct. 13, to: Football Contest Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad Street, Columbus 43204.

Be sure to read all the rules before you submit your entry and enter the games next to the advertiser in whose square you find the games.

If you've never entered a football contest before, give it a try. It might win you $25, $50 or $100. Shirlene Caldwell did pretty good for a first try. Who says you can't?

Olympic Games Aired On TV-4

The 1964 Summer Olympic Games in Tokyo, with its international competition in 20 sports, will be exclusively televised by NBC Television, WLW-C TV 4, with a day-by-day two-week coverage starting Saturday, Oct. 10-25.

Every sport on the Olympic schedule will be covered at some time during the two weeks, with emphasis on track and field, and swimming and diving—two sports Americans most closely identify with summer Olympics.

Shuffling Cards Could Be Baseball's Answer

Wit 'n wisdoM

by Jack Wittenmeier
HARTLEY SPORTS EDITOR

Once again the pennant races are over and once again the New York Yankees will represent the American League in the World Series.

The cries of "break up the Yankees" have renewed and most people are willing to forget baseball and turn their complete attention to the gridiron.

SHAKY FRANCHISES apparently are still hanging on in Milwaukee and Cleveland. And baseball people are still asking, "how did it happen?"

Baseball games are too long, too dull, opponents say. Too often pennant races are cut and dried. Baseball seasons are too long, others complain. Baseball is too stodgy. It doesn't move with the times.

Some of the complaints might be legitimate; others sound more like sour grapes.

BUT THE truth of the matter is that baseball popularity continues on the decline despite franchise switches and expanded leagues.

For ourselves, it couldn't be better. We can sit through a doubleheader at Jet Stadium and drool for more. But we love baseball more than any other sport. All do not share in our love affair, and our cult alone cannot make baseball profitable at the gate.

In baseball's heyday, in the days of the Ruth's and the Cobb's, the competition for the devotion of the fan was not as intense as it is today.

AND WHILE the competition was making hay ala promotion, baseball stood ignorantly smug, wrapped in its mantle of the "great national pastime."

Baseball people like Bill Veeck saw it coming but were like voices "crying in the wilderness." Just like Dodger catcher John Roseboro forecast the Phillies' September flop in July, Veeck warned that baseball must promote to survive.

But nobody listened. New diamond frontiers helped some but the product remained the same. The honeymoon was over several years ago in Milwaukee. When the Braves stopped winning pennants and the novelty had worn off, the turnstiles slowed down considerably.

FINDING A red hot baseball town is difficult anymore. The Indians, whose fandom disappeared long ago, are leery of Seattle; the Braves, despite their woes in Milwaukee, aren't sure now about Atlanta; Charlie Finley wants to get out of Kansas City so bad, it hurts—right in the wallet.

Perhaps changes in the game are necessary. Football and basketball are constantly altering the rule book while baseball's march to modernize seems slow and clumsy.

Travel expenses are a big item, baseball's hierarchy complains.

WE'RE BEGINNING to believe that changing partners isn't the answer in most cases. Any Dodger-Giant series is well-attended. Baseball people didn't miss the boat here by switching both franchises to the West Coast.

Travel expenses could be cut and this ingredient of rivalry could be converted into spinning turnstiles by a realignment of both circuits.

The National League could go Western, and the American, Eastern. Geographically, the NL would contain the Dodgers, Giants, Seattle (Cleveland), Angels, Athletics, Colts, Twins, Cardinals and both Chicago franchises.

SINCE BOTH Chicago and Los Angeles have showed they're big enough to support two clubs, why not put both the apples in the same basket?

Chicago already has its North Side (Cubs) — South Side (White Sox) elements and putting them into the same league just might prove soundly solvent.

Again, a series pitting Kansas City versus St. Louis would appear to be a natural.

LIKEWISE, in the American (Eastern) League. Although it might look pretty one-sided—at least now — Yankees battling Mets should draw a gate. Other AL members: Orioles, Senators, Red Sox, Pirates, Phillies, Tigers, Redlegs and Atlanta (Braves).

But the biggest complaint about baseball today seems to lie in the element of unbalance, particularly American League unbalance.

The balance might be restored by reshaping the AL as: Yankees, Dodgers, Giants, White Sox, Orioles, Braves, Redlegs Tigers, Twins and Cardinals. It's highly doubtful that the Yanks could dominate this circuit.

The new NL would contain the Phillies, Angels, Indians, Pirates, Cubs, Red Sox, Colts, Senators Athletics and Mets.

Breaking up the Yankees won't save baseball. Shifting gears and tuning up the engine might.

Councilman To Press For Glue-Sniffing Law

By CHARLES McDERMOTT

City fathers will be asked to adopt a closer paternal interest in the city's glue-sniffing youths when they are handed an ordinance being prepared this week by Councilman Harvey H. Alston.

The ordinance, patterned after those adopted in other cities, is aimed at Fagin-esque denizens who procure for, or encourage the sale of, glue that contains things which can cause intoxication, brain damage and other physical or psychological harm.

One such glue is the so-called "airplane" glue.

Impetus is added to the proposed legislation by parents and others alarmed by reports that "glue-sniffing" is spreading through the city's teenage ranks.

Police last week found an alleged glue-sniffing den in a wooded area in Hilltop's Holton Park. Fred Kilburn, juvenile officer investigating the case, doubts whether this incident touches all persons involved in this curious and dangerous teenage fad.

He fears that glue-sniffing is on the increase.

Has Led To Deaths

Glue-sniffing first gained prominent attention in western United States, when a youth died from causes attributed to it. His mother, in the interest of other youths and their parents, requested the story be published.

A few days ago, an 18-year-old Salt Lake City youth was convicted of killing a companion during a "glue-sniffing" session. Defense contended the youth was temporarily insane as the result of the sniffing.

Toxicologists and psychiatrists testified during the trial that inhaling the chemicals in airplane glue could make a person irrational and not in control of his acts.

Locally, about 40 cases this year have come to the attention of the Juvenile Court officials, according to Frederic L. Faust, director of social services at the Juvenile Center. He said a like number of incidents have occurred in the last several years.

Aside from the glue-sniffing den found on the West Side, detected offenders come from many sections of the city, including Upper Arlington and Whitehall.

Although many cases are referred to the Juvenile Center for remedial action, some cases where evidence is incomplete are not included in the center's statistics.

Both Juvenile Court officials and the police feel a "lot more is going on in the glue-sniffing set" than those cases which come to their attention.

Both agencies urge parents and others interested in the potentially dangerous situation to seek professional advice, their family doctor, or the Juvenile Bureau.

One technique of those using the glue is to squeeze it into a paper sack, hold it tightly to their face, and inhale the fumes.

Symptoms are dilated pupils of the eyes, erratic or unsteady movements, unusually serene or unusually irritated moods, and withdrawal from customary habits or activities.

Officials say one problem is the glue is easy to get. One youth, a confessed "pusher" or seller to other users, said he regularly made small purchases at several South Side stores.

Apparently, there are two types of airplane glue being used, says Clifford Tyree, supervisor of the center's delinquency department. One dries more slowly, giving the user longer inhalation and toxic effect.

The habit can be expensive, as well as dangerous. There is one case where a youth admitted using 20 to 30 tubes during a "lost weekend."

According to Tyree, one deterrent to widespread use is the normal reaction of most boys to initial contact with the glue. In some instances the reaction is similar to a "first cigarette." Repugnant odor, choking, nausea and other repelling effects.

Director Faust indicated most offenders are products of average or above-average environment. And most become first offenders by joining a group. Those who go it alone, he feels, have side problems which need attention.

There is a noticeable lack of glue-sniffing offenders from the city's below-average environs. Both Faust and Tyree feel this is because youths with this background get their "kicks" from more aggressive outlets.

It was pointed out that neither a girl, nor a Negro of either sex, has been involved to date.

Offenders are usually in the 14 to 17 year old bracket.

Councilman Alston stated the ordinance he is preparing will not discourage sale of glue in proper channels and intended for proper use. Penalty for improper sale or encouragement to juveniles may be as stiff as a $500 fine and/or six months in jail, according to the court's discretion.

"My interest in this ordinance," Alston said, "is the welfare of our children, each and every one."

Great Books Discussion Groups Attract Seeking Minds Of All Ages

Everyone's wish to become wiser and better, to stretch his mind and find answers to the basic problems of life is fulfilled through participation in the fast-growing Great Books Discussion Programs.

Since its introduction in 1947, the program has grown to 3,000 groups throughout the country.

In the eastern Columbus area, discussion groups meet regularly twice a month for two hours at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, and at Jeffrey Mansion in Bexley.

Sixteen books are read. Their ideas and issues discussed in the season's 16 meetings, using a prescribed program of books for each year with titles from the great authors of the ages.

Two first-year Great Books Discussion Groups are available to area residents this fall, meeting every other Wednesday night from 8 to 10 at the Jewish Center, and on alternate Thursdays, 8 until 10, at Jeffrey Mansion.

There are no fees or educational requirements, and discussions are led by volunteers who have completed the Leader Training Course.

Information is available from Mrs. Phillip N. Hess, Great Books Council member, 2736 Bellwood-av, CL. 2-1641, or from the Jewish Center, BE. 1-2731.

"TO BECOME MORE Mentally Alive," modern people all over the country are turning more and more to the great authors, and their significant answers to basic questions of life. Great Books Discussion Groups, 3000 strong, are flourishing in the United States. Several groups at different year levels meet regularly at the Jewish Center, and a first-year group also meets at the Jeffery Mansion in Bexley. Area Great Books Groups' members include, from left, Mrs. Harold Eisenstein, leader; Mrs. Abraham Brustein, Robert Welch, Ralph Kehr and, representing a Grove City group, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Odwarka.

Triple Nomination Introduces Hilliard Homemaker Choice

To be nominated once for the local title of Suburban Homemaker of the Year would be a testimonial enough to thrill any woman in the community.

To get a second and third pat on the back in the same contest is not only unprecedented but akin to celebrating a silver wedding anniversary with the birth of a first grandchild the first day in a new home.

Just such a triple special compliment came to Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) Arnold, 72 W. Main-st, Hilliard, this week when the mother of six was nominated in The Spectator's Suburban Homemaker Contest by Mrs. Milton Mann, 341 Conklin-dr, and Mrs. Richard L. Kuhn, 3001 Walcutt-rd.

Mrs. Arnold, when told of her admirers' letters of nomination, admitted that she was "flabbergasted," adding that she hopes she lives up to the fine compliments her friends submitted.

A few excerpts from the women's letters describe Mrs. Arnold:

"She is always willing to help a friend with transportation or baby sit or run errands or prepare food or "straighten up" a home in time of sickness.

"Dorothy and her family had the privilege of helping a mission church get a foothold in this community. They as a family have cleaned the church, washed windows, mowed the lawn and generally restored order to the surroundings.

"Although it was not a question of losing weight when she signed up for two courses in physical fitness at the Hilltop Y, she thoroughly enjoyed exercising and the personal grooming courses. She firmly believes in having her children walk whenever possible or ride a bicycle in place of being taken by car.

"Much more than just a member who pays dues and attends meetings, she has helped with Fun Fair (money raising project of Scioto-Darby Schools). She has served as room mother chairman, and as room mother several times.

"She makes most of the clothes for their three little girls. Last winter she enrolled in a night school course in advanced tailoring and made herself a winter coat. The children always 'look nice,'".

Each child is treated as an individual; none is compared to the other. She has made the search for knowledge a game; two children publish their own newspaper; the oldest works for the local photographer; her youngest is 'Peter Pan' on shopping expeditions.

Is Mrs. Arnold "one in a million" or do you know someone who might qualify for the title, "Suburban Homemaker of the Year?"

There is less than one month remaining to submit your entry blank (inside this newspaper today) before our Saturday, Oct. 24 deadline.

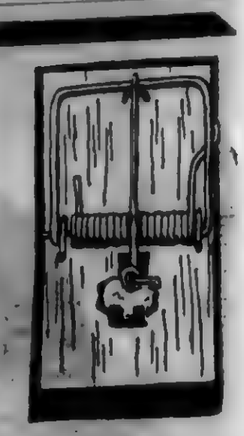
Remember, that woman or women who might be selected as The Spectator's Homemaker(s) will travel, all expenses paid, to Chicago late next month for the national convention.

In Chicago, local winners will compete for $5000 and the national title of Suburban Homemaker. If your nominee should be the national winner, you would receive $500.

Remember to accompany your entry blank with a letter of not more than 500 words, telling us about this "special" friend of yours.

Your nomination should be sent to: Suburban Homemaker Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad St., Columbus 43204.

Don't let this special way of saying, "Thank you for being someone special," slip away before the deadline. Besides, we like to read nice letters about nice people.



DOROTHY ARNOLD takes time out to compliment finger painting effort of six-year-old daughter Diane. Mrs. Arnold, also mother of five older Arnolds, set a new precedent at The Spectator this fall by being nominated three times in the Suburban Homemaker Contest.

Gosnell Funeral Home Announces Remodeling

Paul W. Gosnell, director of the Gosnell Funeral Home, 3431 E. Main-st, announces the completion of remodeling of the home.

Enlarged parking facilities on the paved parking lot at the rear of the home were also recently completed as part of the building program started while Lawrence L. Gosnell, founder, was still living. The business, founded in 1937, at 275 E. Town-st, is now owned and directed by his son, Paul W. Gosnell.

Paul W. Gosnell

A new rear door leading to the parking lot was also added.

The east chapel, formerly part of the church familiar to area families who have attended services there for many years, has also been decorated. The pews, stained glass windows and general appearance of the chapel have been retained, and it is the only chapel in the area which was at one time part of a church.

A private casket display room offers an added convenience. Ambulance and invalid coach is provided.

Mrs. O. L. Lindenbolt and Mrs. Paul W. Gosnell serve as lady attendants.

Mr. Gosnell invites the public to come in and see the remodeled and enlarged funeral home.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

1964 Frozen Fruit Pack Up; Vegetables Less

Fruit — apples, cider, Tokay grapes, Bartlett pears
Vegetables — cauliflower, potatoes, celery, carrots, winter squash
Meat, Poultry — Beef chuck, ground beef, fryers, pork shoulder roasts, eggs (medium)
Other — frozen and canned food "specials", cheese

As the season for fresh produce comes to a close at local farms, it's appropriate to take a look at the supply of fruits and vegetables you'll find in frozen food chests for the winter months.

The pack of frozen deciduous fruits and berries, excluding juices, is expected to be much larger than last year. One thing you can count on is lots of red tart cherries for pie and tarts. Stocks of frozen cherries on hand Sept. 1 were almost double the 1963 pack on that date. And there will be more frozen strawberries, probably about 10 percent more than a year ago. Output of other fruits and berries is still uncertain, although generally larger crops point to some increase.

For frozen orange juice, it's another story—at least until the new crop is processed. On Sept. 1, stocks of frozen orange concentrate were seven percent below last year and nearly 50 percent below the usually heavy stock of two years earlier. Frozen orange concentrate has been moving relatively slow in recent weeks, but even so, packers' stocks when the new season starts will be less than carryover a year earlier.

Frozen vegetable supplies on Sept. 1, including potatoes, were still four percent under a year earlier, but that is nearly one-fifth larger than the 1958-1962 average. Among major commodities, cold storage holdings of asparagus, corn, peas, and French fried potatoes were somewhat smaller than a year ago, and those of corn and limas were sharply smaller. Supplies of snap beans, carrots and spinach are the same to slightly larger than a year ago, and those of broccoli, brussels sprouts and cauliflower were substantially larger.

Reports at this time indicate that total production of vegetables for processing in 1964 may be slightly less than last year. Compared with 1963, expected production of vegetables for freezing are sweet corn, down 16 percent; spinach, down eight percent; limas, down six percent; and peas down five percent. Snap bean production is also down.

At a later date we'll give you estimates for canned fruits and vegetables for the coming year.

Hall Of Fame Beckons High School Coaches

Leaders in sports, education and civic affairs are combining efforts this fall to enshrine 25 great coaches in Ohio high school football history in the Hall of Fame.

The coaches, all past presidents or presidents of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association, are being recognized for their outstanding contribution not only to athletics, but for their devotion to the academic goals of student athletes.

Three high school football coaches of Ohio already have received the nod for immortality, including two from Columbus schools.

These are: John Brickels, former coach at New Philadelphia High School and president of the league in 1937; Mike Hageley, Columbus North, league president in 1942, and Ralph Webster, Columbus East, who followed Hageley as league president in 1943.

Others who will be enshrined if the all-out all-Ohio drive succeeds are: Carl Brubaker, Shaker Heights; Homer Rice, Toledo DeVilbiss; Paul Brown, Massillon; Angus King, Cincinnati; Ike Trubey, Elyria; Jim Robinson, Canton Lehman; Jack Mollenkopf, Toledo Waite.

Heinie Beck, Warren Harding; Herald Roettger, Lockland; Tom Ness, Lakewood; Gil Smith, Van Wert; Glenn Ellison, Middletown; Dick Barrett, Youngstown East; Mack Pemberton, Columbus West; Chuck Mather, Massillon; George Vlerebome, Zanesville.

Wayne Stoddard, Akron North; Bill Kidd, New Philadelphia; Mel Knowlton, Alliance; Junie Ferrall, Barberton; Hal Paul, Steubenville; George Hardie, Youngstown Wilson; Bron Bacevich, Cincinnati Roger Bacon; Bill Wilkins, Shelby, and Marv Moorehead, Upper Arlington.

The "Hall of Fame" building is being erected by the National Football Foundation at New Brunswick, N.J., near Rutgers University, on the site where the first football game in collegiate history was played between Rutgers and Princeton.

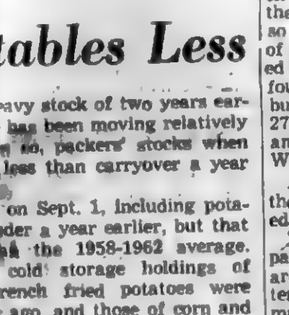
Football great Ernie Godfrey, active in the Central Ohio Chapter of the National Football Foundation, announced recently that plans for Ohio's section of the Hall of Fame building are not finalized.

There may be a "Bricks For Champions Corridor" for Ohio's immortalized high school football coaches, or final plans may bring about an "Ohio Room."

Other sections of the building will display a pageantry of football history, its great figures, great games, museum items and early gridiron equipment.

Marv Moorehead, Upper Arlington High School, is 1964-65 president of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association

Two PO Stations Are Discontinued



Postmaster Victor J. Bodish has announced that Postal Contract Stations in the Great Eastern and Great Western Shopping Centers have been discontinued and the station in the Great Southern Shopping Center has been relocated to the Big "R" Discount Store, 101 Great Southern-blvd.

Postal Contract Station bid notices have been sent to merchants in the area where contracts have been relinquished but as of this date the local office has been unable to secure a bid which is monetarily acceptable to the Department.

Postmaster Bodish said, "I would like any merchant interested in providing contract postal services in the area of the Great Western, Great Eastern or Northland Shopping Center to contact my office."

25 Young World Travelers Study At Walnut Ridge High This Year

Back home in the U. S. A. after interesting years of living and studying abroad, 25 American students are enrolled this year at Walnut Ridge Junior-Senior High. Their younger brothers and sisters are studying at area elementaries.

Mostly sons and daughters of American servicemen who have returned after being stationed in foreign countries, 16 of the group came from France.

The three pictured are representatives of the group.

Greg Hastings, now living at 1877 Riverdale-dr in Pine Hills, is the son of Maj. and Mrs. E. A. Hastings, stationed in Dreux, 50 miles from Paris, for the past two and a half years. Maj. Hastings is now assigned to Lockbourne AFB.

His sister, Cathy, is a seventh grader at Walnut Ridge.

They lived in Spain for a year, and in Morocco, Africa, for a year before that. The family is at home at 1546 Lillian-ln.

Tom has three younger sisters—Pam and Candy are students at Willis Park Elementary, and Marilyn is at home.

Steven Engelman, 6560 Portsmouth-dr in Glen Meadows, is the son of Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Engelman. The family was stationed in Germany for three years.

His brother, Robert, is a ninth grader at Walnut Ridge, and brothers, Billy and David, although in the Woodcrest Elementary District, are studying at Maybury Elementary temporarily because of the school's overcrowding. A sister, Nancy, is enrolled at Woodcrest and a younger sister, Sherry, is still at home.

$900,000 Apartment, Snag In Merkle Plan Considered

A proposal to build another new apartment building on S. Parkview, and the apparent need for drastic revisions in plans for the Merkle Apartments on Broad-st were brought before Bexley Council Tuesday night.

Merkle, whose planned luxury apartment development on E. Broad-st at Merkle-rd stirred a storm of protest from residents opposed to rezoning the site from single-family residential, told council that the added expense of underground parking would make the project impractical.

Alternate plans, including a Sessions Village-type development, will be considered.

Council members, at the same session, nodded tentative approval to plans for a new office building, agreed to permit a coin-operated car wash on E. Livingston-av, and passed legislation to ban parking at certain intersections near Cassingham-av schools.

Council also took under study a request by a resident that the city vacate 18 inches of municipal property and permit a patio wall that he had inadvertently constructed on the land to remain.

Developer H. Burkley Showe, currently building a 24-unit, colonial-style apartment building at 465 S. Parkview-av at Bryden-rd, informed council that he was able to purchase the two adjoining lots to the south, and requested a permit to construct a 53-unit apartment on the site.

Expected to cost about $900,000, the three-story brick building would be designed in colonial style compatible to the apartment now under construction.

Showe and the architect, Bill Berger of Ted Pringle Associates, 566 Drexel-av, were informed that they would need to submit tentative plans and drawings that would meet with council's exacting specifications before being given permission to proceed.

Bexley Council maintains complete control over all planning details of new buildings, and a permit is issued only after plans meet council's approval.

Members had given this tentative approval to Mark Merkle's plans for his garden-type complex of apartments, including an underground parking arrangement.

This would, however, Merkle informed council, raise the cost of the project to more than $900,000, making the development financially infeasible.

He was advised to bring alternate plans, including one for a Sessions Village type of development, to the committee for study.

Council members signified their approval of present plans for a two-story office building on E. Livingston-av between Francis and College-av, and informed the developer he would be granted a permit providing he met their conditions:

The building would have the same 32-foot setback as Woodyard Funeral Home on the corner of Livingston-av at Francis, be limited to five tenants, provide for as much parking as possible in the rear of the building, and he must show a lease with the neighboring service station for additional parking spaces.

On the recommendation of the service committee, a per-

Bexley High Student Journalists Are Top JAOS Prize Winners

Columbus area high school journalists fared well at the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools' annual convention, held last weekend, at Ohio State University, taking 18 places in 16 writing contests.

The capital city contingent was led by Bexley High School, which carted home eight prizes.

Carl Japikse, Spectator Boy Scout correspondent, picked up two first place trophies, while Bob Greene earned a first and third place.

Jack Roth and Lance Lisle each won a silver key for second place performances, and Judy Furman earned a third prize. Beth Cooper was given an honorable mention.

Upper Arlington was next in line with seven winners. Judy Brandes took home a first place trophy and a second place key.

Pat Wuichet and Candy Watkins were runner-up in their divisions, while Suzanne Purdy, Frank Ray and Beth Mathis earned third place keys.

Grandview's Jane Henry and South's Ruby Short each left Ohio State campus with keys signifying third place finishes.

John Vey of St. Joseph, Karen Lamoreux of Cleveland Lakewood, and Joan Horton of Hamilton Garfield were elected president, vice-president and secretary, respectively, for next year.

They replace Jim Wright of Loudenville, Anne Hill, Worthington and Kathy Egan, Lakewood, who served this year.

Mrs. Sara M. Amos of Bexley presided over the conventions as JAOS president.

New Format Introduced In The Spectator Next Week

A major change in the format of the Spectator newspapers will be made effective next Thursday, Oct. 22.

Circulation of the Metropolitan edition will be expanded by over 85,000 copies, bringing the total circulation of the eight Spectator papers to over 160,000 each Thursday.

Next week all editions of The Spectator will appear in the green cover sheet. The first sections of the paper will contain strictly local news edited for the area the paper serves. Back sections of the paper will be known as the Metro section and contain a wrap-up of area-wide news, features, the editorial page and want ads.

All paid subscribers will receive guaranteed delivery each week of the entire paper. Additional copies of the Metro section alone will be delivered to other homes in the area.

Effective next week, each carrier has been instructed to "rubber band" each paper and see that it is attached to the door knob or placed inside the screen door.

City Planning Body Hears 9 Area Issues

A 38-case agenda faced Columbus City Planning Commission members during their regular session on Wednesday. Of the nine area petitions involved, four were continued until the Nov. 18 meeting, three were approved, one was withdrawn and one denied.

Continued were the following requests:

Zone change from Suburban Residential to Apartment Residential along the north side of Refugee-rd on Marwood-rd in Walnut Bluff No. 1 and No. 2 subdivision. Applicant, Holroyd and Myers, Architects, 3201 W. Broad-st, proposed eight to 12-unit garden apartments.

Zone change from Restricted Rural Residential and M-1 Manufacturing to Apartment-Office-Residential and C-4 Commercial for the east side of Hamilton-rd between the WHA' HOPPEN?

Whitehall Council's Action Is Questioned

Paul Haytcher, Whitehall city solicitor, has been asked for an official opinion on the legality of action that apparently defeated legislation at the Oct. 6 council meeting.

The matter questioned is a request for a special permit which would allow construction of a coin-operated car wash at 164 S. Hamilton-rd, just south of the intersection with Fairway-blvd.

Supposedly defeated by council by a four-to-three vote, the legality of denying the permit is questioned on the basis of the proposal's approval by Planning and Zoning Commission.

Haytcher will present to council at the next meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 20, his opinion on whether this is sufficient or three-fourths majority of six votes required to override any recommendation of Planning and Zoning.

Under state statute:

"No such ordinance which differs from, violates, or departs from the plan or report submitted by the Zoning Commission shall take effect unless passed or approved by not less than three-fourths of the membership of the legislative authority."

And in Whitehall's City Code, in reference to a special permit:

"If recommended by Planning and Zoning Commission, such permit may be authorized by a vote of the majority of council. Otherwise, the same shall require the concurrence of six members thereto."

The matter of issuing a special permit to U-Kleen-It, Inc., for the construction of the coin-operated car wash has been before council off and on since last February.

A representative first appeared at a council meeting at that time, unprepared to officially submit his request, and was instructed on procedure.

In the months following, the request has been withdrawn and re-submitted, and was subjected to a series of delays.

Mrs. Weatherby Collects $25 In Football Contest

The old axiom about "if first you don't succeed etc." rang true again this week as Mrs. Franklin Weatherby, 2241 Agler-rd, collected $25 in The Spectator's Football Contest.

Mrs. Weatherby, who has competed in the contest every year, finally hit the jackpot, missing only six of the 28 contest games to out-guess 157 other entrants.

The winner got some good advice from her husband with whom she "compared notes." Mr. Weatherby was a runner-up in one of last year's contests.

"We'll get some bills payed," Mr. Weatherby said, accepting the check on behalf of his wife. The $25 the Weatherbys won could have been $50 or $100 if all games had been correct and they were paid subscribers.

Runnerup in last week's contest was George Cunningham, 55 N. Guilford-av, who had eight incorrect guesses. Mr. Cunningham won the contest once last year.

A three-way tie for third place belonged to Lester L. Baker, 3375 Broadmoor-rd, Jack Lauren, 4932 Betsy-dr and Mason Ashbrook, 3280 Daglow. Each had nine games wrong.

Remember, only one entry may be submitted per person although several may be sent in per family.

There are 28 more games on the contest page inside this paper today. It doesn't cost a cent to enter The Spec-

IN HOMEMAKER CONTEST

Only 9 Days Left To Send Your Entry

What does it mean to be "Suburban Homemaker of the Year?"

For every woman the answer would be different. But two of the local Homemaker winners last year—Mrs. Kathryn Long, West Jefferson, and Mrs. Robert Guthell, Lockbourne—told us about being a Homemaker winner while submitting nominees of their own this week.

Said Mrs. Long: "A few weeks ago I couldn't help but reminisce a little of a year ago when I was first sought as a Homemaker contestant. I wanted to say 'thanks again' for all the wonderful things that happened to me at that time.

"The year didn't pass unnoticed. One would think after a time it would be forgotten but every now and then some incident would occur and bring memories back again.

"I must say it was the most delightful experience in my whole life. If we never had a chance for a queen contest, this was enough to make you feel queen of them all.

"I didn't win in Chicago but the thrill I received from this experience will last a lifetime. I could go on and on, my heart swells at being awarded this honor by such a wonderful newspaper and its staff.

"I am sending in two nominees this year."

Mrs. Guthell was equally lavish in her praise for the homemaker search: "Thanks for the memory. This type of contest, being non-commercial for the contestants, makes it so much more the type of contest we can all enjoy.

"I was so pleased to meet and talk to other homemakers from all over the country and to find so many fine and amazing women and know the future of this country lies in such good hands.

"Every day I see many women who are doing their job as homemakers and doing it well. Thank you all for reminding the rest of the people about these women and giving heart to all those engaged in being "just a housewife" as ther is NO JOB as important today in the shaping of any nation or its leaders as that of the Homemaker.

"Truly the hand that rocks the cradle, guides the world. Again, thanks for the memory."

The response for The Spectator's search for a Suburban Homemaker has been gratifying in some areas, disappointing in others. We cannot believe that excellent candidates for this special honor are not available all over Spectatorland.

Think just one minute. Isn't there someone special in your neighborhood, your PTA, your church or your home? Please tell us about her.

Sure we like to hear about nice people but, more important, we hope, through our search, that you might have this opportunity to say "thanks for being you" to someone special you know.

What better way to show your appreciation and what nicer compliment could you pay? Unfortunately, there are only NINE days remaining to let us know who the "someone special" is.

We're sure someone has been missed. Without your nomination, we'll never know for sure. All nominations must be submitted before Saturday, Oct. 24.

Local winners will be sent to Chicago Nov. 19-20 by The Spectator to compete for $5000 and the title of national "Suburban Homemaker of the Year." If you should nominate the winner, you would receive $500.

Judging standards and an official entry blank can be found inside this paper today. Send the entry with a letter (not more than 500 words) telling us about your nominee.

Send it to: Suburban Homemaker Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad St., Columbus 43204.

But please' don't wait until tomorrow or next week to send us your nomination. Our good friends and helpful homemakers are ready to give us a hand today. Don't "put them off" till tomorrow!

HOW TO NOMINATE

In a few sentences in your own words, tell why you think your nominee is a good candidate. Fancy language is not important. Judging will be based entirely on these five points . . .

1. How she contributes to creating a good family relationship which includes mutual love, respect, child training, mental and emotional health.
2. How she reveals her spiritual and moral strength—for her home, church, community, the world at large.
3. To what extent she has participated in civic and community affairs—local, state, national or international.
4. How skillful she is in:
   a. Preparing meals
   b. Handling the family clothing
   c. Housekeeping and appearance of home
   d. Shopping and money management
5. Personal appearance, habits, and attitudes toward physical fitness and well-being for herself and family.

COFFEE BREAK

My Kids Would Make Lousy News Reporters

By Adeline Daley

Whenever I hear a politican or a baseball manager complain that they were misquoted, I know just how they feel. Sometimes I think that I'm the most misquoted noncelebrity in existence. And I have my kids to thank for it.

I am misquoted so often that it has led me to wonder whether history has always been accurate in recording some well-known statements. Who knows but that Nathan Hale didn't really say, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

You should hear some of the statements credited to me. They make better reading than can be found in most novels. Usually I discover that I have graciously contributed my services for some worthy cause, such as volunteering to provide transportation for the school field trip, along with a few of the refreshments.

Another favorite 'quote" attributed to me is the one in which I "issue" luncheon invitations to my children's friends - - even though I have only three pieces of curled-up bologna and as many slices of bread to divide among the group.

But to hear the subsequent phone call made to our little guest's mother, you would think I would be driven to tears if she didn't permit her daughter to remain for lunch.

"Oh, I loved the "press release" given to Elaine's "Y" group in which I allegedly insisted on holding the slumber party at our home. What recourse did the other parents have but to bow to my wishes and allow me the privilege of entertaining and feeding 25 giggling girls?

The quotation I hear most often is the one I am greeted with when I arrive to chauffeur one of my kids home from a school function or from another girl friend's house. It credits me with the rather unbelievable remark that "I would be delighted to drive four of my daughter's friends home" . . on four opposite points in the county.

"My mother loves to type." was the most recent comment attributed to me and to me alone. Not the 29 other mothers in Patrice's seventh grade English class. It resulted in my typing 15 pages of mimeograph master sheets for a play the class was doing.

If my kids want to quote me. I could provide them with a few which would be far more accurate. Such as, "My mother says she would be glad to drive but the motor in her car is on the fritz." And "My mother would love to contribute cupcakes but hers usually burn on the bottom."

The one thing I cannot do is issue a denial about statements for which I am credited. How can I, when everybody has thanked me so profusely for my favors? I'll go on being quoted — and this time correctly . . . "My pleasure."

Why Pay Twice?

You already pay taxes to support a generous federal-state medical program for those over 65 who need it. Why pay again for a plan that isn't needed?

Surprised? Chances are you never heard of Ohio's Aid for the Aged regular Health Care Program and special Health Care Program. We call it Health Opportunity Program for the Elderly.

These programs enable individual states, with federal assistance, to guarantee every elderly person who needs it the health care he or she requires. Thousands of people every day are being helped by their broad benefits.

Private enterprise, physicians, voluntary and private health insurance all have combined to enable our senior citizens to protect themselves against costs of illness. Three out of five of this age group already have provided themselves with this protection.

TO HELP THOSE WHO NEED HELP, sound federal-state health care plans already exist. Why add another tax?

Yet the supporters of the proposed Medicare Tax would have you believe that its passage is urgent . . . that persons over 65 are deprived of needed medical care because they can't pay for it.

So why pay twice? Find out about the health program you're already supporting. For information in your area, ask your doctor or consult your local medical society.

LET'S TEST THAT "BEST"

Now, we're all for that old phrase, "Mother knows best." But when it comes to Mother Nature, we're not always sure! Did she really "know best," when she gave you those mouse-toned tresses? We'd rather believe the wise old girl knew what was coming. Maybe she did it, just so you'd have the fun of 20th Century hair colors!

"MOUSEY" TO MARVELOUS

We tip our topnots to the advertising person who originated that phrase . . . for we do take lucky ladies "from mousey to marvelous!" You don't have to let dull natural hair-shading make you feel dull all over . . . not when we can give you sparkle in the twinkling of a color rinse. You don't have to let siftings of grey take your dash away . . . not when our professional color experts can blend your hair shade right back to its youthful gleaming. Or if you've always longed to be a shade you weren't born to . . . why not have it now?

WE'LL DO A NEW "YOU"

Don't giggle; we'll prove it! Our color patrons will tell you it's so. A change in hair shade brings a big switch in attitudes. Suddenly you feel bubbling, because you know you look beautiful! Stop sighing at that tired girl in the mirror. Come and let us put some "salon sparkle" where it will do your outlook the most happy good. Half the secret of feeling gay is in looking that way. We've proved it to dozens of delighted ladies, who phoned BE. 1-4100 for a color-talk. Isn't it time you did, too?

FROM UNDER THE DRYER

Much as we love it, there's more to a do-over than color alone. It starts with cut-and-shape of your new coiffure . . . and it doesn't stop with our final comb-out. That's where the compliments begin for you!

Women's Auxiliary Adds Nine Members

Generations
Isn't it grand when the whole family reunites on holidays or on anniversaries! How good to see grandparents and great grandparents and the new crop of babies. Seeing them all together gives you a feeling of continuity, and a sense of oneness with all creation.
It gives you, also, a glimpse of God's plan in the life cycle. When you see the off-spring of the patriarch grandfather, you marvel at the great legacy he is bequeathing the world. All the children that have issued from him are in themselves a great contribution to the world of mankind.
There is marvelous potential in all these spirits. The great things they will do thrill your heart when you contemplate them.
This legacy of lives and spirit can be strengthened, sweetened and nourished by the church. We invite you to take your family to church this week.
EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH — THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE
The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Shopping Center To Be Ready By Oct. '65

Construction is expected to begin in February on the new Walnut Hills Shopping Center at the northeast corner of Brice-rd and Livingston-av with completion hoped for by the end of October, 1965.

The final plans, being firmed this week, see sewers and site work completed by the end of December.

Officials of the Coso Corporation, builders of the Walnut Hills Center, said it will be the first completely weatherized covered mall shopping center to be constructed in central Ohio.

A spokesman said it will permit the customers to shop the year 'round in pleasant 72-degree temperatures.

Customers may walk through the covered mall from store to store without opening other doors, once they have entered the huge center building. The stores will have "retractable store fronts" facing the 40-foot wide terrazzo mall.

Architects for the center are Croce, Abbot and Seligson and the designer and decorator will be Coburn Morgan. All are from Columbus.

Lester F. Davis, vice-president of the Woolworth Company and general manager of the Woolco Department Store Division announced that Woolco will occupy a 115,000 square foot, modern, full-line department store, for the first area in the country to have three Woolco stores.

The store will include a complete six-bay automotive center and a large garden supply center. Full credit facilities, including 30-day accounts, revolving accounts and installment payment plans will be available.

The center, accessible to shoppers from Fairfield and Licking Counties as well as the eastern area of Columbus, will be located just one-half mile north of the proposed interchange for the Outerbelt and the East Freeway.

The center will also include a 1000-seat movie theater at the northeast corner of the center, the wings of which extend westward and southward from that corner.

The center will also include a Big Bear Supermarket and the Huntington National Bank, which is planning large tubes to outside drive-in banking facilities.

In addition to the Woolco store, Walnut Hills will have another department store and a furniture store. Plans also include a dry cleaning, beauty shop, barber shop, drug store and many other businesses.

In the mall's center will be a sunken French cafe-style restaurant reached by escalators. A second restaurant and a cocktail bar are also included in the center plans.

Previously plans had been announced to build a much smaller shopping center at the same 13-acre location. The new enlarged plans call for 360,000 square feet of stores under one roof, plus parking facilities for 2100 cars on a 30-acre parcel of land.

Officials of Woolco Department Stores and Coso Corporation have expressed their gratitude to Mayor George W. Twyford for his open-arms greeting to the shopping center and his untiring efforts in helping to overcome obstacles in reaching the center's final plans.

A PROPOSED AERIAL VIEW of the L-shaped Walnut Hills Shopping Center to be built at the northeast corner of Brice-rd and E. Livingston-av, which officials hope will become a reality by this time next year.

LIONS SEEK FIRST WIN AS . . .

East Meets Central; Cards Try Stallions

East's big 45-20 romp over City League toughie West last week prepared tomorrow's script at Hartley Field where the perfect Tigers (5-0) meet co-favored Central (3-2) in the circuit's biggest showdown to date.

Last week's win was spearheaded by Tiger slinger Paul Stith who tossed TD aerials to Chuck Roberts, Roland Martin and Kent Schoolfield and scored one himself while completing eight of ten passes (139 yards).

SPEED DEMON Sherm Lundy added two running scores while alert Eric Evans returned one of East's four interceptions into a 70-yard score. Chuck Wright's three placement kicks ended the East scoring.

Tomorrow night, the Tigers will have to stop the speedy Buc backfield of Dick Hendricks (:10.7 dashman), George Trammell (:9.6), John Greenway (:10.7) and Al Carmon (:10.2) plus the off-and-on passing of Jim Cuckler.

The Buck, after winning two consecutive titles, are banking heavily on defense in the "big one" while powerpotent East is making its most serious City crown bid in a long time with above-par speed. Both teams are 3-0 in the loop and their winning ledgers are nearly identical (East, 96-28; Central 90-26) but East's defensive line will outweigh the Bucs 20 pounds per man.

A toss of the coin could determine the winner of this one and the victor should go a long way in the '64 City League title picture.

EASTMOOR 34, WALNUT RIDGE 8

Bob Stuart's Warriors, after leading 6-0 at intermission, added 14 markers in each of the last two frames last week to boost their all games mark to 2-3 and 2-1 in the City League race. EM throttlemaster Jerry Groves plunged for one score and tossed five yards to Rod Richards for another while Mike Allen tallied twice on short runs and Ron Elland added eight markers to complete the rout.

The Scots' lone score came in the last chukker when Dave Feyh teamed up with halfback Jay Hill on a well-executed 60-yard pass play and Gary Carter added the conversion on a run.

TOMORROW night the Warriors host Brookhaven (3-2) that boasts fine runners in Steve Kesterson and Don Polaski and a heavy front line. The Bearcats are 2-1 in loop play and speedy.

Ralph Webster's Scots (1-4 overall, 1-2 in loop) travel to Marion-Franklin (3-2 overall, 2-1 in loop) tomorrow night for the Red Devils' homecoming. The Devils boast a fine QB in Dale Darnell (6 TD aerials) and ace receiving with John Jackson (6'5" 190) and Steve Jackson (170) and will be a real test for the Highlanders.

WHITEHALL 24, DELAWARE 8

Deadly Harvey Eader paced Whitehall over the Pacers with a 30-yard scoring aerial to soph Jim Heaton while mates Earl Hunter, John McQuaid and Jim Rodenmayer also got in the scoring act.

Rodenmayer split the uprights with a 17-yard field goal and added a pair of placekick conversions to gain a share of the spotlight along with defensive standout Rick Caillicoat.

THE RAMS (4-1) try state-ranked (5th) Arlington (5-0) tomorrow night on the Golden Bear gridiron. The Rams look like they're in for a rough night since Arlington has outscored the opposition 208-19 and boast three fine backs in Bill Jacoby, QB Mike Stanley and Dick Fishel.

ST. CHARLES 16, READY 12

The Cards were dealt a lucky hand last week at West as they rallied from a 12-9 deficit in the last minute of play to win their fourth game against a single setback.

Big John Finn plunged over with 1:26 to play, capping an 80-yard drive and winning the game as Press Southworth added the conversion kick. Tim Rooney's third period

THEY'RE GONNA' CATCH THE DEVIL(S)!!

AND HERE'S eight reasons the (Marion-Franklin) Devils might want to head back south. Bulwarks in Eastmoor's defensive unit are these Warrior front-liners and linebackers who hope to put the damper on M-F's offensive fireworks Friday. Front (from left): Steve Gutridge, Bob Casto, Steve Brownstein, Steve Howell and Kirk Sweet. Back: Rod Richards, Dan Goldberg and Mike Gornell.

LION BACKS EYE URBANA GOAL LINE

Capital's Paxson 4th In OC Stats

Two Capital University gridders are ranking high on the Ohio Conference offensive charts with top rushing performances to date.

Quarterback Ron Paxson, a Whitehall grad, ranks fourth in total OC offense with 219 yards rushing and 189 passing in 70 offensive plays for a grand total mark of 408 yards to rank behind Dick Reynolds of Otterbein (475), Jim Uszynski of Muskingum (485) and leader Charlie Green of Wittenberg (743).

Gordon McMackin stands ninth in league rushing with 38 carries for a no-loss 250-yard combine.

Monday Sunrise D-Day For Ohio's Waterfowl

Every sportsman who enjoys hunting has one season that's his favorite — the one he really looks forward to with mounting excitement. For many of us it's squirrel season, for others it's pheasant and for still others it's deer season.

For a large number of avid Buckeye nimrods next Monday is circled as prominently on the calendar as any holiday —it's the first day of Ohio's 36-day waterfowl hunting season. Already most of these ardent shot gunners have checked and repainted their decoys, worked out on the duck call, oiled the old blunderbuss, and by now are just nervously fidgeting and counting the few days left.

Ken McCreary

Then, when the sun comes up next Monday, we'll be out there in the blinds and along the streams — as another duck hunting season arrives.

SOME time ago, when the waterfowl regulations were first announced, we gave you a full rundown of the game bag limits and restrictions which will be in effect, so we won't repeat them this week. Your best bet is to carefully study the regulations you'll get when you buy your federal waterfowl stamp. These required stamps are available at any post office at the usual $3 cost.

Again this year, in efforts to better acquaint Ohio hunters with the different species of ducks and thus keep them out of possible costly trouble, waterfowl clinics have been held across the state by the Division of Wildlife, in conjunction with sportsmen's organizations. One of the best attended clinics was sponsored by the Central Ohio Hunters' and Anglers' Club, right here in Franklin County on Tuesday evening.

Those attending the clinic received a copy of one of the finest identification guides ever published, called "Ducks at a Distance." The liberally illustrated booklet was first put out last year by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and met with outstanding acclaim from waterfowl hunters.

IF YOU'D like to have a free copy, send a five-cent stamp to Publications Branch, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, 1500 Dublin-rd, Columbus 12, O.

By studying the drawings in the booklet carefully you can learn to spot the identifying characteristics which can keep you from gunning down

Little Bucks Win Easily

The Little Buckeyes of the Ohio Valley Conference blasted Lockbourne Sky Hawks 78-0 in league play this weekend. The loop's leading scorer, Kenny Levin, stepped off three TD's, with passes from Buckeye QB Tim Pettorini good for 55, 40 and 90 yds. Fullback John Ferrante scored four TD's by runs while halfbacks Alan Kletecka and Steve Flower each scored one apiece. Defensive end Lynn Stoner snatched a blocked punt in the air to race six yds. into the end zone for another Buckeye score. The last scores of the game were made by fullback John Aggas on a 25-yd. run and halfback Ken Terry on a 4-yd. crossbuck.

'Fearless' Predictions

The "Fearless One," his courage buoyed by a second straight banner week, strutted in with his weekly calls this week and announced his uncanny abilities had earned him a guest invitation to spend next weekend with "The Addams Family."

A 15-3 finish raised the predictor's average to 77-28, or plus 12 over his mark at the same time last season.

Here's week six:

Broncs Top WBFL Set

Whitehall's 70-90 pound league played all its games under the lights at Whitehall High School Saturday night against the 90-110 pound teams in two 20 minute exhibitions. The first of these saw the 49'ers, lead by Mike Oyler, defeat the Cowboys, 7-6. Later in the evening the Colts, paced by Berliner and Hill, whipped the 49'ers 20-0.

The Chiefs, with Nicholas scoring two TD's on runs of 38 and four yards, and Darr's 15-yard TD run, upset the Oilers 19-13. Bob Lezader ran for both Oiler's TD's.

THE POWERHOUSE Broncos, starring Shoaf, Hughes, Ceso, Kenny, and many others, racked up their fourth win in a row, as they downed the Bill's 19-0.

Randy Trexler, the leading scorer of the Patriots, was injured early in the game, and the Patriots were hard pressed to beat the Charges 14-13.

City Has Stake In Bus Plans

Generally speaking, governmental control does not make for sound business practices. But the idea of local government affiliation in the field of mass transportation may well be the exception that proves the rule.

The City of Columbus must come to terms soon with the problem of what to do about the Columbus Transit Company. The present owner of CTC, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., has announced it will divest itself of the transit system when the current franchise with the city expires at the end of 1965.

For several months now, the Citizens' Study Committee has been discussing immediate and future mass transit needs of the Greater Columbus area. The committee, representing a broad cross section of business, civic and service groups, expects to offer its conclusions and suggestions about Oct. 16.

Members of the committee have taken to their respective groups three basic findings:

1. That the present transit system operation is excellent.

2. That a short-term solution of area transit problems could be effected by formation of a local syndicate to assume operation of the system, and

3. That creation of a local-government controlled transit authority, using professional management, seems to offer the most workable long-term approach to the problem.

A transit system with a distinct local flavor makes good sense. We could not expect "outside" interests to be as diligent as local management in balancing the profit motive against area service needs and cost.

It would also seem to make good sense to lay plans on a permanent basis, rather than an interim measure. Assuming that permanency in transit planning means some form of local government control, it is imperative that any such program be removed from the area of partisan politics.

We need look no farther than Cleveland to know that a transit authority can succeed. Columbus planners have the advantage of being able to study the history and performance records of other metropolitan areas where various types of transit authorities exist.

It is important that there be a solid program of public education to the immediate and future needs of Greater Columbus. Formation of the Citizens' Transit Study Committee was a good first step. It is equally important that the transit planners listen well to all anticipated needs and what other metropolitan areas have done under similar circumstances.

We have enough time to meet the transit challenge in an orderly fashion, if we remember that there is no substitute for good planning and no room for petty politics.

Newspapers Make A Big Difference . . .

October 11-17 is National Newspaper Week.

Most people take their newspaper for granted. Many seldom realize that the clothes they're wearing, the food they eat, often their very mood has been directly influenced by the columns of words dropped on their doorstep.

The newspaper is the eyes and ears of a public which cannot always be there to see and hear for itself.

For this reason, the newspaper must be accurate and flexible. It must be willing to present both sides.

The newspaper has two major responsibilities — giving the people what they want to read and giving the people what they need to read.

What the public wants to read is often entertaining, sells newspapers and generally reflects profit or loss.

What the public needs to read often is not entertaining but vitally necessary to their well-being. This responsibility reflects the personality of the newspaper.

A newspaper that fulfills only the first responsibility is a charlatan. The newspaper that tells only one side is a thief.

The irresponsible newspaper wasn't conceived tongue-tied. It was a victim of poor environment. It grew up in the "wrong neighborhood" — an apathetic neighborhood, a silent neighborhood.

Watch us! Read us! Make us more responsible! Remember — we owe YOU something. We owe you, your children and their children what you and they need to know. We owe you the unbiased facts — both sides of every story.

If we fail — if you let us fail — freedom everywhere will take another giant step backward.

'THE GRIST'

FOLKS—Harold (Hal) Edmondson, light-heavyweight shuffleboard champ, doubling as speechist at Cap, has an informal talk on "Don't Bug the Kids," bubbling forth from his experiences with his assorted threesome. Hear it and throw away the child-discipline books and lectures by experts . . . Todd Tibbals, Jr., hereinbefore-mentioned, has written the story of his two years with the Peace Corps in Peru. His observations, analyses and appraisals are recited in fascinating phrasing. Allergic to overworked words, I can't bring myself to speak of the narrative as "terrific," but you may, with my blessing. When the book comes out, buy, borrow or beg it as a favor to yourself.

Margaret Converse, ultra-editor of the Madison Press at London, keeps her associates' noses unrunny with a concoction of vinegar and honey, which she sparkle brews in a brass kettle under the grape arbor in her backyard, safe from the eyes of patrolmen along US-42. . . . Three-Days' drugstore complains of a falling off in sales of cold dopes . . . Posy Bloom, Hiss Stamp man, missed the OSU-SMU football game, the first attendance debit since his forebears played the game with rocks in the Stone Age. The official records of the game credit the final-seconds TD by the Mustangs to Posy's absence.

Barry Goldwater, tipped off by a whistle-stop snooper that Bill Whosit was in the crowd on the platform at a town the train was to swoosh through, would wave from the train's rear deck, calling out: "Hi, there Bill!" The tale is still told in our family circle of waggish Frank who had fun shouting from a train window to a stranger at a station: "Hi, Fred!" — had fun that is until one day a rustic shot back: "Why, Hi Frank — I hardly knode you!"

Waite Hoyt's weeping plea for positive thinking during the final week of the Cincinnati Reds' fight for the grand old flag boys, I took to heart. I was the guy putting the TIVE in thinking posi-TIVE-ly until the 16-inning all-night fracas. I couldn't find in my autographed copy of Norman Vincent Peale's book, or his Text Book, anything bearing on the sitshashun, except "going the second mile," but I couldn't do that when the Reds hadn't gone the first mile yet. In fact Robbie never got off second base. When the brotherly-love brethren made it 10-0 in the do-or-die finale, the Reds didn't do, and my positive thinking died.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

The Empty Park–Modern Day Shame

Like the gardens of the Emperor's Palace in Tokyo the great Central Park of New York City is surrounded by walls. Tall walls.

On its flanks are the walls of apartment buildings. At its 110th-st northern limit are the walls of the Harlem tenements. On the south at 59th-st there is a wall of luxury and culture running from the venerable Plaza Hotel to Huntington Hartford's new art museum.

Jones

And then there's the wall of fear.

The other evening I was walking along the north sidewalk of 59th-st. The night was soft. There was a full moon and only a touch of autumn in the air. On the street to my right was a turbid stream of taxis and cars, bathed in exhaust smoke, and beyond, the grinding, sullen roar of mid-town. To my left was peace, inviting walks past the black lakes and through the woods.

It was a perfect night for a stroll in the park. On an evening like this people would be crowding other parks, pausing before the frantic orators in London's Hyde Park, drinking beer at the little bistros in the Bois de Boulogne, listening to the band in the Borghese Gardens.

I looked over into Central Park. A few people lounged on the benches under the lights on the walkway that paralleled the busy street. Beyond that the walks were empty.

The policeman laughed. "You can go in if you want to," he said. "We do, of course — two of us together and sometimes with a police dog. But if you don't get hit it will probably be because the park is so empty after dark these days that most of the bad boys have even quit prowling. You can't yoke a statue or mug an empty bench."

It is true. The crime rate in Central Park last year was no greater than it was in 1947. After the sun goes down there just aren't any people left to be attacked.

Greenwich Village, long famous as the home of odd-ball artists, long-haired poets, and, more recently, amateur existentialists and folk singers, ought to be a pretty tolerant neighborhood. Yet two weeks ago its residents bitterly demanded that the New York police clean the Greenwich Village playgrounds of perverts, junkies and rowdies who shout lewdly at women.

Nor is the disease limited to New York. After sunset no one goes strolling in Washington's Rock Creek Park or Philadelphia's Fairmount Park or St. Louis' Forest Park. These have become the preserves of the vicious and the depraved. Decency has simply been driven out.

In the days before the Civil War, when the followers of Bill Poole battled in and out of the Bowery bars with the supporters of John Morrissey, New York was no stranger to rowdyism. Those were the years when Boss Tweed was getting noticed as the brawling volunteer fire captain of the American Engine Co. And when the Americus crowd collided at a corner with the Black Joke company or the Hayseed company the fire was usually forgotten in a hilarious brawl featuring flattened noses and cut hoses.

But of the same period it was written: "The citizens of New York are justly proud that not even the most insignificant crime is ever committed within the boundaries of Central Park."

In those days if you wanted trouble you headed for the waterfront dives. Today trouble stalks the avenues. A century ago there was danger of being robbed, for there was much desperation and plenty of hunger. Today, with New York's annual welfare bill running close to a billion dollars, no person need be hungry. But the Herald-Tribune asserted flatly last month that 80 per cent of New York's personal crimes are committed by dope heads desperately seeking the $40 to $60 a day to thrust into the hands of the pushers.

A society that saw people rob in order to obtain food was sick. But what can you say of a society that has been turned into a jungle by the "kick" seekers?

Some day, and let it be soon, the unoffending, law-abiding, taxpaying majority of Americans are going to get fed up with being pushed around by a small minority of human beasts. They are going to want to use their parks again. They are going to want their streets safe again.

In order to accomplish this it may be necessary to substantially enlarge the jails and the prisons. The soft judges, the parole enthusiasts, the social workers and psychiatrists may bewail this. They may point out that such a solution is crude, that it makes no effort to understand and rehabilitate the culprit.

It certainly would be crude. But at least the man in a cell is not lying in wait behind a park bush.

The primary function of law is not to understand the criminal but to protect the non-criminal. When the honest young New Yorker can take his girl for a moonlight walk in Central Park there will be time to worry about the welfare of the man who would have killed him.

World Needs 'Total Involvement' In Gospel

All decent Americans were appalled over the indifference of people in New York City when a young lady was attacked by a thug and pursued until murdered.

In spite of her screams and cries for help doors and windows were closed to blot out the sounds that pierced ears and hearts. These people just didn't want to become involved. More recently and closer home, a lady in Dayton lost control of her car and plunged into the nearby river. She managed to crawl to the auto top and cry for help. Twelve people failed to heed her cry and she drowned.

Rev. Skipper

Too much of our 20th Century life is characterized by the easy shrug of the shoulder and the casual turning away from our neighbors' needs both here and abroad.

This "don't care" attitude is characterized in a parable told by Jesus Christ in Luke 10:30-37. A man was attacked by thugs on a lonely road. After robbing him and stripping him of his clothes they left him to die. The rest of the Good Samaritan story can be updated to our present time. 1. the good moral man 2. the religious man 3. the professional man 4. the busy man. All these "pass by on the other side" without ever becoming involved in the real ministry of the church. It is not enough to just attend church once a week and be an onlooker.

Khrushchev recently stated, "a communist has no right to be an onlooker. A communist publication described the American as intellectually lazy, intoxicated with entertainment, having limited horizons, inherently selfish with no dedication to a cause. This seems hard to take, yet an element of truth is found in the accusation. It shows that the need of the hour is for rugged dedication to a cause. This cause should be to share God's great redemptive plan with all.

Do you care that 65 percent of our three billion world population has never heard the Good Tidings that God cared enough to send His Son to die for their redemption?

This is the need of the hour; to get the Gospel of Christ to the whole world. This will take total involvement. "For it is the Gospel of Christ that frees men from tyranny." It gives men the right to life, liberty and eternal joy. In conquers a world and yet enslaves no one. It infiltrates every sphere of living and leaves every recipient a king as well as a law-abiding citizen.

Its simple truths are the bed rock of every decent tomorrow; of every governmental, economical and spiritual solution for our tired troubled world. In every war-weary corner and crevice of this shrinking globe they wait for this high and holy answer in Christ. DARE TO CARE AND BECOME INVOLVED.

"UNCLE DON" BOOS — U.S.A.

Socialism is the most subtle, therefore the most sublime, seduction known to man. It appears to be painless and uses the oldest and most false untruth—something for free.

Nothing is ever for free. Creative research, creative invention, great creative art, great music, sane creative thinking—all come from the inspired and properly rewarded mind and sustained interest in and search for the truth.

The so-called "common good" is never served by violating the internal verities. Socialists strive constantly to repeal the inexorable law of supply and demand. It "sneaks up on" any body politic and first enslaves any social order that succumbs to it.

After this sly and confiscatory seduction has been accomplished, follows the enslavement of the people. Socialistic regimes stay in power by an all-out abusive use of the police power of an autocratic centralized government.

Liberty under law is destroyed and in its place grows a power-mad and power-drunk bureaucracy that fattens the people's masters and destroys every private equity that thrift and ambition and management and exceptional talents or skills have achieved.

The individual becomes a digit and the only incentive has been destroyed—an honest opportunity to acquire exceptional rewards for services rendered.

Socialism destroys progress and glorifies mediocrity. It elevates scoundrels to high and mighty power and reduces man to slovenly abjection and eventual total frustration in his personal trip through his one and only lifetime on this earth.

It is happening here and now in these United States that were born to be and become a constitutional republic, not a so-called democracy, which always turns into a mobocracy utterly devoid of purpose or hope. It destroys the ablest and most valuable agents of the real well-being of the whole people.

Socialism is still the biggest fake on Earth!

Sees Ike, Barry Negatively

To the Editor:

Mr. Eisenhower and everyone knows that Goldwater has created his own indelible image as a belligerent candidate by his statements and general attitude. His book "Why Not Victory" contains the unmistakable implication of war, as victory over communism cannot be achieved quickly without a kill-us-all war. His constant false charge of appeasement by Johnson reflects his trigger-happy obsession.

He now sees that his bullying tactics are not meeting with public approval. Like a boy in trouble seeking Dad's sympathy, Ike and Barry appear on television. Barry asks Papa Ike, "Do you think I am a warmonger?" Ike very indignantly replies that this charge is "tommyrot." "You are a man of peace."

Neither man was a credit to himself or his country to brazenly deny the records and facts connected with the Goldwater campaign.

Offers Legion Enlistment

To The Editor:

Nothing pleased me more than the editorial in The Spectator, dated Sept. 23 and titled "American Legion Good Veterans' Voice."

Nothing could be more true than your statement concerning the GI Bill of Rights, who sponsored it, who fought for it and who benefited from it.

We must keep the American Legion strong in numbers to carry on our legislative work — therefore the Legion needs the World War II members and they need the Legion. As a past commander of Camp Chase Post 98, who is still active, I will be happy to call on any veteran interested in membership. Just call BR. 4-5820.

Mayor Proud Of Hilliard

To the Editor:

"An accused person is assumed to be innocent until proven guilty." This axiom should also be true of a community.

Hilliard is a nice place to live. Here is the small-town spirit that one longs for while living in the big city as well as the satisfaction which can be experienced only when one feels welcome in a community and is an integral part of it.

Hilliard has a great deal to offer. We have excellent schools, churches of several denominations, convenient shopping areas, and recreation for both young and old. All this is done without a traffic problem or city income tax.

Most products and services can be obtained within our community. We have supermarkets, drug stores, banks, restaurants, and many other fine businesses, the majority of which are owned by local people. We have doctors, dentists, and a new nursing home. A public library was built recently.

Since a good educational system is so important, it is, by all means, one of the main things to be considered when one becomes a part of a community. Hilliard is well prepared to meet this need. We have what we think is one of the best school districts in the state.

There are other advantages in living in Hilliard. For example, we can depend upon trash being picked up on the day it is supposed to be picked up. We have no water shortage. During the drouth of 1963, our water was not rationed as was the case in some of the larger cities.

So, whenever you have time for a drive, we invite you to come northwest of Columbus to the nicest, fastest growing little city in Franklin County — Hilliard — a community of which we are proud to be a part.

ABOUT PRESIDENTS

In this series it is impossible to discuss in great depth the many important things a voter should know. But here are a few interesting sidelights.

A new president has the right and duty to choose his own cabinet, for after all, they will be members of his "team" without which he could never do his job well. But sometimes changes are not made. James Wilson of Iowa was secretary of agriculture for 16 years under three presidents. James Tyler made 26 changes in his cabinet in less than four years.

George Washington took his first oath in New York City in 1789 before Washington, D.C., became the nation's capital.

James Monroe carried in his shoulder a Hessian bullet from the Battle of Trenton in and out of the White House and for the rest of his half-century of public service.

Following President Harding's death, Calvin Coolidge took the presidential oath, administered by his father in the latter's Vermont farm home, by the light of a coal oil lamp.

When Hiram Ulysses Grant applied for admission to West Point, his sponsor couldn't remember the boy's name. He wrote it as Ulysses Simpson Grant, and the name stuck for the rest of the general's life.

If a president is impeached, the House of Representatives brings the accusation, and the Senate sits as a trial court with the Chief Justice presiding.

It says here. . .

Anecdotes provide interesting sidelights, but nothing can replace a serious participation in public affairs.

CBS Expects Big Turnout

CBS Park Speedway was buzzing with go-karts and fans alike last Sunday afternoon and some of the more exciting moments came when five-year-old Terry Hanson of Williamsport won all the events in the five-kart kids' O.W.B. Class after starting at the rear of the pack.

Ronnie Penrod of Washington C. H., after winning a first-round heat, lost a chain during the feature and dropped back three laps; however, he came back strong only to finish second behind "old pro" Charles Sparks.

A BIG turnout is expected at CBS Speedway Sunday afternoon (2 p.m.) since the "Viet Nam Special" will be on tap at the racing oval located four miles north of Lancaster on U. S. Rt. 23. Pits open at noon.

Last week's winners included Powder Puff Larena Baker of Columbus, John, Don and Ron Penrod of Washington C. H., Paul Rhymer of Amanda, Jack and Terry Hanson of Williamsport, Herb Miller of Circleville and Columbusites John Long, Clay Baker, Rich Gibson, Russ Thomas and Bob and Skip Watterman.

Waterfowl—

restricted ducks this season.

Another note of caution in relation to the waterfowl season: the hunting day opens at sunrise and ends at sunset. This would be relatively simple to remember except that sunrise and sunset times change from day to day as the daylight hours become shorter, and as you travel across the state the times also change.

Game protectors are known to frown heavily on shooting before the sun rises or after it sets, so we suggest you keep a sunrise-sunset table in your billfold for instant reference. Needless to say, check your watch to make sure it's on the button too. Oh, yes, be sure too that your shotgun is plugged so that it won't hold more than three shells — that too is the law.

AS WE WHO love to hunt ducks know, our happy Ohio hunting ground doesn't provide the hottest action in the country, being off the main Mississippi flyway. So we certainly agree with the wildlife experts who urge you to conserve the ducks we have by being certain the game is within range of your gun.

By avoiding those long unwise shots which only cripple, and by searching hard for the cripples we do down, we can do much to insure duck hunting seasons in the years to come.

THE KNIGHTS outgained the Cards 265-222 and were on the St. Charles 18-yard line when time ran out as they fell for the fifth time.

The Cards will meet DeSales (5-0) Friday night at Hartley Field when the Tom Rock-led Stallions come to town. The Stallions are still smarting from a 26-22 loss last year to the Cards and will be out for sweet revenge tomorrow.

Scott French took advantage of P-V's close-up safety men last week as he broke off tackle on a fourth and one situation at midfield and outraced the Panther secondary for the Hawks' lone tally.

Tom Schlager swept the end for the conversion and gained the Hawks a hard-earned tie late in the game. Hartley capitalized on P-V's inability to come up key yardage plays and intercepted one vital Panther aerial at a crucial moment in the contest to boost their season mark to 1-3-1.

THE HAWKS host winless Ready (0-5) Saturday night, a team that has lost two eight-point verdicts and one four-point game but boasts a rock-hard 5-4 defensive setup that is spearheaded by blitzing linebackers.

MT. VERNON 30, BEXLEY 8

Don DeJong's Bexley gridders opened some eyes last week when the never-say-die Lions jumped off to a quick 7-0 first-period lead over CBL leader Mt. Vernon.

Quarterback Dave Frasch scored from six yards out and Ken Stone kicked the conversion and Bexley was on top 7-0 at the quarter gun. The Jackets got untracked in the second period for 18 big points and the game as they rolled up 395 yards and 18 first and tens.

THE FAST - improving Lions (0-5) entertain winless Urbana (0-5) in a big home coming game tomorrow night at home. DeJong's charges appear ready for the win column after last week's creditable showing against fifth-ranked Mt. Vernon.

Brutes Win; Meet Rams

The East Columbus Brutes, a member of Linden's six-man football league, defeated the Linden Fools, 36-0, this past Monday and the Brutes' record is now 1-1. If they can defeat their opponent this Saturday there will be a three-way tie for first place in the league, each club having a 2-1 record.

The East Columbus Indians won a double header from Reynoldsburg 16-0 on both days. Scoring Saturday was Mike Priestas on a 50-yard end sweep and Mark Ballard on an intercepted pass.

SUNDAY fullback Brian King scored twice on an off-tackle play; Bill Pitt added the conversion.

Doug Johnson added a long run and some fine defensive line play as did Doug Brown, Mike James, Eric Phipps, Gary Swann Stanley Thorton, Butch and Carl Price, the only brother combination, are excellent at their positions, linebacker and halfback.

Sunday, the Indians go against the West Mound Rams, last year's league champion. The Rams are rough and won the first game against the Indians, but the Indians have come a long way since early fall.

Wearing the Texaco Star

Running a Texaco Service Station is paying off. I'm an independent businessman, confident of the future. Doing well for my family.

Been in business some time now, and Texaco has backed me up year after year. Started me out with a professionally conducted training program. Got paid while I was learning to run my station at a profit. There's been a close personal contact with Texaco ever since.

Constant merchandising help and counseling, too. Traffic-building promotions and national advertising that direct new business to me.

Yes, Texaco works hard for me.

Interested? Then look into Texaco more fully. No obligation, of course. Learn how it will pay you to be the man who wears the Texaco star. Telephone weekdays 279-8639, evenings 882-7064.

Homecoming Court Selected At Bexley

By MIMI DEATON

The coun'down for candidates for homecoming queen has begun! The five finalists from the 10 girls nominated are Susan Bryant, Nancy Glick, Joyce Knupke, Dianne Kushner and Arloa Schultz. Nancy Schoedinger, Karen Birch, Linda Loeffler, Lonny Rosen and Paula Young were also candidates.

This morning, Thursday, students voted for the queen of their choice. The winner will be announced at the pep rally tonight.

The queen and her court will ride in the homecoming parade Friday, along with the floats made by the senior, junior, sophomore and freshman classes. They will also reign at the football game with Urbana and at the homecoming dance sponsored by Student Council.

"A Hard Days Night" is the theme of the dance. Music will be provided by the Marauders, a rock-and-roll quintet.

Jack Roth is general chairman for the dance. Other chairmen are: publicity, Paula Young and Fran Grossman; decorations, Cynthia Blatt and Jessie Davidson, and refreshments, Stephanie Bromberg and Carol Zelizer. Bill Salt is chairman for the bonfire and parade.

Officers of Student Council, elected last spring, are Jim Nowacki, president; Robbin Wells, vice-president, and Arloa Schultz, secretary-treasurer.

Sally Jones Sexton, of Playhouse on the Green, spoke at the first Dramatics Club meeting.

Carol Lubin, president of Dramatics Club, said that tentative plans for this year include guest speakers, joint meetings with other school clubs and extemporaneous skits. Members may also volunteer to read stories to patients of Children's Hospital once a month.

Other officers of Dramatics Club are Sylvia Dozer, vice-president; Judy Engleman, secretary; Bill Brust, treasurer, and Marci Kaplan, member-at-large.

Cabinet members include Stan Cohen, Gloria Ziskind and Sandy Simmons.

The Girls' Athletic Club auction of unclaimed articles from the lost and found was held Friday in the auditorium. "Coach" Carlton Smith, chemistry teacher, golf team coach, and athletic coordinator, was the auctioneer.

The club sold everything from pairs of socks to a winter coat and a watch. GAC made about $15 Friday.

Bexley Speakers Back Bond Issue

Two Bexley area residents are among a group of young community leaders who have volunteered their services as speakers in the campaign for the $82 million bond issue sponsored by the Metropolitan Committee for community improvements.

The speakers, Mrs. Thomas Maston, 64 Bullitt Park-pl, affiliated with the League of Women Voters, and Raymond A. Bichimer, 3501 Kirkwood-rd, president of the Columbus Jaycees, and other members of the speakers' bureau, are available to talk to any group interested in the bond issues by calling the Metropolitan Committee (221-2333).

Voters in Bexley and Whitehall will vote only on the hospital bond issue and the welfare levy.

The Welfare levy is a renewal of the existing half-mill and will have no effect on the tax rate.

Tax experts estimate the hospital bond issue will add about two cents a week over the next five years to the average tax bill of Franklin County property owners.

STUDENTS OF MONTH

WHITEHALL HIGH honors, as its students of the month of October, senior Carol Hoyda and Kenny Koets chosen for qualities of leadership, citizenship, character and scholastic achievement.

Kathi Westover Named Queen At Walnut-Ridge

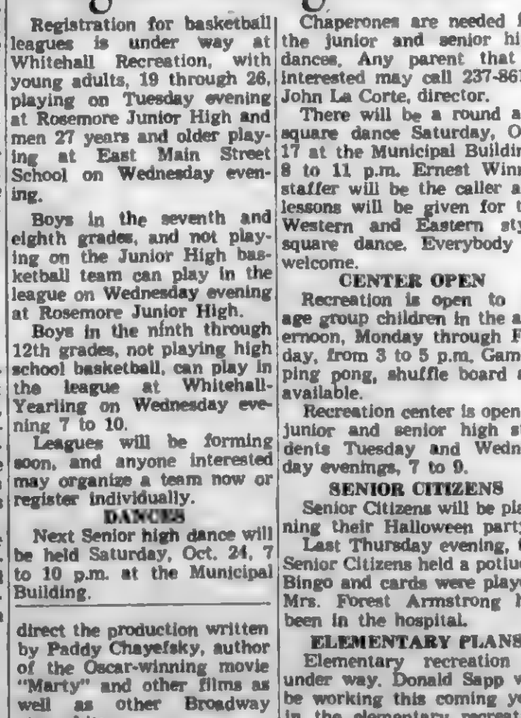
SHEILA KINDER

Kathi Westover was crowned 1964 homecoming queen Friday, Oct. 9, during halftime activities of the Walnut Ridge - Eastmoor football game.

Kathi is a varsity cheerleader, member of the Girls' Ensemble, Senior Y-Teens and GAA, treasurer of Senior Choir and secretary of Student Council.

The queen and her court, members of which were Diana Baxter, Jackie Coleman, Cathy Dick and Barbara Tracy, reigned during the Starlight Enchantment dance following the game.

Student lunchroom week is now being observed at Walnut Ridge, with home economics and nutrition classes touring the lunchroom. A group of parents were guests for luncheon on Tuesday, and on Wednesday, senior and junior high students took part in a mashed potato testing project.



Area ministers were to be luncheon guests today, Thursday, as a "thank you" gesture for their help during commencement and assembly programs at the school.

Walnut Ridge Y-Teens' projects are already well under way. The group has held a swimming party and is planning a picnic at South Y Park in the near future.

Members held a powder puff football game Saturday morning of last week, under the direction of Ralph Webster, school coach.

An effort is under way to develop a strong school chapter of Red Cross at Walnut Ridge. Sharon Gandolf and Frieda Clifton are student representatives of Red Cross, and a group of teachers will be attending an organizational meeting at the Youth Center, Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Any boy or girl interested in doing volunteer work at a hospital, or helping with other Red Cross service projects may contact Mrs. Genevieve Henning, coordinator of student activities.

Bro. John Scanlon, FSC, president of the central unit, announced the meeting will be in the form of a training program, with sessions beginning at 9 a.m., in the three basic business subjects of typewriting, bookkeeping and shorthand, under the general chairmanship of Sr. Mary Regis, OP, of the College of St. Mary.

WHITEHALL NAMES TOP TEN SCHOLARS

Congratulations go to the top 10 scholars of the senior class. In succession, they are Carol Hoyda, Melissa Hawkins, Kathy Bailey, Mary Hughes, Kathy Hackenberger, Ed Lakey, Arnold Shaheen, Tsvolyn Sallee, Henry Roberts and John Nimitz.

Mrs. Arbuckle and Mr. McKee, librarians, feel that students should be able to use the school library after 3:30 instead of having to use the public library where the personnel are not specially trained to cope with students' problems. It is hoped that in the future the library can be open on Saturdays and during the summer as well as after school.

Tri-Hi-Y has been reorganized this year into Y-Teens. The new arrangement brings the group into affiliation with the YWCA and allows the group use of the Y's facilities.

Friday, the club sponsored its first activity of the year with a get-acquainted slumber party at Sharon Wells' house.

WITHOUT Removing THE OLD FINISH
Anything that can be painted can be changed to take on the appearance of rich wood grain, of age-old antique or beautiful marble. The process is so simple a child could do it. Yet the results you can achieve with Old Masters will amaze and delight you. The grand part about achieving these effects is that you don't have to remove the old finish. This means no scraping, no bleaching, no staining, and no special tools are required to obtain any of these effects. Any piece of furniture that doesn't fit its surroundings or woodwork that doesn't fit the decor can be easily changed to complement its setting. The oddest assortment of furniture and finishes can be made to look as though they belonged to each other. Regardless of how dark or light the item is, Old Masters can completely change its appearance without removing the old finish. See how. See it demonstrated. Port Columbus Might Obtain Customs Office

A U.S. Customs office might be established at Port Columbus.

The Airport Commission has authorized the Distribution and Transportation Research Co., 4030 Fairfax-dr, to gather information to present to the Federal Government in a bid to gain international status for Port Columbus.

The branding of the port as international could bring an upsurge in production here, it was theorized.

The research company will be able to show more than $2 billion annual exports and imports within a radius of 75 to 100 miles of Columbus, it was reported.

Whitehall Records First Fatal

EASTERN STUDENT POPULATION INCREASING AT 1,000 A YEAR RATE

Five New Schools Needed In Next Four Years

Three new elementaries and two new junior high schools, additions to five others, and the purchase of seven more sites for future schools are among the 20 construction and improvement projects that must be completed in Eastern Columbus in the next four years in order to care for the area's mushrooming student population.

Enrollment in the far southeastern section of Columbus, advancing at the startling rate of 1,000 a year for the past eight years, is the yardstick for the area's development, growing at a faster rate than any other portion of the city.

Secondary school-age population has multiplied nearly six-fold, from 815 in 1956 to the present enrollment of 4,600 in grades seven through 12. In grades one through six, enrollment has tripled in the same period, from 2,300 to 7,000.

Nine new Eastern Columbus elementaries, a junior high and a junior-senior high building have been constructed during this period to house the enlarged enrollment.

And further substantial increases are expected for area schools during the next four years, foreseen in a study conducted by Columbus Schools and the Educational Research Bureau at Ohio State University.

The needed eastern school building and improvement projects are among 172 programs throughout the city that will be financed from the $34,650,000 school bond issue, if it passes Nov. 3.

The issue will provide funds for the five new area schools urgently needed to house the expected increase in pupil population.

Three new elementaries are needed — one near Petzinger and Zettler-rds, one near Livingston-av and the proposed Outerbelt, and the third near Cherry Hill-dr and McNaughten-rd.

There is an equally urgent need for two new junior highs. One would be built on the Shady Lane Elementary School site, 1488 Shady Lane-rd, and the other near Livingston-av and the proposed Outerbelt.

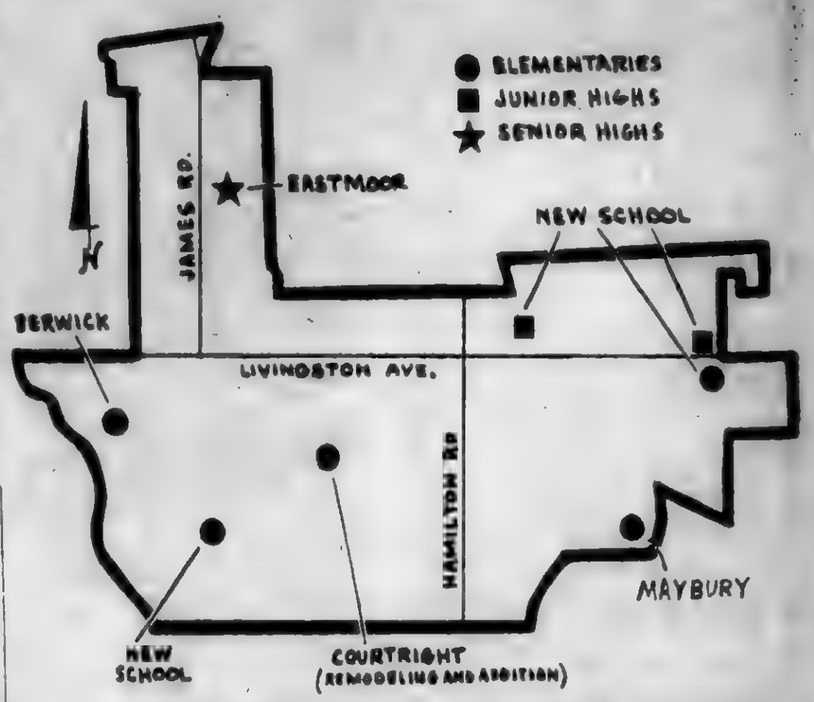
The school building study, based on the number of children under school age already living in the area, and on new housing developments either planned or under way, also reveal the need for additions to five existing schools, site acquisitions for five more elementaries and two new junior highs.

Additions are planned to Berwick, Courtright, the new Maybury, and East Columbus elementaries, and to Eastmoor Senior High.

Five locations for new elementaries will also be needed — one near the proposed Outerbelt and the East Freeway Interchange, one near Groves and Hamilton-rds, one near Courtright and Refugee-rds, another near Refugee and Maywood-rds, and the fifth near Brice and Refugee-rds.

New junior highs will also be needed at two of the elementary sites — near Refugee and Maywood-rds, and near Refugee and Courtright-rds.

Remodeling programs are also slated at Courtright and East Columbus elementaries, and a site expansion at Shepard Elementary.



Nine New Elementaries

Nine new elementaries have been constructed in the far eastern area since 1956 to house the present population of 7,000 pupils in grades first through sixth. The enrollment figure has more than tripled from 2,300 in 1956, and is expected to continue its startling advance in the next four years.

The area's newest elementaries are Maybury, 2633 Maybury-rd, opened in September, and Barnett, Barnett-rd, just north of Livingston-av, now being completed for an expected Nov. 1 opening.

Berwick, 2595 Scottwood-rd, 1956; Leawood, 1677 S. Hamilton-rd, built in 1960 with an addition in 1963; Pinecrest,

FIVE NEW SCHOOLS, additions to five others, sites for seven more new schools, and three other improvement programs slated for the eastern area are among the 172 school projects Columbus voters may "buy" for an average penny-a-day at the polls Nov. 3. Taxpayers' cost of the $34,650,000 school bond issue is, for the home owner who could sell his property for $15,000, an average penny-a-day fr the next five years. Proposed for eastern Columbus, if the bond issue passes on Nov. 3 are, indicated on the map, new elementaries near Petzinger and Zettler-rd, and near Livingston-av and the proposed Outerbelt; new junior highs on the Shady Lane Elementary school site and near Livingston-av and the proposed Outerbelt, and additions to Berwick, Courtright, Maybury Elementaries and Eastmoor High School. Not shown on the map are a proposed elementary near Cherry Hill-dr and McNaughten-rd, and an addition to East Columbus Elementary.

'Defeated' Car Wash Issue Approved

By BETTY DAFT

Woody Hayes could have taken a lesson from Whitehall Council Tuesday night on how to reverse field.

With Councilman Ray Shipley leading the downfield blocking, council approved a previously defeated zoning special permit for an automatic car wash at 164 S. Hamilton-rd.

The specia' permit request has been kicking (or kicked) around council chambers for the past eight months — when it wasn't being "passed" between council and the city's planning and zoning commission.

The petitioner brought his request to council originally in early February, and was told that procedure called for dealing first with the planning and zoning commission.

Obedient to council's instructions, he sought and gained approval of the city planners, but only after a series of frustrating delays.

When he returned to the council chambers, four of the seven members voted against the proposal. The measure was defeated. But was it?

There was a question of whether council could go against a recommendation of the planning and zoning commission without a three-fourths majority vote. Such is the case if planning and zoning denies a request and council attempts to override the decision.

City Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher settled the question of the legality of council's action by ruling that their defeating action was valid. But was it settled?

Councilman Shipley, who joined Councilmen Lester Ballenger, Gil O'Saughnessy and Roger Stahley in killing the measure Oct. 8, brought the issue "back to life" Tuesday by calling for reconsideration. The ordinance passed unanimously.

Shipley explained, in asking that the measure be reconsidered, that he had not understood the coin-operated car wash was a pilot project of U-Kleen-It, Inc., and that the company's home office would be located in Whitehall.

He continued that assurances of landscaping and adequate blacktopping influenced his decision.

An ordinance amending Whitehall's city code relative to allocating a portion of income taxes to a capital improvements fund was read for the first time and referred to the finance committee for further study.

Also referred to the finance committee was legislation to provide a deputy tax commissioner.

A group of Westphal-av residents, on hand to protest an ordinance to improve one block of the street from McAllister-av to its dead end, were advised that they would be given an opportunity to express their opinion at a public meeting with the service committee.

The request by the same homeowners that the street not be paved when others in the area were improved in 1961 had been honored at that time.

It's A Play . . . It's A TV Series . . . It's A Ladies' Shoppe! Act II Opens

The curtain went up this fall on Act II. Not a play, or a TV series, but a very unique ladies' shoppe nestled in the heart of German Village at 524 S. Third-st.

Outside, this novel Columbus shoppe offers the lady's escort the charm of authentic architecture.

Inside—Act II offers the lady, herself, expensive materials that have been caressed by expensive stylists and designers, at a modest price.

This unique shoppe is sponsored by the Columbus Chapter of Women's American O. R. T., an organization for rehabilitation through training, which builds and maintains schools in 20 countries of the world.

These schools offer elementary and higher education to the poverty-stricken and displaced people of Europe and Asia.

Vocational training in giving skill, confidence and self-sufficiency to the near-hopeless—is the major point on the O. R. T.'s curriculum.

And Act II has become a major subject, not only with O.R.T., but in the conversa-

Graham, in turn, tapped the program for a thousand dollars worth of gifts, plus the expense-paid Florida vacation for two.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Pork And Beef Marketings On Increase

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit—apples, cider, grapes, bananas.

Vegetables—potatoes (white and sweet), carrots, cauliflower, dry onions, turnips, hard-shell squash.

Meat, Poultry—pork roasts (loin and shoulder), beef "specials," fryers, ground beef, ham, eggs.

Other—cheese, rice, canned and frozen food "specials."

Mrs. Franks

We've come to the time of year when a well-browned pork roast fills the bill to perfection . . . especially with the tang and flavor of apples, sweet potatoes, turnips or squash . . . all so plentiful and good now.

You'll find prices on fresh pork cuts a little softer during the next few months because of the heavier seasonal production and marketings. After a short period of reduced receipts, hog marketings have picked up for the largest number in six weeks. However, the decline in pig births this year is expected to keep hog marketings four to five percent under last year and prices somewhat above 1963 levels.

Beef eaters will be glad to know that livestock is again coming to market in volume. On Monday of last week receipts of cattle at the 12 main terminals were the largest of any day in three years. While the cattle picture is not clear, meat men say that fed cattle marketings will remain large from October to December, although they will likely be down slightly from marketings the first part of this year. Retail prices are not expected to change much from present levels.

Broiler-fryers remain a budget-wise choice. And production reports indicate that supplies will continue plentiful during the fall months. Turkeys are cheap . . . the small sizes are most plentiful and most likely to be featured between now and Thanksgiving.

CITRUS FRUITS AND CRANBERRIES

Florida grapefruit are moving to market in moderate supply and a few early oranges are arriving. The prices are high, but eating quality is reported to be good for the first of the season. As the season progresses, grapefruit has a higher sugar content. Unlike apples, a grapefruit does not ripen further after it is picked, so if these early grapefruit are not as sweet as you like, adding sugar or honey is the only solution.

Cranberry supplies are rising and the berry color is much improved with cooler weather. This year's crop is expected to be four percent above last year. Larger crops are expected in Massachusetts, Wisconsin, and New Jersey, smaller in Oregon and Washington.

Basketball leagues are now forming at East Columbus Recreation Center. Registration is open.

There will be three leagues, junior boys (nine to 12-years-old), intermediate boys (13 to 15-years-old), and senior boys (16 to 18 years). All ages are determined as of Sept. 1 of this year.

Each team will play one game a week with league play starting the first week of November.

The East Columbus Brutes lost to the undefeated Linden Donkeys 28 to 0 Monday evening at Linden. The Brutes made a vain attempt to gain a first place tie. The Brutes are now 1-2 in league play.

The East Columbus Indians 90-pound football team lost a 20-8 decision to the league leading West Mound Rams

The Indians only score came on a 60-yard off-tackle run by Brian King. The conversion attempt was stopped, but halfback Doug Johnson cut back over the middle for the two points.

Educational TV Expanding; Seven Stations Now In Ohio

Coming into prominence is the educational television station which presents an entire schedule of programs for both formal instruction, informal enrichment and cultural enlightment.

Ohio leads the nation in the number of ETV stations on the air. Seven educational television stations now operate, with the eighth station to be on the air in January in Cleveland.

The state is building a network of ETV stations that will serve all Ohioans at all ages in and out of school with programs to increase their knowledge. The network plan is being guided by a nine-member commission, appointed by the governor. The commission staff is headed by E. H. Gillis, Jr., executive secretary, veteran Ohio broadcaster.

Ohio's ETV stations and its network will be in the UHF frequency band (channels 14 through 62), becoming more available to the general public because of the recent All-Channel Law which requires all TV sets now manufactured to be equipped to receive both VHF and UHF signals.

Hundred of adults in the Columbus area have watched the program of the ETV station on the Ohio State University campus, WOSU-TV, Channel 34. This last year numerous people participated in the "Great Decisions" series dealing with the study of issues of significance today.

The "Metropolis — Creator or Destroyer" series, recently concluded, treated the problems inherent in our mushrooming urban society.

Many a person expanded his knowledge from watching the "American College of the Air" series on biology and economics. College courses, presented over WOSU-TV, on home economics, health education and others, are being viewed by adults who are interested in the subject matter, but who are not enrolled in the school.

WOSU-TV will inform the public when they present three-and-a-half hours each week in public affairs programs beginning this fall. The Channel 34 viewer will have every opportunity to be informed about his local community, its needs and problems, and about those in his state, nation and the world.

Other ETV stations in Ohio also schedule similar programs. The Cincinnati ETV station, WCET, produced a series titled "Salesman to Salesman." It presented principles and techniques of salesmanship to employes of firms too small to afford an individual sales seminar.

A few years ago the station produced "The First Tuesday," an explanation of our political system at the local level. The series was received by employes of many firms which were concerned that their employes be better informed, participating citizenry, capable of contributing to the community's governmental processes.

In other areas of Ohio, adults are adding to their knowledge by viewing selected offering on the local ETV station. More programming designed for adult continuing education is being planned as the ETV Network expands.

A brochure about Ohio's plan for an ETV Network is available by writing to the Ohio ETV Network, 21 W. Broad-st, Room 301, Columbus, O.

GETTING OUT... the Vote

Mrs. Jones is active in all types of community work. She is active in politics at the local level. From a list of voters at her elbow she telephones to see if any local residents need the services of the various car pools. Because of this service many who could not otherwise do so, get to the polls and vote.

But more than this, Mrs. Jones is a friend and servant of God. She supports her church and its services because she knows it is the center of all that is good and worthwhile in the Community. It is a place where the souls of men are uplifted and saved.

We, ourselves, would do well to emulate Mrs. Jones. May we urge that you, also, not only vote, but help get out the vote — that you not only attend church, but support it actively with your service.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Here Are Still M-m-m-more Cook Book Recipes

Surprise The Family With A Different Dish

A little imagination goes a l-o-n-n-g way to keep leftovers at a bare minimum. If you've got an eye and a yen for something new and different to feed the family, take a look at what other area homemakers are serving.

The number of recipes received for the Cook Book published last spring, was overwhelming . . . in fact we could have published two or three cookbooks. Consequently, many recipes were run on the Women's Page and we still have a number left. Another recipe page will be published soon.

We wish to thank all the wonderful readers once again for sharing your kitchen secrets with others in the community. Following are baked goods sure to please the family. Why not try one tonight?

BUTTER ROLLS

- 1½ cups luke warm water
- 2 pkgs. dry yeast

- 1 tablespoon salt

In large bowl put water and yeast, stir till yeast dissolves.

Add egg, sugar, salt and melted margarine, stir till all ingredients are thoroughly mixed. Add flour, stir again.

On a counter top or cutting board sprinkle a little flour, place dough and knead for about five minutes. Do not add too much extra flour, just enough so dough won't stick to hands or board.

Rub top of dough with melted margarine, cover with a cloth and set in warm place for one hour.

Round out bubbles, and shape into little rolls the size of a frankfurter.

Put on a greased cookie sheet, cover with cloth and set to raise for one hour. Heat oven 375 degrees, bake for 15 minutes.

If you don't want to use all the dough at once, pinch off enough for each meal, return the rest of the dough to refrigerator and can be used two or three days later.

- ½ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 2 tablespoons ground nuts, almonds or pecans or walnuts to be sprinkled on tarts

Put filling in tart shells, fill with carmel sauce. Put fluffy meringue on each one, sprinkle with ground nuts, put in 400 degree oven and remove as soon as toasted light brown. You may use three egg whites for meringue if you like deeper meringue.

These are hard to make, but receive much acclaim when served for teas or card parties.

DON'T FORGET 'HER'

Three Days Remaining For Homemaker Entry

As any woman knows—the best sale in the world isn't much good two minutes after closing time on the final day.

And that's the way it must be with The Spectator's local search for a Suburban Homemaker.

You might know of the best candidate in the world, a woman who is truly a service to her community or neighborhood and the guiding light for her family and friends.

But if we don't know about her because you forgot or put off submitting your entry blank, there isn't much we can do after Saturday.

That's the deadline for local entries for the 1964 suburban Homemaker contest.

Following the deadline, a panel of judges, representatives of such fields as education, home economics, social services, civic affairs, etc., will personally interview nominees before final selection.

The local judges will be announced in next week's paper.

Local Homemaker winners will be sent to Chicago by The Spectator Nov. 19-20 to compete with other candidates from all over the country for $5000, and the title "Suburban Homemaker of the Year."

The nominator of the winning national entrant will receive $500.

The judging standards, accompanying the entry blank inside this paper today, will help define the qualities of the ideal Suburban Homemaker.

The simplest way to nominate, however, is just by telling us who your nominee is, where she lives, what helpful activities she performs for family and community and especially — why she's someone extra "special."

This "telling" should be in letter form (no more than 500 words) and should accompany the entry blank.

Remember, everyone over 15 years old is eligible to nominate. Everyone living in the Hartley newspaper circulation area is eligible to be nominated.

Send your nomination to: Suburban Homemaker Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus 43204.

But please, send it before Saturday. Monday will be too late. Don't be among those who must say the saddest four words in the English language, "I wish I had."

Dr. Kelly, from Jackson, O., completed pre-med study at OSU, and was graduated from the Ohio College of Podiatry in Cleveland with a DSP degree.

Plans are under way to expand facilities of the clinic, located at the E. Broad-st address since 1959.

Center Will Expand Library To 5000 Books

The library at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, is being expanded from its present 1000 volumes to a projected 5000 volumes for use by the entire community.

Specializing in volumes concerning Jewish history and culture, the library also has books on Jewish social welfare subjects. Also stocked are national publications along with local periodicals. Jewish fiction comprises a large part of the collection.

The volumes in the library may be borrowed by members of the community. Hours are from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. for children, and from 7 to 9 p.m. for adults. The library is also open all day Sunday.

Evergreens, woody plants and fruit trees should be thoroughly watered periodically before ground freezes to lessen winter damage. Let the hose run at the base of the plants until they are soaked. This may take an hour or more depending on the size of the plants.

Richard Myers Is Appointed To Manager's Post

Snelling and Snelling, personnel consultants, 5 W Broadst, today announced the appointment of Richard L. Myers, 4005 Beech Creek-rd, to the post of manager of the male division. Mr. Myers joined the local Snelling office's sales ... Myers division as a counselor in December, 1963.

In September he was named one of the top three counselors in the entire system of 140 offices.

Myers was formerly with the Bernz-O-Matic Corporation and attended Ohio University. He assumes the managership of 11 counselors.

Teachers were left "out in the hot" when the Willoughby-Eastlake (O.) Board of Education voted to air-condition the new Cricket Lane Elementary School. Everything but a teachers' workroom will be air-conditioned in the new $480,000 building.

Jim Hakes Tops 189 Contestants, Win $50

If Mrs. James Hakes gets an extra-special anniversary gift this year she can thank her husband's knowledge of football for it.

That's what Jim, 760 Thomas-av, thinks he might do with some of the $50 he received this week for topping 189 other entries in the Spectator's Football Contest—and being a paid subscriber.

Jim missed only six of 28 contest games to outdistance five other contestants hot on his heels with eight miscues.

The quintet of runners-up this week included Carl Demko, 116 Beechcroft-rd; Mrs. L. F. Henson, 783 E. Mithoff-st; Wilbur Herron, Jr., 135 N. Hayden-av; Clarence Boswell, 194 N. Wayne-av, and Mike Robson, 141 Dakota-av.

Hakes didn't let not winning get him down He competed last year "without much success" but this time he hit the jackpot.

Included in last week's many entries were 12 from fifth graders at Christ the King School. The boys all got Spectators and worked out the games with John Stenson, 1436 Zettler-rd, coming closest with nine wrongs.

The contest has also taken on national interest with Bill Williams in St. Louis, Mo., sending in his entry each week.

You might not live in St. Louis, or even be in the fifth grade, but why not try your hand at the 28 grid contests appearing inside this paper today?

Remember, it doesn't cost anything to enter. Simply fill in the winners next to the name of the advertisers who carry the games inside their ad blocks.

Send your entry to: Football Contest, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus 43204. Be sure to read all the rules carefully.

Your entry must be postmarked no later than midnight, Tuesday, Oct. 27, to be eligible.

You could win up to $100 next week by sending us your entry blank. Maybe you'd like to buy somebody a gift too.

(Ed. note — Due to earlier deadlines, the picture of the contest winner will appear in The Spectator the week after he wins).

HAWK FLIGHT—Hartley junior halfback Joe Gatto (30) proves to be a soaring Hawk as he sails for yardage Saturday versus Ready. Knights' Tom Weisenbach closes in for attempt at halting Gatto. Hawks "flew" by Ready, 14-0, in CCL grid battle.

Broncs Win 5th Straight In WBFL

The Broncos'-Oilers' game was a fine display of all-out team effort by both squads as Bob Luzader, aided by a couple of timely blocks by Brian Wilson, scampered 30 yards for a TD early in the [illegible]

Later, Sesco of the Broncos ran 48 yards for their score and Ken Shoaf rammed over for the conversion to keep their undefeated-untied record intact.

The Patriots, after holding the Chiefs to one touchdown in three quarters, were snowed under by three quick TDs in the final quarter as Mitch Oyler, Mike Darr and Pat Nicholas were the standouts of the game.

IN THE battle of the cellar dwellers in the standing, the Bills put up a strong defense and offense, starring Kevin Hall who scored on runs of 45 and 38 yards.

In a game featuring plenty of offensive action by both teams, the Colts' Howard Berliner ran for two scores while end Dave Larrick scored twice, once on an end run and the other coming on a pass from quarterback Hill. Paulson, Nichols and Whitman ran for touchdowns for the Cowboys.

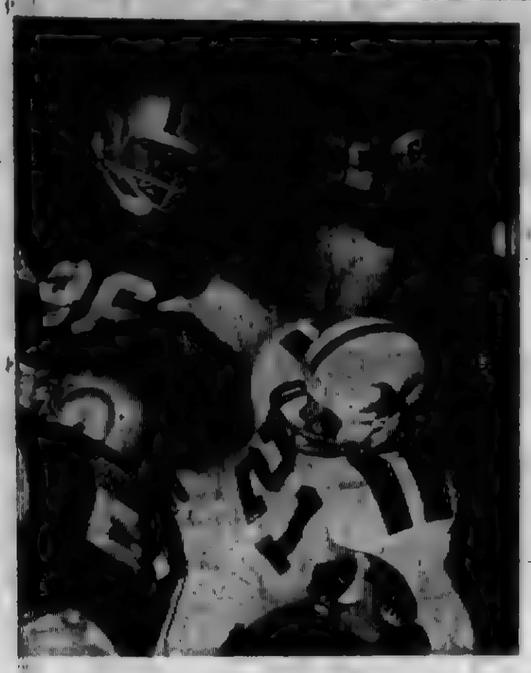
OUCH!! — Physics tells us that for every action there is a reaction. Ready halfback Bill Mastriani (33) and Hartley's Joe Kuhner (22) are about to experience a reaction as the Silver Knight runner digs for yardage Saturday night with Kuhner determined to stop the runner's action.



Little Bucks, Hawks Win

The Little Buckeyes blanked the Bremen Black Hawks 80 to 0 and the Lockbourne Sky Hawks defeated the Northern Lights McDonald Golden Gales 19-12 in Ohio Valley Conference football action over the weekend.

Buckeye halfback Kenny Levin scored six TD's on 94, 38, 36, 35, 30 and 25 yard jaunts while fullback John Ferrante scored twice; one for 70 yards and another long 60 yard run. Buckeye end Lynn Stoner accounted for two Buckeye scores by passes from quarterbacks Tim Pettorini and Bill Vest. Ken Terry raced 75 yards on another Buckeye TD while QB Bill Vest crossed the end zone for the last score of the game.

THE LOCKBOURNE Sky Hawks' Kevin Astley scored twice, one on a 45 yard run and another on a 45 yard punt return to bring his team from behind to down the McDonald Golden Gales.

Sky Hawk halfback Pat Gentile scored on a 25 yard interception. McDonald HB Bill Seagle scored on a 40 yard run and QB Rick Shay saw pay dirt by way of an intercepted pass return good for 60 yards.

SCOTT 'GOT'—Bishop Hartley's junior fullback Scott French (21) finds some unfriendly company in the neighborhood as he attempts to pick up yardage Saturday against Bishop Ready. Seating French on the turf are Knight tacklers Bill Murnane (top) and Chris Iacoboni (bottom).

Makar, Paxson High On OC List

Capital halfback Jim Makar, an Eastmoor High grad, currently ranks in a five-way tie for fourth place in Ohio Conference grid scoring with 30 points on five six-pointers.

Ron Paxson, Cap's fine signal-caller, is ninth in total offense with 408 net yards on 219 rushing, and 189 passing in 70 plays. Cap is the top team in rushing offense through four games with 1050 yards (262.5 yards a game).

Little Colts Nab 1st Win

Mixing power with passes, Reynoldsburg's 90-pound Colts deftly quarterbacked a 36-0 stampede over South Franklin last Sunday to enter their first mark in this year's win column.

Wolfe picked a 52-yard pass from John Krepp out of the air lanes in the first quarter to start the scoring sequence. In the second, Bond's 44-yard run ended in pay dirt, then Krepp carried for six yards to hang up another TD.

In the second half, passes from Krepp to Benner registered in each quarter.

Coach Tom Young gave his 90-pound Colts all the credit but admitted that "no fumbles or interceptions," does help to win a game.

The 110-pound Colts did not fair so well, dropping a 28-0 loss to South Franklin, while the 85-pound Colts were losing to Lockbourne, 24-8.

City League Play Moved Up To 7:30

Beginning Friday, all City League football games will get under way at 7:30 p.m., one half hour earlier than kickoff time in the past.

The move was sponsored by both coaches and principals at their regular City League meeting last week.

One CL principal said the purpose of the advanced starting time was to facilitate observance of the curfew, allowing fans and players to get home earlier.

After-game dances and the plunging mercury of late evening hours also were factors in the change.

YMCA Increases Volleyball As Sport Grabs Top Notice

The international surge of interest in volleyball which, sports experts say, now claims more fans and participants than basketball, has caused Central Branch YMCA to string volleyball nets for five classifications of play this season.

Noontime classes now play five days a week. Two instruction classes for advanced players are conducted on Thursday and Friday evenings. The regularly scheduled men's league competes each Monday at 6 p.m., while the Masters play begins at 8 p.m. the same evening.

The Masters play tosses top players against the "Y" Varsity team. The Varsity team coached this year by Ohio State's Paul E. Hartman.

YMCA's Robert Grady, physical director, announced that the Men's Volleyball League plays this year under the leadership of John Ketchum, chairman.

Enough children are born every day in the year in the City of Columbus to more than fill a public school classroom.

The Spectator Says:

By G. C. Hartley

Something New In Suburban Field

We have a lot of enthusiasm over our new venture in suburban newspaper publishing today with the extension of The Spectator to an additional 88,000 per week bringing our total to over 160,000 circulation.

We sincerely believe there is a place for our type of newspaper in Central Ohio.

We stand for the positive, believe in Columbus and want to put our total effort into publishing a paper that will work for the best interests of the greatest numbers.

We believe in giving credit where credit is due, and ask for only the right to perform like a good umpire . . . to call them as we see them.

"Liberals?"

There seems to be a strange set of ideas floating around, that a fervid belief in America as the greatest nation in the world is old-fashioned; that earning your own way and insisting that others do the same is "stuffy"; that mounting debt is no dishonor; that thrift and self-denial are out of date; that No-Win against your enemies is "clever."

Is religion out-of-date? Is honesty old-fashioned? Is self-respect too much trouble?

It's bad enough to be "liberal" with the tax money of hard working men and women who paid it, but it is unforgiveable to be "liberal" with the future of their country.

Remember another old fashioned American habit—spring house cleaning? And remember how much cleaner and healthier everyone was when it was done?

Well . . . . it's spring!

Note: The above is not original. But I do say . . AMEN.

A Tip Of The Hat

A tip of the hat to the League of Women Voters on their "Voters Information" bulletin. Never before was there so much need for guidance in voting. Their nonpartisan publication should prove valuable to many.

Contrast

This past week the news has been disconcerting and filled with the things that make for uneasiness.

The explosion of the atom bomb by the Chinese, the change of command in Russia, another scandal in the lap of the White House . . .

It is a contrast that causes much thought as I look back to the week before when, in the fine fellowship of Doc R. J. Miller, Howard Lloyd, Pat Shrock, Bob Case, Ed Johnson, Judge Charlton Myers and Clarence Story, we lived in serenity and peace the way God surely meant life to be lived - - in harmony with nature - - in the wide expanse of the woods and waters of the French River country in northern Ontario.

Halloween Adds One Extra Day For UNICEF

Although the Columbus Halloween Planning Committee has recommended that Halloween activities in the city be limited to two evenings, there are indications that three evenings are involved.

The committee, made up of representatives of the Columbus Board of Education, United Community Council, Columbus Area Council of Churches, the Police Juvenile Bureau and Columbus Recreation Department, suggested that Friday, Oct. 30, be set aside for Beggars and Pennies Night, leaving Oct. 31 for

SWAP CHARGE BEGINS OCT. 29

Beginning with next week's paper, there will be NO free swap ads in any edition of The Spectator. A new policy which will sell swap ads for a low rate of 20 words for $1 will go into effect with the Oct. 29 issue.

The swap item will appear in the classified section of all editions of The Spectator which now has a guaranteed circulation of 160,000. The ad will appear under a "Swap" heading.

Swap ads will not be taken by phone but must be submitted in person or by mail, accompanied by cash.

IT WAS B-DAY PLUS ONE . . .

"YESTERDAY was my 74th birthday" was the statement with which Dwight D. Eisenhower began his speech last Thursday afternoon from the veranda of Vets Memorial Auditorium. But before he could utter these words, 10,000 or so well-rehearsed Columbusites let loose a thundering rendition of "Happy Birthday To You" which shook the building and left the good General visibly pleased. The former president visited here to urge support in the coming election for the Republican Party.

STANLEY CHARGES:

Politics Delaying Study On Sewers

By Frank Ryan

Columbus city councilmen have been challenged by City Finance Director John Stanley to provide funding for the sanitary sewer capital improvement program they have approved.

Stanley and Service Director Warren J. Cremean are in the forefront of a move by Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner to force council action on the sewer study which it authorized three years ago.

Council and the Sensenbrenner administration are still awaiting a final report from Findlay Consultant J. S. Sawyel. Preliminary reports from the consultant to council members have indicated he will suggest an approximate 35 percent sewer rate increase to meet capital improvement needs.

"For at least four years," Stanley said of council, "they have been giving their approval of capital improvement programs, but failing to provide the money. It is a shame council fails to give us the go-ahead financing to get this job done."

The five-year capital improvement program calls for the completion of a $28.3 million sanitary sewer program covering the south and southeast sides of Columbus.

Stanley said that the result of council's failure to provide funding for approved projects "is that we have a $1.7 million southerly sewage treatment administration building, but no treatment plant or sanitary sewer trunk lines.

Commitments Made

Meanwhile, Stanley said, the administration and council have told developers of a proposed Eastland Shopping Center and 5,000-home development in the area that the sanitary sewer system would be in and completed by 1967. The developments are proposed for the Refugee-Hamilton-rd area.

Stanley said the delay in granting needed funds is also affecting other developments in the areas of Westerville, Gahanna and Hilliard—designated as part of the five-year works program. In all, administration officials say, the failure to meet the problem of inadequate revenue for sanitary sewer capital improvements is delaying about $40 million in needed projects.

Stanley says there is immediate need for $13 million to make the Southerly Sewage treatment plant functional; and in addition, phase one and two of the program must be started if the sanitary sewer project is to be completed by 1967.

The latter two stages, which Stanley says should be undertaken concurrently, would involve the laying of $7.5 million worth of sanitary trunk lines northeasterly to a juncture just east of Obetz. This is a distance of about 10 miles. From the Obetz juncture, lines are run for five miles northwest ($2.9 million) and five miles northeast ($2.6 million) to form a "Y" trunk line.

Cites Political Motives

One administration official says he is concerned with a different type of "Y"; why council seems so reluctant to

'Ike' Mentions Goldwater But Once; Railways Merge

By TED BEARDSHEAR

The Old Warrior, former President Dwight Eisenhower, invaded Columbus last Thursday and fired grapeshot at allegations by the Democrats. He called most of the accusations "tommyrot." He mentioned the name of presidential hopeful Barry Goldwater only once.

Columbus was the vital link in the largest rail merger in history as a Norfolk and Western train moved over a switch at 12:01 a.m. Friday, onto the old Sandusky Line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The ceremony represented the combination of 7800 miles of track through 14 states, including a border crossing into Canada at Buffalo, N.Y.

Assets of the company are placed at two billion and annual revenues of $550 million are expected.

The Sandusky line was the connection between the Norfolk and Western and the four other lines involved.

Ohio's juvenile institutions have been labeled a "disaster area" by the Ohio Youth Services Advisory Board.

To correct the situation, the board has offered a five-year program recommending the doubling of existing capacities, the doubling of the average length of inmate stay and the adding to the staff of the commission's Community Relations Division.

A breakdown of the $82,650,000 package bond issue which will go before Columbus area voters in the November election runs:

- $34,650,000 for schools.
- $15,000,000 for hospitals.
- $14,700,000 for streets and expressways.
- $6,000,000 for urban development (slum clearance).
- $4,800,000 for storm sewers.
- $4,450,000 for parks and recreation.
- $1,900,000 for street lighting.
- $1,150,000 for seven new fire houses.

The Metropolitan Committee branded the package as the "biggest bargain it has ever offered."

State Solons' Income Tax Stand Sought

Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford has sent individual letters to every candidate and incumbent seeking election to the Ohio House of Representatives, asking whether they believe that it is proper for Ohio cities to collect income tax from nonresidents.

Twyford has openly challenged the practice as "taxation without representation."

The mayor declares that past legislative proposals, offering only a partial solution, such as reciprocity, were not satisfactory to suburban residents. Even those efforts were never enacted into law, he said.

Twyford, an attorney, said, "While I appreciate the fact

A calico cat, who favors automobile hoods for a resting place, is leading her mistress a merry chase.

On Oct. 17, the cat stole a ride under the hood of a neighbor's car and finding it too hot after several blocks, jumped out and ran.

Last Saturday, someone reported finding a calico cat under the hood during the OSU - Southern California game. An announcement was made on television, but the owner failed to get any response from the number she called.

The cat may be identified by a gray patch on the mouth, is predominantly white, with brown and gray patches. Anyone knowing the whereabouts of this cat may call 276-4787.

GLUE-SNIFFING

Self-Injury Is A Crime, Not A 'Kick'

TWO OFFICERS of the Police Juvenile Welfare and Social Bureau display the tools of a dangerous teen-age fad called "bagging." Lt. Stephen Tigyer (left) holds a plastic cement tube containing the deadly ingredient, Toluol, while Fred Kilburn displays the "sniffing" bag. Stores in the Spectator have alerted adults to be on the lookout for these "tools of the trade."

As told by Fred Kilburn, Juvenile Officer, Columbus Police Department

When I was a kid I watched an ambulance stop next door, pick up my four-year-old neighbor, Ricky, and head for the hospital with screaming sirens.

Ricky's mother had turned her back a moment, and he ate a bottle of aspirin that was handy.

Later in school I met a kid who stole the paste on the teacher's desk and ate it.

Kids have a habit of trying something new.

Sometimes it doesn't hurt. Other times it can kill.

Take this glue, for example, that kids have been "bagging."

It can kill you!

It killed one boy in another state.

It can injure you seriously, ruin your liver, scramble your brains.

Two kids are in the Columbus State Hospital now, undergoing observation for brain damage.

Another has been committed to the Ohio Youth Commission. The glue became a monkey on his back. He's an addict—a miniature junkie.

Forget this glue kick. It's deadly!

There's a kid in Utah serving a second-degree murder stretch. He was high on glue when he killed his buddy.

You kids invented the name for this glue-sniffing routine. You call it "bagging." Well, that's a cool word. It fits you, not the habit. First time you bag, or the second, or the third—you're bagged!

You're in jail, or the hospital, or the morgue.

Or your mother is, or someone you never wanted to hurt.

Police stopped a kid chasing his best friend down the railroad tracks with a hatchet. He was lucky. He was caught before the murder.

That's what this glue stuff is—murder!

If you don't believe this by now, look at the records. Like the kid who lived on Sullivant-av. He "bagged" five tubes, then beat up his mother so seriously she nearly died.

There're the four nice kids who "bagged" a tube one afternoon after school. Later, they didn't remember what they did. But the seven ties they piled on the Baltimore and Ohio tracks near Central Point nearly wrecked a diesel train.

That's murder!

Remember the two kids who died in the Sportsmen's Club fire? They were known glue "baggers." They burglarized the club. There wasn't any glue there. So they filled a pot with gasoline, put it on the stove to make fumes.

They died!

Police and other authorities are not anxious to punish kids who, somehow, have been lured by this dangerous fad called bagging.

They want to help—by breaking up a fad as deadly as Russian roulette.

They want merchants to help. Treat plastic cement or airplane glue like the dynamite it is. Lock it in display cases, or out of sight. Restrict sales. Make the kid bring a note from parents.

They want parents, and teachers to help. If you suspect, take positive action. Juvenile officers wear plain clothes, drive unmarked cars. They respect your confidence. They make every effort to avoid embarrassment, unless it is necessary to save the life of your son or your daughter.

They want kids to help, help each other. Don't indulge. Don't help a friend to indulge. If he does, and you know it, save his life, keep him out of trouble. Tell someone who can help. Tell your parents or your teacher, or call me.

You can recognize this new teenage trouble easily.

The key is TOLUOL.

TOLUOL is the ingredient, stamped on glue containers, which can trigger murder, mayhem, criminal acts in innocent kids.

T-O-L-U-O-L, a new name for juvenile dynamite.

All You Really Need Is A Trusty Ball Point Pen

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA — Buenos Aires is a city transformed. The foreigners, particularly the Americans, are delighted. Every last one of them is looked upon as though his nickname was "Honest Abe." The Argentines, who normally don't trust anyone, now have become the most trusting souls in the world.

There's scarcely an American anywhere in the world, especially inside of the United States, who hasn't suffered the embarrassment and indignities that come in a strange situation where money is needed and all you have is a personal check. The hard-lined policy is everywhere "No personal checks cashed."

It's a matter of choice and right now the Portenos of Buenos Aires would rather be trusting than take a beating. An American who is a total stranger can walk along Calle San Martin, the heart of Buenos Aires' financial section, fingering his American checkbook and all kinds of mousy or shady-looking characters will approach him and offer him a handsome peso-exchange if he'll simply write a check.

No identification is asked for. The fact that you've got an American checkbook is all that's needed to establish your virtue. And the exchange you get is about 20 percent higher than the banks and the official exchange houses will give you.

This is precisely the reason the shady mice are so eager to take your check. No one is cashing dollars any more in the exchange houses or the banks. And in reverse, you can't buy dollars either.

The heart of the problem is a series of government financial decrees aimed at stemming the outflow of dollars from Argentina. The drastic restrictions resulted in what had long been absent from the Argentine scene — a black market in money, with dollars worth about 2o percent more than the "official" value.

The people needing to buy dollars for whatever reason had to go into the street to get them and that's what shot the price up. It also made U.S. currency in any form look mighty good to Argentine eyes. A man's personal check is as good as a greenback.

In Buenos Aires, that check represents badly needed dollars that can be passed through many hands before it finally finds its way back to your bank. The check is left blank where is says, "pay to the order of."

This permits the last person who handles it to fill it out any way he wants. When you finally get your bank statement with the canceled checks, it represents quite an assortment of names and places you've never heard of and never been to.

The Argentine blind faith in American checks, unfortunately, can't last much longer. Anytime you can get money by simply signing your name to a check, wallpaper inevitably follows. That'll bring an end to the check-cashiers' paradise.

However, at least for the moment, you walk down the financial section of Buenos Aires with your American checkbook and you've got takers at every corner. The conversation is the height of brevity: "What's the exchange rate?" "How many dollars do you want to cash?"

That's all there is to it. You wouldn't even get a raised eyebrow if you said your name was Jesse James.

The philosopher's stone was sought by the medieval alchemists, who believed that the stone, when ground and combined with water and other materials, would produce an elixir, which could then transform imperfect metals into perfect ones.

Automobile Becomes Modern Dynamometer

By ROYCE BRIER

The Athenians had the salt mines (hence could preserve meat), and so stood off the Spartans for decades. The Romans had the timber for ships, and ultimately bested the Carthaginians.

Henry Adams, the historian, believed coal was the measure of a nation's power and energy. He called it the dynamometer. But today the automobile is the dynamometer of a nation's power and energy.

This hypothesis is manifestly inspired by the Detroit settlement. There have been fears in some quarters that "disturbingly high" gains of the UAW in the Chrysler agreement may cause a chain reaction inflation.

But the automobile has a way of absorbing the deficits it creates, then converting to a surplus of power and energy residing in a nation.

This came about gradually, for elders remember when the automobile was the rich man's toy, and high school boys didn't even have tin lizzies.

Early in the century the fuel burned in American automobiles did not produce the major income of the oil industry. A small town had one or two garages, a large city, 30 or 40.

There were no roadside eating places, no heavily populated suburbs. Steel was used in bridges and buildings, cement in warehouses. Recreation areas were few, small and thinly visited.

Unless you were wealthy you got about a city by streetcar, you visited other cities by railroad, and heavy drayage and farm work was still performed by horses.

All this constituted power and energy at a low level, and what is equally important, at a slow pace. Men had not the means to do much more work than they had done half a century earlier. Opportunity for gainful employment was pinched, and average income in factories and small business was meager.

There is little doubt the automobile has played a major part in the inflation of this century, which we began to call the High Cost of Living in 1920.

You don't get something for nothing, and power and energy cannot be had and used without paying their fee. But by the end of the Depression the automobile and truck had begun to illuminate the work potential of this nation, and after the war this potential mushroomed in western Europe and Japan.

Today the motor vehicle is the foundation of our working life. The industries directly involved in producing, fueling and servicing vehicles employ millions. But as many millions have jobs because 85 million vehicles worth $100 billion are moving hither and yon like mad.

The ominous part of it is that we now have so many vehicles doing our work they tend to smother our cities and our highways, diminishing their own power and energy potential. But that is another story — and a sadder one.

P-L Jaycee Headpin Play Ends Sunday

In addition to many other door prizes, the grand prize will be an all-expense paid weekend for two at Howard Johnson's West Motor Lodge.

A 330 series leads in the sweepstake division in which $100 top prize is guaranteed. Top prizes in the men's and womens' regular divisions are $100 and $75 respectively.

Barrett Slated For New PA

Columbus School Board has set a Nov. 6 deadline for bids on a public address system at Barrett Junior High, and a Nov. 9 deadline for bids on a new freight elevator at South High.

The installation of a public address system at Barrett will complete the school system's program of equipping all its secondary schools with such a system.

Help Needed For Children

Classroom volunteers and volunteer drivers are needed to assist teachers and transport mentally retarded children to and from pre-school classes.

Seven pre-schools for mentally retarded children have been established by the Council for Retarded Children. They are located in the following areas: Crestview Presbyterian Church, 350 E. Tulane-av; McKendree Methodist Church, 3330 Cleveland-av; East Baptist Church, Pinewood and Broad-sts, Whitehall; First English Lutheran Church E. Main at 22nd-av; Godman Guild Community House, 321 W. Second-av; Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, 2950 W. Broad-st; Grove City Methodist Church, 600 Columbus-st, Grove City. These seven schools are operated by Council for Retarded Children, Inc., of Franklin County, with financial support from ARC (Aid to Retarded Children) groups, the Jeffrey Foundation and other interested civic groups and individuals.

The vital need at this time is for volunteers. Two or three volunteers are needed per day in each school in order to give the children maximum benefit from the program. Many children are unable to get to the classes because of lack of transportation. Thus, volunteers are needed to transport the children to and from class. Pre-school classes are held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 9 to 11:30 a.m., with the exception of the Grove City class which is held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of each week.

Interested persons may call the Council for Retarded Children, 221-9115, and ask for Mrs. Heber.

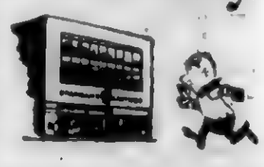
Guideposts For Home Site Selection Listed

A family selecting a home site should consider the physical characteristics of the lot. This may eliminate construction problems and save development costs, says Larry Segerlind, Ohio State University Extension agricultural engineer.

Some important factors to consider are drainage, water supply, and lot size, Segerlind points out. He notes both surface and sub-surface drainage need attention to insure rapid removal of water. The lot should slope away from the house in all directions with enough slope to allow gravity draining of the basement. When the lot is in a low area, the house should be set high and fill added to obtain the desired slope.

A home site located at the base of a steep slope will require an intercepting drainage ditch to divert the surface water, the engineer explains. If a public sewer is not available, check to see if there is a nearby ditch or stream into which the water from the basement and footing tile may be drained, he suggests.



Sandy or gravel soils drain more easily than heavy soils, such as clay or silt. Heavy soils and high water tables are unsuitable for septic tanks and also may prohibit the installation of a basement. In areas where the water table is continually above the basement floor, waterproofing the basement is difficult.

If the lot is located in the country, make sure there is an adequate water supply. Investigate ground water conditions before buying. Consult the Ohio Division of Water, the local board of health, and local residents for this information, Segerlind advises. Drill the well before building the house and have it pumped to determine the capacity and draw-down. Have the water tested for both bacterial and mineral content.

Where water and sewer mains are available, lot size is a matter of personal preference, the engineer says. But in the country a lot must be large enough to isolate the well from the septic tank. This means at least one-half acre of land and usually more.

Channel of the Scioto River south of Columbus has been widened and cleared in anticipation of an increased volume of water to be carried away from residential areas by new storm sewers.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR MR. MILLER: We have a small painted turtle (Chrysemys picta) and would like to know what provisions, if any, should be made for semi-hibernation this winter. Particularly, as fish and earthworms will not be available, what meat should Sinker be fed. R.S.

DEAR R.S.: For Sinker's sake, you had better plan on him hibernating completely or make him forget the whole thing. Semi-hibernation for a turtle is usually deadly. If the temperature drops below 70 Sinker will quit eating.

Unless the temperature is in the hibernation range of 40 to 50 degrees his body will still require food but won't be getting it. The result is gradual starvation.

If he is fat, lazy and wants to hibernate, then tuck him away for the winter at 45 degrees. Otherwise, keep his wintertime temperature at 75 or so and keep him eating.

You should train him now to eat strips of liver, or small hamburger balls. As long as he likes fish he might appreciate the better canned cat foods. They make excellent turtle food, too.

DEAR DR. MILLER: At what age is it safe to ignore a female dog's heat cycle—C.O.

DEAR C. O.: As long as the female has heat periods, the males certainly won't ignore it. Unless you want to run the risk of four-legged consequences, better not ignore it either.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When our cat, Si, was a kitten he was a climbing nuisance. We expected him to grow out of it, but now he is almost two years old and he still loves to climb all over the furniture from the dining room table to the living room curtains.

We turn him loose outside and he climbs trees, too, but never gets satisfied. A friend says her Siamese loves to climb too. Wouldn't cutting the nails out be the best way to cure this habit?—D.M.

DEAR D.M.: No, declawing is far from the best answer. While that drastic surgery might save the curtains, clipping the nails would help in that department. Si could still leap on furniture, and would.

If all his nails were removed he would be unable to climb trees while outside, which might prove frustrating — and dangerous if he were ever chased by dogs.

Most Siamese are acrobats, after a fashion, and naturally happier when they can perch on a high spot. Provide Si with a perch or two plus an artificial (or real if your rooms are really roomy) inside tree for climbing purposes.

Then gradually train him away from forbidden furniture by scolding, newspapers, repellant sprays, and (upside down) mousetraps.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Golden Boy (a canary) has been singing and happy with me in this bachelor apartment for almost a year. Then my sister came for a visit. I was still half asleep on the couch when she wandered out of the bedroom.

Golden Boy was singing even under his cover until she went over, lifted the cover and peered in at him. He choked off a note in the middle and fluttered wildly around his cage. I thought he would break his neck on the wire, but he finally calmed down.

Well, after seeing my sister with the remains of a mud pack and a headful of curlers, I knew why my bird got so frantic. My sister left the same day, but the damage had been done. That was three weeks ago. Golden Boy hasn't sung a note since. Will he ever sing again?—D.D.

DEAR D.D.: The apparition you described has unnerved many a male—most of whom were considerably stronger than Golden Boy to start with. Golden Boy may be afraid to sing again for fear of a repeat performance.

However, it's more likely he went into a state of shock from which he is not yet recovered. If he is molting now (as a result) it may be several weeks before he really has his strength back. Even then, his first efforts at song may require considerable courage, though chances are he will make the effort eventually.

As cattlemen depart from the Ohio Expositions Center, poultrymen move in for the 17th Ohio Poultry Industries Conference and Exposition, Oct. 27 and 28.

D. D. Moyer of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., will address turkey and broiler growers and processors the first day of the conference. O. H. Green, Spartansburg, S. Green will report on what hatcherymen and egg producers and processers of the South are doing to improve their operations. At the banquet the association will announce the name of its Poultry Woman of the Year and present its Golden Egg Awards. Clyde Keathley of radio station WRFD, will serve as master of ceremonies.

The Agricultural Department is moving to expand its purchase of dairy products. USDA has a standing program of purchasing butter, cheese, and non-fat dry milk at the government support price. The surplus stockpile produced by this program has been shrinking rapidly and USDA has announced an additional buying program for butter starting Oct. 27. From past April through September this year, USDA had bought about 129 million pounds of butter.

Ohio Christmas tree growers are expected to have 2,400,000 trees available for the 1964 marketing season. This is an increase of 300,000 trees over last year and 700,000 over 1962. Ohio production probably will hold steady at the 2.4 million tree mark for the next three years, predicts William Cowen, Jr., OSU Extension Forester.

1964: A Shameful Campaign

The 1964 presidential race might well go down as one of the most negative and least constructive political campaigns in our history. Issues have been submerged in a mudbath prepared to the lasting discredit of both political parties.

Perhaps the tone of the campaign was set when it became apparent at the outset that neither candidate for president enjoyed a wide degree of popularity within his own party. Whatever the reason, the tragic result has been that more and more people are becoming less and less informed. This is a dangerous way to run a political campaign OR a country.

The whole sordid mess has taken on the aspect of choosing between the lesser of two evils instead of the better of two men. The once-sharply-defined philosophies of the two political parties are now bent and twisted by too many politicians who would rather count votes than principles.

Let's hope that a lasting memory of the present degrading campaign will bring us back to some of the basic fundamentals of representative government. Perhaps we will come to realize that the concentration of power in Washington could not have come about without a corresponding breakdown at the local levels of government. It is a rare office-holder or politician who begins his career in Washington.

Our national government can be no better than the calibre of men we groom at the grassroots levels. What good is it to throw out the corrupt at the top only to replace them with others of the same stripe who are standing in the wings? We must demand good government, integrity of candidates and "issues only" campaigns at the local level—where we can exercise tight control.

When we do this, we will bring an end to the type of campaign we are now witnessing — and we will save ourselves in the process.

Don't Forget The Hero

A national magazine recently devoted its cover to a picture of Lee Harvey Oswald. His claim to fame was the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. And as Oswald committed cowardly murder, a courageous Secret Service Agent used his body to shield then Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson from harm.

We all know the name of President Kennedy's killer. But how many, we wonder, know the name of the brave man who was willing to give his life in the service of his country. It is Rufus Youngblood. And as we diminish the notoriety for the Oswalds and increase the honor to the Rufus Youngbloods, so will our nation grow in spiritual and moral strength.

Vote Yes For Hospital, Welfare Issues

All voters in Franklin County will decide the fate of two important county-wide issues on the Nov. 3 ballot—the $15 million bond issue for hospitals and renewal of a half-mill welfare levy.

The welfare levy, if passed, will replace an existing half-mill levy due to expire on Dec. 31, 1964. It will not involve an increase in taxes, nor will it permit any expansion of current welfare services. Passage of the levy would do no more than continue Franklin County's welfare program at 70 percent of state standards.

If the welfare levy fails, we can be assured of a crisis situation that will mean harsh curtailments of even the most basic aid during the winter months ahead. The levy has been endorsed by all responsible organizations and groups. There is no organized opposition — and there should be none.

We encourage a "yes" vote for the welfare levy.

The $15 million Franklin County Bond Issue for hospitals would involve an "average" tax increase of from two cents to 3.5 cents per week for a five-year period. Although the issue carries a 24-year term, retirement of existing bonds would bring the taxing rate back to current levels in about a five-year period.

The $15 million is part of a planned $19,869,000 five-year construction and improvement program for the county's eight major hospitals. The rest is to be secured through gifts from industry and private sources.

The need for more hospital beds and services is emphasized by Franklin County growth patterns that forecast a population increase of 155,000 over the next five years. Hospital services constitute a vital link in the growth chain of any metropolitan community. The proposed bond issue is the best way to effect orderly growth, and thus avoid the alternative of a much more costly crash program.

We urge a "yes" vote for the bond issue.

All Even in This Poll

"Frosting On The Cake"

Beginning way back in 1937, radical labor started kidnapping one business after another, and held it for ransom, using any form of violence it could think of.

The whole mess was started by one Homer Martin at Flint, Mich. He had an idea but lacked utterly the brains or "ironbelly" to consummate his original purpose. Then Walter Reuther moved in and went right by poor Homer like a breeze and it never even "mussed up Martin's hair." Martin was not even a memory in Michigan.

Then came the same violence in larger and larger plants in Detroit and the stage was set for more than a quarter of a century of both physical and psychological warfare between management and the two Reuther brothers. It is now time for some analysis.

1. From 1890 up until the world "exploded" on Black Tuesday, 1929, there was not a single stupidity or violence that Tory-minded management was not guilty of. From 1937 to this moment, there is not a single stupidity or violence that the radical labor dues collecting racket is not guilty of. Both are wrong as can be and both extremes are devastating in lost time, wages, production, profits, and worst of all, the present day result is almost a handcuff on the real potential of this great growing land.

2. There is a correct answer to all of this nonsense —that is for labor to become economically literate and for management to become sanely social minded, as made possible under the basic truths of balance-sheet facts.

3. After the Reuthers got their "second wind," Jimmy Hoffa moved into the same warfare and added confusion, worse confounded. Meanwhile the outmoded rules and regulations of governing the railroads were kept absolutely geared against every possible rational growth that would provide legitimate competition. Nor is this gainsaying the obvious truth that .tired and mentally stagnated railroad management was seemingly incapable of recognizing why they were "dying on the vine."

The right answer is getting Uncle Sam off of everyone's back and out of private enterprise. Turn the people loose and watch this country get going again.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Red Pupils Get Pink-Eyed U.S. History

The sincere young Russian student, like all students everywhere, turns to the encyclopedia for facts. The Russian student, unfortunately has only one encyclopedia to turn to. It is the Great Soviet Encyclopedia.

Pravda of March 26, 1949, stated that the Party ordered a new edition "to show with conviction and in full the superiority of socialist culture over the decadent culture of the capitalist world, to expose imperialist aggression and apply Party criticism to contemporary bourgeois movements in the realms of science, technology and culture," and to "be saturated with Bolshevik Party spirit."

Jones

Unhappily, the "Bolshevik Party spirit" does not seem to be entirely compatible with the facts, and Americans are indebted to the Wisconsin State Historical Society for a full translation of the American section of that encyclopedia. A few samples:

ON THE MISSOURI COMPROMISE: "In 1820 slavery was forbidden in the territory above 36 degrees 30 minutes. Fear of the power of the popular masses united the planters and the bourgeoisie."

ON THE CIVIL WAR: "Peoples' masses carried on a just war against slavery. However, the upper bourgeoisie, seeking a compromise with the planters, profited by its fruits."

EXPLAINING THE difficulties of American Communists in recruiting the masses. All forces of reaction united for the fight against the increasingly strong movement of the workers and farmers. A rapprochement took place between the Republican and Democratic parties, which had turned into the parties of the upper bourgeoisie The large fluctuation of labor impeded the formation of permanent cadres of the proletariat. The bourgeoisie succeeded in weakening the worker movement by bribing the workers' leaders."

ON AMERICAN prosperity: "The defenders of American imperialism created a myth of so-called prosperity and of the 'uniqueness' of American capitalism. These 'theories' were propagandized in every possible way by reactionary trade-union leaders and other reformists trying to delude the broad masses of workers."

ON UNIONS: "The Communist Party had substantial influence in left-wing trade unions, advocating the reorganization of the AFL on an industrial basis. In 1936 the reactionary leadership of the AFL expelled trade unions which had joined the Committee for Industrial Organization. However, left-wing elements did not succeed in heading the CIO, whose leadership was seized by right-wing trade union leaders — Lewis, Murray, Carey and others."

ON WORLD WAR II: "Although it supported England against Germany, the USA tried to take advantage of England's difficulty to establish America's control over several English possessions and spheres of influence

On June 22, 1941, Hitler's Germany treacherously attacked the Soviet Union. The Great Patriotic War of the Soviet Union began. The USSR took upon itself the main attack of Fascist Germany . . . Reactionary circles in the USA and England were not interested in the rapid conclusion of the war. They wanted the mutual weakening of the USSR and Germany . . . Although the Second Front was promised in 1942 it was not opened until 1944, when it became clear that the USSR was in a position to occupy Germany with its own forces and to free Europe from the fascist yoke . . . The use of the atom bomb by the USA, in the opinion of many representatives of peaceable communities, was not called for by military necessity and had chiefly political objects. After the USSR entered the war with Japan on Aug. 8, 1945, and after the destruction of principal Japanese land forces by the Soviet Army, Japan surrendered."

POST-WAR: "Anti-democratic laws in the post-war period included the Taft-Hartley Act (1947) against strikes and depriving the unions of many rights, the McCarrran-Wood Act (1950) against the Communist Party, and all democratic organizations, and the McCarran-Walter immigration and naturalization act (1952), directed against progressive elements among immigrants . . . The House Committee on Un-American Activities investigated the prosecution of a great number of progressive journalists, motion picture figures, and trade union workers."

THE PROGRESSIVES: "The 1948 Progressive Party which united progressive intelligentsia and several strata of the bourgeoisie and farmers under Henry Wallace, entered elections against the two parties of monopolistic capital. The Party advanced a program of a fight for peace and for the democratic rights of the American people . . . In 1952 the Progressive Party advanced B. Hallinan as its candidate for President. The Communist Party and other progressive organizations of the USA came forward in support of him, General Eisenhower, whom a majority of the largest USA monopolies support, was elected."

YOUNG VLADIMAR, thumbing through the Great Soviet Encyclopedia for his paper on American politics, might wonder how it is possible that in America the democracy-hungry masses are always outvoted by the exploiting monopolists. He might ask just how many votes DID Mr. Wallace and Mr. Hallinan get.

The Encyclopedia doesn't say.

"THE GRIST"

(Ground Out by Dusty Miller)

CAUTION — "Ike Cautious in Expressing Views"—headline. There was a once-upon-a-time tale of a rustic ruffian who kept the neighborhood in constant terror by hamstringing horses, shooting at game—wild or tame—in or out of season, and "taking up where he had not laid down."

The game warden, always on his trail, found some holes in the ice on the creek, and suspicioned the evil-doer of breaking the law against fishing in that fashion.

At a squire's court hearing the chief witness was a timid soul, nicknamed "Jerk," from his wearing a celluloid collar three sizes too big so that, the wags argued, he could jerk his head in, turtle-like, in event of danger.

"On or about Jan. 10, did you see some holes in the ice on Rocky Fork above the mill dam?" the witness was asked.

Fearing even to look toward the accused, "Jerk" answered: "Yes, I seen 'em."

"Would you say those holes had been made recently or not?" the court queried.

Ike-like, and ready to jerk his head into the gaping collar, the witness hedged: "I wouldn't want to say whether they wuz this winter's holes in the ice or last winter's."

DISTAFF DRIBBLES — With Lady Bird and Peggy and the girls whistle-stopping, the old timer is reminded of the candidate-for-sheriff's daughters whooping it up, and their ma shushing them: "They h'ain't nobuddy runnin' for sheriff but me and yer pa."

Before Luci's attempt at "yo'all" in Norfolk she should have taken a few lessons from WRFD's Bill Arthurs, who pronounces "Luh'v'l" like its residents do, but you and I — and Lucy — can't.

QUOTES — Lady, to another in the supermarket: "They say he's hoarse from talkin' too much; I haven't heard him say anything yet!"

From a popular newspaper column: "The poor, as someone has said, we have with us always." You'd think the columnist would at least have used a capital "S" on "Someone."

Mayor Sends Best Wishes

To the Publisher:

On behalf of the City of Columbus and my administration, I wish to congratulate you on the greatly expanded circulation of the Metropolitan edition of the Spectator. I understand total circulation of all eight editions of the Spectator will be around 160,000 copies each week.

This greatly expanded community newspaper coverage throughout Columbus and Franklin County is a tremendous bonus in good reading and shopping values to our entire community, which can only result in an ever-quickening pace in our busy, booming Central Ohio economy.

The success of your newspapers in recent years, at a time when many daily newspapers have been undergoing mergers or terminations of service due to the great expenses involved in publishing, supports a belief that I have long held. Namely, there is a very definite, important place in each home for the community newspaper with neighborhood news and shopping advice.

Better still than this view is the fact that your Hartley Spectator organization has brought a new dimension to readers, a mixture of local community and metropolitan news coverage. This makes your papers a "two-for-one" bargain.

I seldom miss reading your Hilltop Spectator, virtually from front to back page, some time during each week. I am confident this is a habit tens of thousands of new readers will be adopting in coming weeks.

Congratulations again, and best wishes for the future.

Mayor, City of Columbus

'Drinking Water Is . . Ugh!'

To the Editor:

I see by the papers that the dentists held a convention and again raised the question for fluoride for our drinking water.

The citizens of this city voted on this question and defeated it soundly. In our book that is how it must be if we are to remain free and not permit pressure groups to run our lives from Washington to City Hall.

Many persons who are forced to use this river water for drinking purposes now must boil in first, before they can drink it. And when complaints on the taste are made, we are told that this is due to rotting leaves in the fall. I think there are several real reasons for this taste:

1. All kinds of trash and sewage, particularly washing detergent that finds its way into this city drinking water.

2. The city's boating racket (the main cause). These high speed boats ply this river night and day, keeping the water in a constant state of roil.

A city law prohibits swimming in our drinking water, but there is no law against ski riders falling off and wallowing all over the river.

If our officials and medical experts, particularly the City Board of Health, were honestly interested in the health and well-being of our citizens who drink this water they would have put an immediate stop to all of the above contributing causes of water pollution. Only an intense and continuing drive by the citizens can clean up this rotten condition.

Says Town Can Readjust

To the Editor:

Residents who live in the Big Darby Valley are torn between facts that they will lose their homes to make way for the Big Darby Dam and the thought that you can't stop progress.

Many people have lost their homes to super highways or re-routing of rivers, such as the St. Lawrence Seaway, and they all hated to go. Most people bettered themselves as they received their damage payments. And the people of Georgesville feel the same way.

The town is at a standstill. It hasn't grown in 50 years, because it is surrounded by farm lands. Sure it would have been a good place to live, but the railroad depot has gone, the local yards are gone, and the railroad siding is gone. The trains fly by and never stop.

Georgesville had the water from two creeks (Big and Little Darby) and the railroad, but no land could be bought to build factories or industry.

The post office has gone, the pool hall, and the barber shop are no longer there.

At the present our big grade school has three empty classrooms, as results of having a junior high school at Pleasant View.

Most of the low lands are flooded in the spring, basements are flooded, and now, due to dry weather, several wells are dry.

The village never bothered to incorporate. It used to have two doctors, a small elevator, a lime kiln, a buggy factory, an ice house, a blacksmith shop and several saloons.

The present Georgesville consists of 38 homes, two stores, a community house, a firehouse, two churches, a school house, a beauty shop and a township house.

The townspeople will find it hard to rebuild and settle in new communities—the sentiment remains for our homes, trees (that can never be replaced), flowers and beautiful gardens that have taken a lifetime to build. But I'm sure we can readjust and come back to enjoy a beautiful lake and a recreational area.

I have talked with many people in our area and they are willing to give up their homes but they would like to know how soon they can expect an appraisal and how much they will receive in damages.

Hope Distinguishes Christian From Pagan

On Oct. 12, we commemorated the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. In the midst of all the festivities marking this historical event, I wonder if we gave even a cursory reflection on the character of this man whose vision, courage and determination has meant so much for our continent.

Msgr. Carroll

If there was any virtue which set this man apart from other men, I believe one of his outstanding traits was the virtue of hope—hope or trust in the Providence of Almighty God. We can best honor this man by imitating his trust and confidence in Divine Providence as we live our daily lives.

What is meant by Christian hope? It is true that Christ did not use the word hope, yet he often spoke about its significance. Take for example, His discourse about the end of the world. Instead of giving an answer to the disciples' curiosity about the when and how of the end of the world, He impressed on their hearts the necessity of being prepared at all times for the coming of the Lord—to watch and pray for that approaching hour. He tells them that hope is a most important virtue of this event.

"As in the days of Noe, so shall the coming of the Son of Man be. For as in the days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, even till that day in which Noe entered into the ark, and they knew not till the flood came, and took them all away; so also shall the coming of the Son of Man be. Then two shall be in the field; one shall be taken, and one shall be left . . . Watch ye therefore, because you know not what hour your Lord will come. (Mt. 24:36ff).

In these words, Christ makes it very clear that the virtue of hope is a mark that distinguishes the Christian from the pagan. The pagan lives only for the hour, confining his interests to the satisfaction of earthly desires and appetites. Then suddenly the Flood came and wiped them out. We could say: then suddenly death comes and destroys them all.

Our Lord goes on to say that Christians and pagans will not differ outwardly; in fact, they often live side by side and work together. But the one thing that really makes them different is hope. Two men are diligently at work side by side. But the one man is awaiting the Lord, trusting that the Lord will reward his life of goodness, and is prepared for His coming. The other thinks only of eating and drinking and making money. If suddenly death overtakes him he will be rejected.

That is the meaning of hope or the lack of it. In the one man, we have an individual whose aspirations transcend earthly things and are centered on something higher, namely God. In the other, we have the man completely absorbed in temporal interests. To which category do you belong?

James L. Baumann, a candidate for state representative believes the key issues to confront the people of Ohio includ free enterprise, vocational education, juvenile delinquency and conservation of natural resources.

"The State Legislature shares the responsibility that private business continue as the primary tool in retaining our free enterprise system of government," say Baumann, a southeast businessman.

Baumann, a Democrat in his first race for elective office, believes that vocational programming is one of the biggest problems in the state.

He attends Indianola Presbyterian Church, and is a member of the Masonic Lodge, American Legion, Columbus Bar Association, Republican organizations and other associations.

John Gordon Seeks Election To Senate Seat

Gordon, 37, resides with his wife and daughter at 5406 Milton-av. He has been a resident of Columbus for 25 years and is a graduate of North High School, Naval Medical Corps School and the National Industrial Marketing School.

He has had 15 years experience in business management and administration. He is presently engineering planning coordinator for the quality assurance and logistics division of North American Aviation.

Brown attended Ohio State and other universities and schools, majoring in accounting and business administration.

In the southeastern hilly pasture areas of Ohio, fine-wool sheep have predominated. These sheep are hardy and long-lived, and they produce a fine wool for which there usually is a good demand.

Electric dryers are first choice of 8 out of 10 women.

One reason: electric dryers cost less to buy!

Electric sets pace as 1,011 women tell why and how they pick and choose dryers.

Over 1,000 homemakers in The Electric Company service area recently took part in an independent study of why and what they preferred about certain appliances.

Naturally, automatic clothes dryers were included and compared.

This big cross-section of "experts" left no question about the overwhelming preference in this area for flameless electric dryers.

They gave lots of reasons why, but one important feature heads the list: the fact that electric dryers cost less to buy!

Flameless electric dryers preferred 9 to 1 for low initial cost!

Nine times out of 10, women mentioned this money-saving advantage of flameless electric dryers. (There was little doubt—even among owners of all types of dryers—that electric dryers, feature for feature, cost less to buy.)

Prove it to yourself. Visit your favorite appliance dealer and compare dryers. You'll find electric dryers do cost less to buy.

Significantly so.

While you're looking, there are some things you won't see — and these unseen features are more of what makes electric dryers most preferred by homemakers in the Columbus and Southern Ohio area.

Area homemakers offer you buying hints for dryers.

In fact, if you've never owned an automatic clothes dryer, here's a buying hint for you: 8 out of 10 local women who begin enjoying all the time-and-work-saving convenience of automatic clothes drying start with a flameless electric dryer.

You see, far more than the low price of an electric dryer appeals to women.

Women prefer more features of flameless electric dryers.

Once you get it home, you continue to save with electric.

Here's why:

There's only one connection to make. Electricity runs the dryer and dries the clothes. Pure radiant electric heat gently dries everything from your daintiest lingerie to Dad's work clothes; and because flameless electric heat is so clean, it protects clothes as it dries them fluffier, brighter and fresher.

You save time and steps because you can put your electric dryer wherever it's most convenient for you — upstairs, downstairs, in the kitchen, even the garage. Put it any place you can run a wire!

Over the years, you'll get more use from your electric dryer, too. With fewer moving parts to wear out, they last longer.

It's easy to see why, in homes that have automatic dryers, you find 7 out of 10 dryers are flameless electric!

Every day, more people give more reasons for going electric!

Someday, you will want a new automatic dryer for your home.

The chances are good you're thinking about one right now.

Before you buy, shop around. Compare closely. Check the prices. Then remember that the important advantages of flameless electric dryers don't show up until you get one home.

Those are the benefits that count.

And they're the ones preferred by more homemakers like yourself.

You'll prefer a flameless electric dryer, too.

Even more when you get it home.

Wildlife Division Sets Up Gun Safety Clinic

It looks like Ohio hunters are becoming more careful—the Division of Wildlife reports that in the first nine months of this year fatal hunting mishaps dropped 33% while non-deadly accidents decreased 27% over the same period of 1963.

Through the final day of Sept. 26 accidents had been recorded with two of them deadly; last year the first nine months Ken McCreary saw 36 reported hunting accidents including six fatalities. Wildlife chief Dale Whitesell blames carelessness for the mishaps, with victims either being mistaken for game or being out of sight.

WHITESELL FEELS the answer to accident prevention in the field is proper education; to achieve that aim his division is embarking on a new program to establish regular gun safety clinics across the state.

The Wildlife boss comments: "Only one-tenth of one percent of accidental deaths in Ohio are caused by firearms while hunting, but even this loss cannot be minimized to a cold statistic.

"A few hours of training in the safe handling of firearms can make the difference between the current figure and reducing it to almost zero."

The new, agressive program will call for a once-a-month gun safety instruction course, in each of 20 areas across the state. Cooperating in the new effort will be sportsmen's clubs and other groups which have sponsored similar clinics in the past.

OVER A DOZEN clinics have already taken place or are scheduled for later this month. Any conservation group interested in cooperating on such a clinic should check with the county game protector or call Whitesell at the Wildlife Division.

The American Medical Association has finally confirmed what many of us have known for a long time. The AMA says: "Walking or hiking is an excellent exercise that involves many of the muscles of the body." Walking is also fine conditioning for the upcoming hunting seasons.

A NOTE FROM our "Keep Your Eye Open For It" Department—Look for the pollution of Blacklick Creek at Reynoldsburg to come into the harsh spotlight of publicity.

Residents of the suburb living near Blacklick Creek, south of Main-st, are becoming ever more vocal in their complaints that the city's sewage disposal plant dumps improperly treated wastes into the dry creek bed, creating a health hazard and a sometimes almost unbearable stench.

Our spies report the operation is under investigation from several directions, including the Division of Wildlife.

Many Spectator-land nimrods look toward the hills of West Virginia for a deer-hunting expedition each fall. For the record, the Mountaineer State's gun season for deer arrives on Nov. 30 and lasts through Dec. 12. Bow and arrow season came in last Saturday and ends on Dec. 31.

A REMINDER to join us for the radio edition of "Under Buckeye Skies" with late reports on fishing, hunting, camping, boating and other outdoor recreations. It's heard each Thursday and Friday evening at 6:30 on WTVN-Radio.

'Fearless' Predictions

"I knew it all the time." That's what "fearless" had to say when informed that Yogi Berra and Johnny Keane were 'out' of jobs after the series.

The 'fearless one' also pointed out that Khrushchev's 'retirement' has something to do with the whole picture and hinted that the Yanks might be moving to Moscow to further baseball's expansion program.

His crystal ball burned out before he got to the high school football games, so week seven comes right off the top of his head.

Give Linz An Assist In Musical Managers

The biggest problem about writing a weekly sports column is that it must be written Friday for publication the following Thursday.

In three years this hasn't proven embarrassing—that is, until this week.

OUR INTENDED column expounded on how the Cards Series win saved Keane's job. That night, Keane and opposing manager Berra were "out" as managers.

For Keane, skipper status seems only temporary but for Yogi the "experiment" is over.

Berra got one of baseball's fancy titles — "special field consultant." As is usually the case, Berra's duties were not defined, probably because the Yankee management isn't exactly sure what "special field consultant" really means.

SOME CALL it being "kicked upstairs" but that's just a nice way of saying Ole' Yogi got the wrong end of the boot. The brass wasn't satisfied and so Berra was replaced.

Seems like Yankee management is no longer satisfied with a pennant. They want that Series too. Ralph Houk won two penants but only one World Series. Ralph got "kicked upstairs" too.

Berra's retirement statement, read over national TV, lacked imagination, if that's what was needed to indicate that special field consultant was a step forward.

THE PREPARED statement read like something out of "Alice in Wonderland" and might has fooled a couple little leaguers.

But Yankee skippers are still more graceful these days. Hard-nosed Casey Stengel wouldn't "retire." He wanted the world to know he was getting the axe.

Yogi was one h--- of a ball player. But good ball players don't always make good managers.

Berra's freshman effort brought a flag to New York but even that had a tainted edge, thanks to Baltimore's late season dive.

SECOND PRIZE in musical managers has to go to Keane.

For a man who had piloted a series winner, Keane looked pretty glum in the post-game picture hugging Augie Busch. He looked like the man who had invited the boss over to dinner the day he got his transfer to the Walla Walla branch.

Those people who consider themselves psychic probably got the picture right then.

AND WHICH seat in the game will Keane now occupy? (He'll probably have a job before you read this column but my typewriter couldn't take a third effort this week).

If the Yanks stick with their old theory ("If you can't beat 'em, hire 'em), Keane seems likely for a fitting in pin stripes. And John isn't exactly a stranger to Ralph Houk.

But Pittsburgh wants him and how satisfied is Cincinnati with interim coach Dick Sisler?

ANYWAY, the whole deal makes Keane's series comment ("I'd pay to watch them if I had to.") sound rather cryptic.

It's the wildest move in baseball since Joe Gordon and Jimmy Dykes switched togs in that unprecendented Cleveland-Detroit manager swap a while back.

So if it's to be a game of musical managers, so be it. We only hope everybody lets Phil Linz provide accompaniment. We understand he plays a sweet harmonica.

NOW WHERE'S that guy who said football's take funny bounces?

MRS. J. W. CASTANO poses with stove believed to be more than 300 years old.

Quite A History Belongs To Stove Of French Heritaeg

In the spring of this year, a certain noble family living in Paris decided to turn a vacation chateaux of theirs located in France's rich farmlands of Normandy into ready cash. The household furnishings were sold at an auction to local dealers and interested persons.

A wood-burning kitchen stove, three sides of which utilize 102 tiles each approximately four inches square, was purchased by Mrs. J. W. Castano, who recently returned from Europe where her husband was stationed with the Air Force.

The tiles are white with a blue design and each bears the marks generally attributed to the Hannong family, whose work at Strombourg beginning in 1727 earned the distinction of being known as the cradle of hard porcelain.

The elder Hannong invited the wrath of the French king because he would not share his secret process for the king's personal use. Hannong found it advisable to continue his work in Germany for a time. His son later sold the formula to the irate king and the elder man returned to France to continue his work.

One group of French authorities who examined the tiles claims the mark for Joseph Hannong in the years 1752-1760, while yet another group says it is the mark of Perrie-Antoine Hannong used while he was working at Vinnova between 1776 and 1778. For anyone wishing to make an inspection, the stove may be seen after Oct. 24 at the Little Farm Antique Market, 4455 N. Hamilton-rd.

Deviled clam sandwiches—Let the controversy roar on as to whether or not tomatoes belong in clam chowder. When it comes to clams, turn mine into a sandwich filling. In Yankee fashion, mix together 1¼ cups of minced, cooked clams with 1½ cups sieved hard-cooked egg. For flavor and texture add ¼ cup each of finely chopped celery and mayonnaise. Liven the mix with ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 teaspoons chopped chives and ¾ teaspoon each of dry mustard and salt. Bread for the 10 sandwiches you can create from this filling — 2 cupsful, in fact — should be dark rye.

Volkema Bids For House Post

Russell H. Volkema, in his bid as Democratic candidate for the Ohio House of Representatives, has announced his feeling that residential property taxation must be limited.

Speaking before a Franklin County luncheon, he stated that excessive property taxation will cause people to live in rental housing rather than purchase their own homes or buy homes not adequate to their needs.

Volkema, 44, a practing attorney and president of the Ohio Academy of Trial Lawyers, is a veteran of WW II, in which he served as a Navy lieutenant. The father of four children, he is active in church, PTA, and civic associations. His wife, Lois, is of former school teacher.

OUR CHARTER OF FREEDOM

"We the People."

These are the first three words of the Constitution of the United States. In this good land we the people at times are so concerned with immediate problems that we tend to forget the meaning and priceless value of the foundations of our freedom. We forget the cost in blood and treasure that was invested for us by wise and valiant fathers.

In the modern world of inescapable contact with other peoples, it is more necessary than ever before to examine ourselves and our heritage that we may be the more conscious of our freedom and more zealous, if need be, in its defense. And that beyond that, with a consciousness of our own purpose, we may play worthily the role that is ours in the human drama of the peoples of the earth in which we all have a part.

From this day there will be no escape from closer contact with all nations. The world is now a fishbowl. Like it or not, prepared or not, the peoples of earth look to us. May they and we learn, on common ground, to touch hands with the race's bright destiny of peace and freedom that can be earned and made secure only by the utmost effort and good will. But first, we must know ourselves.

The Constitution is our charter of freedom. It was conceived and wrought on the anvil of spiritual and intellectual travail by a group of patriots with hearts tempered by the fires of war and minds conscious of the very great responsibilities that lay upon them. They knew their task to be the charting of a course for an infant nation that was to grow and become strong and great. Human though they were, they knew they were allowed few mistakes. Varying ideas and beliefs had to be welded and fitted into a design. There could be no failures in the final result.

It says here . . .

The Constitution is the cornerstone of our House of Freedom. It is our job to elect public officials who will uphold it.

Miss Ruth Weimer, Associate Dean of Women, Ohio State University, main speaker, complimented the leaders and stated how much they are appreciated on the college level because girls from organizations like the Camp Fire Girls continue to give service throughout campus life.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Carlton Hartley, Dwight Allen, Leslie Diehl, Mrs. Donald Jenks and Mrs. Donald Ehman of Southwest District, and Mrs. Louis Schwartz of Southeast.

Judge K. Sater Noted For Work

Kenneth Lyon Sater was sworn in as Judge of the Common Pleas Court of Franklin County in April, 1958. Supreme Court Justice Thomas J. Herbert said " . . Kenneth Sater (is) capable of the most gruelling research."

"In one case alone concerning railroad freight rates, the volume of exhibits and testimony could have nearly filled an upright piano. Kenneth Sater sifted through the material and saved the taxpayers of Ohio slightly less than one billion dollars in four years," a spokesman said.

COFFEE BREAK

Poor Ole' Mom Gets Unkindest 'Cut' Of All

By Adeline Daisy

In surveying the bittersweet world of our two teenagers, plus a 12-year-old with similar tendencies, I have come to believe that life for them is divided into two categories — everything is or is not a "cut." At least, with matters that "count."

And, though a "cut" may also imply being AWOL from school, the more popular interpretation now means undergoing utter humiliation and loss of face with other teen-agers. And ours, to hear them complain, seem to lose face constantly.

My trouble is that I can't keep track of all of the "cuts," any more than I recognize what is desirable, or rather, in teen-age jargon, "tough." They change and, besides, what's a "cut" for one may not be for another.

For instance, Patrice has just informed me that wearing brown oxfords in the eighth grade is a "cut." Why, it's like wearing Army-surplus boots. However, for all I know next week Army boots will be in vogue for one of them and we must hasten down to buy a pair. In the meantime, what happens to the new brown oxfords?

For boys, non-"pegged" pants are a "cut" of the worst kind, especially if the pants also have cuffs. Brian couldn't care less, but he has sisters who do. Thus, he, too, must wear stove-pipe trousers and white, thick woolen socks, which are "tough."

With our two older girls, apparently, the biggest "cut" is acknowledging the fact that you have parents. It would be best if parents remained hidden in some closet. Why else is it hinted that if we drop them off at a school function or, even worse, pick them up, we operate in the manner of CIA agents?

What I should do is devise a chart which would list and rate each "cut," something like this:

Having parent drive you to a school affair — five demerits. (Being seen by schoolmates in such an embarrassing predicament — eight. Subtract same amount, however, if friend is ALSO being chauffeured by parent.)

Non-pegged pants — six; cuffed — nine; Father's hand-me-downs — 17.

Wearing lipstick a shade redder than white mentholatum — 15.

Making use of gift from grandmother, a Mickey Mouse or Snow White wristwatch — 16.

Attending movie with parents — four. (Add three demerits if it's a Friday night and at a the local theater.)

Sitting next to parents at movie — 10.

Admitting they ARE your parents — 20.

United Church Women Back '64 UNICEF

"This is the most wonderful demonstration of love for children by children the world has ever known," said Mrs. Warren H. Bright, speaking this week for the United Church Women on behalf of UNICEF.

The program solicits the aid of children begging for candy and cookies on Halloween. Instead of goodies, children collect money to provide food and medical supplies for less fortunate children.

"Statistics show that millions of people have benefited from supplementary feeding programs, treatment of disease and innoculations that prevented diseases," Mrs. Bright continued.

The church spokesman disagrees with "false" accusations made against UNICEF, pointing out that only three of 112 countries benefiting from the collection are Communist-controlled.

"But even with these we are fulfilling the command of our Lord to 'love our enemies.' We show our love through relieving starvation and disease of their children," Mrs. Bright said.

All nations who participate in UNICEF are required to furnish buildings, labor, personnel and supplies necessary to carry out the project.

Although the U.S. gives about 40 percent of UNICEF's budget, items, like surplus milk, are provided only after the government school feeding programs are taken care of.

"Our children need to have their horizons widened," Mrs. Bright concluded.

Rankin Gibson Asks Judgeship

Rankin M. Gibson, the youngest judge on the Ohio Supreme Court, has had considerable experience in labor-management relations during his 25 years as an attorney, a spokesman said.

Since his appointment to the high court in January 1963 to fill the unexpired term formerly held by Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft, Judge Gibson has established a reputation among lawyers for a willingness to take a "fresh look" at legal problems, another spokesman related.

He is a former law school professor and lives with his wife, Eloise, and two children on a small farm in Delaware County. Judge Gibson seeks election to the high court [illegible].

Noble Offers $200 Reward For Thieves

The mysterious campaign to "de-sign" Democratic candidate for Franklin County sheriff, Carl Noble, picked up impetus this week with the political hopeful reporting Tuesday that 100 more "Noble For Sheriff" placards are missing.

The thieves, operating primarily on the city's north and west sides, snatched some 50 signs Monday night alone, according to Noble.

Hilltopper Noble, operator of the West Side Special Police, said his agency has been patroling the city but has thus far been unsuccessful in nabbing the thieves.

Noble announced that a $200 reward will be given to anyone who catches a sign-stealer or can provide information leading to the arrest of the culprits.

Noble has promised that the thieves will be arrested and prosecuted upon exposure.

He added that the Columbus caravan would be headed by Robert L. VanHeyde, candidate for Congress from the 12th (Franklin County) District.

Other local candidates will also participate in the caravan, Ryan said, and the motorcade will tour as many sections of the city as time will permit. The motorcade is expected to include 80 to 100 cars, and a tentative 6:30 p.m. starting time from Broad and High-sts has been set.

community Halloween parties.

However, the Interfaith Committee for "Pennies for UNICEF" has announced that its collections will be made Thursday instead of the usual Beggars Night out of respect for the Jewish sabbath.

Mrs. D. Bruce Bishoff, UNICEF chairman, said children taking part in the program will carry special UNICEF milk cartons. Goal for the entire county is $5,400. The money is to be used for medical care and food for children in underdeveloped countries.

Some of the area organizers include Mrs. Kenneth Swepston, Mrs. E. Dietlin, Mrs. Gernerd Cohen, Mrs. Martin Hackman, Mrs. Ben Kahn and Mrs. Lance Wynn.

Short classes are the order of the day at Kirk Junior High School in East Cleveland. Students there are getting used to having some classes 20 minutes instead of the more standard 40-minute sessions. The new program, called "module period," provides more flexibility in instruction.

tackle a problem he termed "vital to present needs and future growth of the Columbus area."

He answered his own question by charging that at least two members of council have asked Sawyel to delay his final report until after the 1965 councilmanic elections. Three Republican councilmen, William Fornof, Robert T. Southwich and Harvey Alston, will face the electorate.

The administration spokesman said that Republicans on council "are too busy promoting a temporary and ill-advised water rate reduction aimed at garnering votes. They are reluctant to face the problem of inadequate revenues for necessary sanitary sewer capital improvements, and are frantically searching for a way to dump the problem solely at the doorstep of the administration," he added.

Meanwhile, the Sensenbrenner administration has been pressing Sawyel to give the city the final sewer report. In communication with the consultant on Sept. 29, Service Director Cremean was told that the city would have the report in 30 days.

The administration official cautioned that the sanitary sewer program should not be confused with the capital improvement bond issue item for flood control and storm sewers on the Nov. 3 ballot. He stressed that the $4.8 million bond issue—and the remaining five city bond issues—involved no tax increase, but would be financed from existing city income tax revenues.

He said that $2 million of the flood control and storm sewer bond issue money is earmarked for addition to a similar amount now being expended for a large-scale storm sewer program in Marion and Hamilton Townships. Construction of the storm sewers, he said, will relieve basement flooding in at least 10,000 homes in the area.

that the auhority to so tax has been upheld legally under our Constitution, it is still within the solons' power as legislators to provide a fair and equitable tax base."

The mayor has estimated that nearly 90 percent of all suburban residents work in nearby large cities, like Columbus and derive no benefits from the income tax they pay to these cities.

Communities can save tax money by buying desirable park land well in advance of the time it is sought by private interests for other development, park authorities contend.

Around the World With STAN DELAPLANE

"What are the best of the French type shows in Paris?"

The Lido night club on the Champs Elysees is the best. You have to order one bottle of champagne — about $10 for two. Most famous is the theater Folies Bergere. Gets almost half its business from American tourists so even half the jokes are in English. In summer it's unbearably hot — no air-conditioning.

I think it's a poor buy. A lot of cost-cutting has gone on, obviously with the idea that it's so famous that Americans will buy anything. In the same style, and I think better, is Casino de Paris.

The night club shows in naughty Place Pigalle are pure clip joints. Chez Eve, Naturistes, Nouvelle Eve. I would say the Flor is all right, but the prices are high. The trick in most of these places is to give you a bottle of champagne immediately. Fill both glasses. And then, when you aren't looking, the waiter pops the cork on another. Says he misunderstood you, but the wine is open now so—.

"Your suggestion for ski resorts, please. We have only heard of St. Moritz."

St. Moritz is the elegant (and high-priced resort) of Switzerland. The doormen are all former Grand Dukes and all the rich of Europe are here to be seen. If you can afford it, it's a grea' place.

Austria is the cheapest. I'd try Kitzbuhel. Lively and a good choice of places to stay from about $3 on up. You don't have to stay at the luxurious Grand Hotel. Go there to drink and dance. It's a Christmas picture postcard town.

Pan American Airways has a great book on ski resorts all over the world. If it isn't in your book store, write Pan American, P.O. Box 1111, New York City 17. Costs $3.

Ski resorts have "low" and "high" seasons, by the way. "High season" means prices are higher — usually after Christmas.

"We will be traveling for almost a year (my husband's sabbatical). Should we get insurance and what kind?"

I'm not sure what kind of insurance you mean. But here's what I carry: $100,000 life for any kind of accident. Costs $90 a year. Baggage and personal effects loss. Costs $35 a year. For driving in Europe, you MUST have a public liability policy to cross borders — known as the "green card." Whoever sells you or rents you the car takes care of this. National or AAA can tell you about it.

"For a trip we plan to South America, should we buy money for each country before we go?"

Absolutely not. Buy what you need each day in the country from a bank or money exchange. Many of these currencies are sliding wildly. Brazil, for example. I'd be cautious about buying more than day to day in Argentina and Uruguay, too.

Robert Jones Seeks Election

Robert G. Jones, candidate for county recorder, states the average salary in the Court House is $4,823 a year while the average salary in the County Recorder's Office is $5,835.

He claims the inequity is due to the fact the recorder's office has been in the control of one family for 33 years.

Jones claims a change of administration in the county recorder's office would rectify the inequity and save the taxpayers over $30,000 annually.

ASSIGNMENT TELEVISION

By Terrence O'Flaherty

By Terrence O'Flaherty

Perhaps it's just as well that Count Dracula died the way he did. Without that stake to keep him steady, he would be spinning in his coffin every Thursday night in the basement of a castle somewhere in Transylvania.

That is the night CBS presents "The Munsters" to society. This is the second domestic comedy of the season to be built around a family of weirdos. The first was "The Addams Family," which holds its wake Friday night on the ABC network.

The Munsters are just a normal American family except Daddy looks like Dr. Frankenstein's pre-fab monster with a peg in his neck. Mommy looks like Vampira, and Grandma is a dead ringer for Count Dracula.

The Addams characters are based upon the macabre deftness of the Charles Addams humor. Any one of his cartoons suggests a plot for a complete episode.

(Already they're preparing one based on the famous Christmas carolers singing in the snow in front of the Addams home, while the family prepares to pour lot lead on them from the rooftop.)

The Munsters are not so fortunate. Their premise is a shaky one and the writers are not nearly as inventive. The only line in the program that I found funny could have come straight from Charles Addams. When the baby sitter complained to Mrs. Munster about the strange noises coming from her son's room, she answered:

"Good heavens" don't all children howl when the moon comes up?"

Fred Gwynne, the horse-faced cop in "Car 54, Where Are You?" plays the Frankenstein character, complete with the heavy shoes and the peg through the neck. He is a fine comedian and an interesting human being and he deserves a part that uses his talent without causing him to spend two hours putting on his make-up.

Yvonne de Carlo was never known as much for her acting as she was for her costumes and this still holds true in the role of Lily Munster. Al Lewis is the only one who's having any fun. He plays Grandpa Munster with all the zest of the character lead in a Victor Herbert operetta.

Did I say that the Munsters have a niece who is normal? Well, they do. She can't understand why she keeps losing her boy friends after she introduces them to her folks. Frankly, I think it has nothing to do at all with the Munsters. It's just the likes she was given.

The generation weaned on the cozy apron-and-antimacassar comedy of "The Donna Reed Show" and "Ozzie and Harriet" may choke up a little on the new Charles Addams television characters.

On the other hand Americans get bored easily and maybe the Nelsons and Reeds have brought it on themselves. But one thing is certain: there's a big difference between "One Man's Family" and "The Addams Family" and the space is cluttered with fragments of Freud, a World War, the rise of sick humor and the fall of innocence.

The Addams family may be surrounded by signs of violence but to themselves they are just plain folks, an affectionate group, living among their heirlooms. It's the people on the outside who are strange. The opening program had the two youngsters returning home in tears after their first day at school.

"Daddy it was terrible! They killed the dragon!

"WHO would ever want to kill a dragon?"

"The knight in shining armor!"

They also rebel at a pair called Hansel and Gretel who push an innocent old lady into an oven.

"It's a story of juvenile delinquents!" says Morticia Addams.

The family is against pesticides and refuses to trim the garden because it is a home for so many nice insects. The hangman's noose is used to ring for servants and Mrs. Addams trims the blooms off the roses ("The thorns are so much lovelier this year").

I have some difficulty reconciling the innocence theme with father Addams' pleasure at colliding trains or the little girl who plays with the headless "Marie Antoinette" doll or the stuffed swordfish with the man's leg in its mouth . . . but truthfully I found the Addams Family a lot more attractive than some of my own neighbors who are sweet and conventional on the outside and creepy inside. And they're a lot funnier.

OSU Theatre Showing 'Death Of A Salesman'

Tuesday the 1964-65 season of The Ohio State University Theatre opened with a six-performance run of Arthur Miller's modern classic "Death of a Salesman." The run will continue through Saturday, Oct. 31, with performances each evening at 8 p.m. and a matinee at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday.

To Art Kassul has fallen the assignment of one of the most significant acting roles in the modern theatre, that of the braggart who must suddenly figure out what kind of man he really is.

Marjory Johnson has been cast in the role of his loyal wife, who knows he's never made much money, got his name in the paper or been the finest character that ever lived, but who also knows that her husband is a human being who has had all his props knocked from under him; and so "attention must be paid," she tells her unfeeling sons.

John Long and Mark Rohr will appear as the two sons who are themselves disconsolate in their non-adjustment to the world around them.

Tickets for the production are on sale at the Derby Hall Box Office from 12 noon to 5 p.m. daily Monday to Friday. Phone reservations may be made during those hours by calling CY. 3-2295.

Where The Fun Is . . . . . ch: 6 WTVN-TV

Don't Fret Annie, We Like Ham Loaf Jus' Any Old Time

If you're one of the millions of homemakers in the United States kicking yourself because you owe someone a letter . . . ease up . . . you're in good company.

Annie Glenn, wife of Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., sent a letter and recipe to the Spectator that was to have been included in the Cook Book printed last spring.

Excerpts of Annie's letter read:

"First I must apologize for the delay in replying to your letter . . . John is still at home on convalescent leave recovering from the fall he took last spring, and with my spending three weeks in the hospital this summer, things have been a little complicated around the Glenn household . . . I am afraid that my letter with the recipe is way too late, but am sending it anyway . . . I hope the Cook Book was a huge success."

Our reply might read something like this:

"Dear Annie,

"Don't give it another thought. We like ham loaf any old time . . . and if you missed the Cook Book, so what? It gives us something to publish now. Our Cook Book was a huge success and by the way . . . there will be another one coming up next spring. Gotta pencil handy?"

HAM LOAF

1 lb. cured ham	DRESSING
½ lb. fresh ham	½ c. water
1½ c. dry bread crumbs	1 T mustard
2 eggs	⅓ c. vinegar
¾ c. milk	¼ c. sugar
pepper

Mix the first group of ingredients well and form into a loaf. Pour the dressing over it and bake until syrup is thick. Dip dressing up over the loaf many times while baking at 350 degrees for 1½ hours.

He's Perfect—Except For His Bank Account

By ROYCE BRIER

New Yorker Magazine carried a cartoon of the banner of a senatorial candidate listing his assets and liabilities. Pretty crumby, too, with only $18,900 in real estate and $321 in the bank.

True, senators are not supposed to be as rich as presidents and vice presidents, but how poor can you get? You can get as poor as Hubert Humphrey, who is worth $171,396. But he's still a Senator.

Are you going to vote for a man with $171,396, when you can vote for his opponent, who has him bested by $90,000? That's the trouble with these mindless political conventions — never gave Nelson Rockefeller a tumble, and the Governor, you'll allow, could buy all four candidates.

Take Mr. Johnson' $3.5 million-$14 million, according to what accountant you read, and Mr. Goldwater's $1.7 million.

Either is pretty good moola, and any one of us would take the Goldwater pittance, provided we couldn't get our hands on Johnson's.

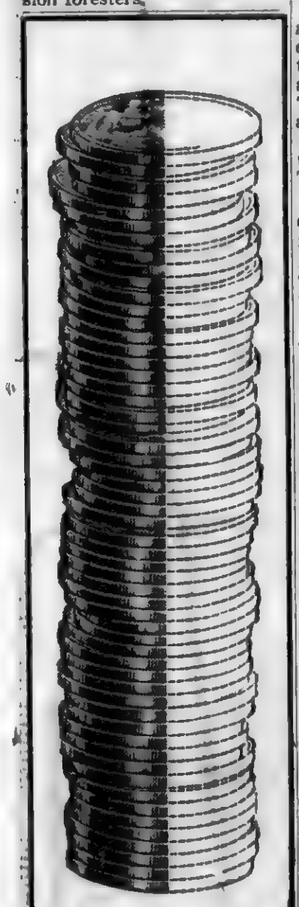
But that Humphrey! He might as well throw in the towel, as you can hardly pay your taxes with $171,396, and who wants a leader who's just like the rest of us?

In the good old days, General Washington was one of the richest men in America. He left $800,000, maybe equal to $20 million today, but unhappily, excepting Mount Vernon, it was all tied up in Ohio lands worth a penny an acre.

As these were bad investments at the time, the General didn't choose to publicize his worth when he stood for President. If anybody had asked him, he would have told him to go to hell (he swore a bit), but it was not the custom to ask impertinent questions of the General.

Even in Mr. Lincoln's time, nobody wondered how much money he had. Probably under $100,000 when he went to Washington, accretion from the law, but nothing like our later-day millionaire lawyers.

Poor old President Grant was always broke. When they made him a Colonel he had to borrow money for a new uniform. They say his Administration was corrupt, but he certainly didn't profit, because he was so on the shorts he had to write his celebrated "Memoirs," while dying to keep his widow out of the poorhouse.



Both the Roosevelts were well-heeled, and as we know the late Mr. Kennedy inherited millions. The Presidents, indeed, ran from poor to pinched independent, and we don't remember, or forget, them today for their lucre, but for other things.

Could be Mr. Lincoln did not mention his assets and liabilities because there were other issues in his time more compelling, and more calculated to spellbind or repel voters. Times change.

Mailboxes Not For Political Stuffers .. Bodish

Postmaster Victor J. Bodish today warned that the placement of political circulars in mailboxes must be discontinued.

"Every residential letterbox, or other receptical intended or used for receipt or delivery of mail is for the sole use by the United States Post Office Department for matter bearing postage and a proper mailing address," he pointed out.

This violation of the United State Code may result in the collection of the applicable rate of postage, usually four-cents per item, on all matter distributed in a given area whether it has been placed in every mail box or not, Bodish said.

Wearing the Texaco Star

Running a Texaco Service Station is paying off. I'm an independent businessman, confident of the future. Doing well for my family.

Been in business some time now, and Texaco has backed me up year after year. Started me out with a professionally conducted training program. Got paid while I was learning to run my station at a profit. There's been a close personal contact with Texaco ever since.

Constant merchandising help and counseling, too. Traffic-building promotions and national advertising that direct new business to me.

Yes, Texaco works hard for me.

Interested? Then look into Texaco more fully. No obligation, of course. Learn how it will pay you to be the man who wears the Texaco star. Telephone weekdays 279-8439, evenings 882-7064.

It's Time To Revive Winter Washables

Homes . . . like people . . . can look winter-weary, too. By this time, slipcovers, curtains and other household washables deserve a fresh, new look. The best spring tonic for these is a session in the automatic washer itself.

Starching will revive fabrics, giving them a smooth, like-new feel and appearance.

According to the home economists automatic washer starching is the easiest, most economical way to starch a group of washables. In addition, it permits the starch to penetrate the fabric uniformly.

To washer-starch, these are the instructions recommended:

Run your laundry through the full wash, rinse and spin cycles.

Meantime, prepare hot starch solution by stirring one-half cup dry starch into one cup of cool water, making a thin, smooth solution. Heat two quarts of water to a rolling boil. Remove from heat and immediately add the starch solution to the boiling water, stirring continuously. Reset the washer to the last full rinse cycle. Fill with water and add the starch solution. Agitate briefly to mix, then add the clean, damp washables. Let the washer finish the cycle.

When properly starched, washables are easier to iron. Starch also helps prevent dirt from penetrating into fabrics making them easier to get clean the next time.

Lester Lane Observes 72 Years Of Change On West Broad Street

By BON BARLOW

The man who drove one of the first buses to transport potential customers from Columbus to a housing addition in the suburbs looks back today on 72 years of life along Route 40. For all of those years Lester Lane, 5311 W. Broad-st, has lived within a one - block radius of Rt. 40 in the Village of New Rome.

He recalls when "Old National Road" was covered with crushed gravel and "you only went to Columbus on weekends." In 1911 Lester remembers the first pavement being put down on what was to become W. Broad-st and the coming of the Inter - Urban street car was a big event.

There was one evening he says he'll never forget — that was the night the Inter-Urban and a new Stutz Bearcat scared the horses pulling his ice wagon and spread ice all over the West Area.

Lester Lane went to school in a little one-room school on Norton-rd, just across the road from the present Prairie-Norton Elementary School. In 1918 he marched off with the "doughboys" and returned home the next year.

LESTER LANE PROUDLY drove this Model T Bus from Columbus to Little Farms Addition, near New Rome, each day for several years, beginning in 1919. This original cut was used in an advertising pamphlet for the development and was furnished by John R. Richards, son of Little Farms Developer, Alvin Richards.

It was that year he was hired by land developer Alvin L. Richards to drive a 1919 Model T bus from Columbus to the Little Farms Addition near New Rome. With chain drive rattling and solid rubber tires squeaking, the trip was made every other day by Lester driving one of Ford's finest.

The passengers would carefully inspect the homes in the addition and then be carefully chauffeured back to the city.

Today Lester is retired and can often be seen sitting in his front yard, observing the bustle and bustle of one of the busiest highways in the nation. He readily admits there has been more improvement on the road he knows so well during the past 10 years than in the 30 preceding years — and no one knows this better than he does.

Room Expansion Calls For Attention To Heating Needs

At last! You've decided to build that new room addition — and just in time to keep your home's seams from exploding.

But — have you decided how you're going to heat the added room? Will it be hooked into the present warm air system? Is your present heating plant large enough for adding the new room? Do you want electric heat? How about insulation?

These are basic, important questions — so perhaps the first thing to do is to find a home improvement expert to consult with about the entire project, including heating.

If the addition isn't too large, your present heating plant might be adequate to heat the new room, too. If so, your home improvement dealer simply has the hot air ducts or hot water pipes extended into the new room.

But remember that how much heat the new room needs for comfort depends on its size and how well it is insulated. Even if an entirely new system is needed to heat the added room, thorough insulation will pay off in lower fuel bills.

Assuming that you decide the old heating plant won't be adequate, what are your options?

1. All-electric heating of the added room is one possibility. The heaters may be baseboard-type units or recessed into the walls to radiate into the room. Some have blowers that force air over heated elements.

2. A new fuel-burning central plant can be installed that will heat can be installed that cluding the added room. If your old furnace is due for replacement, this option might make sense.

The type chosen may be oil or gas, furnishing warmed forced air or re-circulating hot water.

BEXLEY JUNIORS WIN FLOAT CONTEST

"PILE UP A VICTORY" was the slogan that helped the Junior Class win the float contest, held during halftime at Bexley High's homecoming game. Student Council contributed $25 for first prize, to pay expenses. Leslee Jackson designed the float and Larry Turk was in charge of making the lion. Other committee chairmen were Kathy Dawdy, Cathy Smith, Jeff Bloom, Charles Burkam Tom Shafer, Pat Thacker and Dave Sells. — photo by Bill Murphey.

IN BEXLEY COUNCIL:

Citizens' Requests Reviewed

Bexley Council, unable to act on official business because of the absence of three members Tuesday night, was enlivened by requests from citizens.

A familiar complaint in years past, that of a home owner who discovers his property had not been originally developed to be compatible with the city's plan, and the perennial problem of insufficient parking space were laid before council members.

Fred Kaiser, of 761 Sheridan-av, appeared to protest viggrously, through his attorney George Fisher, damages to his property caused by the recent widening and improvement of Astor-av.

The city had agreed to Kaiser's request not to enforce installation of sidewalks on the north side of Astor on the grounds that it was not a through street, and the only two residents who would be affected were opposed to walks.

Bexley did, however, reserve the right to enforce their installation if it became necessary sometime in the future, and proceeded with proper grading to make it possible.

The resulting widening of the street, and the grading to city property to allow for possible future installation of the walks resulted in an unsightly, two-foot high mound of dirt along Kaiser's side property line, and the blocking of access to his garage.

He requested that the mound be graded toward the street and sodded, to restore the appearance of the grounds and to permit installation of a driveway.

Council President Charles Kurtz pointed out in answer, that the original error on the part of the architect who planned the home, in failing to grade the elevation in keeping with the city's future plan for the street, was responsible.

The committee, headed by David Shawan, will meet with Kaiser at his home to survey the problem and attempt to arrive at a solution.

Jack Connell of Connell's Greenhouse also appeared before council to request permission to install a steel railing by the sidewalk, at a parking area he is installing in front of the house east of the greenhouse.

H. Burkley Showe, developer of the proposed new Park View Arms, 53-unit apartment building on S. Parkview, just east of the apartment now under construction at the corner of Bryden-rd, submitted new plans for council's approval.

Council members had indicated at the last session they would favor a Colonial type architecture for the $900,000 structure, in keeping with the design of the apartment now being built.

Bexley Voters Asked To Renew 3-Mill Levy

Bexley's financial facts of life were explained to citizens of the city this week in a letter sent to all residents, signed by Mayor William Schneider and council members.

The need to renew the city's three-mill operating levy at the polls Nov. 3 to help support municipal government, to fill the gap caused by Bexley's reduced share of Ohio's intangible and personal tax, was pointed out.

"Until 1954 Bexley residents paid nothing out of real estate taxes to support the city government—because the city's share of Ohio intangible and personal property tax had paid the entire load," the letter explained.

But libraries' appropriation of an increasingly large share of the tax reduced the balance left for Bexley until it was necessary to ask for an operating levy.

Renewal of the three-mill levy, first passed five years ago, provides about $139,000, less than one-third of the $476,000 cost of Bexley government—police and fire protection, garbage collection, street lighting, parks upkeep and street maintenance.

Cost of the levy to a homeowner whose property would sell for $25,000 is about $33.90 a year, figuring that property is taxed for about 45 percent of its actual worth, or $11,200.

WHITEHALL HIGHER

Bexley's taxes, per $1000 valuation, is $35.40, or $5.40 less than the neighboring city of Whitehall whose rate is $38.80.

Of its $35.40, Bexley uses $26.20 for schools, and $3.40 for municipal purposes, including police pension and bond retirement.

Adult Art Class Starts At Bexley

A painting and drawing class for adults will be started at Bexley High School Thursday, Oct. 29.

Class will meet two hours weekly for six weeks, on Thursday evenings in the high school art room from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Interested persons may come to the first meeting on Oct. 29.

Area Capital Improvements Tied To Columbus 'Issues'

Passage of the six-item Columbus bond package will flash the green light for the following specific projects for the East area of the city: (Only Columbus residents will vote on the bond package.)

Construction of a new fire station in the vicinity of McNaughten-rd and E. Broad-st; relocation of No. 8 Fire Station to the vicinity of N. Champion-av and Atcheson-st; construction of the Outerbelt from Refugee-rd to the north corporation line; widening of Hamilton-rd from Groves-rd to Refugee-rd; construction of the East Freeway from the Outerbelt to Brice-rd.

Widening of E. Fifth-av from Cleveland-av to St. Clair-av; construction of the 17th-av Throughway from the North Freewav to Cassady-av; reconstruction of the St. Clair-av viaduct; widening of E. Main-st from Whitehall to Reynoldsburg; completion of the second phase of Bliss Run storm drainage improvement.

'MISCHIEF AND MEMORIES'

It's Big Weekend At Capital

Homecoming and Halloween arrive at the same time on the Capital University campus to set the theme for "Mischief and Memories."

Norma Frobose, a 21-year-old senior from Woodville, has been named to reign as queen over the festivities from Friday, Oct. 30, to Sunday, Nov. 1. Her maid-of-honor is Diana Hasselbach of Anna.

The traditional homecoming parade will be held Saturday, Oct. 31, 11 a.m., wending its way from E. Mound-st to College-av, E. Main-st, and Bernionr Stadium.

The queen coronation is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. in the stadium, before the Capital-Marietta game at 2 p.m.

Other weekend activities include the homecoming dance from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Buckeye Building on the Ohio State Fairgrounds; a play, "Blythe Spirit," by Noel Coward, at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Mees Hall, and an outdoor church service at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Saturday Deadline Set For Licenses

Whitehall bicyclists are reminded that, with only a few days grace remaining, less than 500 of the city's estimated 2,000 bicycles have been licensed, as required by a recent ordinance.

After Saturday, parents of any child found riding a bicycle without a license are liable to a fine of up to $50.

Application forms may be picked up at the Police Station on Yearling-rd anytime, and licenses may be purchased at $1 at the Police Department from 4 to 9 p.m., and on Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the lobby of the Municipal Building.

The city's police officers will be instructed, according to Darrell Todd, safety director, to watch for unlicensed bicycles after Nov. 1, and to issue citations to violators.

VOICES OF EASTMOOR

Spectator Columnists SelectedForWarriors

(One of a series introducing area high school columnists for the Eastern Spectator.)

Senior journalism students Marcia Bruce and Joyce Finke have been selected correspondents to the Eastern Spectator from Eastmoor High, and will report weekly on social and academic news of the school.

Marcia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bruce, is a member of the Warriorettes Drill Team and Student Council, and is an office worker at Eastmoor.

She plans to attend college, probably Miami University, for a liberal arts education.

Joyce is treasurer of the school Dramatics Club, a member of Masquers, and a past member of Student Council.

Her younger sister, Debbie, is a student at Eastmoor Junior High, and she has an older sister who was graduated from Eastmoor. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Finke.

Marcia will attend Ohio State University, possibly majoring in journalism.

Both girls are members of the Shield and Chariot staffs, school yearbook and newspaper.

JUDGES PICKED

Semi-Finalists Named In Homemaker Contest

The entry deadline for nominations in The Spectator's 1964 search for a Suburban Homemaker has passed. Now step two of the search begins.

A total of 60 nominations have been received by The Spectator, and in the time remaining before the National Conference in Chicago (Nov. 19-20), a panel of local judges will decide on the finalists.

After preliminary screening of all nominees, the judges will determine finalists and then begin the process of personal interviews to decide who will represent The Spectator in Chicago in national competition.

The woman judged tops in Chicago will receive the title of "National Suburban Homemaker of the Year" and a check for $5,000.

The Spectator is fortunate again this year to have four outstanding judges. They are: Mrs. William Miller, 1462 Berkshire-rd, president of United Church Women of Columbus and Franklin County and a six-year member of the Board YMCA.

Mrs. Mary E. FalRenberg, home lighting advisor at Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Mrs. D. Bruce Bishoff, 1839 Beaumont-rd, immediate past president of the Central Deanery of Catholic Women and women's chairman of the Cancer Crusade.

Miss Shelia A. Castellarin, 593 Latham-ct, general home service director for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., and staff supervisor for more than 50 home economists who assist homemakers with information and advice on better home meal planning and cooking.

Here is a list of nominees who have been selected as semi-finalists in the local Homemaker contest. (Name in parenthesis indicate nominator):

Mrs. Howard Frisley, Rt. 2, Canal Winchester (Mrs. Roiland Rose, Rt. 2, C-W); Mrs. Norman Ealy, 2468 Spaatz-av (Mrs. Sarah Jane Bloom, 4920 Kresge-dr); Mrs. Paul Crosier, 260 S. Algonquin-av (Marian L. Ferguson, 36 S. Hague-av).

A DIMINUTIVE CUSTOMER finds a red velvet coat, just her size and to her liking. Little Robin Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Snider of Baltimore, visiting in Reynoldsburg with her mother, stopped at Bexley Thrift Shop. Mrs. Wesley Cooper of 2760 Powell-av, secretary-treasurer of CREW 2, helped with the selection.

WEARING AN OLEG Cassini original brought in for sale at the shop, and displaying appreciatively a short formal is Mrs. Jan O'Hara, 988 S. Remington-rd. She and other members of CREW 2 opened their Bexley Thrift Shop at 2323 E. Main-st last month, with proceeds earmarked for cancer research and education.

Bexley Thrift Shop Haven For Style-Wise Shoppers

An Oleg Cassini original for [illegible]

And wearable, fashionable garments for everyone, from tiny tots and their style-conscious big sisters to their mothers and all the men in their lives at similar prices?

Bexley Thrift Shop, 2383 E. Main-st, is a dream come true for the budget-wise, as folks from throughout Bexley and roundabout areas have found this past month.

Members of Bexley CREW 2 (Cancer Research Education Workers) had their sights set high when they opened the shop at 2383 E. Main-st, Sept. 15, but results of their ambitious project have far exceeded their highest hopes for the venture.

The shop is crowded during store hours, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, 1 to 4 p.m., with shoppers examining jammed racks of garments, all meeting exacting standards of cleanliness, good condition, seasonally right and in modern style.

Clothing is sold on a consignment basis, with 60 percent of the price returned, and 40 percent donated to the American Cancer Society.

"Children grow so fast," CREW members explain, "and can no longer wear clothes that have scarcely been worn. "And women tire of dresses, or their weight changes."

The shop, patterned after the one in Granville operated by a Twig of Children's Hospital, is managed entirely by CREW members, with each taking her turn.

Mrs. Gale Roshon, 2772 S. Powell, is president, and Mrs. Richard Sproat, shop chairman.

Mrs. J. K. L. MacKay serves as bookkeeper, and the intricate process of filing sales tags for the all-important record of returning a portion of the sales price to donors, is accomplished by Mrs. James Carr with the assistance of Mrs. Ray Goldsmith, vice-president of the CREW.

Mrs. Charles Brubaker is in charge of the telephone committee, reminding members of their turn to staff the shop.

Members expect to realize $1,500 for cancer research and education by the end of the year.

OCT 1964

More than 25 percent of all the taxes collected by state governments during fiscal 1963 came from special levies on motor vehicle owners and operators.

LIST PRECAUTIONS FOR HOME OWNERS

Police say homes and apartments account for more than four of every 10 burglaries. By observing a few simple precautionary steps, you can reduce the possibility of a burglar selecting your dwelling as his target next time you are away:

1. Connect a lamp to an automatic timer to turn lights on and off each evening.

2. Close and lock all doors, including porch, basement and garage. Use pin-tumbler cylinder locks on outside entrances and safety latches on windows.

3. Be sure all screens are fastened from the inside.

4. Never leave valuables lying around; keep them in a safety deposit box.

Police also suggest, if you are leaving for a weekend or longer:

5. Notify your police department when you'll be leaving and how long you expect to be away.

6. Cancel all deliveries, such as milk, laundry and cleaning. Also, be sure to discontinue the newspaper or arrange to have it sent to your vacation address.

7. Have a neighbor or your post office hold all mail until you return.

8. Arrange with a friend to mow the lawn and sweep your sidewalk once a week. Also ask him if he'll pick up any circulars or handbills that may be left on your porch.

9 Leave your shades and blinds as you normally do; closed blinds keep the sun out, but make an effective screen for the burglar.

10. Never advertise your departure with an item in the local newspaper. Give the story about your vacation to the newspapers after you have returned.

There is no such thing as a "burglar proof" home. But there are steps that everyone can take to keep the burglar's activity to a minimum. By following the suggestions listed above, you'll be helping to protect your home whenever you're away.

HARTLEY HIGH HOMECOMING COMING UP

ONE OF THESE will reign as '64 Homecoming queen at Bishop Hartley High, and the other four will serve as her court during weekend festivities at the school Friday and Saturday evenings, Oct. 30 and 31. The selection of queen will be revealed at the bonfire Friday evening. "Wishing Will Make It So," is the theme of the dance planned Saturday evening, following the homecoming game with Watterson High. From left are, Maureen McKeever, Linda McFadden, Jody Wiley, Janet Collins and Ronnie Adamkosky.

A PERM FOR A PROBLEM

Grandpa used to weave yarns about Ole Doc Handy, the medicine man. Doc Handy had one pill to cure most anything. Handy would have trouble today, for ours is an age of specialization. We have a new form of "cure-all" — a process that can work many miracles. The secret is that it comes in many forms . . . it's the specialized permanent wave.

MAIN ATTRACTION

The principal work of every professional permanent wave is to underline your most flattering coiffure with "permanent" support. It has built-in body to keep stylelines for you and make your style manageable under your own comb. It's the shape that doesn't fizzle when the weather drizzles . . . or that welcome new control that keeps "naturally stubborn" hair from its own bad habits.

WAVING CHANGES

Have you limp, languid hair? It can be "bodified" here. Thining hair? We can make it appear more luxuriant. Oily or over-dry? We'll nudge that hair closer to normality. Bleached or tinted locks . . . will they take? Yes, beautifully, with our specialized permanent. It's time you treated your locks to a modern miracle. You couldn't do better than to dial BE. 1-4100 for your beauty date!

FROM UNDER THE DRYER

We almost forgot to mention . . . our permanent waves make you prettier, too.

TREASURES

He walked a long time and rang many doorbells and "scared" a lot of people in order to acquire his Halloween treasures. He wants to sleep with his treasures beside him, where he can feel the sack with his hand.

These treasures somehow remind you that one of your responsibilities toward your adorable child is to teach him what real treasures are — friends, country, church, good deeds, family, love of God, and quality of spirit, to name a few.

That "Trick or Treat" bag somehow reminds you of that scripture in Matthew that goes, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and dust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

You know that the church will help you in this, so you vow again to be faithful to every service, thankful for all the wonderful workers there, asking God to help you and them.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of his demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, doom and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Queen Karen Reigns At Whitehall-Yearling

Homecoming was held at Whitehall Yearling Oct. 23. During the halftime show of the game with Worthington, the band, the Ramettes and the choir performed together to bring back memories of the musical "Oklahoma." Immediately following the halftime show, Karen Shadwick was crowned 1964 football homecoming queen.

Queen Karen has been a member of senior band for three years and is now representing her homeroom in Student Council. She has also been a member of FTA and Biology Club. After high school, Karen hopes to become a dental assistant.

Whitehall chapter of the National Science Research Association honors its newly elected members: Sharon Nicholson, Arnold Shaheen, Ed Lakey, Stan Finkelstein, Sally Shadwick, Kendall Lewis and Linda Bulman.

Membership in NSRA is recognition of student scientific achievement. New members are chosen by vote of the previous year's members on teacher recommendation, grades in sciences and math, a 500-word essay, and a genuine interest in science.

All members are required to submit a research project for judging in the spring science fair. At meetings, members discuss problems related to their projects.

John Scott is president of NSRA, John Andrews is corresponding secretary, and Kathy Short, recording secretary and treasurer.

Yearling Players have launched plans for a Halloween party to be held Thursday, Oct. 29, at the school. Members are required either to come in costume or pay a 25-cent fine.

Committee chairmen for the year are Cheryl Workman and Janie Fisher, social; Teddy Sharp, publicity, and Laura Fields, program.

Newly elected officers of the Art Club are Kathy Fjelsted, president; Sue Gradwahl, vice-president; Cheryl Workman, secretary, and Linda Lamme, treasurer.

Bible Course Being Offered To The Deaf

Whitehall Church of Christ is offering studies in the Bible, a free correspondence course for the deaf, so that they may have an opportunity to study in their homes.

Richard Carlson, a member of the congregation and the son of mutes, is in charge of the course, assisted by Tom Litton Luther Stancil. The elders of the church oversee the work and a room has been provided for worship.

Deaf persons may receive the free 30 lesson course by writing to the Whitehall Church of Christ, 4185 E. Main-st, Columbus, O.

Climbing roses will bloom next spring on this season's growth. If you prune them now, you'll use next year's bloom. If the plants are getting out of hand, do the heavy pruning after the first big flush of bloom next spring. Nipping off the spent blooms will help force plant nutrients into development of new flower buds and will in no way reduce quality of spring bloom next year.

At Walnut Ridge's open house last Wednesday night the Usherettes, an organization for tenth grade girls, performed their first duty of the year. Usherettes were chosen on citizenship, dependability, neatness of appearance and personality.

Girls in Usherettes this year are Nancy Dickson, Pat McLoughlin, Pam Ried, Carolyn Allman, Connie Corcoran, Terry Holliday, Cheryl Kelling, Sharon Lewis, Charlene March, Becky Miller, Caren Pinkston, Lynn Soppel, Connie Stallings and Ronna Winters.

Marie Guzzino, Wendy Heineman, Connie Klock, Faye Lyne, Florence Little, Sandie Lynfoot, Rita Morgan, Linda Wessel, Susan Butterfield, Margo Hibbles and Gail Redderson.

Student Council officers elected for this year are Mary Jane Goldthwaite, president; Chuck Crook, vice-president; Kathi Westover, secretary; and Barb Tracy, treasurer.

"Day in court" starts at 8 a.m. this year with Dave Feyh, chief justice; Cathy Dick, senior justice, Jim Kinser and Jim Wallar, junior justices.

Mary Jane Goldthwaite, prosecuting attorney; Chris Morrison and Kathi Jones, defense attorney; Diedra Macmillin, clerk; Karen Hutchins, deputy clerk; Chuck Corbett and Chuck Crook, bailiffs, and Flo Little, sophomore justice.

Student court meets Tuesday through Friday to hear cases. Procedure of a regular trial begins with the swearing-in of the accused student by the bailiff.

The prosecuting attorney then reads the charge and the accused pleads—guilty or not guilty. The defense attorney is ready with answers to help the accused as the five-member court asks questions.

After the court makes a decision, the accused is brought before the chief justice who then reads the punishment.

New Scout District Formed In Eastern Columbus Area

A new Scout district in eastern Columbus will begin operating Nov. 1, the Central Ohio Council announced recently.

As yet unnamed, the new district will cover the territory east of Alum Creek and north of Livingston-av, not including the cities of Westerville and Reynoldsburg.

This area was previously part of two districts, the Arrowhead and the White Oaks. These two districts will continue to operate, but with fewer units in each. The new district was formed because there were too many units in the Arrowhead and White Oaks.

Harold Mason has been named district executive for the new district. Mr. Mason was a major in the Air Force until last February, when he retired. He entered the service during the Second World War and flew as a combat pilot. This is his first job as a professional Scouter.

Bertrand Japikse and Charles Bright were chosen to serve as district commissioner and district chairman, respectively.

Mr. Japikse has served as Cubmaster of Pack 166, Scoutmaster of Troop 166, and advisor of Post 166. Mr. Bright was Scoutmaster of Troop 234 and advisor to Post 234 before being elected chairman.

Cub Scout packs which will be in the new district are 9, 75, 78, 98, 124, 128, 150, 166, 195, 220, 270, 280, 286, 287, 317, 334, 362, 367, 369, 373, 403, 424 and 475.

EAST COLUMBUS CENTER

Leagues Forming For All Area Boys

Basketball leagues are now forming at East Columbus Center, and anyone interested should register now, either individually or as a team. There are leagues for boys from nine to 15 years.

At Krumm Park, the East Columbus Indians lost a thriller to Lockbourne 20 to 18. The Indians trailed 18 to 0 at the end of the third quarter when Mike Priestas and company went to work.

Mike scored twice but the extra point attempts by Bill Pitt and Butch Price were no good. Brian King added another six points but still the Indians could not push over the conversion.

Lockbourne then took the ball and marched to the one yard line of the Indians, where they were stalled with 30 seconds remaining. The exchange from Priestas to King was lost and Bill Pitt recovered the fumble in the end zone for the safety.

East Columbus' six-man football team won a game and dropped one this past weekend.

They won from Linden via forfeit route, and lost to the Barbarians 32 to 12. The team scored on two long gainers, a 55-yard pass and run play from Ken Sauls to Arnold Fuller, and a 98-yard return of a recovered fumble by Sauls.

Baton lessons are being given at the center on Wednesdays from 4 to 6. Any girl is welcome to join, and should contact the center for more information, BE. 1-6428.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

Teamwork Earns $50 For Bill, Mike Robson

IT ISN'T very difficult to smile when you've just won $50. That's why Jim Hakes, 760 Thomas-av, was beaming last week after topping all contestants in The Spectator's Football Contest. Jim added $25 to regular winnings by being a paid subscriber to The Spectator.

Teamwork, the element that wins football games, paid off for this week's Football Contest winner, William Robson, 141 Dakota-av.

Robson pocketed $25 for 'out-selecting' 216 other entrants and doubled his earnings ($50) by being a regular paid subscriber to the West Side Spectator.

The teamwork came in the matter of selection with Robson admitting that his son Mike, a senior at Central and manager of the Pirate football team, played an important role in deciding the winning entry.

Young Mike's aid proved bountiful as his dad announced he would split the $50 purse right down the middle.

Robson, who missed but four in the 28-game lineup, has competed in The Spectator's grid guess game for several seasons but this was the first time he ever finished atop the list of entrants.

"The money will come in handy with Christmas right around the corner," Robson admitted.

Wins Poetry Contest

Mrs. Virginia Nelson, of 713 Pleasant Ridge-av, won a $10 award in an Ohio Poetry Day contest sponsored by Mrs. Myers Y. Cooper, late of Cincinnati.

She also won an honorable mention in a contest sponsored by Miss Leona Westland.

Finishing two off the pace with six incorrect picks was Harley E. Creamer, 1300 N. Scott-st, Arlington, Va.—a long distance participant in the contest.

In a six-way tie for third place were Geoff Gold, 327 N. Ardmore-rd, Lea Fishking, 1343 Picard, Dot Buckholtz, 993 Francis-av, Roy Grinstead 661 Roth-av, Jack Buck, 736 Daulton-ct and (guess who?) Mike Robson, the winner's son. All six missed seven games.

If you think you can make it to that winner's circle next week, simply fill in those winners next to the advertisers' name in the entry blank. The games appear in his ad block on the contest page.

Send your entry before midnight, Tuesday, Nov. 3, to: Football Contest Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad Street, Columbus, 43204.

RAMS, BEXLEY SEEK WINS AS . . .

Warriors Host Bucs; Hawks 'Eye' Eagles

East moved another notch closer to the City League grid title last week as they smothered Whetstone, 35-0, and piled up 290 yards rushing and 103 passing in the [illegible].

Tiger scores were counted by Sherm Lundy who ran 52 and 30 yards for scores; Gary Rispress who ran one and 65 to pay dirt and Jim Griffith who had an 11-varder. Placekicker Chuck Wright booted a 23-yard field goal (second attempt in career) and added two conversions to round out the Tiger point-scoring.

The Tiger defense, led by Willie Jackson, Howard Burks and Pete McKinnon, limited the Braves to 83 rushing yards.

THE TIGERS (7-0), downed Central, 37-22, last week and appear headed for a long-sought City crown.

The next East foe is Aquinas (1-4 in CL, 1-5 in season). The Terriers are sparked by scrambling quarterback Pat Noles (165) scatbacks Ed Spires, Steve Jander and Nick Cenci but should be little trouble for the title-bound Tigers.

ST. CHARLES 28,
NEWARK CATHOLIC 14

Dick Geyer's Cards dealt Newark Catholic a (John) Finn last week as the senior fullback galloped for three scores and paced the Carolians to their fourth win against two negative nods.

After a 14-all halftime, Finn capped a 54-yard fourth-period drive with his third score and iced the verdict while mate Tim Rooney added another TD and conversion. Quarterback Joe DiCesare's extra point run ended the scoring for the Cards who meet Mt. Vernon St. Vincent Saturday night in the Knox County town.

THE CARDS, 34-12 losers to CCL leader DeSales two weeks ago, could be in for trouble against the Saints who have upset designs on the Columbusites.

ACADEMY 16,
CANAL WINCHESTER 16

The Vikings, down 16-8 after the first period against the Indians, rallied for eight more in the second frame as Terry Larrimer ran back a first-period kickoff 82 electrifying yards and junior Jim Gordon tied it with a 14-yard gallop.

Viking conversions were counted by Larrimer to boost Academy's season log to 2-3-1 and 1-3-1 in the FCL. The Vikings play New Albany (0-5, 2-5 over-all) Friday night for a game with the Eagles who are sparked by fullback Dave Kellett and halfback John Tinon. Academy tripped at St. Mary, 30-0, last week.

WEST 16,
EASTMOOR 14

Bob Stuart's Warriors lost a heart-breaker on a conversion pass play in the third period last week after touchdowns by Kirk Sweet (37-yard pass from Jerry Groves) and Wayne Mixon (six-yard pass from Groves) and a conversion catch by Ron Bollie staked E-M to a narrow 16-14 deficit.

The Warriors, who bowed to Brookhaven, 8-0, last week, host Central (4-1 in loop) Friday night. The Warriors (2-5) will have to stop pass-master Jim Cuckler and speedy backs Al Carmon, John Greenway and Dick Hendricks to win tomorrow night.

CENTRAL 14,
WALNUT RIDGE 0

High-scoring Central was held to a mere six points for three periods of play last week by Ralph Webster's Scotties who couldn't hit the scoreboard themselves and fell, 14-0, to the Bucs.

Jim Cuckler's one-yard plunge and Al Carmon's last period conversion catch were just icing on the cake for the Bucs. W-R's offense, led by Dave Feyh, Larry Baer and Gary Carter, couldn't get untangled and fumbled on the Buc three early in the initial frame to forfeit one potential [illegible].

THE SCOTS, who bowed to Marion-Franklin, 44-12, two weeks ago, will be seeking win number two Friday night at home against North (0-5, 0-7 over-all). The Scots (1-6) will have to cope with hard-running Chuck Globe of the Bears and North's inside counter plays.

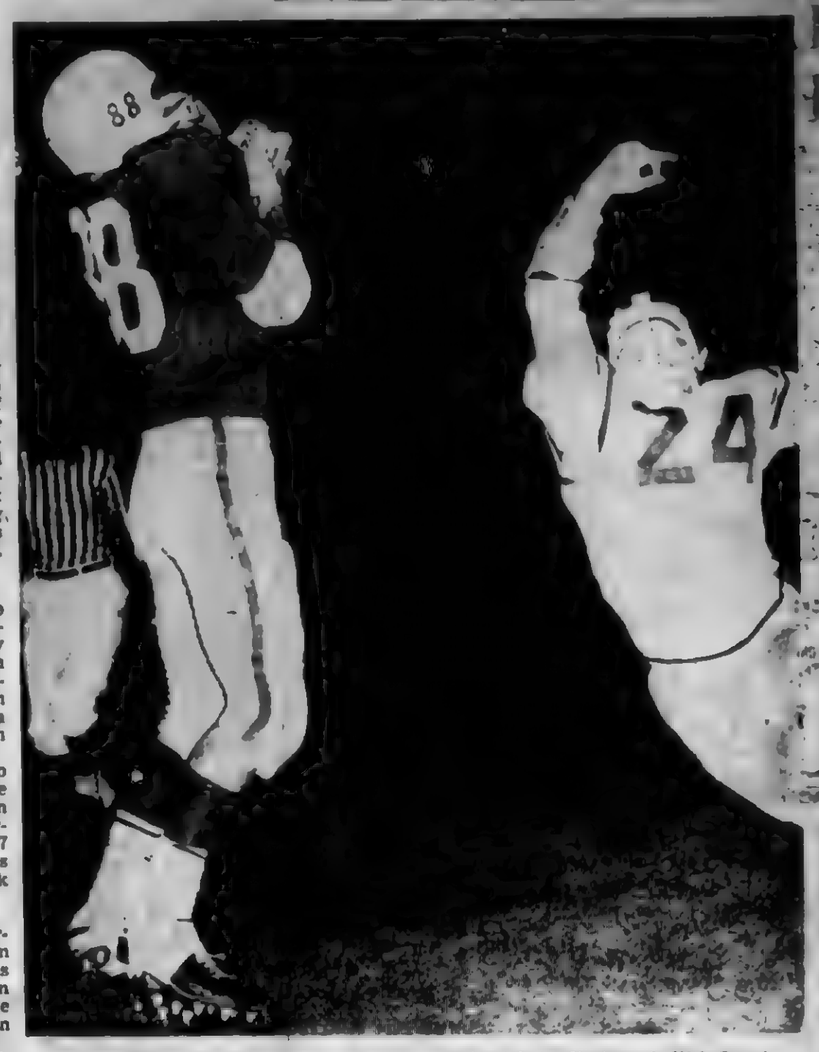
DELAWARE 6,
BEXLEY 0

The Lions fumbled away a golden opportunity to tie or win the game on the Hayes' two-yard line in the last period but the Pacers hung on for a 6-0 nod.

Bexley's tight defense, led by the likes of Dave Herwald, Woody Jones and Dave Frasch, held the Pacers scoreless until Bruce Baxter connected on a short pass play midway in the last frame.

THE LIONS (1-4 in CBL, 1-6 for the year) won their initial game of the season two Fridays ago at the expense of Urbana, 13-6, and would like to taste victory again this Friday at Grandview (3-2 and 5-2 over-all) where the Bobcats boast a fine quarterback in Steve Fekete and running backs Tom Holden (three TDs last week) and Kelly Kahler.

WORTHINGTON 21,
WHITEHALL 7



Jim Bline's Rams battled to a 7-all standoff at intermission with the Cards as Harv Eader sneaked over and Jim Rodenmayer booted the conversion but Worthington stormed for 14 third-stanza digits and waltzed home with the win.

The Rams, 31-6 losers to CBL kingpin Arlington, are scheduled back on the win track tomorrow night at Urbana (0-5 in the league, 0-7 over-all) where the hapless Hilliclimbers await the Black and White (4-3).

Hartley (2-3-1), still savoring a hard-earned 16-0 win over Bishop Ready two weeks ago, will get back into action Saturday evening at home when power-laden Watterson (5-1) comes to Hawkville.

Watterson is led by all-around signal-caller Fritz Kaiser and hard-running back Don Holland and should give Jack Ryan's Hawks a real tough setto tomorrow night.

HOW SWEET IT IS! ! — It was a sweet catch for Eastmoor's Kirk Sweet and Warrior fans Friday night as the big end jumped to haul in this six-yard touchdown flip from quarterback Jerry Groves. West's Mike Hughes swats in vain at the on-target pigskin at right. The TD and ensuing conversion tied the score at 8-8 but West went on to triumph, 16-14.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT—Warrior fullback George Ross just about had a clear field ahead of him Friday night but West defender Mike Hughes (24) chilled Ross' hopes for the long gain, halting the E-M runner with this diving tackle.

Marietta 11 Visits Cap Saturday

After last week's first-ever 23-6 win over Akron's Zips, Capital coach Gene Slaughter is busy prepping his Crusaders for Saturday's homecoming setto with Marietta, a team that cooped one-point margins from the Crusaders the last two years (29-28 and 7-6 last year).

The last six Marietta-Cap contests have been decided by two TD's or less and the Pioneers have tripped Slaughter's squads in the last three of four seasons.

FRESHMAN Leon Simpson of London earned a regular defensive end job after his superb performance against Akron last week while sub Dave Eberhard of Johnstown will probably go again at quarter where regular Ron Parson of Whitehall is injured with a gimpy leg.

Last week, Gordon McMaken romped for 147 yards in 16 calls (one 72-varder) and now has gained 623 yards in 95 totes (no losses) in two seasons (6.5 a crack).

Linebacker Murphy Moultry batted down three Akron passes and blocked a punt while Obetz terror Gary Mauller intercepted one Zip pass. Eberhard helped grind out 260 rushing yards, fired five aerials (54 yards), and scored twice to demonstrate his athletic versatility.

Going into Saturday's big homecoming game with Marietta, Cap is rushing 40 yards better per game than last year and is allowing only 160 yards rushing on defense per game this fall.

Crusaders Top OC Rushing 11

Gene Slaughter's fast-improving Capital eleven is the top rushing team in the Ohio Conference as of this writing. Cap, in five games, has rushed for 1,310 yards for a 262.0 average per contest.

Junior Gordon McMackin ranks fifth in the OC rushing with a non-loss 424-yard total on 61 hauls while Cap's pass defense has sacrificed but 85 yards per set-to.

Little Bucks, Hawks Win

The Little Buckeyes blasted the Northern Lights McDonald Golden Gales, 55-0, and the Lockbourne Sky Hawks nosed out the Bremen Black Hawks 19-12 in Ohio Valley Conference play over the weekend.

The leading conference scorer, Kenny Levin of the powerful Buckeye unit, scored four TD's, two on passes from QB Tim Pettorini good for 65 and 60 yard scoring plays, and two on a 53 yard jaunt and three yard dive. Buckeye fullback John Ferrante scored twice, one good on a 63 yard punt return and another on a 48 yard run. Halfback Alan Kletecka added the seventh score for the Buckeyes on a seven yard run and the final score was made by Buckeye end Lynn Stoner on a pass from Tim Pettorini good for 33 yards.

In the tight game played at Bremen Saturday night, Sky Hawk halfback Van Smith scored twice, one a 40 yard run and the other on a one yard plunge. Teammate Kevin Astley made a 20 yard run to cross the line for pay dirt. Bremen's D. Ashbaugh ran 22 yards for a score and FB John Snyder tallied from 13 yards out.

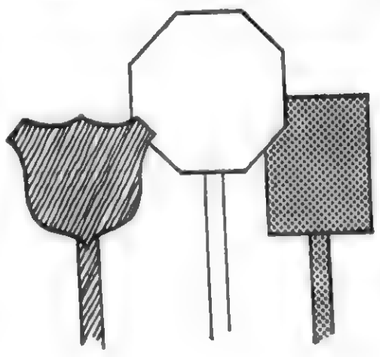
The Fabric Doctor

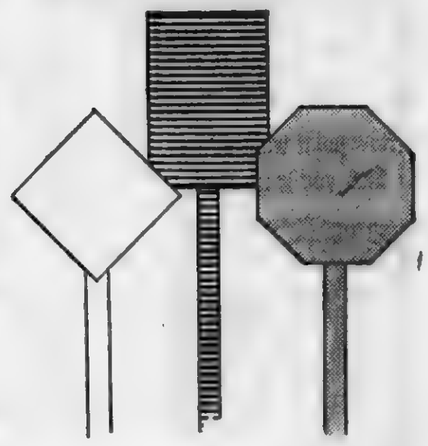
"Why Do Threads Break So Easily?"
—Mrs. R. E. M.

Dear Mrs. R. E. M.:



Sometimes it seems that threads simply are not as strong as they used to be. Perhaps that is true in certain garments. Poor grade thread may be used where the manufacturer must keep his costs down. However, threads break because of too much tension on the sewing machine during the original stitching or when the fabric was not stretched enough during stitching to give a sufficiently long stitching line. Some fabrics have more elasticity than the sewing thread and the thread snaps. Threads cannot withstand excess strain on a seam when a garment is too tight.

If you are stitching seams, use a good quality thread and an average stitch. Stitches which are too long will not hold the fabric securely. Too short a stitch holds it too tightly. Machine stitching is more firm and even than hand stitching and will give longer service. All the blame, Mrs. R. E. M., cannot be placed on the thread.



Speaking of sewing seams, a most interesting method of selling dresses in South America was related by Dorothy Diamond in Printers' Ink magazine. Many small shops, she says, display dresses in the rough seam state and do the final sewing only after the customer has made the purchase and been fitted. This seems more sensible than our costly way of finishing a dress, ripping it apart to let out the hips or shorten a hem and then do the expensive final sewing again. They may have something there.

District Twelve of the Ohio State Nurses Association is having Fun(d) Night, a card and games party, on Friday, Nov. 6 at St. Francis School of Nursing, 1441 Clifton Avenue, Columbus.

PUBLIC INVITED

The Ohio State Nurses Association is a non-profit organization of Registered Professional Nurses. The funds realized from this once-a-year project are used for educational purposes for members and non-members, including student and practical nurses, to keep nurses informed of the rapid advancements in medications, nursing procedures, equipment. In this way, they then are better equipped to give good nursing care to the sick.

ALL NURSES are ALWAYS willing to do their share in civic and community health projects. This association provides the leadership in securing your nurse volunteers for these programs. Won't you support them NOW?

And also, won't you please patronize the supporting advertisers? Thank you one and all!

Myers, Koontz List Credentials ForCommissioner

Glenn L. Myers and Henry A. Koontz cite their achievements in hopes of being retained as County Commissioners.

Henry A. Koontz served on the Columbus City Council when that organization was interested in Port Columbus, slum clearance, and the Columbus Zoo. He has actively participated in regional planning, the problems of child welfare, retarded children's programs, county zoning and civil defense.

Glenn Myers negotiated, along with his fellow commissioners, the purchase of the County Services building in 1963 for $331,000, saving the county taxpayers nearly $400,000, it was estimated.

Franklin County can thank Myers and Koontz for saving Memorial Hall and turning it into the Center of Science and Industry, a spokesman said. They can also be credited with creating the County's first Parks and Recreation Commission and with placing the welfare program on an economically sound, pay-as-you-go basis while retiring at $1.2 million deficit, it was reported. During these men's tenure each courthouse office operated in the black.

He was a member of Humboldt Masonic Lodge No. 476 F & AM, Gahanna Community Church, a veteran of World War I and a member of the Tri-Community Post No. 4719.

Survivors include wife, Mildred E.; five daughters, Mrs. Paul Jesse, Mrs. Thomas E. King, Mary Graham, Mrs. Ann Lemper, Mrs. James A. Daily; brother, Auburn Rea; 11 grandchildren.

Harold Cooper Seeks Post Of Commissioner

Many years in managerial positions, the last 10 as general manager of the Columbus Baseball Club, place Harold Cooper in a position to serve as county commissioner, an observer reports.

Cooper

It is Cooper's belief that plans should be formulated immediately for the expansion and improvement of our public parks and recreation areas to bring them up to the standards of other metropolitan areas.

A thorough study of the county's usage of its courthouse, jail, juvenile detention home, home for the aged and hospitals should be made to determine if these facilities are being used to the best advantage, according to Cooper.

Corn Support Price Given

The final support rate for 1964 crop corn in Franklin County will remain at $1.14 per bushel, Owen VanSchoyck, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has announced. This is the same as the minimum rate set earlier to help growers plan their operations.

The chairman reminded farmers that participants in the 1964 feed grain program in Franklin County are eligible for average price-support loans of $1.14 per bushel on their farm's production of corn, plus a 15 cents-per-bushel price support payment on the normal production of their harvested acres.

VanSchoyck pointed out that, during the four years the feed grain program has been in effect, the farmers throughout the country have cooperated in reversing a 10-year trend of ever-increasing supplies.

On Oct. 1 of this year, the corn carryover was estimated at half a billion bushels below the record carryover of 2 billion bushels on Oct. 1, 1961.

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

We Choose . . .

On the eve of our great national election and at a time when America vitally needs capable leadership there is outspoken expression of regret about the calibre of the presidential and vice-presidential candidates of both parties.

Many are saying in effect, "Take your choice—the lesser of two evils"

How did this situation come into being? Perhaps it is because we have "never had it so good" . . . or we have become apathetic . . . or we believe the thing is beyond our ability to change.

In effect we are saying "What's the use? The country is run by Big Business, Big Unions and Big Government."

Newspapers all over the country are lending their endorsements to one party or the other. As publisher of "grass roots" newspapers we have often given editorial endorsement to candidates, but only when we felt one man far outweighed another in the scale of qualifications.

On the eve of the presidential election in 1964 we can only present—

A Prayer For America

O God, who has so blessed America and Americans through nearly two centuries, we ask for thy continued blessings only if we are so deserving.

In this hour of doubt we ask that we may take this occasion to make ourselves aware of our own shortcomings and to realize that our nation will be no stronger than the combined strength of the individuals who are a part of it.

Cause us to firm up to a determination that we will not let America weaken, that we will lend our individual strength and wisdom to the building of not only a country but a world that will be acceptable in thy sight.

Help us to set our minds at peace by setting our efforts toward finding men who will grow larger than their prejudices so they will be entitled to positions of leadership.

Give us men who will seek to become statesmen rather than just political officeholders.

Help us find leaders with vision who have their feet on the ground.

Give us men who are dedicated to God and who are willing to listen to God.

Give us leadership from the ranks of those who are willing to work for the welfare of humanity rather than only building machines for reelection.

Give us a man who can be respected by the people of all ages.

Give us leaders capable of relaxing in the knowledge that their every decision comes from honest hearts rather than another payment on political debts.

In the days before us develop in all of us a respect for dignity whether it be on the street or in the White House.

Above all else, O God, help us to kindle more fires of enthusiasm in the hearts of men to believe that the individual is most dear to God.

Thanks

A nice big "Thank You" to our friends who have extended their congratulations and thanks for our new and enlarged Metro edition launched this past week.

They Pitch In To 'Save That Vote'

IT'S AN IMPORTANT ELECTION and everyone knows it. Even the young people are doing everything they can to "get out the vote." On the Hilltop, for example 12 Girl Scout troops are stationing members at 20 baby-sitting "stations" so mothers can go to the polls. Here, Senior Scout Rita Breckenbridge, 762 S. Ogden-av, gets acquainted with three-year-old Tommy and 22-months-old Dannie Newkirk while their mother, Mrs. Henry Newkirk, 808 S. Warren-av, leaves for the polls.

TO THE UNINITIATED, the voting machines which will be used Tuesday, can be as confusing as the control panel of a jet transport. Actually the procedure is a simple one with no votes registered until the master lever is pulled by the individual when his final vote is cast. To allow voters to familiarize themselves with the machine before election day, the League of Women Voters and the South Side Family Council are sponsoring a program of "voting instruction" which began Wednesday and will continue through next Tuesday, Nov. 3. Anyone uncertain about the operation of the machines is asked to come and make a "practice run" at the South Side Settlement House, 363 Reeb-av, on weekdas between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. On election day the hours will be from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Mrs. Connie Ziegler, 200 Hinkle-av, is shown at left giving Mrs. Barbara Martin, 801 S. Parsons-av, a sneak-preview of the instruction available. Mrs. Martin has never voted before, but claims, after the five-minute course, that she is ready to go to the polls.

Juvenile Vandalism Helps Cheat Motorists Out Of Rate Reduction

If you are one of the many "safe" motorists who wonder why your insurance rates have been going up instead of down, this story should provide at least a partial answer.

We will cite some instances which have occurred on the Columbus Hilltop over the past two weekends. But we could as well be talking about "Anyplace, U.S.A.," and the incidents and public reaction would be remarkably similar.

Fred Kilburn is a police officer in the Juvenile Bureau of the Columbus Police Department. His area is the West Side of the city, including the Hilltop. He is a safe

292,000 MAY VOTE HERE

Predict New National, Local Vote High Nov. 3

Columbus and Franklin County voters are virtually certain to set a new high for ballot casting in this presidential election year when they visit the polls on Nov. 3. All precincts in the county will be open on Election Day from 6:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Unofficial figures released by the Franklin County Board of Elections indicate a total county voter turnout of about 292,000, including an estimated 191,000 in Columbus. These figures would eclipse the previous record vote in 1961 when 275,013 Franklin County residents cast ballots.

Some political prognosticators claim existence of a higher than normal amount of antipathy toward both presidentiel candidates. But many who might be tempted to sit out the election will be drawn to the polls by an assortment of 50 questions and issues facing the electorate in various sections of the county.

Electors will vote for two men by pushing one lever in the presidential race, either President Lyndon B. Johnson and Minnesota Senator Hubert H. Humphrey for the Democrats, or Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater and New York Congressman William E. Miller for the GOP.

Ohio's U.S. senatorial race is between incumbent Senator Stephen M. Young, a Democrat, and Republican Congressman-at-Large Robert A. Taft. The contest for the seat Taft vacated pits Republican Congressman Oliver P. Bolton, Mentor, against Cleveland Democrat Robert Sweeney.

Statewide judicial contests will be decided for four of the seven seats on the Ohio Supreme Court. Contesting for full six-year terms in the nonpartisan races will be Francis B. Douglas, Shaker Heights, against incumbent Judge Charles B. Zimmerman of Springfield and incumbent Judge C. William O'Neill, Marietta, and Joseph D. Bryan, Columbus. Vying for an unexpired term ending Dec. 31, 1966, will be incumbent Judge Lynn B. Griffith, Warren, and Louis J. Schneider, Jr., Cincinnati, while incum-

Although there was no direct increase in pay, a fat, fat contract, retroactive to September, provided such benefits as earlier retirement, disability pensions, widow and survivor benefits, increased sick leaves and—best of all—the company is going to pay all the insurance. Hopes Dim For Transit Syndicate

Hopes for the formation of a local syndicate to take over ownership and operation of the Columbus Transit Company are fading.

Letters are now out to Chamber of Commerce members and those of the Development Committee to ascertain whether any local interest, not yet revealed, does exist.

According to Robert Mott of the latter group, a meeting will be scheduled to review the situation in light of the replies to this latest survey. This conference will probably be held either Friday, Nov. 6, or one week from then.

Third Graders Escape Injury In Rt. 40 Crash

Sixteen school children narrowly escaped injury shortly after noon Tuesday when a Columbus catering truck slammed into the rear of a stopped school bus just 300 yards inside the Madison County Line.

The children were taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus and later released.

The bus, carrying half-day third grade pupils, had stopped in a marked bus stop to let Richard Lawless alight from the bus.

Richard, the grandson of Mrs. Grace Christman, 9121 W. Broad, barely escaped serious injury.

The bus and the truck were in the east-bound berm lane of the highway. Flashing signal lights on the bus could have been seen from a quarter of a mile away, according to State Police investigators.

The driver of the truck, Lynn Kitzmiller, 25, of 2400 N. Glenn-av, was pinned back against the truck seat by the rear bumper of the bus. He was taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital where he was listed in poor condition Wednesday morning. Bus driver Rev. James Newsome of West Jefferson's Church of Christ, was also taken to the hospital but released.

Fortunately the children were seated to the front of the bus which has a capacity of 66. The two back seats in the bus were crushed forward into seats directly ahead by the impact.

West Jefferson school custodian and head bus driver Ray Sollars who spoke briefly to Rev. Newsome before he was taken to the hospital said Newsome gave this account: "I had stopped and the guy just hit me from behind. That's all there was to it."

Skid marks from the truck began approximately 75 feet from the point of impact.

The truck-bus accident was the second to involve a member of the Lawless family. Richard's older brother, Phillip, narrowly escaped death earlier this year at the same spot when a car swerved off the highway, knocked down a mailbox and stopped against the hilly front lawn of the Christman residence — several feet away from Phillip.

Mrs. Christman said that Richard was saved from serious injury by a muffler-type cap that protected his head when he was knocked to the ground when the truck hit the bus.

A school bus stop sign stands 200 feet west of the Christman home.

SIXTEEN WEST JEFFERSON school children narrowly missed serious injury Tuesday when a catering truck smashed into the rear of their school bus as it unloaded third grader Richard Lawless. The truck did extensive damage to the rear of the bus (left) but the most miss of tragedy for the children was even more evident inside the vehicle (center) where unoccupied back seats were jammed into those directly in front of them. All the children were seated in the front of the bus. The truck

bent Judge Rankin M. Gibson, Westerville, will face Judge Paul W. Brown of Youngstown.

A prime Franklin County race will pit incumbent Republican Congressman Samuel L. Devine, Bexley, against Democrat Robert L. Van Heyde, Columbus attorney. Devine is serving his third term as 12th District (Franklin County) Congressman.

Franklin County voters will assist in choosing a state senator to represent the 10th District (Franklin and Pickaway Counties) and will elect seven county representatives to the Ohio General Assembly. Republican incumbent State Senator Richard B. Metcalf is opposed by Democrat John T. Gordon. Both are Columbus residents.

The State Representative race pits seven incumbent Republicans against a slate of seven Democrats. All are residents of Columbus.

The Republicans are Thomas M. Herbert, Robert E. Holmes, Keith McNamara, Archer E. Reilly, Jr., Jacob A. Shawan, Chalmers P. Wylie and Lytle G. Zuber.

Democratic candidates include James L. Baumann, James T. Foley, Jerry O'Shaughnessy, Carl G. Thompson, Russell K. Volkema, Donald L. Woodland and Mrs. Jeanne Woodward.

Non-partisan county judicial contests for six-year full terms will determine a seat on the 10th District (Franklin County) Court of Appeals and two posts each in Common Pleas Court and the Domestic Relations Court. The Court of Appeals race will be between incumbent Presiding Judge John C. Duffy and William W. Holmes. Both are from Columbus.

The Common Pleas balloting will be between incumbent Judge Kenneth L. Sater and Judge Fred J. Shoemaker, and between incumbent Judge Henry L. Holden and Judge Fred L. Donally. For Domestic Relations Court it will be incumbent Judge Clayton W. Rose, Dublin, vs. Judge Bruce Jenkins, Columbus, and incumbent Judge John W. Hill vs. John R. Dennis. The latter two are Columbus residents.

Partisan races for county office include:

Rosemond; Auditor: Incumbent Republican Arch Warren vs. Democrat Eldon H. Brown.

LOCAL ISSUES FACE CITY, COUNTY TESTS

"Campaign '64" is eating up its final few tons of national and international newsprint and the last few million "well chosen words" are being spoken in anticipation of record local and national balloting on Nov. 3.

But there is more to elections than names, offices and promises. On many major points of local concern—such as bond issues, tax levies and local options — the voter calls the turn with finality.

Columbus electors will face ten separate items in addition to selecting 32 of the 64 candidates. And residents of Precincts L and E in the Seventh Ward and Precinct H in Ward 30 will have the distinction of pulling the most levers, 47, if they vote a full ballot.

Voters in these precincts will answer five "local option" questions relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Columbus voters will also decide the fate of a $34,650,000 school bond issue, a $33 million six-item bond package to finance a city-wide, five-year capital improvements program and a referendum to ratify a natural gas rate contract calling for lower city rates.

All Franklin County voters will face the $15 million bond issue for hospitals, and renewal of a half-mill welfare levy. There has been no organized opposition to any of the Columbus or county-wide issues.

The Columbus school bond issue is for the purpose of a construction and expansion program geared to keep pace with current and anticipated population growth. The planned program calls for construction of 24 new schools, 41 school building additions, 46 remodeling projects, purchase of 25 new school sites and expansion of 27 existing sites.

Experts estimate that total additional cost to taxpayers will be 6.5 cents per week for a five-year period.

The Columbus capital improvement bond issues will not represent any tax increase, with financing to come from a portion of the City Income set aside by law for such purposes. The separate items include the following:

Urban Redevelopment, $6 million; Street Lighting, $1.9 million; Expressways and Streets, $14.7 million; Storm Sewers, $4.8 million; Parks and Recreation, $4,450,000, and Fire Stations, $1,150,000.

Projects called for within the total bond package include:

Widening of the west and south legs of the Innerbelt from Goodale-blvd to Short-st; construction of the Olentangy River-rd Expressway; replacement of the Front-st bridge between Chestnut and Naghten-sts; construction of storm sewers in various sections of the city.

Development of parks at Hoover, Griggs and O'Shaughnessy Dams, and redevelopment of Goodale Park; acquisition of additional school parks and other park lands, and lighting of new and existing parks; acquisition of land for new playgrounds and for new playfields, and lighting for various play areas in all sections of the city.

Many other projects are planned throughout the city, including road improvements, swimming pools, fire stations, street and expressway lighting and other items.

Passage of the county-wide Hospital Bond Issue would permit the addition of a required 600 more beds to adequately serve existing and near future needs. The bond issue calls for financing of construction of a new hospital in the eastern section of Columbus, and expansion programs at seven existing Franklin County hospitals.

Passage of the half-mill Welfare Levy renewal is sought to replace a similar amount due to expire at the end of the year. The renewal is necessary to maintain present standards.

Hopes—

that lack of enthusiasm from local investors stems from two factors.

Rail System Foreseen

The first is the realization that the transportation system will have to be vastly expanded within the next 10 or 15 years, calling for a staggering capital investment. (Some form of rail transit is foreseen).

The other is that the company, as presently operated, produces a return on capital investment which is less than bank interest.

Members of the Citizens Transit Study, while still retaining an open-mind on the subject, have yet seen no solution other than city ownership under a transit authority.

With the goal of keeping such an authority free from political pressures, it has been suggested that four members be appointed for staggered terms by the mayor, subject to the approval of council.

No political party could have more than two representatives.

These four members would then elect a fifth who would serve as chairman.

To Contract Management

Mott explained that if such a plan were followed, this commission would then contract for professional management for the actual operation of the system.

Without private capital available, from local investors, the only other alternative would be that of outside ownership.

Mott reaffirmed that no enthusiasm exists for this answer. It is feared that a syndicate, without personal stake in Columbus, could acquire the firm, "milk" it, and walk out with the citizens of Columbus holding the bag.

Asks Support

Democratic candidate for the State Senate, John Gordon, and candidates for the State Legislature James L. Baumann, James T. Foley, Jerry O'Shaughnessy, Carl G. Thompson, Russell H. Volkema, Donald L. Woodland and Jeanne Woodward have taken a definite stand on many issues during their current campaign for the General Assembly seats. Some of these issues include: Clarification of the Sunday Closing Law, tax reduction on real estate, restoring benefits to the labor people on workmen's compensation, unemployment, further study into the issue of mandatory liability insurance on drivers, and investigation of the consumer fraud taking place in the county.

Asks Return

Judge John C. Duffy is seeking re-election to the 10th District Court of Appeals. Currently he is serving as Presiding Judge of the Court.

Endorsed by the Columbus Bar Association for the Nov. 3 election, Judge Duffy has served as judge, Municipal Court, from 1956 to 1959, when he was elected to the Court of Appeals.

Judge Duffy is a graduate of Ohio State University College of Law. He served with the United States Army, worked as legal reviewer for the Industrial Commission of Ohio, and serves on various church and civic boards. Married, and the father of nine children, he resides at 184 Torrence-rd.

OPEN HOUSE DATED

Robert G. Jones Outlines Pledges

Robert G. "Bob" Jones is seeking the office of county recorder on the Republican ticket, and claims that in the past year the Franklin County Recorder's Office had a gross income of $208,003.88 and an expenditure of $227,961.07. If elected, he promises the taxpayers that the office will become self-sufficient.

'Secondly, Jones states that the average salary in the Court House is $4,823 (full time employes), but that the average salary in the county recorder's office is $5,835.

He points out the county recorder's office "has been in the hands of one family for 33 years — and that there is only one way to eliminate inequity—a change of administration."

Jones promises a change that would result in a savings to the taxpayers of over $30,000 annually.

Jones's third point concerns an automatic recording clock. He declares that most all major cities in the United States and the smaller counties in Ohio have one of these clocks.

Then he quoted a past-president of the Ohio County Recorders' Association, presently recorder of a county five times smaller than Franklin and with five times fewer employes, "I don't see how in the world anyone could run a county recorder's office without an automatic recording...clock." He promises the installation of one within 30 days if elected.

Jack Ryan Seeks Post Of Commissioner

For more than 26 years Jack Ryan has held responsible management positions providing a background for county commissioner, an observer reports.

Ryan

As a county commissioner, Ryan claims he would bring a high degree of integrity to the office, see that better, more alert business practices are followed with a closer check on contracts and purchasing. Ryan foresees the expansion of county facilities and services as present revenues will permit.

Ryan's policy on annexation may be summed up as "harmony for best results," meaning that every side of annexation problems must be properly considered to best serve all those involved.

Jacob Shawan Air Views On State Institutions

"The last General Assembly set up a program for mental health which I believe made important inroads in this field," Shawan states. "The outpatient approach is the new direction our state is taking," Shawan asserts.

"Most assuredly funds must be made available for the repair and remodeling of the old hospital facilities and I will direct my efforts toward this end. This would normally come from the A and B funds. Possibly a bond issue approach, which would be financed by liquor profits, could make available funds for the complete modernization of present facilities," Shawan revealed.

"Another field that needs attention continues to be the retarded child. We must see to it that the state lives up to its responsibility to subsidize $300 per pupil for the Community Class Program. I feel that new legislation is needed to provide a sheltered workshop for these youngsters who are over 21 (which would) make constructive use of our tax dollars."

Judge C. Rose Asks Re-election

Judge Clayton W. Rose seeks reelection to the Franklin County Court of Domestic Relations, an office in which he has received national recognition during his 28 years on the bench.

Rose was first appointed to the position in 1936 and then served through four elected terms. Last year he completed a term as president of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, a 1300-member organization in which he has held a number of offices.

A few years ago, he was appointed chairman of a committee to write a manual on juvenile court procedures and practices for all of the country's juvenile judges. He is currently a member of the Advisory Council of Judges of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency. He is also past president of the Ohio Association of Juvenile Court Judges.

All have this in common: Guaranteed electric convenience!

New Free service checks completeness of electrical planning and installation in new homes!

Each of the new homes listed here proudly displays the Electric Convenience Guarantee it's earned. Look for it when you're house-hunting. It's your assurance that a new home can meet all your electric need now – and in the future – without extensive and expensive rewiring.

You see, even though wiring in all new homes must meet minimum codes and ordinances, and be approved by proper local authorities, not every new house has all the electric service you need today. Fewer still can provide all you'll want tomorrow. But these homes measure up on both counts!

You're able to judge a more valuable, more livable, stay-young home.

These homes have been checked for you by a representative from The Electric Company to assure that there is ample Light for Living, to protect precious eyes, making living brighter. You'll have all the electricity you'll need, where you need it, for instant convenience. You'll be able to enjoy all the modern time-and-work saving flameless electric appliances you now own and will acquire over the years!

Ask to see the ELECTRIC Convenience Guarantee* before you buy!

You certainly don't want to invest in a new home with built-in limits on your enjoyment of it. Electric convenience is a large part of modern living – and the Electric Convenience Guarantee tells you for sure how much you're getting. Satisfy your curiosity. Be sure you see it before you buy.

bent Judge Rankin M. Gibson, Westerville, will face Judge Paul W. Brown of Youngstown.

A prime Franklin County race will pit incumbent Republican Congressman Samuel L. Devine, Bexley, against Democrat Robert L. Van Heyde, Columbus attorney. Devine is serving his third term as 12th District (Franklin County) Congressman.

Franklin County voters will assist in choosing a state senator to represent the 10th District (Franklin and Pickaway Counties) and will elect seven county representatives to the Ohio General Assembly. Republican incumbent State Senator Richard B. Metcalf is opposed by Democrat John T. Gordon. Both are Columbus residents.

The State Representative race pits seven incumbent Republicans against a slate of seven Democrats. All are residents of Columbus.

The Republicans are Thomas M. Herbert, Robert E. Holmes, Keith McNamara, Archer E. Reilly, Jr., Jacob A. Shawan, Chalmers P. Wylie and Lytle G. Zuber.

Democratic candidates include James L. Baumann, James T. Foley, Jerry O'Shaughnessy, Carl G. Thompson, Russell K. Volkema, Donald L. Woodland and Mrs. Jeanne Woodward.

Non-partisan county judicial contests for six-year full terms will determine a seat on the 10th District (Franklin County) Court of Appeals and two posts each in Common Pleas Court and the Domestic Relations Court. The Court of Appeals race will be between incumbent Presiding Judge John C. Duffy and William W. Holmes. Both are from Columbus.

The Common Pleas balloting will be between incumbent Judge Kenneth L. Sater and Judge Fred J. Shoemaker, and between incumbent Judge Henry L. Holden and Judge Fred L. Donally. For Domestic Relations Court it will be incumbent Judge Clayton W. Rose, Dublin, vs. Judge Bruce Jenkins, Columbus, and incumbent Judge John W. Hill vs. John R. Dennis. The latter two are Columbus residents.

Partisan races for county office include:

Commisioner (two to be elected): Incumbent Republicans Henry A. Koontz and Glenn L. Myers vs. Democrats Harold M. Cooper and Jack Ryan; Prosecuting Attorney: Incumbent Republican C. Howard Johnson vs. Democrat Theodore R. Saker; Sheriff: Incumbent Republican Stacy R. Hall vs. Democrat Carl L. Noble; Clerk of Court: Incumbent Republican Joseph M. Clifford vs. Democrat James J. Yoder.

Recorder: Incumbent Democrat James A. Schaefer vs. Republican Robert G. Jones; Treasurer: Incumbent Democrat Newton A. Thatcher vs. Republican Robert M. Edwards; Engineer: Incumbent Democrat Guy Elbin vs. Republican Frank M. Williams; Coroner: Incumbent Republican Robert A. Evans vs. Democrat John H. Rosemond; Auditor: Incumbent Republican Arch Warren vs. Democrat Eldon H. Brown.

LOCAL ISSUES FACE CITY, COUNTY TESTS

"Campaign '64" is eating up its final few tons of national and international newsprint and the last few million "well chosen words" are being spoken in anticipation of record local and national balloting on Nov. 3.

But there is more to elections than names, offices and promises. On many major points of local concern—such as bond issues, tax levies and local options — the voter calls the turn with finality.

Columbus electors will face ten separate items in addition to selecting 32 of the 64 candidates. And residents of Precincts L and E in the Seventh Ward and Precinct H in Ward 30 will have the distinction of pulling the most levers, 47, if they vote a full ballot.

Voters in these precincts will answer five "local option" questions relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Columbus voters will also decide the fate of a $34,650,000 school bond issue, a $33 million six-item bond package to finance a city-wide, five-year capital improvements program and a referendum to ratify a natural gas rate contract calling for lower city rates.

All Franklin County voters will face the $15 million bond issue for hospitals, and renewal of a half-mill welfare levy. There has been no organized opposition to any of the Columbus or county-wide issues.

The Columbus school bond issue is for the purpose of a construction and expansion program geared to keep pace with current and anticipated population growth. The planned program calls for construction of 24 new schools, 41 school building additions, 46 remodeling projects, purchase of 25 new school sites and expansion of 27 existing sites.

Experts estimate that total additional cost to taxpayers will be 6.5 cents per week for a five-year period.

The Columbus capital improvement bond issues will not represent any tax increase, with financing to come from a portion of the City Income set aside by law for such purposes. The separate items include the following:

Urban Redevelopment, $6 million; Street Lighting, $1.9 million; Expressways and Streets, $14.7 million; Storm Sewers, $4.8 million; Parks and Recreation, $4,450,000, and Fire Stations, $1,150,000.

Projects called for within the total bond package include:

Widening of the west and south legs of the Innerbelt from Goodale-blvd to Short-st; construction of the Olentangy River-rd Expressway; replacement of the Front-st bridge between Chestnut and Naghten-sts; construction of storm sewers in various sections of the city.

Development of parks at Hoover, Griggs and O'Shaughnessy Dams, and redevelopment of Goodale Park; acquisition of additional school parks and other park lands, and lighting of new and existing parks; acquisition of land for new playgrounds and for new playfields, and lighting for various play areas in all sections of the city.

Many other projects are planned throughout the city, including road improvements, swimming pools, fire stations, street and expressway lighting and other items.

Passage of the county-wide Hospital Bond Issue would permit the addition of a required 600 more beds to adequately serve existing and near future needs. The bond issue calls for financing of construction of a new hospital in the eastern section of Columbus, and expansion programs at seven existing Franklin County hospitals.

Passage of the half-mill Welfare Levy renewal is sought to replace a similar amount due to expire at the end of the year. The renewal is necessary to maintain present standards.

Hopes—

that lack of enthusiasm from local investors stems from two factors.

Rail System Foreseen

The first is the realization that the transportation system will have to be vastly expanded within the next 10 or 15 years, calling for a staggering capital investment. (Some form of rail transit is foreseen).

The other is that the company, as presently operated, produces a return on capital investment which is less than bank interest.

Members of the Citizens Transit Study, while still retaining an open-mind on the subject, have yet seen no solution other than city ownership under a transit authority.

With the goal of keeping such an authority free from political pressures, it has been suggested that four members be appointed for staggered terms by the mayor, subject to the approval of council.

No political party could have more than two representatives.

These four members would then elect a fifth who would serve as chairman.

To Contract Management:

Mott explained that if such a plan were followed, this commission would then contract for professional management for the actual operation of the system.

Without private capital available, from local investors, the only other alternative would be that of outside ownership.

Mott reaffirmed that no enthusiasm exists for this answer. It is feared that a syndicate, without personal stake in Columbus, could acquire the firm, "milk" it, and walk out with the citizens of Columbus holding the bag.

Asks Support

Democratic candidate for the State Senate, John Gordon, and candidates for the State Legislature James L. Baumann, James T. Foley, Jerry O'Shaughnessy, Carl G. Thompson, Russell H. Volkema, Donald L. Some of these issues include: Clarification of the Sunday Closing Law, tax reduction on real estate, restoring benefits to the labor people on workmen's compensation, unemployment, further study into the issue of mandatory liability insurance on drivers, and investigation of the consumer fraud taking place in the county.

Robert G. Jones Outlines Pledges

Robert G. "Bob" Jones is seeking the office of county recorder on the Republican ticket, and claims that in the past year the Franklin County Recorder's Office had a gross income of $208,003.88 and an expenditure of $227,961.07. If elected, he promises the taxpayers that the office will become self-sufficient.

'Secondly, Jones states that the average salary in the Court House is $4,823 (full time employes), but that the average salary in the county recorder's office is $5,835.

He points out the county recorder's office "has been in the hands of one family for 33 years — and that there is only one way to eliminate inequity—a change of administration."

Jones promises a change that would result in a savings to the taxpayers of over $30,000 annually.

Jones's third point concerns an automatic recording clock. He declares that most all major cities in the United States and the smaller counties in Ohio have one of these clocks.

Then he quoted a past-president of the Ohio County Recorders' Association, presently recorder of a county five times smaller than Franklin and with five times fewer employes, "I don't see how in the world anyone could run a county recorder's office without an automatic recording clock." He promises the installation of one within 30 days if elected.

Jack Ryan Seeks Post Of Commissioner

For more than 26 years Jack Ryan has held responsible management positions providing a background for county commissioner, an observer reports.

Ryan

As a county commissioner, Ryan claims he would bring a high degree of integrity to the office, see that better, more alert business practices are followed with a closer check on contracts and purchasing. Ryan foresees the expansion of county facilities and services as present revenues will permit.

Ryan's policy on annexation may be summed up as "harmony for best results," meaning that every side of annexation problems must be properly considered to best serve all those involved.

Jacob Shawan Air Views On State Institutions

"The last General Assembly set up a program for mental health which I believe made important inroads in this field," Shawan states. "The outpatient approach is the new direction our state is taking," Shawan asserts.

"Most assuredly funds must be made available for the repair and remodeling of the old hospital facilities and I will direct my efforts toward this end. This would normally come from the A and B funds. Possibly a bond issue approach, which would be financed by liquor profits, could make available funds for the complete modernization of present facilities," Shawan revealed.

"Another field that needs attention continues to be the retarded child. We must see to it that the state lives up to its responsibility to subsidize $300 per pupil for the Community Class Program. I feel that new legislation is needed to provide a sheltered workshop for these youngsters who are over 21 (which would) make constructive use of our tax dollars."

Judge C. Rose Asks Re-election

Judge Clayton W. Rose seeks reelection to the Franklin County Court of Domestic Relations, an office in which he has received national recognition during his 28 years on the bench.

Rose was first appointed to the position in 1936 and then served through four elected terms. Last year he completed a term as president of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, a 1300-member organization in which he has held a number of offices.

A few years ago, he was appointed chairman of a committee to write a manual on juvenile court procedures and practices for all of the country's juvenile judges. He is currently a member of the Advisory Council of Judges of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency. He is also past president of the Ohio Association of Juvenile Court Judges.

Ten Seconds For Progress

Voting time for the 10-item "question and issues" portion of the Nov. 3 ballot facing the Columbus electorate shouldn't take more than 10 seconds of the voter's time. If Columbus citizens have listened to and read the facts on these issues, there should be an overwhelming "yes" vote for each item.

Last week we encouraged support for the two county-wide proposals — the $15 million Hospital Bond Issue and renewal of the half-mill Welfare Levy. There are eight other items of major importance to be decided by Columbus voters.

The gas rate referendum asks if the people want to approve a negotiated contract calling for a decrease in natural gas rates for city residents. The word "decrease" should pretty well assure passage of the measure.

Columbus voters will also be asked to decide on a six-item bond package for capital improvements and a $34,650,000 school bond issue. It is significant that there is no organized opposition to any of these proposals. It is imperative that these issues be approved if Columbus is to continue toward its destiny as one of the truly great metropolitan areas of the nation.

City Bond Package

The city's capital improvement package does NOT represent any form of tax increase. Voters are being asked to approve expenditure of available funds set aside by law from the city income tax. But a "yes" vote by the electorate WILL generate a total of about $437 million in progress for Greater Columbus.

The $33 million bonding authority is earmarked for urban renewal, expressways, parks and recreation, flood control, street lighting and fire protection. Availability of the requested local funds will make the city eligible for an additional $104 million in federal, state and other matching funds.

But the most important by-product will be an estimated $300 million investment of private funds. This, in turn, means more and wider job opportunities for our citizens and an increase of property valuation and widening of our tax base.

City School Bond Issue

The projected growth pattern for Columbus cannot be discussed without considering its effect upon our school system. Our present city birth rate shows that, on the average, a full classroom of children is born every day. In the next four years, 60,000 pre-school children now living in Columbus will enter school. Even with graduations, dropouts and transfers, this will increase the total school population by 18,000.

And the growth potential for our schools will accelerate over the next few years. We are in the fortunate position of meeting present and future challenges in this area if we but continue our past record of local support.

While the school bond issue, as listed on the ballot, calls for a rate of 1.77 mills, the actual cost will be considerably less. As property values increase, and as more property is added to the tax duplicate, the actual cost of the school bond issue will decrease.

On the basis of conservative estimates of future tax sources, the school bond issue will cost the average property owner about 6.5 cents a week over the next five years. The very apparent need and the soundness of the programs planned to meet this need far outweigh the cost.

The 10 seconds it will take the Columbus voter to say "yes" to the "Questions and Issues" portion of the Nov. 3 ballot will assure the area of healthy growth potential for years to come.

Iron Curtain v. Freedom Curtain

Don't forget to VOTE Nov. 3

We Like Bob Taft

Robert A. Taft, Jr., is widely known as the son of an illustrious father who served his state and his country long and well. The late Senator Taft richly deserved the title "Mr. Republican," and more richly earned a place in the hearts of Americans as being a statesman.

Robert Taft, Jr., has succeeded where a lesser man would not in emerging from the shadow of a "Great Man" father to carve his own identity. He is not a carbon copy of his father because the problems and attitudes of the times are different than they were in the elder Taft's heyday.

But there are many comparisons between father and son that show a marked "likeness." Robert Taft, Jr., is precisely like his father in the basics that really count: honesty, integrity and a firm resolve to serve those he represents.

Ohio will be nobly represented if Robert Taft, Jr., joins Senator Frank J. Lausche as Ohio's junior senator.

We think Ohioans would also do well to back up a vote for Taft by adding one for Oliver P. Bolton for congressman-at-large. Bolton, also a member of a public service-conscious family, is now serving his third term as a representative of Ohio's 11th Congressional District. His mother, Frances P. Bolton, has just completed 24 years as congresswoman from Ohio's 22nd District — a district served for the preceding five terms by her husband, the late Chester C. Bolton.

SAVE OUR SYSTEM!

Our far-seeing Founding Fathers, in establishing our federal government, saw to it that the functions and delegated powers were divided among the three branches —the Executive, the Judicial, and the Legislative. Time has justified their wisdom. The "checks and balances," each upon the other two, have prevented the assumption of too much power by any one.

Our early leaders knew all about the European system of parliamentary government, for they had lived under the British authority for more than a century. They saw that surer ways of securing freedom were required in the new nation.

We should never forget that in our system the President heads the Executive branch, the Supreme Court guides the Judicial, and the Congress is responsible for the Legislative. Limited space prevents a complete comparison with Europe, but we can say truthfully that our system is best for us.

With all this in mind we have a right and duty, in this election year 1964, to say once again in an orderly and peaceful way that our freedom is the most precious thing in our heritage and that we are determined to preserve it.

Voting is the only legitimate way of preserving what is good or replacing it with something better if it be in sight. The situation is encouraging. More than 68 millions voted in 1960. But what about the 30 to 40 millions more who didn't? As Confucius might have said,

It says here . . .
He who don't vote have no right to cry in rain barrel about bad government.

Guest Pulpit . .

Life has its mountains and its valleys, and all who live pass through a number of rich and joyful experiences which we refer to as mountain-top experiences.

However, between such mountain tops are the valleys, and here we may experience depression and sadness, but as we press on through life it would be well if we would remember that, while here on earth, Jesus also had His share of both experiences.

Let us note two mountains which are significant, the first being the mount mentioned in Matt. 5:1. Here the disciples gathered to hear the great message which we call the "Sermon on the Mount." In this way Jesus began His ministry, and the world has been influenced by that mountain-top experience from that day to this.

Rev. Wrightsel

Mountain number two is likewise important. On this mountain in Galilee, after the resurrection, Jesus met His disciples, (Matt. 28:16). Here they received another challenge that would change the course of the world, for from this mount they were to go forth to all the world . . . and preach the gospel or good news that Jesus is Lord and Savior. We call this the great commission, and those who received it were not to fail. In time the Christian faith grew and became strong, as history reveals.

However, we may well ask, what happened between the two mountain experiences? This period of time we know as the period of Jesus' earthly ministry. It is stated that He went about doing good. The sick were healed. Miracles were performed that men might believe, and the Christian doctrine and ethic were introduced to the world of that day. That which Jesus taught and practiced caused His enemies to plot His death, and it came, by way of a cross. Two mountains, and between them, a life of service, and a cross. But there was also a resurrection, and again the story of two mountains draws our attention.

We who live today are living somewhere in relationship to such mountains. For us there are two, perhaps more, but we have been invited to the mountains. Our first is marked by our first experience with Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. All are invited to such an experience. For some, this mount is in the past, for some it stands out in the future.

Our last mountain will be that from which we will pass from this life to life eternal, and for each of us there will come that day. We live in a relationship to at least these two. For us they are most significant.

Today we may be walking the valley of service. One day at a time we press forward, doing good. Let us do even better. Mountains are so obvious that usually we are mindful of them before we reach them, yet for some they arise rather suddenly and without warning. Therefore let us pray that daily we will do well, whether we walk the mountain top or the valley.

May Jesus Christ be Lord of all in our lives as we move forward one step at a time.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Federal School Grants Mean Controls

American colleges and universities may soon become so dependent on federal grants that their abilities to critically examine government, itself, will be seriously impaired.

There are now 135 federal offices, authorities and agencies that are in the business of doling out tax money to specific institutions of higher learning. They can be stingy with Siwash, generous with Pickleburg Poly, and can overlook Prairie U. altogether. Government subsidized college programs now occupy a manual of 824 pages.

Jones

Still we hear repeated denials from Washington that there is any intention to tie federal aid with federal control. Hooey! As federal aid becomes increasingly important to the welfare of a college, federal control will grow automatically and naturally.

There is a couplet from Kipling:

"This is the law and the law shall stand 'til the earth in its course is still —
That whoso eateth another's bread shall do that other's will."

This juggernaut got rolling after World War II when colleges and universities were swamped with returning GI's and Washington offered help in the heavy building programs that were necessary.

It gained great speed after Sputnik I went into orbit, for the whole nation, suddenly sobered, realized that accelerated science education and research programs might be a requirement of national survival.

And, of course, government acted characteristically. The more giving could be centralized in government the more power government officials would have to reward those institutions which were their favorites and to impose their personal authority over the vast American college complex.

But colleges and universities do need more money — lots more. Most colleges are jammed by youths who have been successfully sold on the idea that a college degree may be necessary for a lifetime career in management. They are being jammed by young ladies, who, not being stupid, want to become acquainted with the kind of youths who are heading for a career in management.

Graduate education is big, and graduate schools cost much more per student than undergraduate schools. The price of scientific equipment is astronomical, and universities must meet the spirited bidding by private industry for their top scientific men. You bet, colleges need help.

So if private givers aren't giving enough, where should this help come from except from government?

To answer that you need to ask a basic question: Where does government get its dough? And the answer is, of course, from private citizens.

Which brings us to President John A. Howard of little Rockford College.

Doctor Howard is a .400 hitter at the money-raising business. Last month he moved his whole school to a brand new campus on the outskirts of the city of Rockford, Ill. There isn't a federal dime in it.

But Doctor Howard looks toward the inevitable squeeze, the growing temptation to take government money because practically everybody else is doing it. And he sees far ahead to the day when a professor of economics will be told to tone down a lecture on the dangers of federal deficit financing, lest someone in Washington take offense and the next grant will go to Beloit.

So Doctor Howard has become an evangelist for a new twist in gift-giving. It works like this:

The federal government decides how much aid it would normally give to American colleges and universities. It calculates how much income tax-exemption it will grant to all citizens for the purpose of encouraging gifts directly from the citizen to any bona fide college or university of his choice. Let's say that for the first year any citizen can give as much as $100 to his favorite school and will have the same amount deducted from his income tax upon presentation of a receipt from the college. If the total thus given in any one year proves too large or small the subsequent Congress can adjust the exemption up or down.

Under this plan people will be able to pour money into institutions close to their homes so that their local communities will receive direct benefits. There will be no fat cats favored by the bureaucrats. And college administrators will again become their own masters.

Doctor Howard tried this idea on a couple of congressional committees. They could see no objection. But when he and a group of college presidents presented it to Office of Education Commissioner Francis Keppel the latter protested strenuously and said. "We could not accomplish our social objectives."

So much for the plea that federal aid has nothing to do with federal control. When Uncle Sam becomes bursar he will next become prexy, and American colleges and universities will become the servants of the national administration.

Like Gulliver, higher education in America is being bound by threads, each representing a federal hand-out. The time to start cutting is now.

'Most Crucial Election'

To the Editor:

The most crucial election ever held in the United States of America is the forthcoming Presidential Election of 1964.

Our children's and our grandchildren's future; yes, their very survival is at stake. Their right to survive over Atheistic Communism and live in a free world is at stake. As mothers we are aware of our utter dependence upon Almighty God, and as mothers we are aware of how far from Him we have grown. The immorality around us — the filth and preoccupation with materialistic desires — the blatant acceptance of corruption; we see and oppose every day.

Our ability to bequeath the legacy of religious faith to our children will depend upon our acknowledging our need for His Grace. May I, as a mother, implore all mothers to go to the church of their choice on Nov. 2, and ask God's blessing on our land and ask that He guide their hands at the polls Nov. 3. Ask that His will be done and that we have the grace to see and accept and so live according to His will.

"Frosting On The Cake"

Next Tuesday, Nov. 3, the American people will still have the right to make the most fateful decision of this century.

This nation's future will be decided for generations not yet born—Liberty under law, or enslavement by a power drunk and power mad bureaucratic, centralized, autocratic statism.

President Johnson refuses to meet the real contest headon by one great public debate with Senator Barry Goldwater because he knows such an eventful hour would complete his political destruction.

If the American people seek to make a false and hypocritical "bargain with security," Goldwater will be defeated and this country's greatest single day of decision and truth will have been "fumbled away" by rationalizations that insult the intelligence of every mentally alert believer in constitutional government.

As a lifelong Jeffersonian with Virginia ancestry and bred and born and reared in a family of medical men for nearly a hundred years, I saw the socialists kidnap my party way back in 1937 in Michigan. I have been a registered Republican since that date and still believe in my heart that 55 percent of present generation of adult voters are capable of accepting the truth when a final hour of decision is at hand.

If our people wish to advance the genuine crusade of escaping from this monstrous "enslavement by Statism" they will elect Barry Goldwater president. If they are incapable of getting what may be their last "smell of fire," they will be totally seduced by the lies and false pretenses of the so-called New Frontier.

Neither this country, nor the free world can survive four more years of this present madness.

ONE HUNDRED years have not dimmed the hues and beauty of life for Columbus' centenarian artist, Charles William DuVall. His oils capture the span of nature and man in revealing tone. The painting is a landscape of Big Darby near Harrisburg. Others are being exhibited on DuVall's 100th birthday at the new art gallery at First Community Village.

Centenarian Artist Celebrates Birthday With Gallery Exhibit

"So live that you will be more tomorrow then you are today," is the philosophy of the oldest practicing artist in Columbus, perhaps in the world.

He is Charles William DuVall, who continues to teach art in his studio at 101 N. High-st, despite the fact that he will be 100 years old Sunday, Nov. 1.

On that date the centenarian artist is also celebrating another event. He is having an exhibit of his work at Columbus' newest art gallery in Hillside Hall of First Community Village at 1800 Riverside-dr.

DuVall is being honored by being the new gallery's first exhibitor.

But it is not his first honor. Over the years he has received world recognition. His works have taken first prize at the Cincinnati Museum. Paris, once the art capital of the world for struggling artists, has widely published his paintings.

DuVall was born on a farm in Gallia County, Ohio, in 1864, and came to Columbus in 1889. His memory of that era is vivid and definite. "Columbus was better then—Oh, my yes—everyone was a better Christian then," he says.

"There were four millionaires, then," he thought. "Now you can add about three ciphers to that figure, but people aren't as happy. No, I wouldn't recommend wealth if you want to be happy."

DuVall studied for ten years under Edward Parker Hayden, who brought fame to Wilmington, Mass. Recognition in European art capitals as well as in America came and DuVall returned to Columbus where he began to teach as well as paint.

On teaching, DuVall says, "Teaching makes a student out of the teacher. Once you begin to teach, you soon realize how much that you, as well as the student, have to learn."

On painting, he says, "If an artist's work is good, it is because he doesn't always have his nose in paints."

Art is an expression of life, DuVall states, and "Life is the communication of the faculties with the environment."

He is a serious student of astronomy and theology. Aspects of each are found in a book he recently published, titled, "Biogenesis and Defense of Man."

"And man's emotions and his appetites
Both underlie his sorrows and delights.
Therefore as o'er this human world we scan
We see the ways of God in life of man."

DuVall will be recognized as an Ohio Author of the Year for his book by the Ohioana Association at its annual meeting to be held Oct. 31 at the Neil House.

The remarkable artist, author, teacher, and Columbus citizen will be the second 100-year-old author whose book becomes a permanent part of the Ohioana Library.

Bishop Herbert Welch of the Methodist Church, president of Ohio Wesleyan in 1903-1905, authored a book when he was one hundred years old, in 1962, titled, "As I Recall My Past Century."

DuVall has a message to anyone who would live to be 100 and active: "Be a student all your life," he advises. See life, study life, try to interpret the vitality of life.

"Give something to some one — something deeper, of more value, than surface things."

Certainly, those who view DuVall's paintings at the new art gallery at First Community Village, will agree that he has given the world "something more than surface things."

My Husband Really Doesn't Understand

By ADELINE DALEY

Among the 2,976 differences of opinion my husband and I have had (2,977 after this column) since our otherwise blissful marriage is that he cannot understand why I feel compelled to explain things to strangers.

Not big and important matters, of course, but little happenstances which might prove baffling to others and embarrassing to me if left unexplained.

Say that my husband and I are going to a movie. Noticing a long line at the ticket window he will drop me off first and then park the car. He will then either replace me in the ranks or hand me money for the tickets. I feel that other people waiting are entitled to an explanation for such a flagrant display of "cutsies."

"He's my husband," I will explain. "He was parking the car." If they remain stone-faced, I will add, "Sorry, but we couldn't get here any earlier. You see, he worked longer than usual and missed the '5:35' and had to take the next commute. That meant we couldn't eat until 6:30 and what with making sure the kids did the dishes. . ."

"It's all right, lady," someone will interrupt.

Then there is the embarrassment of being caught short of funds at the checkstand at the supermarket, so that I must send back some of the items. Arrayed on the counter will be an assortment of such wholesome foods as milk, a pot roast, vegetables, vitamin-enriched bread and several boxes of cereal.

Unfortunately, there will also be pretzels, potato chips, nuts, clam dip, several bottles of mix, a jar of maraschino cherries among the party goodies.

Normally I would keep the necessities, but tonight we are expecting company. I imagine that I hear an outburst of protest when I keep the party goodies and take the club soda over the homogenized milk, particularly when no less than four of my kids are hanging onto my skirts.

Is it any wonder that I cannot remain silent any longer? "We're having company tonight for dinner," I will begin brightly, "and I forgot a few items." Playing for laughs, I add, "I suppose everybody thinks we LIVE on clam dip and maraschino cherries. Ha ha ha."

I must admit that nobody laughs much. Noticeably my husband.

SPONGE OR ROCK? It's a sponge. But it illustrates the porous sandstone in which natural gas is stored underground by your gas company. ■ Located thousands of feet below the surface of the earth, this sandstone "soaks up" tremendous volumes of natural gas, pumped there during summer months. ■ The stored gas is held among the grains of the rock, ready for use to heat homes in winter. ■ Underground storage, pioneered by Columbia Gas System companies, is one of the big reasons why people in this area can depend on the best possible gas service at reasonable rates.

Junior Theater Begins Second Season Nov. 15

The second season of children's theater in Columbus, as performed by the Columbus Junior Theater of the Arts, will open on Sunday, Nov. 15, with the first performance of "The Princess and the Swineherd."

The schedule of four performances starts Nov. 15 at Battelle Memorial Institute auditorium, 3 p.m., followed by Sunday, Nov. 22, at Bexley Cassingham High School, 3 p.m., and Friday, Nov. 27, at Worthington High School, 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The theater workshop, located at 2370 Broad-st, began its second year on Sept. 12 with 60 students. In addition to the regular classes in stagecraft, acting, dance, art, and creative dramatics a puppet workshop has been added.

Ed Talbert, production director for WOSU, will direct the play.

Independent Players Span Three Generations In Cast

Currently in the cast of the Independent Players revival of Cole Porter's "Anything Goes" to be presented at the new Hartman Theatre Nov. 19, 20 and 21, will be members spanning three generations.

Gerald Gruber, club president who appears as the "Captain" in this show, goes back 26 years to 1938 when he first joined IPC and trod the boards at the old Hartman. His son, Jerry R. Gruber, who is a sailor and a sinner in "Anything Goes," started in 1947 at the age of five in a production of "Babes in Toyland," also at the old Hartman Theatre.

Another family combination active in the club today was begun by Harold Lust, the director of ticket sales who joined IPC in 1954. His wife, Jean Lust, is wardrobe mistress and also is in charge of properties. His daughter, Becky, is the producer of Master Curtis Crampton, age two, who will appear in "Anything Goes" and will be kissed by public enemy number one, with granddad selling tickets for the fun.

A show business veteran is Glen Bittner who joined IPC in 1958 and plays "Sir Evelyn," a cultured Englishman, who is confused by American slang and gets himself amusingly involved.

Tickets are $2.50 and $1.75 for "Anything Goes" and are now available from any IPC member or call AM. 2-8709.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Jim Dandy, my poodle, has a problem. His mustache is a mess! It's stained a horrible brown like he's been drooling tobacco juice. He slobbers all over it (but doesn't chew). Besides it's all matted and smelly. I tried to spray him with canine cologne but he hates it. We can't stand him like this so what's the answer? —L. C.

DEAR L. C.: Apparently Jim doesn't wash his own face very often, so you had better start doing it for him. An old-fashioned soap and water scrubbing will remove old saliva and collected food particles. (It's probably safer not to try to bleach out the stains.)

Next, comb out any mats, and finally trim that mustache back a little. The fact that Jim is slobbering on it indicates it's too long anyway. Repeat the bath and brush procedure as often as necessary to keep the mop clean and presentable.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I would like to know how much sleep birds should have? Should we keep our bird in a dark room? Should he be covered at dark? Our bird's name is Caesar and he is a parakeet. He does not seem to sleep very much. —A. H.

DEAR A. H.: Except for birds on the night shift, like the owl, most set their internal alarm clock by the sun — and they are ready to retire when the sun goes down. If Caesar is a normally active parakeet, he probably puts in very little daylight dream time. He is better off, though, not to be kept up late at night as too much light can disturb his hormone system causing abnormal moulting or other problems.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Rhubarb and Carrots, my pet hamsters, are always fighting. They make a lot of noise at each other and beat each other up but they never kiss and make up like my Mom and Dad do. Is this just natural with hamsters or should I start worrying about it? — B. L., Jr.

DEAR B. L., Jr.: It isn't too uncommon for a pair of any species to fight occasionally. However, hamsters can do each other a lot of harm if they spend too much time at it. Rather than worry, though, it would be more practical to keep them next to each other, but in separate cages. That way they could nuzzle or be noisy, but not get into serious trouble.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is cat distemper anything to worry about with an ocelot? I'm getting one and the people next door have had tough luck with cats dying from distemper. I didn't think these big cats got sick but thought I should be sure about it. —N. S.

DEAR N. S.: The big exotic cats have no more — perhaps less — resistance to the submiscroscopic virus of feline panleukopenia (cat distemper) than does the ordinary compact-sized house cat.

By all means, have your ocelot vaccinated immediately so it will have time to develop an immunity before being brought home. Your neighbor's "tough luck" with cats is, at this point, rather a callous neglect for the welfare of the poor animals.

Anyone who cares so little that they refuse to vaccinate their cats, even when they know the danger, should at least cease dragging hapless replacements into such a dangerous environment.

DEAR DR. MILLER: The other day I caught my young son as he was on the roof, preparing for a flight into nowhere. When we got him down, he was very indignant and wanted to know why he couldn't fly with the cardboard wings he had made. I told him because humans were too heavy for their size and they didn't have feathers. Is that a reasonable explanation? (He still isn't convinced.) — D. B.

DEAR D. B.: Yes, your explanation is basically correct. In order for an adult human to fly, even with feathers, he would need to develop his flying muscles considerably. The pectoral (chest) muscles would have to be about six feet deep before they could develop enough power to pull the human body into the air. (This helps explain the popularity of the airplane.)

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Robert A. Evans Asks Re-Election To Coroner Post

The duty of the coroner is the investigation of sudden, suspicious or unusual deaths in Franklin County. Robert A. Evans, M.D., believes it is the duty of the coroner to maintain dignity and a sympathetic understanding in the hour of death.

Dr. Evans fulfills the qualifications of this office with a medical-legal background as a physician for 25 years, and experience as the coroner since 1948, a spokesman said.

During his years as coroner, the first morgue was established, which was the Franklin County Morgue located at Ohio State University.

A little means a BIG PUSH FORward...
Vote FOR the biggest bargain yet for our city-county community . . . the 8 bond issues sponsored by the Metropolitan Committee benefit all sections of town . . .

FOR . . . HOSPITALS — $15,000,000 to build a new hospital, and to finance expansions and renovations in existing ones . . . to serve our mounting Franklin County population by correcting the drastic shortage of beds and facilities in our hospitals.

FOR . . . RENEWAL of the ½ Mill Levy for Welfare purposes, vitally needed to maintain present schedule of indigent care.

FOR . . . STORM SEWERS — $4,800,000 for an extension and expansion of storm sewers that will help eliminate the damage and menace of flooded streets and basements, and benefit every section of the city.

FOR . . . STREET LIGHTING — $1,900,000 to make the streets bright and safe from crime and accidents.

FOR . . . SLUM CLEARANCE (Urban Redevelopment) — $6,000,000 to continue elimination of slum areas — the eyesores that breed crime, add to the cost of social services and burden taxpayers — and replace them with clean renewed areas where increased property values mean a boost in tax revenues for the city.

FOR . . . FIRE STATIONS — $1,150,000 to provide new fire stations — strategically located to serve every section of our growing city's 94½ square miles.

FOR . . . STREETS AND EXPRESSWAYS — $14,700,000 to continue our expressway and outerbelt systems and finance street improvement projects all around town to reduce traffic bottlenecks.

FOR . . . PARKS AND RECREATION — $4,450,000 to build new recreation centers, develop present parks, and acquire new park sites that may be gobbled up, or be beyond our means in the future.

FOR . . . SCHOOLS — $34,650,000 so that when the classroom-full of youngsters being born every day in Columbus are ready for school, they'll have the same kind of safe buildings, and full-day instruction we provide for today's pupils.

So much for so little . . .
What effect would these bond issues have on the tax rate? Scarcely none. Over the next five years the entire program would mean only about 8½¢ more a week in taxes for the average property owner — one with a $14,000 home with a tax valuation of $5600. Verified by the County Auditor, here's what it amounts to:

All civic improvement bond issues paid for out of existing city income tax — without an increase in taxes. Renewal of the current ½ Mill Levy — which the County Commissioners state will be used for Welfare — keeps funds at their present level and will not raise taxes.

School bonds would cost the average home owner in the Columbus City School District only 6½¢ more a week. Hospitals would cost the average Franklin County property owner only 2¢ more a week.

Progress pays its own way . . .
Find that hard to believe? Well, it's true. Official records of the County Auditor show that the portion of the tax rate chargeable to bond retirement is actually less than what it was in 1944 — the year before capital improvement programs started. Just compare the $5.60 chargeable in 1944 to only $4.92 chargeable in 1963.

Meanwhile, Columbus and Franklin County have experienced 20 years — and millions of dollars worth — of improvements financed by five previous bond issue programs. And with all this, Columbus still has the lowest tax rate of Ohio's seven largest cities.

How have we done this . . . and still kept taxes down?
1. Because of tremendous county-wide growth in taxable property — there's more of it and it's worth four times as much in tax dollars.
2. Because improvements that attract industry and help business grow mean larger payrolls that increase city income tax revenues.
3. Because new bonds are issued only as old ones are retired — and that keeps variations in the tax rate at a minimum.

Statistics show the needs of a growing community . . .
Since 1945 —
— Franklin County population nearly doubled
— 3½ times as many automobiles
— school enrollment 2½ times larger
— hospital emergency cases up 25%, outpatients up 44%, hospital admissions up nearly 20% in the past five years alone.

Let's make a good thing better . . .
Schools . . . hospitals . . . expressways . . . sewers . . . fire houses . . . airport expansion . . . child welfare . . . slum clearance. Everywhere you look in our growing city-county community you can see the benefits previous bond issues have helped provide.

The contributions of these improvements and the completion and expansion of programs now going on will help keep Columbus and Franklin County a growing, forward-moving community. Your vote will help spur that progress — and to build for it. We urge you to vote FOR all eight bond issues and renewal of the ½ Mill Levy Tuesday, November 3.

De Gaulle 'Image' Hits Snag In South America

By ROYCE BRIER

In the last quarter of the 18th century, George Washington was a hero to a scattering of republicans in western Europe.

He was, however, a remote and misty figure, and he did not originate the republican ideas which attracted some Europeans to him. The republican cause in fact was pursued on a small scale as viewed from Europe, and most Europeans had a low opinion of the Americans, who were not materially important, but only important in the world of ideas.

Yet in less than two centuries the Americans have become materially important to Europeans and to all mankind. Their riches and productive capacity are of a fantastic and frightening magnitude, and this disturbs the Europeans.

Moreover, in the world of ideas, the Americans are not necessarily to the Europeans' liking. The "freedom and opportunity" dream the Europeans had of America 100 years ago, had not turned out propitiously.

Something like this is clearly in the stern mind of President de Gaulle on his South American tour.

It must seem curious to him when he thinks how trifling the Americans were to his forefathers, say in the Napoleonic cycle, and how formidable they are to him today. Yet in his obdurate way he must oppose them with all his might in what he considers their weakest zone of influence—the vast region inhabited by the Latin American peoples.

M de Gaulle is plainly trying to substitute European influence and friendship in Latin America for Yankee influence and friendship. He is polite about it. He does not inveigh against Yankee "imperialism," but he insistently tries to leave the impression that the Latin Americans should "come home" to Mother Europe.

Fair Yankees cannot complain. It is precisely the kind of struggle they have ever said they welcomed, a struggle for the minds of men.

But M. de Gaulle is encountering some unforeseen difficulties. He has been well received, and sometimes his message has been zealously received, though not without an alloy in the zeal.

Juan Peron, in Spanish exile, some years ago raised a rabble following of workers in Argentina. But he was so blatant a demagogue, nothing could save his dictatorship. Things have been troubled in Argentina since, but Peron's followers continue to mourn him, and demand his return.

So in Buenos Aires de Gaulle found himself identified with Peron by screaming crowds. He didn't like it, and it didn't make sense, for de Gaulle is not a demagogue, and hardly curries favor with French workers. But there he was — his picture beside Peron's in a parade.

That is perhaps one penalty of being a world statesman advancing a doctrine in a far-away place where he has never before ventured and possibly does not understand.

Television commitments demand I trek to Cincinnati four times monthly for regional appearances which the Eager family turns into "country excursions."

By this I mean we stray from the direct Columbus to Cincinnati routing to follow the agricultural activity throughout southern and central Ohio. This allows your reporter to attend many agriculture meetings in many counties.

Two very interested parties in the farm scene are entertainers Sophie Tucker and Rudy Vallee. During a recent visit at a mutual friend's home, we delved into the world of agriculture and the significance it plays in Ohio.

Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner of Columbus also attended the social visit and proved himself to be quite an authority in many problems confronting the Ohio farmer.

It was a non-political gathering with many leading civic and business leaders attending at the home of Lee Yassenoff.

A local daily reporter, Jo Bradley Reed, and others of the press including yours truly and wife, Helen Jo, enjoyed the tasty Kosher treats.

The All-American Jersey Cattle Show at the Exposition Center proved to be the greatest to date, as cattlemen from all over the world gathered in Columbus . . . home of the American Jersey Cattle Club for an annual classic Jersey show.

A 19-year-old Canadian breeder, Dean Sayles of Paris, Ontario, walked off with top honors in the Junior Show, Oct. 17, at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Sayles also won a first place ribbon in the three-year-old cow class and aged cow class. This made Sayles' second straight year showing the best female bred by an exhibitor.

Junior exhibitors, with 170 entries from 25 states and Canada, put the top Jerseys through their paces in the day-long event. More than 550 Jerseys were shown during the big five-day show.

Membership in the Future Farmers of America is on an up-swing, even though state and national farm population figures indicate a drop in general population on the farm.

The team from the Future Farmers of America at Big Walnut Ridge High School, Sunbury, took top honors with 1,030 points out of 1,200 at the recent land judging contest held at Delaware Reservoir Wildlife Area, Morrow County.

The affair was sponsored by the Division of Lands and Soil of the Department of Natural Resources and the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

See Clay Eager weekdays, 6:30 to 7 a.m. and on TV-4 Farm Forecast.

Plant tulips, daffodils and other spring-flowering bulbs now to give them time to become well established before the ground freezes. Plant tulips six to 10 inches deep.

John R. Dennis Asks Judge Post

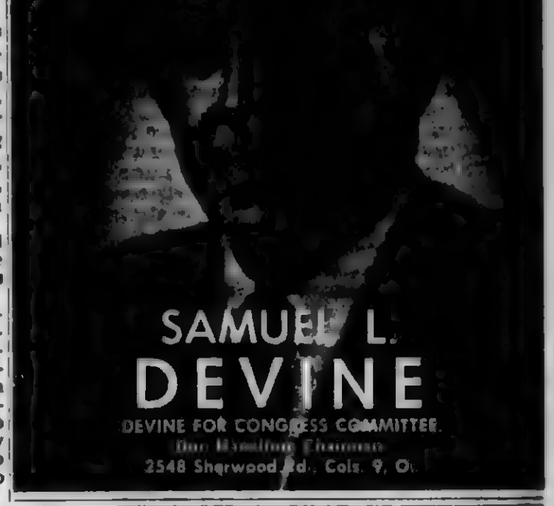
John R. Dennis, 1050 St. Agnes-av, seeks election to the office of Judge of the Court of Domestic Relations.

A 1957 graduate of the Ohio State University College of Law, Dennis has been in general practice on the Hilltop since August, 1957.

He was co-chairman of the Hilliard Civil Service Commission from 1960-63 and is active in a number of community activities.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF



The poor, have-not nations can take hope. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara tells them that in 10 or 20 years, they too can afford nuclear bombs. The price is coming down. What is now a luxury, to be afforded only by the few, will soon be within the reach of all.

It's just one of the standard marvels of our industrial age—like automobiles, TV sets and bathtubs.

Of course, this breakthrough in industrial know-how and manufacturing cost-analysis will not be an unmixed blessing. Nowadays, an atomic missile lands in America, we know who to bomb back. But in the new economy age, we'll have to let go against everybody — just to make sure.

Forecast On Citrus Fruits Sees Increase

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Apples, Tokay grapes, cider, bananas.

Vegetables — Sweet potatoes and yams, carrots, broccoli, new cabbage, acorn squash.

Meats, Poultry — Pork roasts (loin and shoulder), beef chuck, cured pork products, turkeys, medium eggs.

Other — Cheddar cheese, ice cream, canned and frozen vegetables (specials).

The 1964-65 citrus season is getting under way after a slow start this year. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has sized up the crops and reports that the total citrus crop is expected to be about 31 percent larger than last year, primarily because of the rapid development of Florida citrus from the 1962 freeze. It should be noted that these early estimates do not include California Valencia oranges, lemons and grapefruit from scattered growing regions which cannot be made until December.

Mrs. Franks

Orange prospects look good at this time. The 1964-65 crop of early, mid-season and Navel oranges is forecast at 37 percent above last season, but five percent below the 1958-62 average. Most of these early oranges will come from Florida where production is up 60 percent from a year ago. Texas also has a good crop but in California estimates are down from last year.

Florida's crop of Valencia oranges is forecast at 39 million boxes, up 28 percent from last year. This is the late season orange that supplies most of our frozen concentrate and canned orange juice. Estimates of the Western crop of Valencias are not complete at this time.

It looks as though grapefruit will be plentiful for your winter breakfasts. The first forecast in Florida, and the other producing areas, is up 25 percent from 1963-64. While lemons are not expected to be scarce, the crop is under last year's. Florida's crop of tangerines, limes and tangelos are all estimated to be above average.

Just what the price level for fresh citrus will be is hard to say. Canned citrus juice stocks — orange, grapefruit, and blend — are only about 25 percent of the holdings at this time last year. Frozen orange concentrate stocks on Sept. 1 were seven percent smaller than last year's very low stocks. This means that processors will be competing with the fresh market to replenish unusually low stocks.

New touch-tone telephones will be available next Monday to users whose numbers begin with 491 (Hamilton Township), 866 (Reynoldsburg area) as well as two exchanges in the north area of Columbus.

Both push button and dial phones may be used on the same line, J. Philip Gibbs, of Ohio Bell Telephone, announced today.

Extensive equipment changes will prevent some local users from obtaining touch-tone service. However plans call for state-wide service in the next few years.

Minutes of the Columbus Traffic and Transportation Commission mentioned a letter from Ray Cuneo, of 690 Collingwood-av, who brought attention to the commission of a "traffic problem" at the W. Broad-st entrance to the Columbus State Hospital.

Seven Of 16 Reveal Stand On City Tax

Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford fired his final pre-election salvo in a campaign to force state legislative attention in the area of state laws dealing with city income tax ordinances.

Twyford announced reaction to a poll he conducted among the 16 candidates from Franklin County to the Ohio General Assembly. He said he was "shocked" by the failure of six of the eight incumbent legislators to give any answer to his inquiry. Five of the eight "opposition" candidates, he said, answered by pledging efforts toward a solution to the problem that would be "fair and equitable" to suburban cities. One incumbent indicated a similar intention.

Twyford advocates legislative action to limit the income taxing authority of cities over non-residents who work within the taxing district. He believes that the Columbus city income tax is "disproportionate to the services provided by Columbus" to non-residents.

"We do not ignore the benefits we derive from being a suburban neighbor of the great City of Columbus," Twyford said, "and I'm sure that Columbus does not want to be unfair and inequitable in the taxation of its neighbors. However, the taxation is disproportionate to the respective responsibilities and services provided between Columbus and the suburbs."

Twyford concluded that only a change in state law "can provide the solution to establishing a fair tax base."

Campaign Trail Tough, But Fun, Says Volunteer

Gary Ross Tague is enjoying "an experience that cannot be bought for any price."

In the process, he is proving that practical experience is the best political education and that good politics is more than a spectator sport.

Tague, son of Mrs. Ross Tague, 206 Eldon-av, is a staff assistant and chauffeur for U.S. Senatorial candidate Robert A. Taft, Jr. He was chosen for the campaign chore from members of the Capital City Republican Club who volunteered their services to the Taft campaign headquarters.

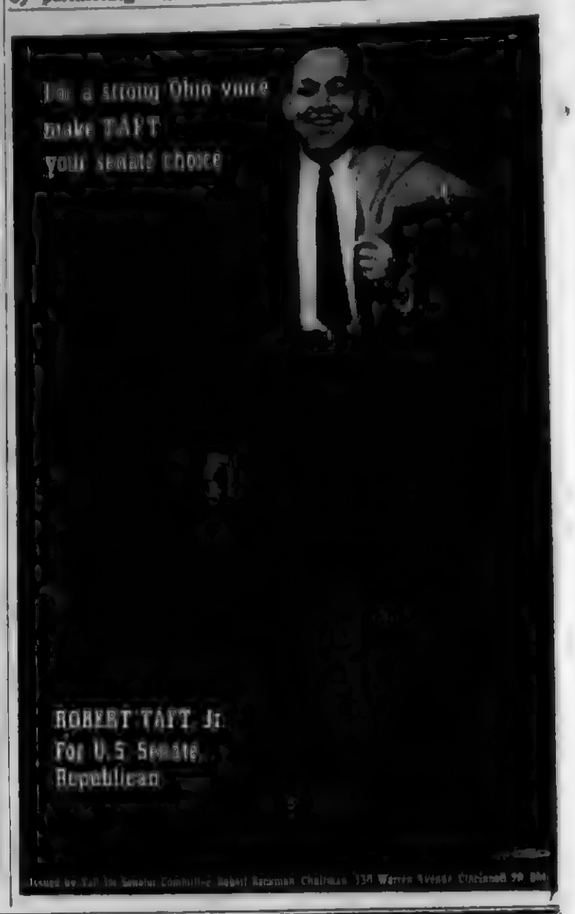
The opportunity for close association with a candidate who holds high public office — Taft is currently Ohio's congressman-at-large — has added depth to Tague's political convictions.

The past year has seen him change for a "follower" to a "disciple" advocating the Taft candidacy in particular and Republican philosophy in general.

Tague has found the campaign trail an exacting and rewarding challenge. The 25-year-old campaigner with a "driving ambition" to help elect his candidate says his assignment has been "a lot of fun, but you put in plenty of hours." A typical tour called for a breakfast meeting in Marysville, luncheon gathering in Bellefontaine, a 3 p.m. event for candidates in Kenton and 5 p.m. ox roast in Tiffin.

Tague is required to meet such tight schedules only when Taft is campaigning from the Central Ohio area, while his candidate must meet such requirements almost daily.

But Tague freely admits that the 47-year-old Taft outdoes him in the stamina department. "As far as getting tired, I think I showed it more than he did," Tague said.



Has his experience given him the urge to enter the political arena as a candidate? Tague came up with a quick answer for the one that would do most politicians proud. "I am very, very happy with my job," he said, and added that he would rather work for candidates than seek office.

Tague is employed by C. A. Murray & Associates, Accountants, 786 Northwest - blvd. His employer has cooperated by permitting him to adjust his working hours to suit his campaign responsibilities.

The youthful staff assistant to Taft is cautious about discussing his candidate's future beyond the present battle for the U. S. Senate seat from Ohio. But Tague's home address, 1493 Presidential-dr, should provide a strong clue.

ANOTHER COURTHOUSE contest which has politicians on edge is the one for county engineer.
The rooms here may well be that veteran Guy Elbin, a Democrat, has had a free ride into office for the past several elections and any opposition may stir up his supporters.
Frank M. Williams, the GOP nominee, already is on record as charging that Elbin does not intend to serve out another term.
BE POINTS to the fact that Elbin will be 74 in December and claims he will resign if re-elected. This would enable the County Democratic Central Committee to appoint his successor.

North American To Modify Jets

The U.S. Air Force has awarded a letter contract to North American Aviation's Columbus Division for the modification and overhaul of 20 T-28A aircraft.

An initial appropriation of approximately $800,000 was announced by the Air Force for the rehabilitation and engine change of the aircraft. North American was awarded the contract by the Air Force's Sacramento (Cal.) Air Material Area.

The modification will be similar to that performed under another contract earlier this year when the Columbus Division overhauled and updated eight T-28A aircraft to the T-28D configuration.

What Goldwater Believes About Social Security

Following is a statement on Social Security made by GOP Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater on the floor of the U. S. Senate on August 21, 1964.

I favor a sound Social Security system and I want to see it strengthened. I have voted for genuine improvements in the system since I have been in the Senate, and I plan to do so now. I supported the 1956 amendments to the Social Security Act and, in 1958, I voted to raise benefits so that their value in terms of purchase power would be preserved.

It is generally agreed by students of Social Security that the basic purpose of the OASDI program, as it has developed in the United States, is to provide a basic floor of economic protection which becomes available in the event of the death, disability, or retirement of the breadwinner. Social Security was never intended to replace private voluntary efforts—nor should it. Benefits under the program are not a substitute for individual savings and private retirement and insurance plans. They are instead a base upon which the individual may build through his own efforts.

We Americans make provisions for the future through a great variety of voluntary programs, many involving contributions by employers. Self-employed persons were once treated unfairly when their payments into voluntary retirement programs were fully taxed; but recent legislation—which I supported—has gone far toward placing them on the same footing as those who earn wages and salaries.

Recognizing the important role being filled by Social Security, we can and should of course, make improvements from time to time in such areas as the financing and operation of the system. But that is not at issue now.

As for the features of the present bill, the five per cent increase in benefits will help to meet the rise in living costs since 1958.

Two other provisions of the present bill make the program more flexible in meeting the needs of the people. The first is extension of benefits to a surviving child beyond the present age limit of 18 to the new age limit of 22, provided the child is in school or college. The second is reduction in a widow's age of eligibility from 62 to 60, benefits being actuarially adjusted. In connection with the latter, I might mention that I voted in 1956 to lower from 65 to 62 the age at which all women could claim OASI benefits.

There are worthy improvements in the Social Security system, enabling it to serve us better in fulfilling its fundamental purpose. They should be clearly distinguished from schemes designed to alter that purpose and, thereby, to overburden the system. We shall not preserve the Social Security program if we saddle it with unnecessary new burdens, such as medicare. We penalize every senior citizen if we thus bankrupt the system that protects him.

Essentially, protection against need in America depends on a free economy that produces an ever-growing abundance and ever greater opportunities for all. In this context, Social Security has a vital and legitimate supporting role, and it is for this reason that I will vote for the proposals before us.

HARTLEY
SPORTS EDITOR

"Isn't it a shame you can't root for one team once in your life?"

Those words, spoken by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, were directed to St. Louis sportscaster Harry Carey in the Cards dressing room after their series win recently.

MR. FRICK will have his wish and only memories of his job as baseball's prexy shortly as his desire to resign his post as soon as possible has already been made known.

There has been much talk as to a possible successor to Frick with the name of Cardinal great Stan Musial and AL boss Joe Cronin among those most often mentioned.

Fortunately the post of commissioner is not left in the hands of the public or, for that matter, the ball players.

IF IT WERE there would have to be candidates and naturally, a campaign before the election.

Picture this pre-election statement by one of the candidates' press secretaries just before election:

"Gentlemen, I've called you here today to point out the advantages of voting for the candidate. As you well know two of the most important issues are social security and field control.

"THE CANDIDATE is advocating a voluntary pension plan for all ball players, major and minor. On field control, he feels that more power must be put in the hands of the manager.

"If we don't stop leaning toward front office control and interference, it won't be long before individual managers have no say-so at all.

"The candidate is eager to launch his proposed "War on Poverty," which will provide a better shake in the draft for some of our lower-standing clubs.

"CIVIL RIGHTS is another big issue and the candidate believes if a man wants to play a harmonica, that's his business.

"As you well know, gentlemen, the candidate has been described as 'reckless and irresponsible' because he has advocated leaving calls on foul balls to the discretion of the plate umpire. But extremism in the pursuit of baseball is no vice.

"And you know well the candidate's feeling on immigration, that is, allowing more Puerto Ricans to enter the major leagues.

"BUT LET'S dwell a moment on the opponent — a man whose team was involved in 23 on-field riots. We won't even go into the security leak discovered in his bull pen in '59.

"But, gentlemen, do we really want a man as our commissioner who hushed up the Fort Worth incident in '52 and wouldn't investigate because he was, quote: 'in the heat of a pennant race.'

"The incident, of course, involved two of his most trusted coaches who were, without recourse, exposed as flagrant curfew violators at Fort Worth.

"HOWEVER, THE candidate does not believe in being negative. Nor does he promise you more comfortable seats in the press box or special clubhouse privileges.

"The candidate does promise you a policy of 'call 'em the way you see 'em' and expansion for baseball.

"Be honest with yourselves, gentlemen. In your dugout, you know he's right!"

FAST DEADLINE — The Spectator Sports Department received its press box passes for the World Series this week. We didn't really mind that they were past deadline this time. We probably would have been pretty lonely there in Crosley Field anyway.

Under Buckeye Skies
by Ken Mack McCreary

'Grand Squirrel Hunt' Bows To '64 Progress

Living in the push-button convenience of modern civilization, we realize full well that many things are much different than "in the good old days. This is particularly true in the realm of the outdoors where sprawling urban life continues to gobble up the countryside and our natural resources.

Ken McCreary

A prime case is point is hunting in general and squirrel hunting in particular. Many times this fall disgruntled nimrods have complained to me that "there aren't many squirrels anymore; I think I'm going to quit hunting."

CERTAINLY a lot of hunting success depends on the man behind the gun—but we have proof that it was different in those good old days."

The hard-to-believe report of squirrel-hunting in the days of yore was passed on by a long-time friend, Elaine Black, boss-lady of a local advertising agency and a devoted conservationist.

She came across the account at the library in an ancient book called "Columbus, Ohio; Its History, Resources, and Progress," penned in 1873 by Jacob H. Studer. We think the story, called "Grand Squirrel Hunt" is well worth repeating — so here it is:

"AS IN ALL new settlements, so in this, in the center of Ohio, hunting and fishing were favorite amusements. Fish and game being abundant, there was both pleasure and profit in the pursuit. The seine was sometimes used in fishing, but oftener a brush-drag, requiring a dozen or 20 men to manage it.

There was a twofold object in hunting — one to obtain fresh game for the table, and the other to protect the crops from the ravages of birds and other wild animals.

It was this latter object, doubtless, that led to the celebraed squirrel hunt on the last day of August, 1822, for which a call was published in the Columbus Gazette (Aug. 29).

IT NOMINATED and invested two persons in each of the 17 townships, into which the county was divided, "to meet in a hunting caucus" at the House of Christian Heyl, in Columbus, at 2 o'clock p.m., on Saturday, Aug. 31.

"After the hunt was over, 19,660 squirrel scalps were produced. The Gazette added, that it was impossible to state the number actually killed, as a great many hunters had not come in."

And there, thanks to the pen of Jacob H. Studer, you have the account of "The Grand Squirrel Hunt" in the frontier days right here in Franklin County.

THE MAGNITUDE of the hunt becomes even more fantastic when you stop to consider the primitive muzzle-loaders which our pioneer forefathers relied on to put the meat on the table and to keep the redskins from going into the barbering business.

Yes, our 1964 version of hunting under Buckeye skies bears only a shadowy resemblance of the wilderness days of 1822. And perhaps it's just as well that we wonder occasionally—is our modern way of life really better?
